"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

Pagans / Gnostics / Heretics / Cults^{55, 57}

Alexandria, Egypt⁶⁵ & Mystery-Babylon

Glaucias, Theudas, & Simon Magus 30-90 A.D.

Their students were Basilides, Valentines, and Marcion, which were all notorious Gnostics of their time 55, 56, 57

Valentinus

(Valentinius disciple of Marcion)

100-160 A.D.

Early Christian Gnostic Theologian leader and influential heretic. ^{55, 56}

Valentinus & Marcion's

followers would:
Reject the Old Testament,
Reject The Law & Prophets, Reject physical resurrection of Jesus, Reject marriage,
Reject the apocalypse, Believe physical matter is eternal, Mutilated the meaning of the New Testament, Etc. 60

Influencers

Those that have influenced the Heretical Cult Stream or the Roman Steam

Ignatius of Antioch 35-110 A.D.

Promoted God's laws = Jewish laws, like the 4th Commandment to keep Saturday the Sabbath holy, and that these Jewish laws were bad. 61, 62 Ignatius is said to be the first recorded to use the term Catholic, meaning universal. 77

Titus Flavius Clemens (Clement of Alexandria) 150-215 A.D.

Follower of Plato's Greek philosophical teachings, and Origen was Clement's student. 56, 65 Greek philosophers had corrupted ideas, which also includes Socrates and Pythagoras. First to promote Allegorization of most Scripture. 68

More Heretical

More Pure

Roman Religion and Empire¹

Persecutor of Jews & Christians

313 A.D. Edict of Milan – Christianity made legal by Emperor Constantine I after his claimed vision in the sky. 35 321 A.D. Constantine I – Makes Sunday the day of rest for worshiping the Sun God Apollo, Pagan-Christian coins minted. 2, 38, 87, 88

325 A.D. Council of Nicaea – Sunday was fixed as the date for celebration of Pagan-Christian Astarte-Easter. ⁶⁷,

90, 91 Constantine pushes for merging Christianity with Pagan Roman Empire. Arianism was rightly condemned during the meeting. 36
337 A.D. Pope Julius I – Pagan Roman festivals of Saturnalia & Sol Invictus re-designated as Feast of Christ's Nativity, "mass on Christ's day", Christ-mas. 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 112, 113

363-364 A.D. Council of Laodicea, Canon 29 – Outlawed keeping God's 4th Commandment, keeping Saturday the Sabbath holy, changed the Lord's Day (Saturday) to Sunday, and also reaffirms Anti-Semitism stance. ^{39, 40} 380 A.D. Edict of Thessalonica – The reaffirms Anti-Semitism stance. 39, 40

380 A.D. Edict of Thessalonica – The merger of Pagan-Christianity was signed into law as the official Roman religion by Emperors Theodosius and Valentinian II, thus proclaiming Rome as the Catholic (Universal-Unified) religion. They also contemplate the use of physical force in the service of orthodoxy for the first time. 37

Influencers

Those that have influenced the Roman Stream or the Torchbearer Stream

314 A.D. Sylvester I joined the Romish Church and became Pope(?). 95 Waldenses said Rome erred from that point forward. 99 Waldenses were previously called Leonists, who were previously called Paterines, but some have said they are also separate groups. 6

590 A.D. Nine Bishops reject communion of the Pope as heretical. ²⁶

Until 869 A.D. all Ecumenical Councils had been held in or near Constantinople, and in the Greek language, not Latin. 33

John Hus

(Roman Catholic Priesthood) 1369-1415 A.D.

He was a hero to Martin Luther and reformers. He and his followers embraced some ideas and opinions from the Wycliffists, Dulcinists, Leonists, Waldenses, Albingenses, and others. See also modern embracement. 79, 80

God-Christ / Apostles & Torchbearers

Antioch, Syria⁶⁵ & Jerusalem (The Traditional Text)

30-120 A.D. Apostles & NT MSS spread to Britain/Ireland, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104 India, ¹⁰⁷ and Africa. ¹⁰⁸ 1st Generation — were those that followed the Apostles and spread the truth further. 90-150 A.D. 2nd Gen — the Torchbearers in 120 A.D. spread to many more countries under many names, including Waldenses, Leonists, Paterines, Cathari, etc. ^{4, 5, 8, 25, 16, 17, 30}

251 A.D. Cathari/Novation^{26, 28}

600 A. D. Vaudois 19, 105

660 A.D. Cathari/Puritans reference 27, 25

787 A.D. Valdenses/Patarines reference²⁷

794 A.D. Francfort Council with Charles the Great (Charlemagne) and Claudius Archbishop of Turin (Waldensian Valleys of Piemont/Piedmont) tried to convince the Church of Rome to embrace the true Doctrine of Christ and his Apostles. ¹⁵

817 A.D. Valleys of Piedmont inhabited by the Valdenses. ²⁷

1040 A.D. Patarines²⁸
1159 A.D. Waldenses called Paulicians and Puritans persecuted in England.²⁸
1181 A.D. Pope Lucius III calls them

Catharists, Josephists, and heretics. 29, 73

All credit, praise, honor, and glory belongs to our beloved God!

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

Arius of Alexandria 256-336 A.D.

A presbyter of Alexandria, put forth a system of denying the divinity of Christ, which regards him only as the first and most excellent of created beings. denving The Trinity. 24 This system, called Arianism, was rightly condemned at the Nicene (Nicaea) Council in 325 A.D. 51 Jehovah's Witnesses follow Arianism.

Eusebius Pamphili (Eusebius of Caesarea) 260-340 A.D.

Supported ideas of Constantine I, Arius, and Origen. 48, 49

Aurelius Augustine (Augustine of Hippo) 354-430 A.D.

Follower of Plato's Greek philosophical teachings. 69 First non-Gnostic to promote Amillennialism and convinced the Roman Church that the thousand years had already started with the first Advent. 58 The early church had always been Premillennial (Chiliasm) and believed in a physical resurrection of Lord Jesus Christ. 58, 59 Augustine also adopted the Sethite theory. 53 He promoted Allegorization of Scripture, not to the extent that Clement and Origen did. but well beyond the normal figures of speech. 68

Sextus Julius Africanus 160-240 A.D.

First strong promoter of the Sethite Theory, which influenced Eusebius, Origen. the early Church of Rome, and many others. 52, 53, 54, 65

Origen Adamantius (Origen of Alexandria) 184-254 A.D.

Strong promoter of Allegorization of most Scripture. 50, 64, 65, 68 Not to be confused with known figures of speech in the Bible (metaphors, similes, parables, etc.).

337-842 A.D. Under Roman Pope Gregory III in 731 A.D. worship of images became general practice in Roman churches, while Leo III of the Eastern Churches (and Paulicians) resisted these changes, with Leo ordering soldiers to destroy idols. 111

More Heretical

The Forgery Mill Begins 96

498-514 A.D. Pope Symmachus - The 'Symmachan' MS forgeries. 97 772-795 A.D. Pope Hadian I - Son of a Roman nobleman, introduced the 'Donation of Constantine' MS forgeries, which was believed for four centuries to be evidence for the lineage and supremacy of the Popes. These forgeries, supported by Popes, are still held today by many as evidence for the ecclesiastical supremacy and temporal sovereignty of the Popes of Rome. 94, 95 9th Century A.D. Nearly 100 MSS. 'Pseudo-Isidorean Decretals' MS forgeries, which at the time served the purpose to provide support to previous MSS, etc. 109, 110

1605 A.D. Gunpowder Plot - The Jesuit Treason to kill England's King James I and Parliament in order to stop the translation of the new English Bible (among other reasons). Translation of this Bible started in 1604 and finished in 1611. 75, 76

1859 A.D. Codex Sinaiticus MSS.

Greek Bible very likely a professional forgery, and is used in the translation of most modern Bibles. See chart with references.47

Suspected Forgeries – Used in creating altered Greek NT texts by: Westcott & Hort 1881 A.D. (Occultists) Nestle & Aland 1898 A.D. United Bible Society 1946 A.D. See chart with references. 98

Desiderius Erasmus Roterodamus (Roman Catholic Priesthood)

1466-1536 A.D. Greek NT created 1522 A.D. He didn't always stay neutral, like his belief in transubstantiation, which is the Roman Catholic belief that the real body and blood are actually present in the bread and wine. 78

Martin Luther

(Roman Catholic Priesthood) German Bible created between 1522-1534 A.D.

Promoted Anti-Semitism. 70, 71

1526 A.D. Waldensian meetings begin to discuss the reformation.²¹ September 12. 1532 A.D. Vaudois Synod – Reformers meet with the Waldenses, and they provide a pure apostolic Bible to the reformers.

John Calvin (Roman Catholic)

1509-1564 A.D. Calvin's cousin. Pierre Robert Olivetan, met with the Waldenses in 1532-1535 A.D. ^{3, 10, 11, 114}

More Pure

Waldensian churches subsisted long before Peter Waldo 1140 - 1205 A.D., a Waldensian leader distinguished from the Roman Church. Gretzer, a Jesuit in 1178 A.D., confirms this. ²⁹ It was the papacy that started the myth that Peter Waldo started these churches. Enemies of the Waldenses agree that Waldensian church history extends to apostolic times, per Raynerus Saccho, a Papal Inquisitor of the 13th century A.D., previously a Vaudois minister 5, 8, 16, 17, 18, 20, 27

1259 A.D. Vaudois in France called Albigenses.²⁹ 1322 A.D. Half of England became Lollards (following Waldensian beliefs).²⁹

June 3, 1535 A.D. French Bible Published Translated by Pierre Robert Olivetan

(Calvin's cousin) from the Waldenses' pure Hebrew and Greek manuscripts, costing the Vaudois 1500 golden crowns to have printed. 3, 10, 11, 22 Proof from

Christ's time to 1535 A.D. ¹⁷ Shortly after completing the translation, Pierre was poisoned and killed by papal inquisition in Rome. John Calvin updates the Bible in 1540-1560 A.D. as the French and English Sword Bible AKA Geneva Bible. 22, 31, 32

1559 & 1560 A.D. Ancient MS and authentic records proving the antiquity of the Waldenses churches were committed to flames by their persecutors. 14

1588 A.D. Sword Bible revised by Theodore Beza becomes the Revised French Geneva Bible 22, 31, 32 and he issued a Greek NT in 1598 A.D.

All credit, praise, honor, and glory belongs to our beloved God! © 2018 Peter D. Arvo | (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0) | Last updated: 8/9/2019 | TheTorchbearerSeries.com

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

1830 A.D. Book of Mormon

Translated by Joseph Smith from supposed tablets obtained from a claimed deceased person named Moroni, but in reality his wife said he had a diseased mind and he was wanted for many crimes. ⁹², 93

1945 A.D. Nag Hammadi Dated 376 A.D.? (Gnostic Texts)³⁴

Replacement Theology (Supersessionism)

Since early times, there are some who upon blaming the Jews for Lord Jesus Christ's death wanted to reassign God's promises from the Jews to the Gentile Church. This encouraged anti-Semitism and a growing lack of knowledge of Jewish cultural understanding that is woven throughout the Old and New Testaments, and of the true nature of God's promises themselves. 85-160 A.D. Marcion 66 100-165 A.D. Justin Martyr⁶³ 272-337A.D. Constantine I 67 1198-1216 A.D. Pope Innocent III^{72, 73} 1483-1546 A.D. Martin Luther 70, 71 1846-1878 A.D. Pope Pius IX

Revised Bibles (Doubting Bibles)

1881+ A.D. to the present time period use the new Nestle-Aland & UBS scholarly textbooks (see above). Those that utilize these textbooks admit that they do not have 100% of God's preserved Word, and also admit that they are incapable of producing a perfect translation.

Doubting Bibles: NLT, NIV, CEB, NKJV,

ASV, RSV, JB, LB, TEV, NEB, NASV, ESV, GNB, NAB, CEV, NBV, NWT, etc...

Examples: 43, 44, 45

Starting at least in the 1500s, as a result of interacting with some of the reformers of the Church of Rome, the Waldenses began compromising their heritage of true doctrine and theology for the sake of unity. This did not change the text of their Bible, but it did affect their understanding of it over time, as well as the high holy standards they once held. A modern Waldensian Pastor, Esteban Gignous Janavel, who is direct descendent of a famous Janavel, 23 is seeking to restore and maintain the true pure holiness of the Waldensian apostolic doctrine.

1611 A.D. King James Bible

47 translators were actually employed to produce the KJV, ⁷ and translator George Abbot knew of the Wycliffists, Dulcinists, Leonists, Waldenses, Albingenses, and others. ^{9, 106} Evidence the modern KJV is accurate compared to 1611 KJV. ^{12, 13} Depending on who you ask, they will tell you a different base text was used to create the KJV, this is because none of the existing texts are a 100% match, because the Waldenses' pure text (probably destroyed) was the primary basis. ^{14, 89} Thees & thous were not in use by 1611, but KJV translators added them for better accuracy and clarity. ^{41, 42, 46, KJV} Notes

More Heretical

More Pure

All credit, praise, honor, and glory belongs to our beloved God!
© 2018 Peter D. Arvo | (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0) | Last updated: 8/9/2019 | TheTorchbearerSeries.com

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

Bibliography (Works Cited)

Note: Blue reference numbers, words, and page numbers are hyperlinked, enabling you to jump to additional information and scanned images, and then back to the chart; give it a try! Whenever possible, the Wayback Machine (https://web.archive.org) was used to permanently archive and preserve the integrity of the web based reference, at the time it was used as a reference. Since the Wayback Machine appends the original website onto the end of the Wayback Machine link, you need to manually copy and paste the entire link into a web browser for the archive.org links to work correctly. Also, a large number of old and/or out of print books are available for free to download from the world's largest library and university repository at http://www.archive.org, and can also be located at https://books.google.com.

- ¹ In Foxe's Book of Martyrs, by John Foxe, title page, p.19. New York, Hurst & co, 1870 (first written 1516-1587 A.D.).
- ² In History of the Christian Church Vol. 2, by Philip Schaff, title page, p.89. New York, Charles Scribner and Company, 1867.
- ³ In The Israel of the Alps. A complete history of the Waldenses and their colonies Vol 1, by Alexis Muston, title page, p.97. London: Blackie & Son, 1875.
- ⁴ In Some remarks upon the ecclesiastical history of the ancient churches of Piedmont, by Peter Allix, title page, p.4, p.193. Oxford: The Clarendon Press, 1821 (first written in 1690).
- ⁵ In Some remarks upon the ecclesiastical history of the ancient churches of Piedmont, by Peter Allix, p.191, p.192-193. Oxford: The Clarendon Press, 1821 (first written in 1690).
- ⁶ In Some remarks upon the ecclesiastical history of the ancient churches of Piedmont, by Peter Allix, p.194-195. Oxford: The Clarendon Press, 1821 (first written in 1690).
- 7 In The Translators Revived, by Alexander Wilson McClure, title page, p.66, New York, Charles Scribner, 1853.
- ⁸ In A Treatise of the Perpetuall Visibilitie and Succession of the True Church in all Ages, by George Abbot, title page, p.82-83. London: Augustine Matthewes and John Norton, 1624. (Archbishop of Canterbury, one of the translators of the King James Bible)
- ⁹ In A Treatise of the Perpetuall Visibilitie and Succession of the True Church in all Ages, by George Abbot, p.77. London: Augustine Matthewes and John Norton, 1624. (note: the author is one of the translators of the King James Bible)
- 10 In The History of Protestantism, Vol. 1, by J. A. Wylie, LL.D., title page, p.453. London: Cassell Petter & Galpin, 1874.
- 11 In The history of the Evangelical churches of the valleys of Piemont, by Sir Samuel Morland, title page, p.15 & p.17. London: Henry Hills, 1658.
- 12 In Defending the King James Bible A Fourfold Superiority God's Word Kept Intact in English, by Pastor D. A. Wait, Th.D., Ph.D., title page, entire book. New Jersey: BibleForToday.org, 2002.
- 13 In The King James Version of 1611 Compared to The King James Version of 1917 Old Scofield Bible, by Pastor D. A. Wait, Th.D., Ph.D., title page, entire book. New Jersey: BibleForToday.org, 1985.
- ¹⁴ In The history of the Evangelical churches of the valleys of Piemont, by Sir Samuel Morland, p.8 & p.9. London: Henry Hills, 1658.
- 15 In The history of the Evangelical churches of the valleys of Piemont, by Sir Samuel Morland, p.10 & p.11. London: Henry Hills, 1658.
- 16 In The history of the Evangelical churches of the valleys of Piemont, by Sir Samuel Morland, p.12 & p.13. London: Henry Hills, 1658.
- 17 In The history of the Evangelical churches of the valleys of Piemont, by Sir Samuel Morland, p.14. London: Henry Hills, 1658.
- 18 In The Israel of the Alps, A complete history of the Waldenses and their colonies Vol 2, by Alexis Muston, title page, p.510, London; Blackie & Son, 1875.
- 19 In The Israel of the Alps. A complete history of the Waldenses and their colonies Vol 2, by Alexis Muston, p.513. London: Blackie & Son, 1875.
- ²⁰ In The Israel of the Alps, A complete history of the Waldenses and their colonies Vol 2, by Alexis Muston, p.531, London: Blackie & Son, 1875.
- ²¹ In The Israel of the Alps. A complete history of the Waldenses and their colonies Vol 1, by Alexis Muston, p.96. London: Blackie & Son, 1875.
- ²² In The Israel of the Alps. A complete history of the Waldenses and their colonies Vol 1, by Alexis Muston, p.101. London: Blackie & Son, 1875.
- ²³ Josué Janavel called GIANAVELLO, of the Luserna vineyards, called "Leone di Rorà", captain of the Waldensian Valleys, a hero of freedom of conscience, leader, great father and brother of sacrifice, the innate leader of his beloved people, a man of noble cause of unshakable faith, attached to the biblical word and faithful servant of Jesus Christ, died March 15, 1690 in Geneva after long years of exile (see Janavel Image).
- In A history of the Vaudois church from its Origin, by Antoine Monastier, title page, p. 5. London: The Religious Tract Society, 1859.
- In Authentic Details of the Valdenses in Piemont and Other Countries, by Charles Holte Bracebridge & Henri Arnaud, title page, p.2. Piccadilly: John Hatchard and Son, 1827.
- ²⁶ In Authentic Details of the Valdenses in Piemont and Other Countries, by Charles Holte Bracebridge & Henri Arnaud, p.4. Piccadilly: John Hatchard and Son, 1827.
- ²⁷ In Authentic Details of the Valdenses in Piemont and Other Countries, by Charles Holte Bracebridge & Henri Arnaud, p.5. Piccadilly: John Hatchard and Son, 1827.
- ²⁸ In Authentic Details of the Valdenses in Piemont and Other Countries, by Charles Holte Bracebridge & Henri Arnaud, p.6. Piccadilly: John Hatchard and Son, 1827.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

- ²⁹ In Authentic Details of the Valdenses in Piemont and Other Countries, by Charles Holte Bracebridge & Henri Arnaud, p.7-8. Piccadilly: John Hatchard and Son, 1827.
- 30 In Histoire ecclésiastique des églises réformées au royaume de France, by Théodore de Bèze, title page, p.25. Lille: Leleux, 1841 (originally written between 1519-1605 A.D.).
- 31 leDuc, Jean. "Reflections on the Olivetan Bible." Levigilant.com. 2018. http://levigilant.com/bible_olivetan_1535/bible_olivetan_1535index.html (accessed October 2018) https://translate.google.com/translate?hl=en&sl=fr&u=http://levigilant.com/bible_olivetan_1535/bible_olivetan_1535index.html&prev=search (English Translated Link).
- Bible Translations into French. "1535, Bible d'Olivétan > 1560, Bible de Genève of Jean Calvin: follows the Bible d'Olivétan > 1588, Révision de la Bible de Genève by Theodore Beza" https://web.archive.org/web/20181102230954/https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bible_translations_into_French
- 33 Wells, Kevin Clarke & Arthur. "Councils Through History." Vatican II Voice of the Church. November 2018. https://web.archive.org/web/20181104154318/http://vatican2voice.org/4basics/councils.htm (accessed November 2018).
- 34 Gnostic Society Library Staff. "About the Nag Hammadi Library." The Gnostic Society Library. 2018. https://web.archive.org/web/20181104201014/http://www.gnosis.org/naghamm/nhl.html (accessed 2018).
- 35 The Editors of Encyclopaedia Britannica. "Edict of Milan: Roman History." Encyclopaedia Britannica. March 2016. https://web.archive.org/web/20180913221043/https://www.britannica.com/topic/Edict-of-Milan (accessed September 2018).
- 36 The Editors of Encyclopaedia Britannica. "Council of Nicaea." Encyclopaedia Britannica. November 2018. https://web.archive.org/web/20181104212158/https://www.britannica.com/event/Council-of-Nicaea-Christianity-325 (accessed September 2018).
- ³⁷ In Church and State Through the Centuries: A Collection of Historic Documents with Commentaries, by Sidney Zdeneck Ehler & John B Morrall, p.6-7. Biblo & Tannen, 1967.
- 38 In Lectures on the History of the Eastern Church, by Arthur Penrhyn Stanley, title page, p.184-185. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1900 (first written between 1815-1881).
- 39 Christian Classics Staff. "NPNF2-14. The Seven Ecumenical Councils: Council of Laodicea: Canon XXIX." Christian Classics Ethereal Library. 2018. https://web.archive.org/web/20181105201104/http://www.ccel.org/ccel/schaff/npnf214.viii.vii.iii.xxxiv.html (accessed November 2018).
- ⁴⁰ In The Greek Ecclesiastical Historians Vol 1, by Eusebius, title page, p.130-131. London: Samuel Bagster and Sons, 1845 (originally written c.260-c.340).
- 41 "Thou." In Oxford English Dictionary. 1888.
- 42 Brandon. "Video: What about the Thees and Thous?" AV1611.com. April 2014. https://web.archive.org/web/20181109184138/https://av1611.com/kjbp/blog/video-what-about-the-thees-and-thous/ (accessed November 2018).
- Watkins, Terry. "Bible Verses Removed." AV1611.org. http://www.av1611.org/biblevs.html (accessed November 2018).
- Watkins, Terry. "Bible Version Comparison." AV1611.org. http://www.av1611.org/biblecom.html (accessed November 2018).
- 45 Watkins, Terry. "Bible Words Removed." AV1611.org. http://www.av1611.org/biblewrd.html (accessed November 2018).
- 46 In Language Of The King James Version Bible, by Gail Riplinger, title page, p.117-118, Ararat: A.V. Publications Corp., 2012, (with permission by http://www.aypublications.com granted on 11/12/2018)
- 47 In Codex Sinaiticus: Legitimate or Forgery? The Suspects, by Peter D. Arvo, title page, 2018. *Download the full document for free online from http://www.thetorchbearerseries.com.
- ⁴⁸ In The lives of the primitive fathers, martyrs, and other principal saints, by Alban Butler, title page, p.209-210. Edinburgh: J. Moir, 1799.
- 49 In The Ecclesiastical History of Eusebius Pamphilus, Bishop of Caesarea, by Rev. C.F. Cruse, title page, p.XXV. London: Bell & Daldy, 1865.
- ⁵⁰ In The History of the Church of Christ Vol 1, by Joseph Milner, title page, p.341. York, G. Peacock, 1794.
- 51 In An Answer to Dr. Clark, and Mr. Whiston Concerning the Divinity of the Son, by Edward Hawarden, title page, p.13. London: Thomas Meighan, 1729.
- ⁵² In The Fallen Angels and The Heros of Mythology, by Rev. John Fleming, title page, p.36, p.73, p.80. Dublin: Hodges, Foster, and Figgis, 1879.
- 53 In A Select Library of Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers of the Christian Church Vol. XI, by Philip Schaff, title page, p.394. New York: The Christian Literature Company, 1894.
- ⁵⁴ In A Commentary on the Holy Scriptures, by Johann Peter Lange, title page, p.280, p.281. Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1868.
- ⁵⁵ In An Inquiry Into the Heresies of the Apostolic Age: In Eight Sermons Preached, by Edward Burton, title page, p.117, p.148. Oxford: Samuel Collinwood, 1829.
- ⁵⁶ In An Inquiry Into the Heresies of the Apostolic Age: In Eight Sermons Preached, by Edward Burton, p.260, p.529, Oxford: Samuel Collinwood, 1829,
- 57 In Characteristics of the Greek Philosophers: Socrates and Plato, by John Philips Potter, title page, p.186-187. London: John W. Parker, 1845.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

- ⁵⁸ In A Religious Encyclopædia or Dictionary Volume 3, by Philip Schaff, title page, p.1887-1888, p.1889. 1884 Edinburgh: T.&T. Clark, 1884.
- ⁵⁹ In A translation of Mede's Clavis apocalyptica, by R.B. Cooper, title page, p.42. London: J. G. & F. Rivington, 1833 (first written in 1627). (A physical reign with Lord Jesus Christ was understood and described in 1627)
- ⁶⁰ In An Inquiry Into the Heresies of the Apostolic Age: In Eight Sermons Preached, by Edward Burton, p.287-288. Oxford: Samuel Collinwood, 1829.
- 61 In Sabbatum Redivivum: Or, the Christian Sabbath Vindicated, by Daniel Cawdrey, title page, p.575. London: Robert White, 1645.
- 62 In The Divinity of Our Lord Jesus Christ Demonstrated from the Holy Scriptures, by James Barnard, title page, p.94. London: J. P. Coghlan, 1789.
- 63 In Ante-Nicene Christian Library Translations of the Writings of the Fathers Vol. 2, by Alexander Roberts, title page, p.100-101, p.106 & p.108. 1867.
- ⁶⁴ In The Life of Christ, of A Critical Examination of His History: Translated, by David Friedrich Strauss, title page, p.6-7. New York: G. Vale, 1845.
- 65 In The Student's Ecclesiastical History, by Philip Smith, title page, p.147. London: John Murry, 1878.
- ⁶⁶ In History of the Christian Church Vol 2, by Philip Schaff, title page, p. 483-485. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1891.
- 67 In A History of the Christian Councils: From the Original Documents Vol 1, by Karl Joseph, title page, p.322-324, p.325. Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1894.
- 68 In The Works of Aurelius Augustine: A New Translation, Volume 14, By Saint Augustine, title page, p.115. Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1886.
- 69 In The Works of Aurelius Augustine: A New Translation, Volume 14, By Saint Augustine, p.158. Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1886.
- ⁷⁰ In The Jews and their Lies, by Dr. Martin Luther, original title page, title page, p.8, p.39-40 & p.41-42. Los Angeles: Christian Nationalist Crusade, 1948 (first written in 1543)
- ⁷¹ In Martin Luther vs. Nazi Legislation and Actions Chart, by Peter D. Arvo, chart, 2018. *Download the separate chart for free online from http://www.thetorchbearerseries.com.
- ⁷² In History of the Jews, Volume 3, by Heinrich Graetz, title page, p. 511-513. Philadelphia: The Jewish Publication Society of America, 1894.
- ⁷³ In Romanism as it is: An Exposition of the Roman Catholic System, by Samuel Weed Barnumm, title page, p.208. Hartford: Connecticut Publishing Company 1877.
- ⁷⁴ In Romanism as it is: An Exposition of the Roman Catholic System, by Samuel Weed Barnumm, p.85 & p.88. Hartford: Connecticut Publishing Company 1877.
- 75 In The Churchman's Magazine and Village Churchman, by Joshua Fawcett, title page, p.366. London: William Edward Painter, 1845.
- 76 In Elements of History, an Ancient and Modern; with a Chart and Tables of History, by Joseph Emerson Worcester, title page, p.320, Boston; William J. Reynolds and Company, 1847.
- 77 In S. Janatius, S. Polycarp Revised Texts with Instructions Vol 1, by Saint Ignatius, title page, p.413, London; Macmillan and Co., 1889.
- ⁷⁸ In Life and Letters of Erasmus: Lectures Delivered at Oxford 1893-4, by James Anthony Froude, title page, p.386. London: Longmans Green, 1894.
- 79 In Explanatory Notes Upon the New Testament, Volume 2, by John Wesley, title page, p.417. London: Thomas Cordeux, 1813.
- 80 In The Works of Jonathan Edwards, by Jonathan Edwards, Period III, title page, p.596-597. London: William Ball, 1839.
- 81 In In Somnium Scipionis M. Tulii Ciceronis libri duo, et saturnaliorum Lib. VII, by Ambrosius Aurelius Theodosius Macrobius, title page. 1524. (one of the oldest detailed books on Saturnalia)
- 82 In The History of the Princes, the Lords Marcher, and the Ancient Nobility Vol 1, by Jacob Youde William Lloyd, title page, p.44-45. London: T. Richards, 1881.
- 83 In Saint Chrysostom: His Life and Times, by William Richard Wood Stephens, title page, p.140-141. London: John Murray, 1872.
- 84 In The New Testament of Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ Vol I, by Adam Clarke, title page, Chapter II p.384. London: J. Butterworth & Son, 1817.
- 85 In Footsteps of the Holy Child or Lessons on the Incarnation Part 2, by T. T. Carter, title page, p.28. London: Joseph Masters, 1868.
- 86 In A School Dictionary of Greek and Roman Antiquities: Abridged, by William Smith, title page, p.281. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1846.
- 87 Constantine the Great Coin 318 A.D., 3rd officina, Rome mint, 318 A.D.; obverse IMP CONSTANTINVS P F AVG, laureate, draped, and cuirassed bust right; reverse SOLI INVICTO COMITI (to the unconquered Sun, minister [of the Emperor]), Sol standing half-left, radiate, nude but for chlamys over shoulders and left arm, raising right hand commanding the sun to rise, globe in left hand, T in wreath left, RT in exergue.
- ⁸⁸ Constantine the Great Coin 332 A.D., Obv. CONSTANTI-NOPOLIS laureate, helmeted, wearing imperial mantle, holding cross- scepter with a sun globe. Rev. Victory stg. on prow, holding long scepter in r. hand, and resting I. hand on shield. in exergue RFQ RIC VII Rome 332 A.D., unlisted officina.
- Evidence of purity: In the oldest New Testament text, the Jesus Papyrus (AKA Magdalen College Papyrus P64) authored by Matthew, is dated to before 60 A.D. by Professor Carsten Peter Thiede and doesn't match the text of the Bibles translated after 1881, which use the newer Westcott and Hort (Nestle-Aland / UBS) Greek text, but the Jesus Papyrus does match the text of Matthew contained within the King James Bible. See the following book for more details, "Thiede, Carsten Peter. The Jesus Papyrus: The Most Sensational Evidence on the Origins of the Gospels Since the Discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls. New York: Galilee Doubleday, 2000." And the online journal by Professor Carsten P. Thiede, "Reconstructing Manuscripts Using Confocal Laser Scanning Microscopy." The Tyndale Society Journal #21, April 2002: p.26. https://web.archive.org/web/20181121183355/http://geneva-heritage.com/PDF/TJ%2021.pdf And also the corresponding documentary film, "Eyewitness to Jesus. Directed by High Noon Entertainment. Performed by Matthew D'Ancona of Magdelen College in Oxford. 2011."

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

- 90 In Paganism Surviving in Christianity, by Abram Herbert Lewis, title page, p.278-280. New York: G P. Putnam's Sons, 1892.
- 91 In Mystery: Babylon the Great, Pagan, Pagal, Semi Pagal 2nd Ed, by Charles Cowan, title page, p.13-14. London: T. Barcham, 1866.
- 92 In An Authentic Account of the Massacre of Joseph Smith: The Mormon Prophet, by Geo. T. M. Davis, title page, p.36-38. St. Louis: Chambers & Knapp, 1844.
- ⁹³ The Baltimore Sun, Baltimore, Maryland, Thursday, December 11, 1845 Page 1.
- 94 In The Catholic Encyclopedia: An International Work of Reference Vol 12, edited by Charles George Herbermann, et. title page, p.768. New York: The Encyclopedia Press, 1922.
- 95 Rev. John Dowling, D.D. "The Christian World: Vol XVIII No.7 July 1867." In A Sermon Upon the Reasonableness of the Doctrine of the Future Eternal Punishment, by Rev. H. M. Dexter, title page, p.201-202. Boston: John P. Jewett and Company, 1858.
- 96 In The Catholic Encyclopedia: An International Work of Reference Vol 12, edited by Charles George Herbermann, et. p.99, 219, 333, p.400, 476, 768, p.772. New York: The Encyclopedia Press, 1922.
- 97 In The Catholic Encyclopedia: An International Work of Reference Vol 14, edited by Charles George Herbermann, et. title page, p.378. New York: Robert Appleton Company, 1912.
- 98 In Westcott and Hort: Occultists or Christians? You Decide, by Peter D. Arvo, title page, 2018. *Download the full document for free online from http://www.thetorchbearerseries.com.
- 99 In The Three Conversions of England, by Robert Parsons, title page, p.94. 1604 (written by an English Roman Catholic Jesuit Priest and Oxford scholar)
- 100 In The Three Conversions of England, by Robert Parsons, Table of Contents (PDF page #33). 1604 (Roman Catholic Jesuit Priest wrote a chapter about, "First conversion of Britain's to Christian Religion in time of the Apostles")
- 101 In Antiquitates Apostolicae, by William Cave, title page, p.13 & 15, p.139 & 290. London: John Batchard and Son, 1834. (originally written in 1676)
- 102 In A Translation of the Epistles of Clement of Rome, Polycarp, Ignatius, Justin Martyr, and Tertullian, by Rev. Temple Chevallier, title page, p. 487-489. Cambridge: John Smith, 1833.
- In The New Testament: Arranged in Historical and Chronological Order with Copious Notes, Volume 2, by Rev. George Townsend, title page, p.381-383. Boston: Perkins and Marvin, 1837.
- 104 In An essay on the origin and purity of the primitive church of the British Isles: and its independence upon the Church of Rome, by William Hales, title page, p.vi-vii. London: R. Wilks, 1819.
- 105 In A Condensed History of the General Baptists of the New Connection, by J. H. Wood, title page, p.25. London: Simpkin, Marshall, and Co., 1847.
- 106 In The Churchman, Volume 62, title page, p.188, August 16th article, 1890. (showing that George Abbot, one of the KJV translators, was a Puritan)
- 107 In Foxe's Book of Martyrs: Being a History of the Persecution of Christians in All Ages, by John Foxe, p.34. Philadelphia: Charles Foster Publishing Co., 1895. (first written 1516-1587 A.D.)
- 108 In Foxe's Book of Martyrs: Being a History of the Persecution of Christians in All Ages, by John Foxe, p.35. Philadelphia: Charles Foster Publishing Co., 1895. (first written 1516-1587 A.D.)
- 109 In Short History of the Mediæval Church, by John Fletcher Hurst, title page, p.13. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1889.
- Professor Eric Knibbs. "Pseudo-Isidore: An Edition-in-Progress of the False Decretals." Pseudo-Isidore.com. https://web.archive.org/web/20181226225320/https://pseudo-isidore.com/ (accessed December 2018).
- 111 In Religious Systems of the World: A Contribution to the Study of Comparative Religion, by A Collection of Addresses, title page, p.399-400. New York: E. P. Dutton & Company, 1906.
- 112 "House of Commons Journal Volume 7: 24 December 1652," in Journal of the House of Commons: Volume 7, 1651-1660, (London: His Majesty's Stationery Office, 1802), p.234-235. British History Online, https://web.archive.org/web/20190102154616/https://www.british-history.ac.uk/commons-jrnl/vol7/pp234-235 (accessed January 2019).

Direct link to scanned page 234: https://web.archive.org/web/20190102154902/https://www.british-history.ac.uk/sites/default/files/publications/pubid-112/scans/CJ07_0234.jpg

Direct link to scanned page 235: https://web.archive.org/web/20190102155031/https://www.british-history.ac.uk/sites/default/files/publications/pubid-112/scans/CJ07_0235.jpg (see the upper-right section of this page for the law forbidding Christmas)

- In Records of the Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England. Printed by order of the Legislature, edited by Nathaniel B. Shurtleff, M.D., Vol. IV, Part I, 1650-1660. https://web.archive.org/web/20190102170013/https://www.mass.gov/files/documents/2016/08/qj/christmas1659.pdf (accessed January 2019).
- 114 In The Israel of the Alps. A complete history of the Waldenses and their colonies Vol 1, by Alexis Muston, p.29. London: Blackie & Son, 1875.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

The following is a list of all the KJV Notes by the KJV Translators, that still exist today (this information is covered more fully in the audio/video course and 'Supplemental Lecture Notes' by Peter D. Arvo):

- KIV1 In Translating for King James: Being a True Copy of the Only Notes Made by a Translator, Translated and Edited by Ward Allen, title page, p.36. Kingsport: Vanderbilt University Press, 1969.
- KIV2 In The Coming of the King James Gospels: A Collection of the Translators' Work-in-Progress, by Ward S. Allen & Edward C. Jacobs, title page, p.8. Fayetteville: The University of Arkansas Press, 1995.
- KIV3 In Translating the New Testament Epistles 1604-1611: A Manuscript from King James's Westminster Company, Edited by Ward Allen, title page, p.xc & p.188. Ann Arbor: University Microfilms International, 1977.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

Bibliography (Works Cited) Scanned Images

¹ title page

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS.

HISTORY

OF THE

LIVES, SUFFERINGS,

AND

TRIUMPHANT DEATHS,

OF THE

PRIMITIVE AS WELL AS THE PROTESTANT MARTYRS,

FROM THE

COMMENCEMENT OF CHRISTIANITY TO THE LATEST PERIODS OF PAGAN AND POPISH PERSECUTION.

TO WHICH IS ADDED

AN ACCOUNT OF THE INQUISITION; THE BARTHOLOMEW MASSACRE; THE MASSACRE IN FRANCE, AND GENERAL PERSECUTION UNDER LOUIS XIV.; THE MASSACRES OF THE INEH KEELLION IN THE YEAR 1641; AND THE RECENT PERSECUTIONS OF PROTESTANTS IN THE SOUTH OF FRANCE.

ORIGINALLY COMPOSED BY THE

REV. JOHN FOX, A.M.

ILLUSTRATED EDITION.

NEW YORK:

HURST & CO., PUBLISHERS, NO. 122 NASSAU STREET.

.

187-3

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹ page 19

FOX'S BOOK OF MARTYRS.

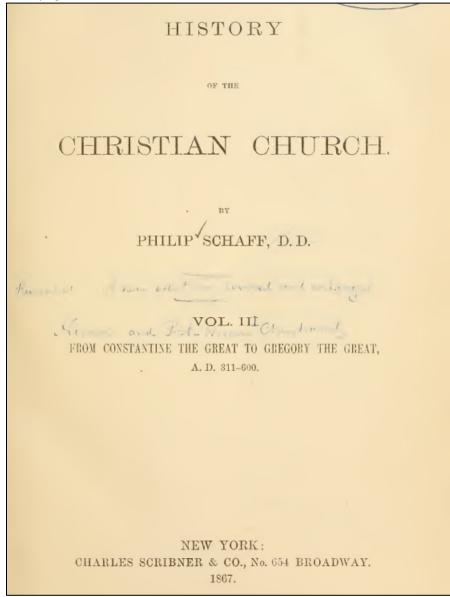

19

Timothy the celebrated disciple of St. Paul, and bishop of Ephesus, was born at Lystra, in the province of Lycaonia. His father was a Gentile, and his mother a Jewess, but both his parents and his grandmother embraced Christianity, by which means he was taught from his infancy the precepts of the gospel. When St. Paul arrived at Lycaonia, he ordained Timothy, and made him the companion of his labours. He mentions him with peculiar respect, and declares that he could find no one so truly united to him, both in heart and mind. Timothy attended St. Paul to Macedonia, where, with that apostle and Silas, he laboured in propagating the gospel. St. Paul went from thence to Achaia, but he was left behind to strengthen the faith of those already converted. St. Paul at length sent for him to Athens, and thence despatched him to Thessalonica, to preach to the suffering Christians there, against the terrors of the persecution that then prevailed. Having performed his mission, he returned to Athens, and, there assisted St. Paul and Silas in composing the two Epistles to the Thessalonians. He then accompanied St. Paul to Corinth, Jerusalem, and Ephesus. After performing several other commissions for St. Paul, and attending him on various journeys, the apostle constituted him bishop of Ephesus, though he was only thirty years of age, and in two admirable epistles gave him proper in-structions for his conduct. He was so very temperate in his living, that St. Paul blamed him for being too abstemious, and recommended to him the moderate use of wine, to recruit his strength and spirits.

While that great apostle was in his last confinement at Rome, he desired Timothy to come to him. He afterward returned to Ephesus, where he zealously governed the church, till A. D. 97. At this period the Pagans were about to celebrate a feast called Catagogion, the principal ceremonies of which were, that the people should carry sticks in their hands, go masked, and bear about the streets, the images of their Gods. Timothy met the procession, and severely reproved them for their ridiculous idolatry, which so exasperated them, that they fell upon him with their clubs, and beat him in so dreadful a manner, that he expired of the bruises two days after.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

² title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

² page 89

§ 2. CONSTANTINE THE GREAT.

31

cifically of Catholic hierarchical Christianity, with its exclusiveness towards heretical and schismatic sects, to be the religion of the state. For, once put on equal footing with heathenism, it must soon, in spite of numerical minority, bear away the victory from a religion which had already inwardly outlived itself.

From this time Constantine decidedly favored the church, though without persecuting or forbidding the pagan religions. He always mentions the Christian church with reverence in his imperial edicts, and uniformly applies to it, as we have already observed, the predicate of catholic. For only as a catholic, thoroughly organized, firmly compacted, and conservative institution did it meet his rigid monarchical interest, and afford the splendid state and court dress he wished for his empire. So early as the year 313 we find the bishop Hosius of Cordova among his counsellors, and heathen writers ascribe to the bishop even a magical influence over the emperor. Lactantius, also, and Eusebius of Caesarea belonged to his confidential circle. He exempted the Christian clergy from military and municipal duty (March, 313); abolished various customs and ordinances offensive to the Christians (315); facilitated the emancipation of Christian slaves (before 316); legalized bequests to catholic churches (321); enjoined the civil observance of Sunday, though not as dies Domini, but as dies Solis, in conformity to his worship of Apollo, and in company with an ordinance for the regular consulting of the haruspex (321); contributed liberally to the building of churches and the support of the clergy; erased the heathen symbols of Jupiter and Apollo, Mars and Hercules from the imperial coins (323); and gave his sons a Christian education.

This mighty example was followed, as might be expected, by a general transition of those subjects, who were more influenced in their conduct by outward circumstances, than by inward conviction and principle. The story, that in one year (324) twelve thousand men, with women and children in proportion, were baptized in Rome, and that the emperor had promised to each convert a white garment and twenty pieces

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

³ title page

THE ISRAEL OF THE ALPS.

A COMPLETE

HISTORY OF THE WALDENSES

AND THEIR COLONIES;

PREPARED IN GREAT PART FROM UNPUBLISHED DOCUMENTS.

By ALEXIS MUSTON, D.D.,

PASTOR OF THE PROTESTANT CHURCH AT BOURDEAUX, DRÔME, FRANCE.

TRANSLATED

BY THE REV. JOHN MONTGOMERY, A.M.

WITH A DOCUMENTARY APPENDIX ON THE ORIGIN OF THE WALDENSES,

BY THE TRANSLATOR.

VOL. I.

LONDON:

BLACKIE & SON, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C.; GLASGOW AND EDINBURGH.

1875.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

³ page 97

CHAP. VII.] SYNOD AT ANGROGNA.

97

Already a rapid change of opinions and relations had taken place all around the Vaudois valleys; many persons who until then had remained indifferent to the gospel, had begun to seek after it. The seigneurs of Miradol, Rivenoble, and Solaro, appeared at the council of faith and liberty. Some of the Reformers of Switzerland also came thither. Farel came mounted on a white horse, with that noble demeanour which belongs to persons of high birth. Sauhier accompanied him, and all thronged around the steps of these illustrious but unassuming men, who came to seal the compact of brotherhood between the successors of the primitive church and the promoters of a new era of evangelization. The Synodal Assembly met at Angrogna, on the 12th of September, 1532, and lasted for six days.

"The Reformers," says one who was present at that meeting, "were greatly rejoiced to see that people, who had ever proved faithful-that Israel of the Alps, to whose charge God had committed for so many centuries the ark of the new covenant-thus eager in his service. And examining with interest," says he, "the manuscript copies of the Old and New Testaments in the vulgar tongue which were amongst us"-it will be perceived that it is a Vaudois who speaks-"correctly copied with the hand at a date beyond all memory, they marvelled at that favour of Heaven which a people so small in numbers had enjoyed, and rendered thanks to the Lord that the Bible had never been taken from them. Then, also, in their great desire that the reading of it might be made profitable to a greater number of persons, they adjured all the other brethren, for the glory of God and the good of Christians, to take measures for circulating it, showing how necessary it was that a general translation should be made of it into French, carefully compared with the original texts, and of which large numbers should be printed." All the Vaudois applauded the design, and, according to the author just quoted, joyfully agreed to the work proposed; 1 so that it is to the existence of these ancient Vaudois manuscripts, the first in which the Bible was ever presented in the vulgar tongue (being what was then called the Romance tongue), that the Christian world was afterwards indebted for the first complete translation of the Bible printed in French.2

This preliminary decision of the Vaudois Synod was not, it is evident, one of the least important. They proceeded then to the

VOL. I.

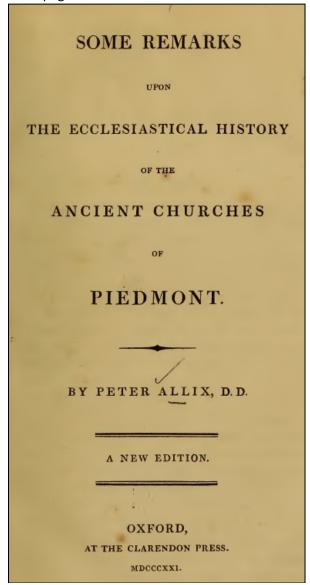

13

¹ These details are derived from the prefatory notes in Olivétan's Bible, fol. 3 (right hand): Apologie du translateur.

² The translation of Guiart des Moulins was prior to this, but it was not made from the original languages.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁴ title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

4 page 4

Remarks upon the

CHAP. and others like him, have built, in order to establish their pretended tradition.

I am not ignorant, that since the thirteenth century, Raynerius reports, that the Churches of the Waldenses maintained, that they were apostolical Churches: but the word apostolical must then be taken in the sense Tertullian gives it in his book of Prescriptions, which I have just now alleged, Nascentes ex matricibus apostolicis deputantur ut soboles apostolicarum Ecclesiarum. Indeed, they are never the less apostolical, because they did not receive the doctrine of the Gospel immediately from the Apostles themselves. It is sufficient to make them deserve the name of apostolical, that they received the doctrine of the Apostles, as a pledge from the hand of their first disciples, which they preserved so very tenderly throughout the following ages.

It is hard to determine whether it was in the first century that these apostolical men planted the Christian religion at Milan, and the diocese thereunto belonging; or whether it were done in the second century; forasmuch as Milan was a considerable city in those primitive times, and we find that the Churches of Lyons and Vienna were already famous in the 'second age, by reason of their martyrs, apostolic men having first of all preached in the capital cities, that the Gospel from thence, as the head spring, might diffuse itself throughout the whole diocese, and so facilitate the propagation thereof. I am very much inclined to believe, either that the same preachers who came from Greece, out of the bosom of the apostolic Church, to plant the faith amongst the Gauls, did also cultivate the diocese of Milan, that belonged to Gallia Cisalpina: or, that the disciples of the Apostles St. Peter and St. Paul, who for their master Jesus Christ had conquered the cities neighbouring to Rome, pursued their victories as far as Milan and its diocese.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵ page 191

ancient Church of Piedmont.

191

book of Bonacursus already quoted. Indeed it seems difficult to believe, that he should have quitted the opinion of his country about the Eucharist, whilst he continued to be of their opinion in that which was the most important and capital article of all.

CHAP. XIX.

175

That the Churches of Italy were not founded by Peter Waldo.

AFTER all that I have before observed concerning the original of the Paterines, of their opposite opinions to those of the Church of Rome, the spreading of their disciples through several countries of Europe, it appears very evident, that the keeping of the truth in the diocese of Italy, and particularly in the diocese of Turin, and in the valleys thereabout, was the work of these Paterines and Subalpini, and that we cannot, with any shew of justice, attribute the same to Peter Waldo. What kind of person this Waldo was, whether a simple laic, or a Manichee, will be of no concern to Churches which subsisted long before him, under a ministry distinguished from that of the Church of Rome. Yet so it has happened by the malice of the Papists, in calumniating these Churches, and the inadvertency of divers Protestant authors, that it is scarce possible fully to satisfy our readers, without shewing what share Waldo had in this reformation, which is ordinarily attributed to him, because it has pleased the Roman party to denominate these Churches from Waldo, as if it was he who had first founded them. Whereas I affirm, that we are wholly beholden for this notion to the Papists, who made it their business to persuade men, that before Waldo began to

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

^{4, 5} pages 192-193

192 Remarks upon the

the Disher of Learn and to make

CHAP. contradict the Bishop of Lyons, and to propound new doctrines, which happened a little before the end of the twelfth century, there was never a Church, either in Italy or elsewhere, that was of his belief. It is for this reason they so much affected to fix the name of Waldenses on those who were of his opinion. This we may see in Bernard, Abbot of Foncaud, as well as in Alanus, who wrote before the 176 end of the twelfth century. The polemical writers, of the past and foregoing ages, have made use of this mistake by a kind of prescription against the novelty of the reformation. And as it ordinarily happens that men suffer themselves to be caught by the sound of words, and by these kind of prejudices, which are set forth with so much affectation, it cannot be denied, but that some Protestants, on this occasion, have fallen into the snare that was set for them.

Wherefore, that I may once for all clear this matter, I say, first, that it is absolutely false, that these Churches were ever founded by Peter Waldo. Let them shew us any author of that time, who asserts, that Peter Waldo ever preached in the diocese of Italy, or that he founded any Church there. Let them produce any sure tradition of that people referring the original of their Churches to Peter Waldo. Those who wrote at that time do not tell us any thing like this, no more than they who lived after. Wherefore we must needs conclude it a pure forgery to look upon Waldo as the person who first brought the reformation into Italy we now find . there. I own, indeed, that by Peter Waldo's taking care to have the holy Scripture translated into the vulgar tongue, the Churches of Italy reaped much benefit from that version, whereof we have to this day some old copies in the library of the University of Cambridge. But this does not in the least infer, that Waldo ought to be considered as the founder of them. I say further, that by the acknowledgment of the enemies themselves of the Waldenses, it is ancient Church of Piedmont.

193

absolutely false, that these Churches are of no older CHAP. standing than Peter Waldo. For this we have the_ confession of Raynerus, an inquisitor, who lived before the middle of the thirteenth century. He ingenuously acknowledgeth, "That the heresy of "those he calls Waudois, or poor people of Lyons, " was of great antiquity. Amongst all sects, saith " he, cap. 4. that either are or have been, there is " none more dangerous to the Church than that of "the Leonists, and that for three reasons: the first " is, because it is the sect that is of the longest " standing of any; for some say it hath been con-"tinued down ever since the time of Pope Sylvester, 177 " and others, ever since that of the Apostles. The " second is, because it is the most general of all " sects; for scarcely is there any country to be "found, where this sect hath not spread itself." Now, it is clearer than the sun, that Raynerus would never have talked at this rate, if he had known, that the first rise of this sect was not above seventy years before he wrote this treatise; as we must acknowledge, if we suppose Waldo to be the founder of it. It is also unquestionably plain, that it was impossible for a sect to spread itself so far and wide in so short a space of time.

The Bishop of Meaux highly chargeth Beza for saying, that the Waldenses, time out of mind, had stiffly opposed the abuses of the Romish Church, and that they held their doctrine from father to son, ever since the year 120, as they had heard and received it from their elders and ancestors. He tells us, that the first disciples of Waldo were content to allege for themselves, that they had separated themselves from the Romish Church, at the time when, under Pope Sylvester, she had accepted of temporal endowments and possessions: a pretension which the Bishop of Meaux calls ridiculous, as well as the former. The reader who has perused my observations will be able to judge whether the Waldenses

0

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁶ pages 194-195

194

Remarks upon the ancient Church of Piedmont.

195

CHAP. did falsely boast of their apostolical antiquity. And as for that which was just now mentioned, that the first disciples of Waldo did distinctly determine the date of their separation from the Romish Church, to the pontificate of Pope Sylvester, I own, with him, that the tradition is not founded upon any sure proof. But however thus much may be said to justify the Waldenses, that as they had no exact knowledge of history, so it would be very unjust to charge this their ignorance upon them as some heinous crime, at a time especially when darkness covered the face of the Romish Church, and wherein the greatest doctors of that proud communion were no better than very children in that point. But if we search this matter to the bottom, who was it that first invented this 178 fable, that the Church was fallen into a prodigious corruption, upon occasion of the temporal endowments bestowed upon her at the time of Pope Sylvester? Is it not notorious, that they were the Popes themselves who caused the false donation of Constantine to be published, which was made before the year 850, to give themselves by this forgery an ancienter title to what they held in Italy, than those late donations of Pepin and Charles the Great, and thereby gave occasion to the dating the corruption of the Church from the time of Constantine? Are the Waldenses so unpardonably guilty for having made this the date of their reformation, since they never pretended to be great critics, and when they saw that the Church of Rome, and the Popes upon

After all, the Bishop of Meaux knows well enough that this donation was made use of in the time of Otho I. to lessen the acknowledgment which was due to him from the Church of Rome, and that the same was inserted by Gratian in his decree, before such a title, made it their only business to subject all the world to themselves, per fasque nefasque, right or wrong, which they pretended had been formerly bestowed upon them by Constantine?

the middle of the twelfth century. Who are they CHAP. that allege this in their disputes? Is it not the Church of Rome and her partisans? If we doubt of it, we need only to read Ecbert's treatise against the Cathari, and we shall be fully convinced of it. He wrote about the year 1160. And since the diocese of Italy was then already separated from the Church of Rome, their posterity being deceived by the fraudulent pretences of the Papists, gave occasion to these honest people to conceit that their ancestors first appeared in the time of Constantine. But pray, does not this pretension of theirs naturally suppose, that a long time before there was in Italy a body of men separated from the Church of Rome, though, for want of skill in history, they were ignorant of the exact time of their separation from the Romish party?

But in the mean time, will some say, sure it is, 179 that Raynerus gives the name of Waldenses to those of Italy against whom he writes. I confess he has done so, when he calls them Leonists: but we are also to take notice, that a more ancient author, whom Raynerus quotes, viz. Tonson the Monk, calls them Paterines, Rayner. cap. 6; which is sufficient to justify their antiquity, according to what we have made out in the foregoing chapter.

I own, that sometimes the Churches of the Valleys have been denominated from Waldo, because he had a great number of disciples, who joined themselves with those who were already separated from the Romish Church; but I utterly deny once more, that ever they were absolutely called by the name of Waldenses, because he was the first founder of their sect. This is that which I undertake to make out beyond all possible contradiction.

1. These believers of the Valleys could not be so called from Valdo of Lyons, because he did not flourish at the soonest till the year 1160, according to Roger Hoveden, whereas the people of the

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷ title page

THE TRANSLATORS REVIVED; Biographical Memoic OF THE AUTHORS OF THE ENGLISH VERSION OF THE HOLY BIBLE. BY A. W. McCLURE. CHARLES SCRIBNER, 1853.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷ page 66

66

INTRODUCTORY NARRATIVE.

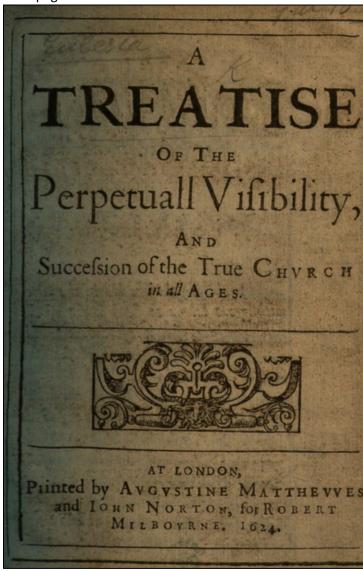

understand both, the original must, in the nature of the case, always be the easier of the two; just as it is easier for a man to walk by the sight of his own eyes, than by the guidance of another man's eyes. It is only maintained, that the common English reader enjoys, by the good providence of God, that which comes the nearest to the privilege of the classical scholar; and has a translation so exact, plain, and trustworthy, that he may follow it with implicit confidence as "a light to his feet and a lamp to his paths."

The King was for appointing fifty-four learned men to this great and good work; but the number actually employed upon it, in the first instance, was forty-seven. Order was also taken, that the bishops, in their several dioceses, should find what men of learning there were, who might be able to assist; and the bishops were to write to them, earnestly charging them, at the king's desire, to send in their suggestions and critical observations, that so, as his Majesty remarks, "our said intended translation may have the help and furtherance of all our principal learned men within this our kingdom."

Seventeen of the translators were to work at Westminster, fifteen at Cambridge, and as many at Oxford. Those who met at each place were

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁸ title page

⁸ page 82-83

Of the Visibilitie of the true Church. 83 82 men. These things being thus discouester: others say, that from the time of eft diuternier uered by men of your owne part; be the Apostles. The second is, because it is Aliqui enim diashamed, you Papists, and blush to cunt qued dumore generall: for there is almost no Land ranerit a tempo spread among your simple and creduinto which this Soci doth not creepe. The re Sylneftri : aliqui a tempere lous Followers, that neuer men did as third, that whereas all other, by the imma-Apoficiornes Seennda quia ef we doe, nor beleeued as wee beleeue, nity of their blasphemies against God, doe generalior, fere before Luther's time; but that all make men abhorre them; this of the Lyoenim'nulla est terra,m qua bac Christendome formerly liked of the nists, having a great shew of godlinesse, (ella non fit.Tertia,quia cum papifficall doctrine and proceedings. because they doe line instly before men, and omines alia fecta immeritate blaf-But because you shall heare one testidoe beleeve all things well of God, and all phemiarum in mony further touching these Albindenmandientithe Articles which are contained in the bus borrerem in genies and Waldenies, how honest Creed, onely the Church of Rome they ducant ; bec scilicer Leonifla. and truely religious they were, I will doe blaspheme and hate : which the multirum magnam habet (pec iem cite what one Rainerius, a man who tude is easie to beleeue. And as Samppietasis, eo quod did hatethem, & was (as it is suppocoram beminifon's Foxes had their faces severall waies, bus wild vinant sed) an Inquisitor against them, repores bene omnia but their tailes tied one to another : so Hede deo credant, ted concerning them, now 300 yeers reticks are divers in Sects amongst themet omnes aniculos qui in Cymbeago, or there about. Thus then, among felues, but in the impugning of the Church lo continentur: much other matter, he faith of them: olummodo Ro they are vnited. There can hardly bee manam Ecclesi-Rainerius con-There were many Sects of Hereticks long am blafphemant found a more honourable testimony tra VValdenfes et clerum &c. agoe: among all which SeEts that are or Cap.4 . out of the mouth or penne of a bitter Inter, onenes be were, there is not one more pernicious to fellas que ad-& bloudy Aduersary as he was, who buc funi,vel fue. the Church of God, then that of the poore r untson eft ner. wrote this & much more concerning miciolier Ecclemen of Lyons, for three causes. First, bethose good servants of God. We shall for gram Leomilarum, Et hoc cause it is of longer continuance : some say. not neede to ascend any higher, since tribus de camps Prima ili guia that it bath endured from the time of Sylhee giveth witnes of the antiquity of the

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹ page 77

of the true Church.	77
Church of Rome, and in his writing-	- spake liberally of it. And it did bite deepe, when hee disputed, that the Pope might bee taken away fafely from the Church, and yet no danger	clefia.
follow of it. But let vs now gee a little higher.	i '
I mentioned before how Cochlene laith, that Ichn Hus took his doctrine from the Wickleinsts and the Dulci-nists. Heare, I pray you, whathe faithe Hus did committe foirituall formicution with many eliens; with the Wicklewifts, the Dulcinists, with the Leonists, the Wal-denfes, the Allingenfes, and other of thet fort, enemies of the Chutchiof Rather	a
These Leonists or poore, me of Lyons, and Waldenses, and Albingenses, were the same men, but diversly, on divers occasios, tearmed by the Roman Synagogue which hated them. Their opini on then did Hus maintain. Eners Syluius doth also wisnesse the same, affir-	" ming, that the Hussites did embrace the pinions of the waldenses. There you may see, that their doctrine was a	gle
L 3 gainst	¥ :

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰ title page

THE HISTORY

OF

PROTESTANTISM.

BY THE

REV. J. A. WYLIE, LL.D.,

Author of " The Papacy," " Daybreak in Spain," &c.

ILLUSTRATED.

"Protestantism, the sacred cause of God's Light and Truth against the Devil's Falsity and Darkness."—Carlyla.

VOLUME I.

CASSELL PETTER & GALPIN:

LONDON, PARIS & NEW YORK.

110. 6. 211

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." - John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." - Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰ page 453

THE AGENCY OF THE PRINTING-PRESS IN ZWINGLE'S WORK.

It had remained a dead letter hitherto, but now laden, and lent a greater luxuriance to its boughs Weiss, a Protestant pastor in the neighbourhood of Baden. The monks, who saw that the Diet had taken its side in the quarrel between Rome and the Gospel, laid saide their timidity, and assuming the aggressive, strove by clamour and threats to excite the authorities to persecution.

The Reformer of Zurich did not suffer himself to be intimidated by the storm that was evidently brewing. He saw in it an internation of the Divine will that he should not only display the banner of truth more openly than ever in the pulpit of Zurich, but that he should wave it in the sight of the whole Confederacy. In the June following, he summoned a meeting of the friends of the Gospel at Einsiedeln. This summons was numerously responded to. Zwingle submitted two petitions to the assembly, to be signed by its members, one addressed to the Diet, and the other to the Bishop of the diocese. The petitions, which were in substance identical, prayed "that the preaching of the Gospel might not be forbidden, and that it might be permitted to the priests to marry." A summary of the Reformed faith accompanied these petitions, that the members of the Diet might know what it was they were asked to protect,1 and an appeal was made to their patriotism, whether the diffusion of doctrines so wholesome, drawn from their original fountains in the Sacred Scriptures, would not tend to abolish the many evils under which their country confessedly groaned, and at once purify its private morals, and reinvigorate and restore its public

These petitions were received and no further cared for by those to whom they were presented. Nevertheless, their influence was great with the lower orders of the clergy, and the common people. The manifesto that accompanied them laid bare the corruption which had taken place in the national religion, and the causes at work in the deterioration of the national spirit, and became a banner round which the friends of Gospel truth, and the champions of the rights of conscience, leagued themselves. Thus banded together, they were abler to withstand their enemies. The cause grew and waxed strong by the efforts it made to overcome the obstacles it encountered. Its enemies became its friends. The storms that warred around the tree Zwingle had planted, instead of overturning it, cleared away the mephitic vapours with which the air around it was the Diet resolved to put it in force, and made a Its branches spread wider and yet wider around, beginning by apprehending and imprisoning Urban and its fibres going still deeper into the soil, it firmly rooted itself in the land of the Swiss.

¹ Ruchat, tom. i., p. 141. Gerdesius, tom. i., pp. 270-277.

The friends of the Reformation in Germany were greatly encouraged and emboldened by what was now taking place in Switzerland. If Luther had suddenly and mysteriously vanished, Zwingle's voice had broken the silence which had followed the disappearance of the former. If the movement stood still for the time on the German plains, it was progressing on the mountains of Switzerland. The hopes of the Protestants lived anew. The friends of truth everywhere could not but mark the hand of God in raising up Zwingle when Luther had been withdrawn, and saw in it an indication of the Divine purpose, to advance the cause of Protestantism, although emperors and Diets were "taking counsel together" against it. The persecuted in the surrounding countries, turning their eyes to Switzerland, sought under the freer forms and more tolerant spirit of its government that protection which they were denied under their own. Thus from one day to another the friends of the movement multiplied in Helvetia.

The printing-press was a powerful auxiliary to the living agency at work in Switzerland. Zurich and Basle were the first of the Swiss towns to possess this instrumentality. There had been, it is true, a printing-press in Basle ever since the establishment of its University, in 1460, by Pope Pius II.; but Zurich had no printing-press till 1519, when Christopher Froschauer, from Bavaria, established one. Arriving in Zurich, Froschauer purchased the right of citizenship, and made the city of his adoption famous by the books he issued from his press. He became in this regard the right hand of Zwingle, to whom he afforded all the facilities in his power for printing and publishing his works. Froschauer thus did great service to the movement. The third city of Switzerland to possess a printing-press was Geneva. A German named Koln, in 1523, printed there, in the Gothic character, the Constitutions of the Symod of the Diocese of Lausanne, by order of the bishop, Sebastien de Mont-Faulcon. The fourth city of the Swiss which could boast a printing establishment was Neufchâtel. There lived Pierre de Wingle, commonly called Pirot Picard, who printed in 1535 the Bible in French, translated by Robert Olivetan, the cousin of Calvin. This Bible formed a large folio, and was in the Gothic character.2

² Ruchat, tom. i., pp. 150, 151.

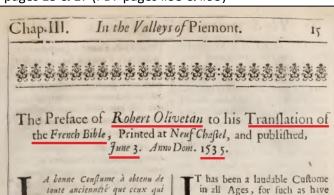

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

11 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

11 pages 15 & 17 (PDF pages #93 & #95)

mettent en avant quelque livre en publique, (soit qu'ils l'ayent compilé de leur propre industrie & invention, ou qu'ils l'ayent translaté d'une langue en autre) le viennent à desdier & presenter à quelque Prince, Roy, Empereur, on Monarche, on s'il y a quelque Majeste plus Souveraine: A celle fin & comme ils scavent bien dire) que l'oeuure se tronue plus franchement, & hardiment entre les mains des hommes comme ayant fauf-conduit, & eftant mis en la fauvegarde du Prince, auquel il eft offert , & dedie : Et ce voyons nous estre fait & pra-Etiqué de jour en jour. Laquelle maniere de faire, n'est point totallement maintenue sans cause: Car avec ce que on est invité & affriande à ce par l' expectation d' un Royal remerciement, (c'est à dire ample & liberal recompensement) aucuns ont bien telle prudence & efgard, que leurs inventions ne seroyent pas bien receives du peuple, si elles ne portoyent la liviée de quelque Tres Illustre, Tres Excellent, Tres Haut, Tres Puiffant, Tres Manifique, Tres Redoute, Tres Victorieux, Tres Sacré, Beatiffime & Sanctiffime Nom.

Parquoy apres avoir eu le tout bien consideré & veu courir & trotter tous les antres escrivains & translateurs, l'un deçà l'autre delà, l'unà son Mecenas, in all Ages, for fuch as have caused Books to be publisht, (whether they have been the true Authours thereof, or the Translators onely) to dedicate and present the fame to fome Prince, King, Emperour, or Monarque, or to a more fupreme Power, if there were any fuch, to the end (as they themselves freely confess) that their Work might appear with the more boldness and confidence before men, having as it were a fafe conduct, and being under the protection of that Prince, to whom it is dedicated. And this we fee daily practifed, and indeed not altogether without ground : For befides that the expectation of fome Royal thanks, (that is to fay, of a noble and Princely Reward) does allure and invite men thereunto: There are those who do verily believe, that their Inventions would not finde acceptance with the People, unless they were adorned with the Livery of some most Illustrious , Excellent , High , Mighty, Magnificent, Dreadfull, Invincible, Sacred, Bleffed, and most Holy Name.

Therefore having throughly confidered these things, and observed how all other Authoms and Translators have their several addresses, the one to his most magnificent Mecanas, Chap. III. In the Valleys of Piemont.

17

à qui s'addresse ce precieux thresor (du quel tu en pourrois dire Rinia comme les enfans d'Ifrael, n'esperant toutes fois que jamais il te soit en fascherie) & ce de par un certain panure peuple le tien amy & frere en Jesus Christ: Lequel, depuis que jadis il en fat doue & enrichy par les Apostres ou Ambassadeurs de Christ en a tousiours eu l'entiere jouissance & fruition. Et maintenant Icelay te voulant faire feste de ce que tant tu defire & fouhaite : m' à donné cette charge & commission de tirer & desployer iceluy thresor hors des armaires & coffres Ebraicques & Grecz, pour (apres l' avoir entasse & empacqueté en bougettes Francoiles, le plus convenablement que je pourroye, selon l'addresse & le don que Dieu ma donné) en faire un present à toy à pauure Eglise, à qui rien on ne presente. Et certes je ne voyoie raison aucune pourquoy il se deust donner à autre qu'à toy, Car que voudroit on donner à ceux qui ont tout, & auxquels tout de tous se donne? Or cecy qui vaut bien autant & plus que le rout des chevances & richesses mondaines, est pour toy pauurette Eglise, à qui (las) on ofte plustost qu' on ne donne, & qui es tellement desfaisse de tous biens , qu'es tant mince, affadie , & amagrie, qu' il ne te reste que la parole. Urayement il ne te reste que la parole, la parole (di je) de verité & de vie, la parole de Dieu, laquelle demeure Eternellement. Par laquelle tu as esté crée & engendrée. Ainsy tun as que les biens de la naissance & genera-tion: car tu es nue, & despourveile de toutes autres richesses, des quelles le monde estant sarde & reparé le glorisse tant en soy mesme. Cest offre donc t'estoit proprement deue (qui ne t'enst alone to whom I present this precious Treasure (whereof thou mayst say as the Children of Ifrael, yet hoping that it shall never create thee any trouble) in the name of a certain poor People thy Friends and Brethren in Jefus Chrift, who ever fince they were bleffed and enriched therewith by the Apostles and Ambas adours of Christ, have still enjoyed and possessed the same : and being now willing to gratifie thee with what thou defireft fo earneftly, they have given me a Commission to draw this precious Treafure out of the Hebrew and Greek Cabinets, and having wrapt up the fame in a French Mantle, to the best of my skill, and according to that talent which the Lord hath given me, forthwith to prefent thee with it (O poor Church) on whom no man bestows any thing. And indeed I fee no reafon why it should be presented to any but thy felf, For what can be given to those that have all things, and to whom every one gives what he hathe As for this, which is of as great, yea of much greater value than all worldly wealth or riches, I say it is for thee, o poor Church, whose substance they would much fooner diminish than increase. To thee, I say, who art so unprovided of all things', who art fo thin and lean, and out of heart, and haft nothing left thee but the voice onely, no I fay, Thou haft nothing left thee but voice and words (yet) the Word of Truth and Life, The Word of God, which endureth for ever, and whereby thou haft been created and begotten: and so thou hast onely the Goods which are thine by Birth-right and Inheritance, being unprovided of all other Riches, wherewith the Men of the World are painted and adorned, and wherein they so much glory. This therefore was properly due to thee, (to do thee

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

12 title page

JANUARY 1, 2002

DEFENDING THE KING JAMES BIBLE A FOURFOLD SUPERIORITY

GOD'S WORD KEPT INTACT IN ENGLISH

By Pastor D. A. Waite, Th.D., Ph.D.
Director, THE BIBLE FOR TODAY, INCORPORATED
900 Park Avenue, Collingswood, New Jersey 08108
Phone: 856-854-4452; FAX: 856-854-2464; Orders: 1-800-JOHN 10:9
E-Mail: BFT@BibleForToday.org; Credit Card Orders Welcomed
Web Page: www.BibleForToday.org

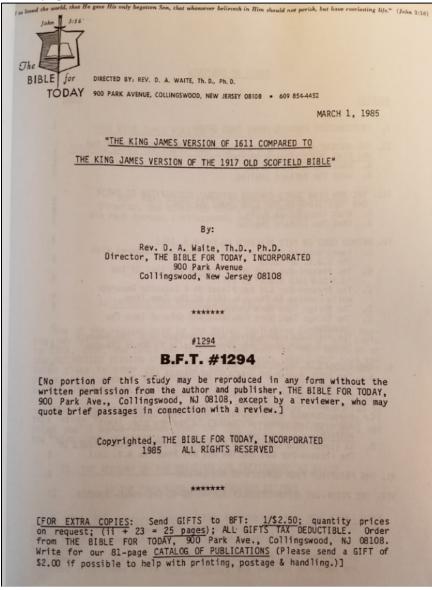

Published and Copyrighted 1992, 1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, 1998, 1999, 2002, by THE BIBLE FOR TODAY, INCORPORATED ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

[No portion of this material may be reproduced in any form without written permission from the author and publisher, THE BIBLE FOR TODAY, 900 Park Avenue, Collingswood, New Jersey 08108, except by a reviewer, who may quote brief passages in connection with a review.]

B.F.T. #1594-P

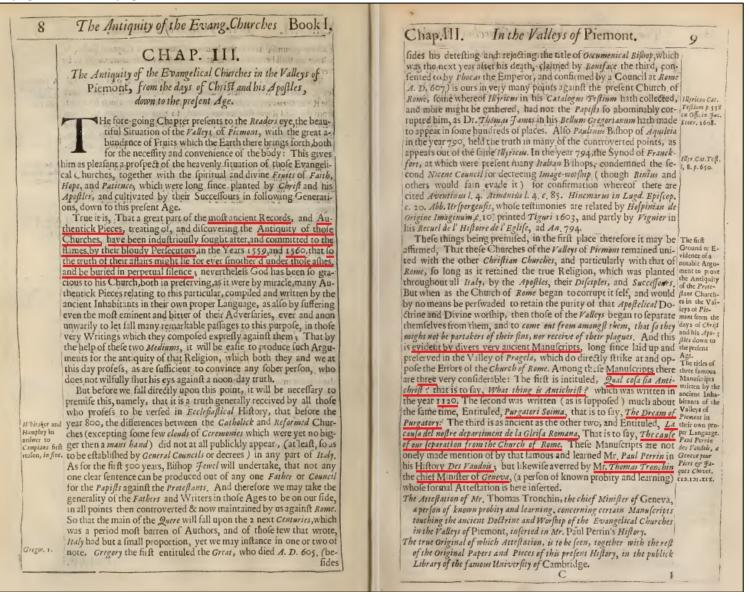

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

13 title page

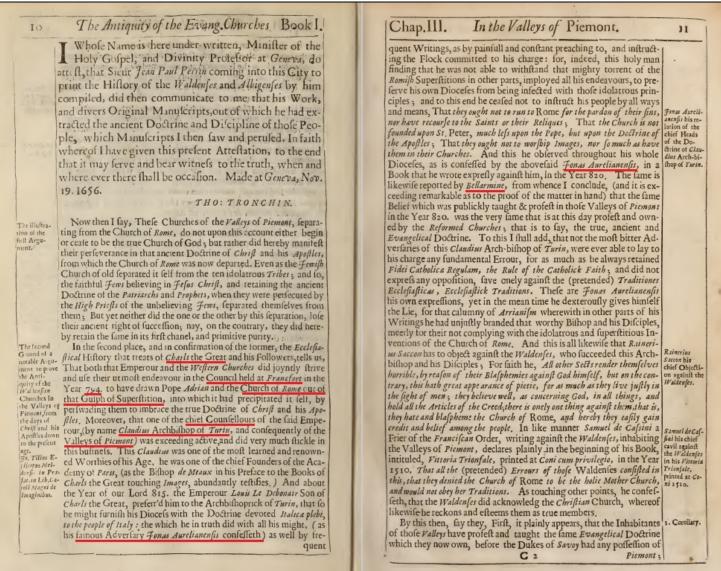

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

14 pages 8 & 9 (PDF pages #86 & #87)

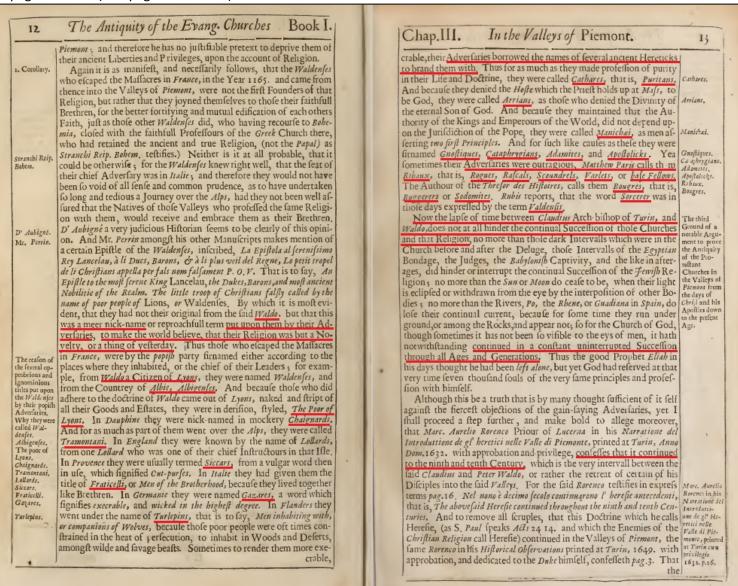

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

15 pages 10 & 11 (PDF pages #88 & #89)

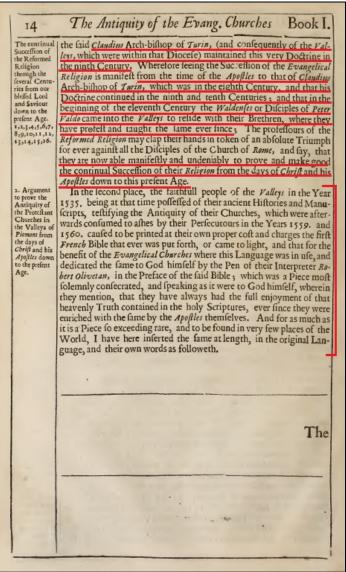

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

16 pages 12 & 13 (PDF pages #90 & #91)

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁷ page 14 (PDF page #92)

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

18 title page

THE ISRAEL OF THE ALPS.

A COMPLETE

HISTORY OF THE WALDENSES

AND THEIR COLONIES;

PREPARED IN GREAT PART FROM UNPUBLISHED DOCUMENTS.

BY ALEXIS MUSTON, D.D.,

PASTOR OF THE PROTESTANT CHURCH AT BOURDEAUX, DRÔME, FRANCE.

TRANSLATED

BY THE REV. JOHN MONTGOMERY, A.M.

WITH A DOCUMENTARY APPENDIX ON THE ORIGIN OF THE WALDENSES,

BY THE TRANSLATOR.

VOL. II.

LONDON:

BLACKIE & SON, PATERNOSTER BUILDINGS, E.C.; GLASGOW AND EDINBURGH.

1875.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." - John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." - Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

18 page 510

510 THE ISRAEL OF THE ALPS. [APPENDIX.

"one who, of all that were contemporary, or nearly contemporary, with Valdo, has recorded, with the greatest minuteness and precision, everything relative to the time, the place, and other circumstances, of the appearance of this sect."1 This important witness is Stephen of Belleville, or of Borbone,2 who certainly gives a sufficiently minute and circumstantial account of the commencement of Valdo's evangelistic labours, and declares him to have been the first author of the heresy of the Vaudois ("Valdenses autem dicti sunt à primo hujus hæresis auctore, qui nominatus fuit Waldensis"). The passage quoted from this author, M. Charvaz thinks, leaves nothing to be desired, the evidence which it contains is so conclusive as to the origin of the Vaudois heresy. Father Stephen, however, was not quite a contemporary of Valdo; the date assigned by M. Charvaz, for his having already acquired a great reputation by the exercise of his ministry at Lyons, is 1223, fully thirty years after the events which he relates; and whilst allowance ought certainly to be made for the influence on his mind and narrative of the prejudices of his class, it seems worthy of notice, that he calls the Lyonese reformer not Valdo, but Waldensis, or Valdensis, which seems an appellative, and as such needs to be accounted for; and also that he speaks of Valdo's followers, the Poor Men of Lyons, as having joined with other heretics of Provence and Lombardy, whose errors they adopted and propagated. ("Postea in Provinciæ terrå et Lombardiæ cum aliis hæreticis se admiscentes, et errorem corum bibentes et serentes.") M. Charvaz thinks himself entitled to ridicule M. Muston for assuming, as he says (in his first work), that these pre-existing heretics, of Provence and Lombardy, were the Vaudois of Piedmont. But the proof that the Vaudois doctrines existed in Lombardy and Piedmont before Valdo's time, is as complete as M. Charvaz's own witness can make it.

His next witness, whom he thinks as good as those already adduced, is Father Moneta, "a celebrated professor of philosophy, in the university of Bologna,"3 to whose work he assigns the date 1244, and who speaks of the Vaudois heresy having originated with Valdo about eighty years before-("Non sunt plures quam oetoginta anni, vel si plures aut pauciores, parum plures vel pauciores existunt "). This statement Moneta makes for the purpose of arguing that the Vaudois cannot be the church of God -("Ergo non sunt successores Ecclesia primitiva; ergo non sunt Ecclesia Dei"). "But if the Vaudois assert that their way existed before Valdo, let them prove it by some evidence," says Father Moneta, "which," he adds, "they can by no means do." Father Moneta may not be a very good witness to prove that the Vandois originated from Valdo, although, certainly, a very willing one; but he is not a bad witness to prove that in his day already the Vaudois represented themselves as having existed before Valdo. so that this is not, as is sometimes alleged by Popish writers, a novel claim of comparatively recent times.

M. Charvaz's next witness is Reynerus Saccho, who, having been for some time a Vaudois minister, became a Popish priest and inquisitor of the province of Lombardy. These circumstances, M. Charvaz thinks, entitle him to the highest possible credit; and a passage in which he declares the Leonists, or Poor Men of Lyons, to have originated from Valdo, is vauntingly adduced as decisive; and because it is so decisive concerning the origin of the Vaudois, the Vaudois authors, M. Charvaz says, have not ventured to quote it! It is not necessary to follow him into any question concerning the identity of the Vaudois and the Poor Men of Lyons. Admitting all that he asserts on this point, the testi-

² See p. 414 of this volume.

⁴ See Chareaz, pp. 49-52, and Appendix, p. 457.

⁵ See p. 412 of this volume.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁹ page 513

No. IV.] ORIGIN OF THE VAUDOIS.

513

A large part of his work is devoted to an examination of the proofs which have been adduced to show that the Vaudois existed before the days of Valdo. He expresses himself in very strong terms against the Vaudois historians for resting too much upon certain passages which they quote from Revnerus Saccho and from Polichdorf, and dishonestly keeping out of view the great number of other writers, some of whom are more ancient than these, who testify expressly against this pretended antiquity. We have seen already who these other writers are, and what their testimony is. We may take for granted that M. Charvaz has not failed to supply this defect of the Vaudois historians. The passage of Reynerus, quoted by Léger and other authors as supporting the Vaudois claim of antiquity, causes him no little trouble. No sect is more pernicious, Reynerus says, than that of the Leonists, and this for three reasons, first, because it is of longer endurance, some saying that it has endured from the time of Sylvester, and some, that it has endured from the time of the apostles; secondly, because it is more general, there being almost no country in which it does not exist. ("Inter omnes has sectas, quæ nunc sunt, vel fuerunt, non est perniciosior Ecclesiæ quam Leonistarum. Et hoc tribus de causis. Prima est quia est diuturnior. Aliqui enim dicunt quod duraverit a tempore Sylvestri; aliqui a tempore Apostolorum. Secunda quia est generalior. Fere enim nulla est terra in qua hæc secta non sit. Tertia," &c.1) In his next chapter, Reynerus gives an account of the origin of the Leonists, deriving them from Valdo of Lyons, and which we have already seen that M. Charvaz adduces in support of his view of the origin of the Vaudois. But it is in vain that he alleges that chapter to have been intended by Reynerus as a refutation of the higher antiquity ascribed by some to the Leonists, or claimed by themselves. The passage bears no such shape; and Reynerus remains a witness that in his day the claim was well known, which Popish writers would now fain represent as a novelty of modern times. And, moreover, it may fairly be taken for granted, that if Reynerus, who wrote little more than half a century after the days of Valdo, had regarded the claim to antiquity as utterly unfounded, he would not have failed to have exclaimed against those who had the audacity to advance it. The writers of his class and time do not generally err on the side of excessive gentleness. Nor does M. Charvaz himself, notwithstanding his pretensions in that way, when he calls Léger a liar, for asserting, as on the authority of Polichdorf, the prevalence of an opinion amongst the Vaudois of his time, that they had existed, at least, from the beginning of the sixth century. The words of Polichdorf have been already quoted, and the reader may judge for himself as to their import. It may be here mentioned, once for all, that M. Charvaz perpetually reiterates charges of dishonesty against the Vaudois authors, and makes it an argument against their religion, that it was found to have need of such support!

It is not necessary, for our present purpose, to follow this author very closely in the part of his work to which we have now come, nor even to inquire whether he is or is not successful in setting aside some of the arguments adduced by Vaudois authors. Let us pass on to his examination of the Vaudois documents. He begins by saying that Léger published many in his History, but that the Vaudois writers of the present day have prudently reduced the number to two—the Book of Antichrist and the Noble Lesson. The truth of this statement may be, in some measure, tested by reference to Part II. of the Bibliography in the present volume. As to the BOOK OF ANTICHRIST, M. Charvaz refuses to admit that it can be a production of the twelfth contury, because of Quoted by M. Charvaz, in Appendix, p. 474.

Vol., II.

² See pp. 443, 444, of this volume. 125

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²⁰ page 531

No. IV.] ORIGIN OF THE VAUDOIS. 531

story of Mapes to a record in the Ursberg Chronicle, of occurrences at a council in Rome in 1210, he concludes that there must be an error in the date! Mapes, indeed, says very expressly, "Vidimus in concilio Romano sub Alexandro Papa III. celebrato," which fixes the date unquestionably as 1179, but Dieckhoff thinks it quite likely that the words "sub Alexandro Pana III, celebrato" were interpolated by some copyist in subsequent times, who was not himself well-informed as to dates, and that the name of Innocent III. should have appeared instead of Alexander III.1 But we may reject both this arbitrary conjecture and Hahn's notion, that the "heretics" of 1179 were not Vaudois, and easily suppose proceedings of the same kind to have taken place at the Roman councils in 1179 and 1210, unless we are constrained by the necessity of deriving the Vaudois from Valdo. The next "Catholic" author whose testimony Dieckhoff adduces as important is Alanus de Insulis, and he spends some closely-printed pages in distinguishing him from other persons of the same name, and determining the date of his testimony, which he thinks cannot be after 1215, whilst he thinks it cannot be long before 1200. But he finds it necessary again to have recourse to the convenient theory of interpolations; for in the work of Alanus against heretics, mention is made of an excommunication of Waldenses by the Lateran council, which Lateran council cannot have been before 1215,2 yet there is reason to think (according to Dieckhoff) that the genuine Alanus de Insulis died in 1202, so that there is really no help for it but to apply the sharp critical knife and cut out all that relates to the Lateran council as an interpolation ("ein späterer, unechter Zusatz"), for which excision, however, many additional good reasons are immediately presented.3 The other "Catholic" testimonies upon which the greatest dependence is placed, are those, already familiar to us, of Bernard of Fontcaude, Eberard of Bethune, Peter of Vaux-Cernay, and Stephen

In what remains of Dieckhoff's volume, are many things both interesting and important, of which it is impossible here to present a complete view, and which have reference more to the state of the Vaudois and their history during the period between Valdo and Luther, than to the question of their origin or of their existence anterior to Valdo. Yet I venture to express the opinion, that even in respect to this question, it is not unimportant to notice the existence, in the earlier part of the twelfth century, of the Poor Men of Lombardy, as a religious denomination, distinguished from the Poor Men of Lyons, although nearly allied, the latter being described by Stephen de Borbone as the true Waldenses-" qui dicuntur Waldenses, a suo heresiarcho." The Poor Men of Lombardy are regarded by Dieckhoff as followers of Valdo, who, having crossed the Alps amidst the distresses arising from the Albigensian war, had mingled more or less with other sects in Italy.4 His general view of the state of matters before and after that period, is, that there were many similar religious movements, of which that of Valdo and his followers was only one-a view, the perfect correctness of which is by no means inconsistent with the existence of the Vaudois in the valleys of the Alps for centuries before the birth of Valdo.5

P. 344.
 The third was in 1170, the fourth in 1215.
 P. 353.
 Pp. 150-164.

^{5 &}quot;Die waldensische Sekte gehört als einzelnes Glied einer weit über sie hinausgreifenden Relbe von Entwickelungen an, die alle durch ein Gemeinsames des Strebens und der Aufassung der zur Geltung zu bringenden christlichen Frömunigket beherrscht erscheinen, Hierin ist es begründet, wenn die Waldenser sehon in den früheren Bestrebungen eines Petrus von Bruis und eines Heinrich in der ersten Hälfte des 12. Jahrhunderts die ihrigen befahen wollen."—P. 166.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²¹ page 96

96 THE ISRAEL OF THE ALPS.

PART FIRST.

As they returned with their treasure, and passed through Dijon, on their way home to Dauphiny, their pious conversation revealed them to be Lutherans. This was crime enough in that inhospitable city.

France, however, had preceded Germany and Switzerland in a reforming movement, which was evidently destined either to revive or to destroy the Catholic Church. Nowhere had the imperious ambition of Popery been more energetically repressed than by the French nation. The sister of the reigning monarch, Margaret of Valois, Duchess of Alençon, had become a convert to the gospel under the learned and unpretending instructions of a professor of the Sorbonne, and a bishop of Meaux. But in France, also, a reaction displayed itself so much the more strongly, as the avowal of Bible doctrines had been made with greater reserve.

The Vaudois delegates, returning from Strasburg to the valleys, were arrested, as we have seen, at Dijon. The particulars of this event are not known, but the issue was that George Morel succeeded in making his escape, with the precious packet of letters and religious instructions which he bore to his compatriots; but, as if no other price than that of a martyrdom would have been proportionate to their worth, Peter Masson sealed them with his blood, dying on the 10th of September, 1530, with the calmness of a Christian who feels that he is redeemed.

The glorious news had already resounded amongst these mountains that Popery was falling to ruins, and that the everlasting gospel was rising again as a sun of life to shine upon a renovated world. In 1526, a pastor of Angrogna, named Gonin, had been in Germany, and had brought back the publications of Luther.

Several conferences were held, to discuss the explanations given by the Reformers. It was necessary that their minds should be brought to harmony, even as their hearts were harmonious already. Finally a synod was held in the commune of Angrogna, to which representatives of all the Vaudois parishes repaired, not only from the valleys, but also from Calabria, Saluces, Provence, and Dauphiny. This solemn assembly was held in the open air, at the hamlet of Chanforans, in presence of all the people. It met on one of those shady pieces of level ground situated half-way up the mountains, in a verdant amphitheatre, shut in like an arena for giants by the distant slopes of the Pra du Tour, then crowned with sparkling snows.

- 1 Lefebvre and Brissonnet.
- ² En presencia de tuti li ministri et eciam Dio del populo. (MS. of George Morel, Dublin, C, V, No. 18.)

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²² page 101

CHAP. VII] OLIVÉTAN'S BIBLE.

101

parle. The name of the prophet quoted is written Isaiah, which recalls, better than the modern French orthography [Esaïe], the Hebrew pronunciation. The date of this publication is noted at the end of the volume, in these terms: acheve d'imprimer en la ville et conté de Neufchastel, par Pierre de Wingle, dict Pirot, l'an M.D.XXXV., le iiijsme jour de Juing. This Bible cost the Vaudois 1500 golden crowns; and it would be surprising that a people so few in number should be able to make such very considerable sacrifices, if we did not know that faith makes the greatest works possible, and that the feeblest can do all things when Christ strengthens them.

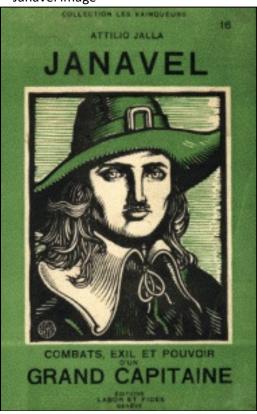

This undertaking, originated through the influence of Farel, himself a Frenchman, was also prosecuted with a special regard to the Reformed Church of France. The Vaudois, who address that church as a sister, say to her in the preface-calling to remembrance the refuge which the disciples of Valdo had sought amongst them-"The poor people who make you this present were driven forth and banished from your company more than three centuries ago; they are the true people of patience, who, in faith, and hope, and charity, have silently vanguished all the assaults and efforts which their enemies have been able to make against them." "They are the people of joyous affection and of constant courage," replied the churches of France by one of their synods; "their name is the little flock; their kingdom is not of this world; their motto is piety and contentment; they are a church which has endured conflicts, and is embrowned and sun-scorched without, but fair and of goodly appearance within; whose footsteps the greater part amongst us have failed to follow; for religious zeal exists only in the monuments of history, and in the ashes of our fathers, which are still warm with their ardour for the propagation of the gospel." These admirable sentences, so true at that period, but much more true in our days, are extracted from a little work composed by order of the Synod of Briançon, held from the 25th to the 30th of June, 1620. It is entitled, A Brief Account of the Persecutions which have in these days befallen the churches of the Marquisate of Saluces.3

These churches likewise belonged to the great Vaudois family; and of them we shall presently come to treat. But before bringing this chapter to a close, I must still speak of the Vaudois minister of the parish within which was held the Synod of 1532, the Barba

- ¹ Attend, O heavens, and give ear, O earth, for the Lord hath spoken.
- ² The printing was completed in the city and county of Neufchatel, by Peter de Wingle, called Pirot, in the year 1535, on the 4th day of June.
- ³ Brief discours des persecutions advenues en ce temps aux Eglises du marquisat de Saluces.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²³ Janavel image

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²⁴ title page

A HISTORY OF THE VAUDOIS CHURCH FROM ITS ORIGIN, AND OF THE VAUDOIS OF PIEDMONT TO THE PRESENT DAY. ANTOINE MONASTIER, FORMERLY PASTOR IN THE CANTON DE VAUD, AND A NATIVE OF THE VAUDOIS VALLEYS OF PIEDMONT. Translated from the French. A NEW EDITION. LONDON: THE RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY, 56, PATERNOSTER ROW; 65, ST. PAUL'S CHURCHYARD; AND 164, PICCADILLY; AND THE BOOKSELLERS. MDCCCLIX.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²⁴ page 5

ARIANISM PELAGIANISM.

5

vigorous, and fruitful plants which covered the soil of the church, and on the other, by the little time and space which incessant persecutions allowed to perverse or ambitious spirits for the formation and propagation of their opinions.

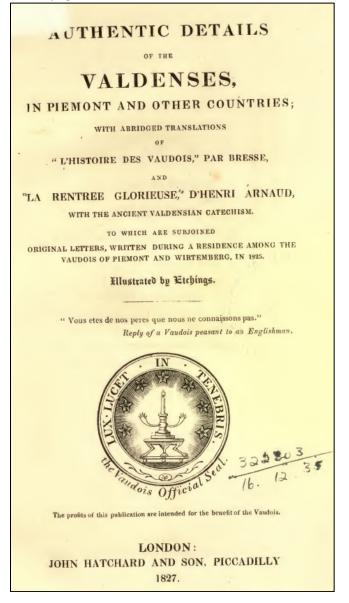

But no sooner was a season of external peace granted to the church, along with numerous temporal advantages, than the Christian life, sound doctrine, and divine worship were deteriorated. Arius, a presbyter of Alexandria, about the year 318 or 321, put forth a system of doctrine which goes to shake the very foundations of the gospel, by denying the divinity of Christ, and regarding him only as the first and most excellent of created beings. From its first rise, this heresy, which reduces the faith of the gospel to a very inconsiderable thing, and sets the mind of man at ease, was welcomed by many with enthusiasm. Condemned at the council of Nice (A.D. 325), victorious under Constantius, combated afresh and with success by those who remained faithful to the apostolic doctrine, it nevertheless saw its principles adopted by numerous sections of the church. Professed in succession by the Visigoths, Vandals, Suevians, and Burgundians, it invaded Italy, Greece, Gaul, Spain, and Africa.

Besides many other errors, which cannot be here enumerated, there arose one, in the year 412, of which the effects were scarcely less deplorable than those of Arianism. This was the doctrine of Pelagius, a British monk, on free will, which ascribed to every man the liberty [power] of determining himself for good, as easily as for evil, and saw in the dominion of sin nothing more than a habit from which the will could release itself. This doctrine, by attributing too much power to man, and denying his inability to effect his own salvation, nullified, or at least greatly impaired, the doctrine of redemption by Jesus Christ, disowned regeneration, and presented sanctification in a false light. This system, a little modified, and with something more of a Christian colouring, obtained many partisans, in spite of the powerful opposition of Augustin, bishop of Hippo; and the merit of good works, which it favoured, insensibly was received into the belief of a great many churches, especially in the east and in France.

Endless disputes, and deplorable conflicts, in the majority

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²⁵ title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²⁵ page 2

2 INTRODUCTION.

alive in the breasts of the people of this favoured isle that charitable zeal, which has again manifested itself, and is of such vital importance to the political and religious welfare of our noble though impoverished protestant brethren.

As the Valdenses most evidently are a part of the dispersed flock of the original Church of Christ, it becomes a matter of the highest interest to trace out their history from the earliest periods, and to observe how sedulously under the severest persecutions they have not only upheld their faith in its own purity and truth, but how gloriously they have continued to resist the growing corruptions of the Romish faith.

Scattered over the face of the earth, we find almost every where these primitive Christians under the various denominations given to them of Cathari, or "the Pure," Paulicians, Petrobusians, Puritans, Leonists, Lollards, Henricians, Josephists, Patarines, Fraticelli, Insabati, Piphles, Toulousians, Albigenses, Lombardists, Bulgarians, Bohemian brethren, Barbets, Walloons, &c.

We not only find many colonies of these people in the eastern and western parts of Europe, but even in Africa and America, whither they emigrated to escape from oppression and massacre.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²⁶ page 4

4 INTRODUCTION.

stored. It is even probable that this separated flock of true worshippers are to be the means, under heavenly guidance, of not only preserving, but also diffusing, the light of the gospel and its healing beams over the most remote parts of the earth.

A.D.

- 251 It would appear that the title of Cathari, or "the Pure," was first given to the followers of Novation, a Romish pastor, who set the example of resisting the early corruptions of the Papal dominion, and that Puritan churches existed in Italy upwards of 200 years.
- Nine Bishops rejected the communion of the Pope, as heretical, and this schism, we are told by another author, began even in the year 553. On the death of Pope Gregory, Boniface III. styled himself "universal Bishop," and the worship of images became general; but long before this period, in the fourth century, Socrates the historian speaks of the Novations having churches at Constantinople, Nice, Nicomedia, and Coticæus in Phrygia, &c. as well as a church at Carthage, the doctrines and discipline of which, we find that Dionysius, Bishop of Alexandria, and Fabius, Bishop of Antioch, approved of.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²⁷ page 5

INTRODUCTION.

5

A.D.

- Valdenses have derived their name from Petro Valdo, but Reinerius Sacco, an inquisitor who lived 80 years after Valdo of Lyons, admits that they flourished 500 years before the time of this celebrated reformer, i. e. about the year 660. Some of these Valdenses, like the Novations, we find called Puritans, or Cathari; when Paulinus, Bishop of Aquilæia, and other Italian Bishops, condemned the decrees of the second Council of Nice, which had confirmed image
- 787 cil of Nice, which had confirmed image worship.
- Vallies of Piedmont inhabited by the Vallies of Piedmont inhabited by the Valdenses,) was zealous against this idolatrous practice, and bears witness that the gospel was preserved amongst these mountaineers in its native purity and glorious light. Genebrand and Rorenco (Roman Catholic writers) have owned that the Patarines* and inhabitants ^{*} Patarines, so called from Pataria, a place near Milan, where those Vaudois who took part with the Bishop of Milan against the Roman Pontiff, Nicholas II., held communion together. See the Sermon of Archbishop Wake, preached for the relief of the Vaudois, A.D. 1669, at St. James's Westminster.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

28 page 6

6	INTRODUCTION.
A.D. of Piedmont preserved the opinions of Claude during the ninth and tenth centuries.
1026	Thus before 1026, and 500 years previous to our own reformation, says Dr. Allix, we discover a body of men called Patarines, Valdenses, or Cathari, whose be-
1040	lief was contrary to the doctrines of the See of Rome. In 1040, the Patarines
1040	were very numerous at Milan, (Voltaire speaks of them in his General History, 1100	chap. 69.) In 1100, the Valdenses be-and	came well known by the "Noble Ley-
1120	con," and another work, entitled "Qual
	Cosa Sia l'Antichrist."AKA "Piedmontese"
1140	A little before this year, Everrinus (of Stamfield, diocese of Cologne) addressed a letter to the famous St. Bernard,
1	in which is the following passage:-
	"There have lately been some heretics amongst us, but they were seized by the people in their zeal and burnt to death, these people in Germany are called Cathari; in Flanders, Piphles; and in France, Tisserands." Towards the middle of the twelfth century, a small body of these Valdenses, called Puritans and Paulicians , came from Germany, and 1159	were persecuted in England. Some
1100	note persecuted in England. Some

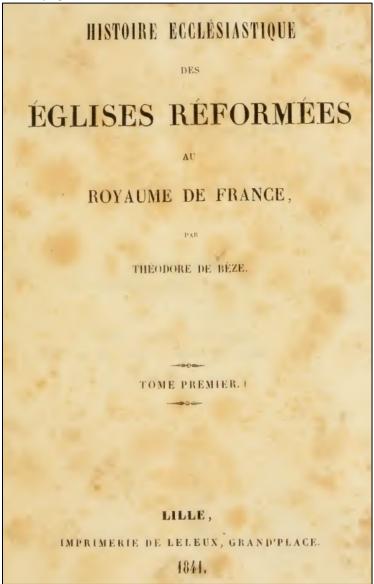

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

²⁹ page 7-8

introduction. 7	8	INTRODUCTION.
being burnt at Oxford, Gerard their teacher answered for them, that they were Christians, but Henry the Second ordered them to be branded with an hot iron, and whipped through the streets. Thirteen Valdensian families had certainly emigrated to England about this period. Gretzer the Jesuit (who published the book of Reinerius) admits that the Toulousians and Albigenses condemned in 1178 were no other than the Valdenses. In the decree of Pope Lucius III. against them, they are called Catharists, Josephists, and Heretics. Another decree was made against them in 1194, by Ildefonsus, King of Arragon: and Bale, in his old Chronicle of London, mentions "one burnt to death tainted with the faith of the Valdenses." Suppression of the Valdensian churches in France. Suppression of the Valdensian churches in France. Some further territory in Piedmont was about this time purchased and paid for by the Valdenses, to the amount of 6000 ducatoons. The Patarine Church of Albi (in France)	1322 1400	whence these Vaudois were called Albigenses, consisted of 500 members, that of Concorezzo more than 1500, and of Bagnolo 200. The Bishop of Vercelli complained much of these people, whom he denominated Cathari and Patarines. The English, at the time they had possession of Guienne (in 1210), began to help the Valdenses, who stood forth to defend their faith, headed by Walter and Raymond Lollard. According to Clark's Martyrology (page 111), we find Walter was burnt at Cologne in 1322: which was two years before the birth of Wickliffe. A cotemporary historian says, that "in a few years half the people of England became Lollards." And Newton, in his Dissertation on the Prophecies, (I vol. 4to. page 631,) says, "part of the Waldenses took refuge in Britain." Even Theo. Beza says, "as for the Valdenses, I may be permitted to call them the seed of the primitive and pure Christian church." In 1400 began the first severe persecution against the Vaudois, on account of their faith, which may be found related by Bresse, together with their subsequent misfortunes, down to the

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

³⁰ title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

³⁰ page 25

1551 ECCLÉSIASTIQUE.

parole de Dieu, les abjurer selon l'intention du roi. Or n'avaient jamais pu obtenir, ces pauvres gens, copie ni double d'aucun acte ni procédures faites contre eux : même avaient été défenses faites à tous greffiers, notaires, sergens et tous officiers, de ne recevoir aucun acte, opposition, ou protestation, ni de leur expédier doubles de leurs exécutions; de sorte qu'ils furent contraints d'avoir recours au roi, lequel commanda leur être baillé le double de toutes les procédures, avec mandement à tous notaires et officiers d'exécuter tous actes , nonobstant l'arrêt de la cour donné au contraire, lequel en cet endroit était révoqué. Suivant donc ce mandement, avant obtenu un notaire au lieu de Mallemort, ils couchérent par acte public en bonne forme la doctrine à eux enseignée comme de père en fils, voire depuis l'an 120 après la nativité de Jésus-Christ comme ils avaient toujours entendu par leurs anciens et ancêtres, dont s'ensuit le sommaire.

«Très honorés seigneurs, les grandes facheries, travaux, pertes et tourmens, tant à nos biens, notre honneur, qu'à nos personnes, qu'avons endurés et soufferts depuis l'an 1531 jusqu'en la présente année 1541 pour les faux rapports et accusations qu'on a fait à l'encontre de nous, nous incitent et, par nécessité, contraignent de rechef vous supplier, combien que par plusieurs fois avons été éconduits, que votre bon plaisir, soit pour l'honneur de Dieu, bénignement écouter notre humble et chrétienne requête, avec certain et véritable avertissement que nous vous ferons en saine conscience, prenant Dieu, qui voit et connaît toutes choses, en témoin, à cette fin que dorénavant vous nous mainteniez en droit et équité, comme ceux qui doivent administrer justice tant aux pauvres qu'aux riches, sans faveur.

« Premièrement, pour ce que toutes les molestes et persécutions qu'on a faites à l'encontre de nous, viennent à causedela religion. Nous confessons devant Dien et devant vons, et tous princes chrétiens, en quelle foi et doctrine nous sommes et voulons vivre ; et, premièrement, en la sentence et opinion de la religion et église chrétienne nous nous accordons totalement. Car pour la règle seule de notre foi, nous avons les articles qui sont contenus au symbole des apôtres. Nous ne sommes point enveloppés, ni voudrions être, d'aucune erreur, ou hérésie condamnées par l'ancienne église, et tenons les ensei-

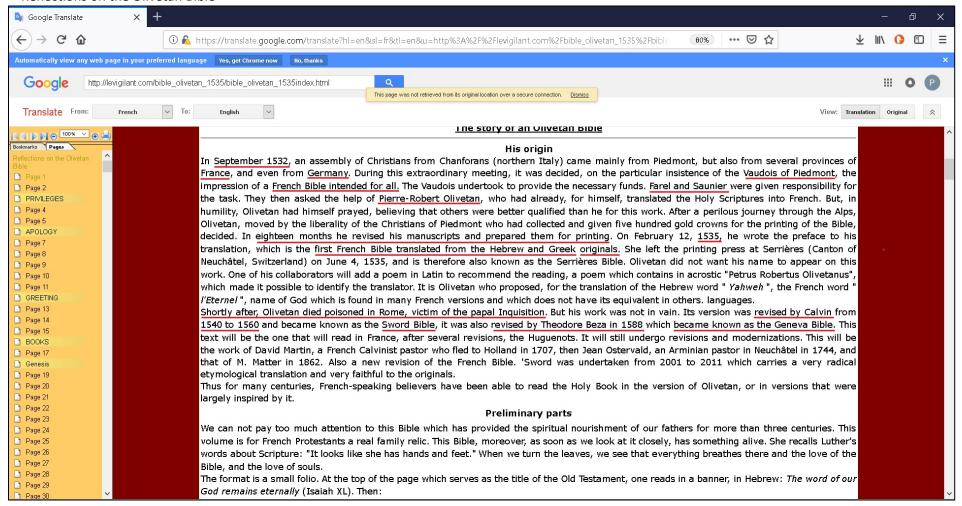

French: "bonne forme la doctrine à ceux enseignée comme de père en fils, voire depuis l'an 120 après la nativité de Jésus-Christ."

English: "good form the doctrine to them taught as father to son, beven since the year 120 after the enativity of Jesus Christ"

ture sont totalement peeneurs, nous les estimons être en condamnation et ire de Dieu, sinon ceux que par sa miséricorde il a réservés. Or la manière de la délivrance est telle : Il faut recevoir Jésus-Christ en la façon qu'il nous est préché en l'évaugile, c'est-à-dire qu'il est notre rédemption, justice et sanctification. Par quoi nous croyons que par la scule foi opérante par charité nous sommes justiliés, nous défiant de nos propres œuvres, nous rendant du tout à la justice de Christ. De la régénération, nous tenons que l'homme de sa nativité est aveugle d'intelligence, dépravé en volonté; et, afin qu'il puisse avoir vraie et salutaire connaissance de Dieu et de son fils Jésus-Christ, il est illuminé du Saint-Esprit, et après est sanctifié en bonnes œuvres, afin

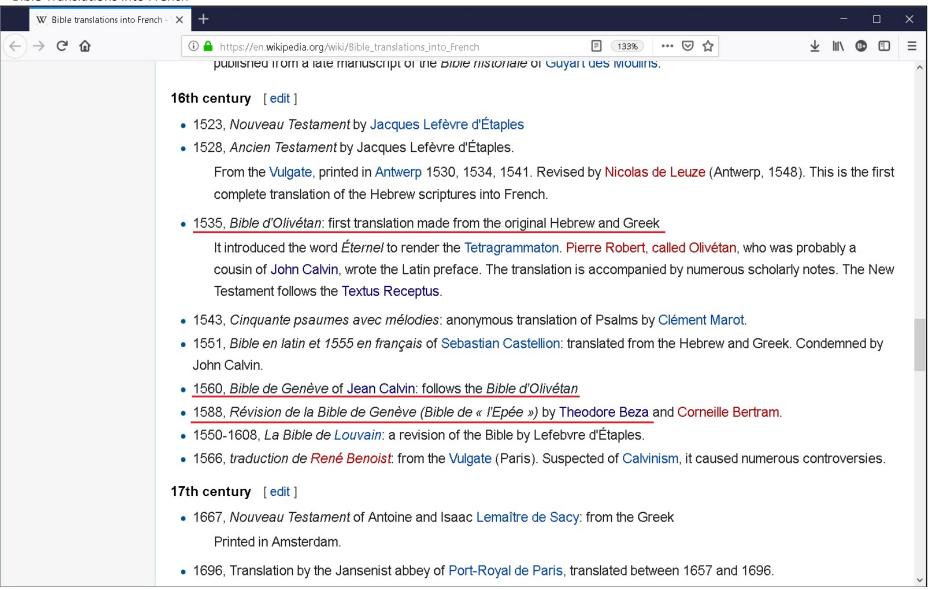

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

31 Reflections on the Olivetan Bible

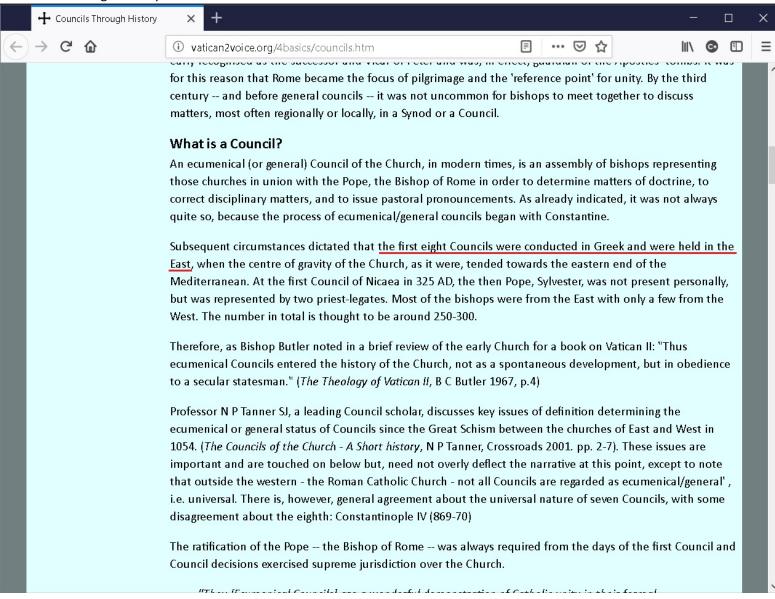

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

32 Bible Translations into French

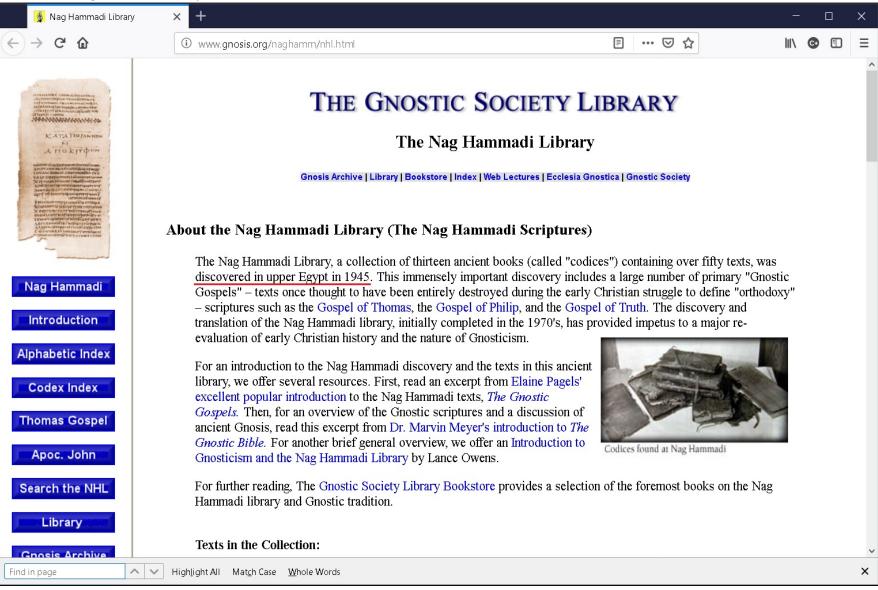

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

33 Councils Through History

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

34 About the Nag Hammadi Library

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

³⁷ pages 6-7

3. Edict of the Emperors Gratian, Valentinian II and Theodosius I establishing Catholicism as the State Religion, February 27, 380

Original Latin text in Mommsen, Theodosiani libri XVI, vol. I-2, "De fide catholica," p. 833

Commentary

This Edict is the first which definitely introduces Catholic orthodoxy as the established religion of the Roman world. It marks the end of the great fourth-century religious controversy on the Trinity, occasioned by the Arian heresy and calling forth definitions of orthodox dogma by the Councils of Nicaea (325) and Constantinople (381). Acknowledgment of the true doctrine of the Trinity is made the test of State recognition. The citation of the Roman See as the yardstick of correct belief is significant; the bracketing of the name of the Patriarch of Alexandria with that of the Pope was due to the Egyptian See's stalwart defence of the Trinitarian position, particularly under St. Athanasius. The last sentence of the Edict indicates that the Emperors contemplate the use of physical force in the service of orthodoxy; this is the first recorded instance of such a departure.

Copyrighted materi

THE ROMAN EMPIRE AND THE DARK AGES

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

38 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

38 pages 184-185

184 THE EMPEROR CONSTANTINE. LECT. VI.

of a cross. That at Constantinople was in the image of his ancient patron deity Apollo; but the glory of the sunbeams was composed of the emblems of the Crucifixion, and underneath its feet were buried in strange juxtaposition a fragment of the 'True Cross' and the ancient Palladium of Rome. His coins bore on the one side the letters of the name of Christ; on the other the figure of the Sun-god, and the inscription 'Sol invictus,' as if he could not bear to relinquish the patronage of the bright luminary which represented to him, as to Augustus and to Julian,¹ his own guardian deity.

The same tenacious adherence to the ancient God of light has left its trace, even to our own time, on one of the most sacred and universal of Christian institutions. The retention of the old Pagan name of 'Dies Solis,' or 'Sunday,' for the weekly Christian festival, is, in great measure, owing to the union of Pagan and Christian sentiment with which the first day of the week was recommended by Constantine to his subjects Pagan and Christian alike, as the 'venerable 'day of the Sun.' His decree, regulating its observance, has been justly called 2 'a new era in the history of the Lord's 'day.' It was his mode of harmonising the discordant religions of the Empire under one common institution.

These ambiguities, though in part the growth of Constantine's own peculiarities, lose much of their strangeness and gain in general interest, when viewed in the light of the age of which they were a part. In the change from Roman Catholicism to Protestantism in the English Reformation, it would be easy to adduce parallels of persons who wavered so constantly between the two, that it is difficult to know exactly what place to assign to them. Elizabeth herself may suffice as a specimen. This may prepare us for finding that even in the much greater change from Paganism to Christianity the boundary lines were less abrupt than at this distance we are apt to fancy. Orpheus and Pan appear as representing our Saviour in the Christian catacombs. The labours of Hercules are engraven on the chair—undoubtedly old, possibly authentic—of S. Peter. The Jordan appears as a river god in the baptistery at Ravenna. Some of the epitaphs in the Christian catacombs begin with the usual Pagan address to the gods of the grave. Even in the fifth century, a Pope was suspected of consulting the Etruscan auguries in the terror of Alaric's siege. In the sixth century, whether Boethius was a Christian or a Pagan is still matter of dispute; and Bishops of that age in the neighbourhood of Antioch were accused of being present at a human sacrifice.

LECT. VI. HIS CONVERSION.

185

We may remember the striking remarks of Niebuhr:—
'Many judge of Constantine by too severe a standard, be'cause they regard him as a Christian; but I cannot look 'upon him in that light. The religion which he had in his 'head must have been a strange jumble indeed.
'He was a superstitious man, and mixed up his Christian 'religion with all kinds of absurd superstitions and opinions.
'When certain Oriental writers call him "equal to the '"Apostles," they do not know what they are saying; and
'to speak of him as a saint is a profanation of the word.'2

This is true in itself. But, in order to be just, we must bear in mind that it probably describes the religion of many in that time besides Constantine. And it is indisputable, that, in spite of all these inconsistencies, he went steadily forward in the main purpose of his life, that of protecting and advancing the cause of the Christian religion. The Paganism of Julian, if judged by the Paganism of Cicero or of Pericles, would appear as strange a compound as the Christianity of Constantine, if judged by the Christianity of the Middle Ages or of the Reformation. But Julian's face was not set more steadily backwards than was Constantine's steadily forwards. The one devoted himself

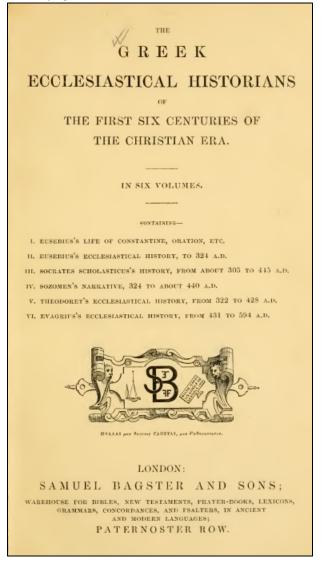

¹ Ecclesiastical History of John of ² Lectures on Roman History, v. Ephesus, iii. 29. 449.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁴⁰ title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

40 pages 130-131

130 LIFE OF CONSTANTINE. [BOOK III.

this point as well as others they have no perception of the truth, so that, being altogether ignorant of the true adjustment of this question, they sometimes celebrate Easter twice in the same year. Why then should we follow those who are confessedly in grievous error? Surely we shall never consent to keep this feast a second time in the same year. But supposing these reasons were not of sufficient weight, still it would be incumbent on your Sagacities* to strive and pray continually that the purity of your souls may not seem in any thing to be sullied by fellowship with the customs of these most wicked men. We must consider, too, that a discordant judgment in a case of such importance, and respecting such a solemnity of our religion, must needs be contrary to the Divine will. For our Saviour has left us one feast in commemoration of the day of our deliverance, I mean the day of His most holy passion; and He has willed that His Catholic Church should be one, the members of which, however scattered in many and diverse places, are yet cherished by one pervading spirit, that is, by the will of God. And let your Holinesses' sagacity reflect how grievous and scandalous it is that on the self-same days some should be engaged in fasting, others in festive enjoyment; and again, that after the days of Easter some should lend their countenance to banquets and amusements, while others are fulfilling the appointed fasts.

* ' $\Lambda \gamma \chi (i \nu o i a)$. This word is one of a class of expressions frequently used by Eusebius, and which, being intended as titles of honour, like "Excellency," etc. should, where possible, be thus rendered. In the present instance it is applied to the heads of the churches collectively.

CHAP. XIX. LIFE OF CONSTANTINE.

131

It is, then, plainly the will of Divine Providence (as I suppose you all clearly see), that this usage should receive fitting correction, and be reduced to one uniform rule.

CHAPTER XIX.

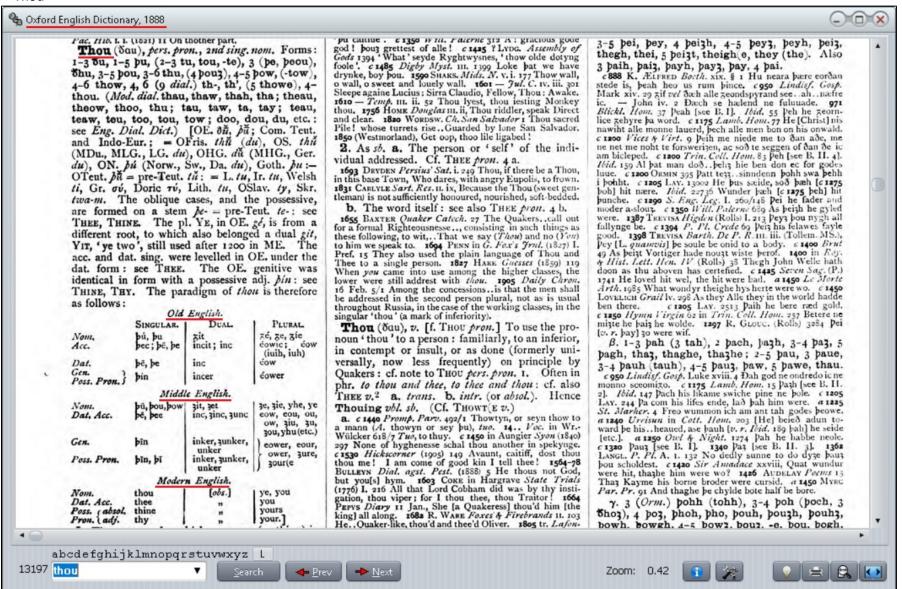

HE HOLDS OUT FOR THEIR IMITATION THE EXAMPLE OF THE GREATER PART OF THE WORLD.

"SINCE, therefore, it was needful that this matter should be rectified, so that we might have nothing in common with that nation of parricides who slew their Lord; and since that arrangement is consistent with propriety which is observed by all the churches of the western, southern, and northern parts of the world, and by some of the eastern also: for these reasons all are unanimous on this present occasion in thinking it worthy of adoption. And I myself have undertaken that this decision should meet with the approval of your Sagacities, in the hope that your Wisdoms will gladly admit that practice which is observed at once in the city of Rome, and in Africa; throughout Italy, and in Egypt; in Spain, the Gauls, Britain, Libya, and the whole of Greece; in the dioceses of Asia and Pontus, and in Cilicia, with entire unity of judgment. And you will consider not only that the number of churches is far greater in the regions I have enumerated than in any other, but also that it is most fitting that all should unite in desiring that which sound reason appears to demand, and in avoiding all participation in the perjured conduct of the Jews.* In fine, that I may express my ^{*} Valesius explains this as referring to the conduct of the Jews in professing to acknowledge God as their king, and yet denying Him by saying, "We have no king but Cæsar."

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

41 Thou

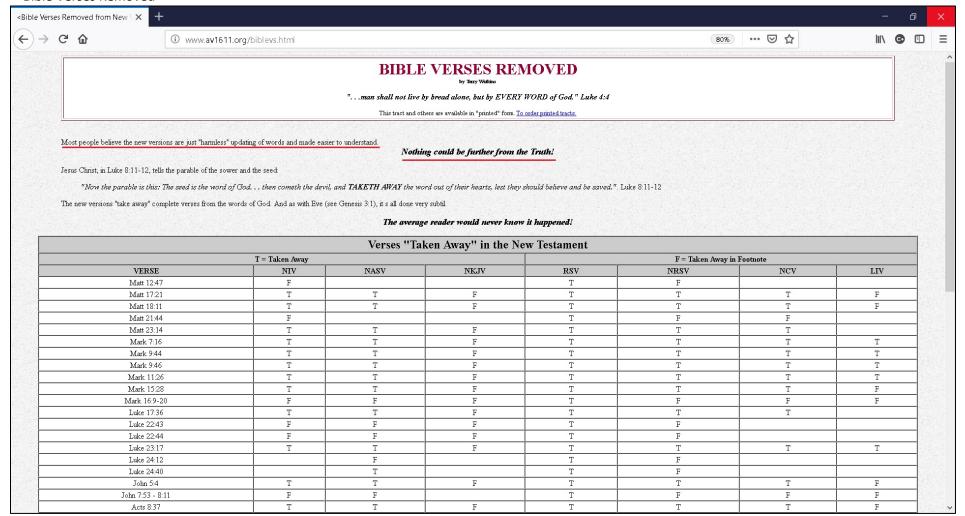

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁴² Thees and Thous

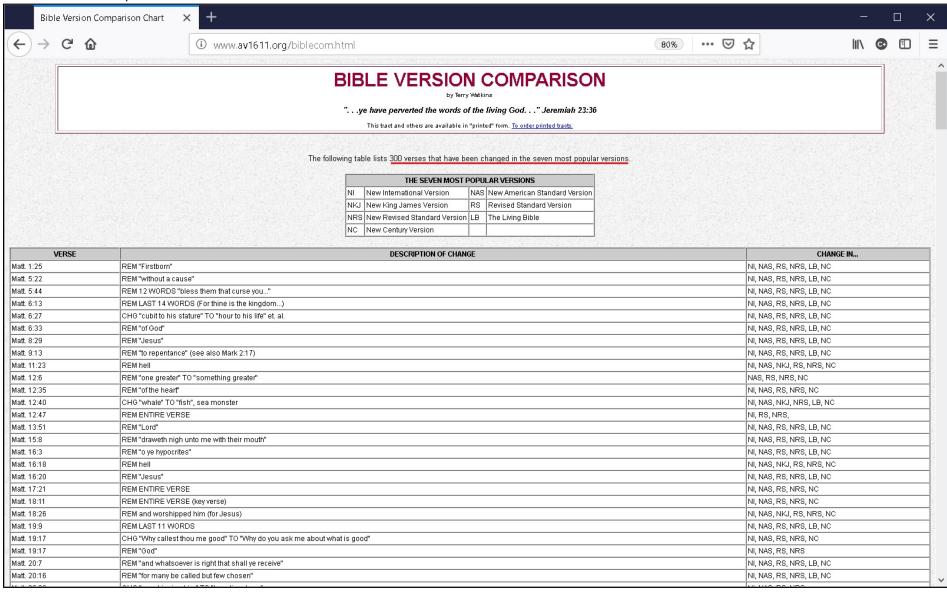

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁴³ Bible Verses Removed

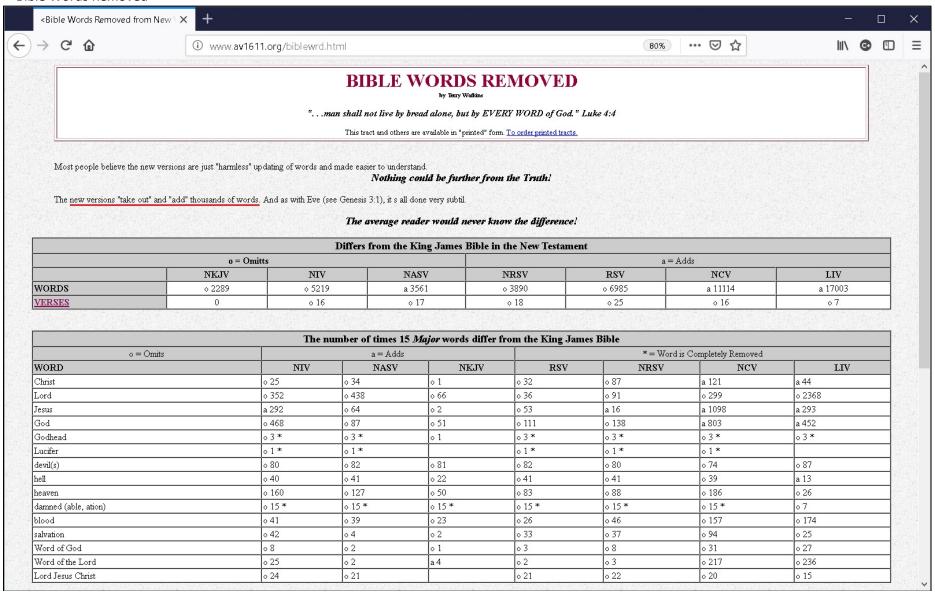

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

44 Bible Version Comparison

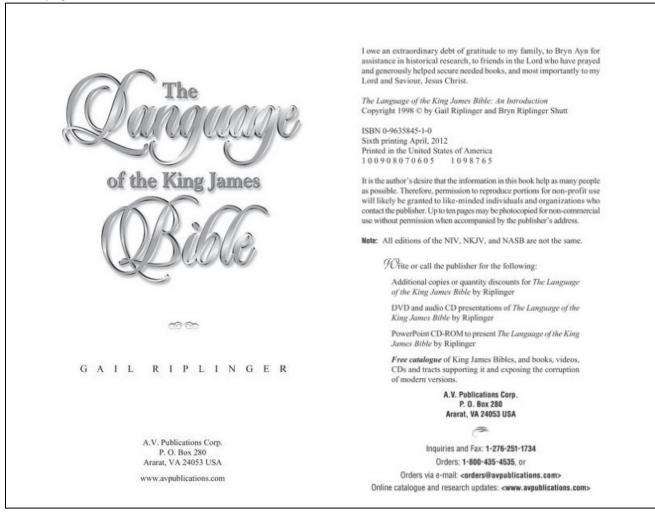

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

45 Bible Words Removed

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

46 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁴⁶ page 117-118

CHAPTER NINE + 117

THOU, THEE, THINE & YE

Singular and plural

- The words that begin with 'T' (Thou, Thee, Thy, and Thine) are singular and indicate only one person.
- The words that begin with 'Y' (Ye, You, and Yours) are plural and indicate more than one person.
- Remember that letters are often pictures. The 'T' is a singular stick; the 'Y' is more than one stick.

The NKJV, NIV, CEV, NRSV, NASB, and most new versions do not make these distinctions. The word 'you' is used in all cases. The actual Greek or Hebrew numbers (either singular or plural) are therefore not revealed.

New versions confuse many important theological truths because of this. Note just two simple examples. Jesus said to Nicodemus:

KJV	NIV et al.
John 3:7
"Marvel not that I say unto thee, Ye must be born again."	"You should not be surprised at my saying, You must be born again."

In the NIV the word 'you' is used for both the singular (thee) and the plural (Ye). The KJV is the only current version that clearly teaches that Jesus was not merely addressing Nicodemus alone. All men must be born again.

Additional example:

118 . THE LANGUAGE OF THE KING JAMES BIBLE

The second example is in Genesis 3. The serpent was the first to use the plural 'ye.' God speaks to the individual. (Remember, the KJV speaks of an individual as 'he,' the new inclusive versions use the plural 'them' instead, just like the serpent!)

KJV

"And the LORD God commanded the man, saying...thou shalt not eat of it...thou shalt surely die" Gen. 2:16-17

And the LORD God called unto Adam, and said unto him, Where art thou?...Hast thou eaten of the tree" Gen. 3:9-11

All new versions substitute "you" for the singular "thou" and the plural "ye" in this verse, thereby missing an important distinction.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁴⁷ title page (see full chart freely downloaded from http://www.thetorchbearerseries.com, containing the references and scanned images of the references)

"The largest impediment to discovering truth; is the belief you already have it." - Anonymous

Codex Sinaiticus: Legitimate or Forgery? The Suspects

Why does it even matter?

Starting in 1881. Westeott and Hort abundoned the traditional text and created a new Greek text, which relied heavily upon newly discovered Codex Sinatitious, along with previously discovered Variensus and Alexandriums (oth) containing similar text to the Sinatitious. In one Greek text became the Greek Vesule Aland and UBS textbooks used by most Catholic and Protestant translators today. This new text canned translators to doubt God's proserved words and doctrine, resulting in Bibles translated alike 1881 to centain thousands of changes from the tradition etc., including the ramoval of Mark 169-20 & John 73-38-11. (Also see Westeed and Hort - Occultuits or Christians - You Decked's by Peter D. Arvo)

Biblical understanding, careers, billions in book sales, and reputations are at stake!

Dr. Constantine Simonide (Born 1823 – Died 1867)^{44,28} Confessed Perpetrator

Means Vs.—worked since childhood in a print shap perpockation percined recoverents, and by age 14, was employed as a printing profession. If Highly trained in poleographical methods, ancient Greek-Dyrind-Copylichet, and was a colliagraphical. It. It. Is. Is. Is It was a sought of the capet. If we was a configurable of the committee to examine antipolishes. If he successfully fisched professionals across the work of the committee to examine antipolishes. If he successfully fisched professionals across the work of the configuration of the configuratio selling forgeries of ancient manuscripts for an extremely high profit, 44 but for some cause was never prosecuted,44 which was in stark controst to other forgers who were sentenced to prison and fined (did he have friends in high places?),3,44 In one case he demanded the sum of one million dollors, as reported in the Severance, Konsas newspaper dated November 7° 1890.44 Opportunity: Yes - Dr. Simonides sold supposed ancient manuscripts to the same Leigsic University where Dr. Tischendarf worked, and was orrested, then released for unknown reasons. 44 He traveled to Constantinople, the same location in which the Emperor of Russia was later to print the copies from 23, 24, 25, 26, 44 Dr. Simonides vas said to have died neor Cairo, Egypt, which is where the Sinaiticus was edited by Dr. Tischendarf and where Dr. Tischendarf sent letters from about Sinaliticus. 5, 6, 7, 8, 31 Other Evidence: He was known to pre-place manuscripts then notify someone else to make the discovery to distruct attention from himself. Dr. Simonides publicly confessed to his involvement in creating Codes Simoticus1^{-1.1.} In one was working to publish proof while he was in Rossio. Defore he could publish their flow so in Rossio. Defore he could publish their flow so in Rossio. Defore he could publish their proof, newspapers responted that he ded under unusuad circumstances, in that he died of legrony in Alexandria, Eugyst at 44 years of definition of the country of Albania per a newspaper collusion. Dr. Constantine Tischendorf (Born 1815 – Died 1874) Suspected Accomplice

Means: Yes – worked os a prafessor werifying ancient manuscripts for Leipsic University,³³ and Dr. Simonides sold forgeries to them? Forged books of Uranios was to go from Dr. Simonides, to Leipsic University, and then to the King of Prussic, Dr. Tischendraf froving once lived in Prussic os a guest. 1-3.4.44 had strong Pope-Valticari¹³ and Russion-Emperor support. 4.8.-1.18.3.13.3.14.3.15.3.15.3.1

Opportunity: Yes – Although tiving in Leipsic Germany, he was funded and sent by the Emperar of Russia' on a journey of scientific exploration. To try and discover ancient manuscripts. Dr. Tischendorf was the primary scholar to immediately dote the manuscript to the 4th century, doing with others that had previously been flooled by forgeries created by Dr. Simonides. 5th. 10

Colher Evidence: The discovery of Stantitical greatly bedstered the Reman Carbidic stonce on dectrine, and provided more weight to the ingread Reman Calradic Carbe victic one; 18-21 Conflicting reports weight to the ingread Reman Calradic Carbe victic one; 18-21 Conflicting reports on where Stantitics were from 6A et a convent in Carina, 3-3 Mount Alabas Monocatery, Green Carberine's South Simil / Mount Staniff, 28-3.3-4, 28-4, 27-4,

Codex Sinaiticus Discovered 1844 - March 15th 1859 Physical Evidence

Dating Method Used: Paleographical meoning someone visually analyzed the handwriting, quality of the line, farm, spelling, material used, etc. and dates it based upon its legitimate appearance. Tested for Fogrey: No – never been tested.

No chemical tests have been conducted to date the lisk, which is against native its against native its against native protocol for a suspected foragery. Or. Testherdouf medie notes and many corrections to copies and, "All this put corrections to copies and, "All this put the position to judge of the walve and age of the document." ^{3,3,3,7} Fey full Sinantius wasn't seen until 2009, when it was scanned and made available online.

Evidence of Tampentary Ver — some progress and artificially desired fee below image and sources), and other issues with the text and sources), and other issues with the text when the source of the s

You decide - Legitimate or Forgery? Research Notes are available at the end of this document. Much more evidence could have been presented in support of Codes Sinatiticus being a forgery, but we decided to only use 1800s newspaper reports here.

All credit, praise, honor, and glory belongs to our beloved God!

© 2018 Peter D. Arvo | (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0) | Last updated: 8/9/2019 | TheTorchbearerSeries.com

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

48 title page

THE LIVES

OF THE

Primitive Fathers, Martyrs,

AND OTHER

PRINCIPAL SAINTS:

COMPILED FROM

ORIGINAL MONUMENTS, AND OTHER AUTHENTIC RECORDS:

ILLUSTRATED WITH

THE REMARKS OF JUDICIOUS MODERN CRITICS AND HISTORIANS.

BY THE REV. ALBAN BUTLER.

THE THIRD EDITION.

IN TWELVE VOLUMES.

VOL. VII.

EDINBURGH:

FRINTED BY J. MOIR, PATERSON'S COURT,

FOR J. P. COGHLAN, NO. 37. DUKE-STREET, GROSVENOR-SQUARE, LONDON; AND F. COATES, NEWCASTLE.

1799.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

48 pages 209-210

July 16. S. EUSTATHIUS, B. C.

Nice, zealously concurred with his fellow bishops to forbid, for the time to come, all removals of bishops from one see to another (2). The new patriarch distinguished himself in that venerable assembly by his zeal against Arianism. Soon after his return to Antioch, he held a council there to unite his church, which he found divided by factions. He was very strict and severe in examining into the characters of those whom he admitted into the clergy, and he constantly rejected all those whose principles, faith or manners, appeared suspected: among whom were several who became afterward ringleaders of Arianism. Amidst his external employs for the service of others, he did not forget that charity must always begin at home, and he laboured in the first place to sanctify his own soul. But, after watering his own garden, he did not confine the stream there, but let it flow abroad to enrich the neighbouring soil, and to dispense plenty and fruitfulness all around. He sent into other dioceses that were subject to his patriarchate, men, capable of instructing and encouraging the faithful. Eusebius, archbishop of Cæsarea in Palestine (which church was, in some measure, subject to Antioch) favoured the new heresy, in such a manner as to alarm the zeal of our

(2) Conc. Nicæn. Can. 15.

saint (a). This raised a violent storm against him.

(a) That prelate had been educated at Cæsarea, where he studied with St Pamphilius the martyr, whose name he afterward added to his own. He suffered imprisonment with him for the faith, about the year 300, but recovered his liberty without undergoing any severer trial, and was chosen archbishop of Cæsarea in 314. When Arius, in 320, retired from Alexandria into Palestine, having been deposed from the priesthood by St Alexander the year before, Eusebius of Cæsarea and some other bishops were imposed upon by him. and received him favourably. Hereupon Arius wrote to Eusebius of Nicomedia, whom he calls brother to the other Eusebius of Caesarea. Eusebius of Nicomedia was at that time of an advanced age, and had great interest with Constantine, who, after the defeat of Licinius, kept his court some time at Nicomedia, as other emperors had done before him since Dioclesian had begun to reside in the East. This prelate was crafty and ambitious: his removal, procured by his intrigues, from his first see of Berytus to Nicomedia, seems to Vol. VII.

s. EUSTATHIUS, B. C. July 16.

Eusebius of Nicomedia laid a deep plot with his Arian friends to remove St Eustathius from Antioch, who had attacked Eusebius of Cæsarea, and accused have given occasion to the canon of the Nicene council, by which such translations were forbid. Notwithstanding which, in defiance of so sacred a law, he afterwards procured himself to be again translated to the see of Constantinople in 338, in the beginning of the reign of Constantius. The council of Sardies, in 347, confirmed the above mentioned Nicene canon under pain of the parties being deprived even of lay-communion at their death; but this arch-heretic died in 342. He openly defended, not only the person, but also the errors of Arius: subscribed the definitions of the Nicene council for fear of banishment; but three months after, being the author of new tumults, he was banished by Constantine, and after three years recalled, upon giving a confession of faith in which he declared himself penitent, and professed that he adhered to the Nicene faith, as Theodoret relates. By this act of dissimulation he imposed upon the emperor, but he continued by every base art to support his heresy, and endeavoured to subvert the truth. Eusebius of Cæsarea held that see from 314, till his death in 339. He was always closely linked with the ringlesders of the heresy. Nevertheless, the learned Henry Valois, in his Prolegomena to his translation of this author's Ecclefiastical History, pretends to excuse him from its errors, though he often boggled at the word Consubstantial. He certainly was so far imposed upon by Arius, as to believe that that heretic admitted the eternity of the Divine Word; and, in his writings, many passages occur which prove the divinity, and, as to the sense, the consubstantiality, of the Son, whatever difficulties he formed as to the word. On which account Ceillier and many others affect to speak favourably, or at least tenderly, of Eusebius in this respect, and are willing to believe that he did not at least constantly adhere to that capital error. Yet it appears very difficult entirely to clear him from it, though he may seem to have attempted to steer a course between the tradition of the church and the novelties of his friends. See Baronius ad an. 380, Witasse, Nat. Alexander, and the late Treatise in folio, against the Arian heresy, compiled by a Maurist Benedictin Monk. Photius, in a certain work given us by Montfaucon, (in Bibl. Coisliana, p. 348.) roundly charges Eusebius with Arianism and Origenism.

Eusebius, whose conduct was so unconstant and equivocal, shines to most advantage in his works, especially those which he composed in defence of Christianity before the Arian contest arose. The first of these is his book against Hierocles, who, under Dioclesian, was a persecuting judge at Nicomedia, and afterward rewarded for his cruelty against the Christians with the government of Egypt. In a book he wrote he made Appollonius Tyanseus superior to Christ. But Eusebius demonstrates the history of this magician, written by Phi-

lostratu

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁴⁹ title page

THE

ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY

OF

EUSEBIUS PAMPHILUS,

BISHOP OF CESAREA, IN PALESTINE.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GREEK,

BY

THE REV. C. F. CRUSÉ, A.M.

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR IN THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

WITH NOTES

SELECTED FROM THE EDITION OF VALESIUS.

LONDON:

BELL & DALDY, 6, YORK STREET, COVENT GARDEN AND 186, FLEET STREET, 1865.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁴⁹ page XXV

LIFE OF EUSEBIUS.

XXY

stantine; when the persecutors, and Licinius being every where extinct, not a fear of past afflictions could exist. This epoch, therefore, rather than that of the Nicene Council, afforded the most eligible limit to his Ecclesiastical History. For in that synod, the contentions seemed not so much appeased as renewed; and that not through any fault of the synod itself, but by the pertinacity of those who refused to acquiesce in the very salutary decrees of that venerable assembly.

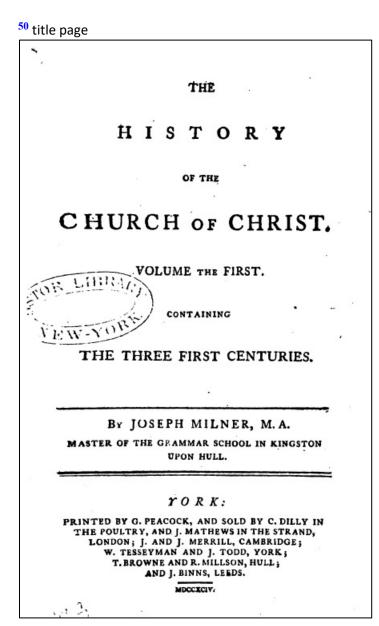

Having said thus much relative to the life and writings of Eusebius, it remains to make some remarks in reference to the soundness of his religious faith and sentiments. Let not the reader, however, here expect from us a defence, nor even any opinion of our own, but rather the judgment of the church and of the ancient fathers concerning him. Wherefore, certain points shall be here premised, as preliminary propositions, relying on which, we may arrive at the greater certainty relative to the faith of Eusebius. As the opinions of the ancients concerning Eusebius are various, since some have termed him a Catholic, others a heretic, others a διγλωττον, a person of a double tongue, or wavering faith, it is incumbent on us to inquire to which opinion we should chiefly assent. Of the law it is an invariable rule, to adopt, in doubtful cases, the more lenient opinion as the safer alternative. Besides, since all the westerns, St. Jerome excepted, have entertained honourable sentiments relative to Eusebius, and since the Gallican church has enrolled 6 him in the catalogue of saints, it is questionless preferable to assent to the judgment of our fathers, than to that of the eastern schismatics. In short, whose authority ought to be more decisive in this matter than that of the bishops of Rome? But Galesius, in his work on the Two Natures, has recounted our Eusebius amongst the catholic writers, and has quoted two authorities out of his books. Pope Pelagius,' too, terms him the most honourable amongst historians, and pronounces him to be free from every taint of heresy, not with standing he had highly eulogized heretical Origen. Some, however, may say, that since the Easterns were better acquainted with Eusebius, a man of their own language, a preference should be given, in this case, to their judgment. Even amongst these, Eusebius does not want those, Socrates and Galesius Cyzicenus for example, who entertained a favourable opinion concerning him. But if the judgment of the Seventh Œcumenical Synod be opposed to any inclination in his favour, our answer is ready. The faith of Eusebius was not the white the first synody delete but the working of invest of the subject of that synod's debate, but the worship of images. In order to the subversion of which, when the opponents that had

- See Socrates, lib. i. c. 23.
- As may be learned from Victorius Aquitanus, the Martyrology of Usuardus, and from others.

 7 In Epist. Tertià ad Eliam Aqueleiensem et alios Episcopos Istri.

See his defence of him, in book ii. chap. 21.
De Synod. Nicæna, book ii. chap. 1.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁰ page 341

(341)

Origen, which we have now before us, but vain attempts to mix things which the Holy Ghost has declared will not incorporate? One certain mischief would naturally follow; characters would be confounded; among the learned henceforward the distinction between godliness and philosophy is too faintly marked. If Origen had simply and plainly expounded to these men the peculiar and vital truths of the gospel, I cannot but suspect that many of them would have ceased to attend his instructions:

The famous Porphyry, than whom christianity had never a more acrimonious enemy, takes notice of Origen's allegorical mode of interpreting scripture, observes that he was acquainted with him when young, and bears testimony to his rapid improvements under Ammonius. He afferts, what indeed Eusebius, who must have known, contradicts, that Ammonius, though brought up a christian, turned afterwards a Gentile. He acknowledges that Origen continually perused Plato, Numenius, and the rest of the Pythagoreans; that he was well versed in Chæremon the Stoic, and Cornutus, whence he, borrowing the Græcian manner of allegorical interpretations, applied it to the Jewish scriptures.

We have feen before the wanton spirit of allegory introduced by Ammonius. It is very probable that Origen thence learnt to treat the scriptures in the same manner as Porphyry affirms. He had the candour to confess that he had been mistaken in his literal interpretation of our Saviour's words concerning the eunuchs. He afterwards learnt to allegorize all the three clauses in the passage, falling into a contrary extreme*; and in general he unhappily introduced such a complicated

Y 3

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵¹ title page An ANSWER to Dr. CLARK. AND Mr, WHISTON, CONCERNING THE Divinity of the SON, AND OF THE HOLY SPIRIT. With a Summary Account of the Chief WRITERS OF THE Three first ${f A}$ ges. By H. E. 'Aυτός χώρ ὁ πατήρ δια τῷ λόγε ἐν πνευματι ἐνεξγεῖ τὸ δίδωσι τὰ πάντα. S. Atban. Epift. 3. ad Serapionem. Sett. 5. p. 694 E F. Ed. Bened. LONDON: Printed for THOMAS MEIGHAN in Drury-

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵¹ page 13

ARIANISM Stated.

13

it was utterly extinguish'd, through almost all Christendom, for many Years. Eusebius of Nicomedia, then an Imperial City, and many of his Party (who from him were call'd Eusebians) were still in their Hearts, as we have too much Reason to believe, as zealous Arians, as they had been before. But, before Arianism was condemn'd in the Nicene Council, they made no Scruple to profess it. And from the Time of it's Condemnation they never durft profess Arianism, till above twenty Years after the Council of Nicea. Even Arius, an. 330, made a Recantation, fuch as it was, and was recall'd by the Emperor from his Banishment. So that it is no new Thing to fee Arians and Hypocrites ioin'd.

VIII. Since the Year 1700, Arianism has reappear'd in England. First openly; and then under a Disguise. In 1708, and for some Years after, Mr. Whiston, who had taught the Mathematicks in Cambridge, was a profess'd Arian. Arians were then (10) the Reservers of the most primitive Doctrines. Arians and Eunomians were then (11) those eminent Vindicators of the most primitive Faith. Then (12) the Arian Doctrine was in those Points (the Trinity and Incarnation) most certainly the original Doctrine

⁽¹⁰⁾ Primitive Christianity. Tom. iv. in Appendice, page 10,

⁽¹¹⁾ Iom. iv. Append. p. 53.

⁽¹²⁾ Tom. i. p. vi, vii, and Supplement, p. 65.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

52 title page

THE FALLEN ANGELS

AND

THE HEROES OF MYTHOLOGY,

THE SAME WITH

"THE SONS OF GOD" AND "THE MIGHTY MEN"

OF

THE SIXTH CHAPTER OF THE FIRST BOOK OF MOSES.

BY THE

REV. JOHN FLEMING, A.B.

INCUMBENT OF VENTRY AND KILDRUM, DIOCESE OF ARDFERT; RURAL DEAN; AND IRISH SOCIETY'S MISSIONARY.

DUBLIN:

HODGES, FOSTER, AND FIGGIS,

PUBLISHERS TO THE UNIVERSITY.

1879.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵² page 36

36 THE FALLEN ANGELS.

These extracts will enable the reader to understand the nature of an interpretation of our passage, which has been, perhaps, more generally accepted than any other. Extracts from the writings of two of the Fathers who understand the passage thus, and from some of the mediæval chronographers, who have highly embellished the story, will be found in Note L. The slightly altered form which the Sethite-interpretation has assumed, in the hands of some theologians of our day, resulting from a change in the application of the term Bnoth-ha-Adam, will be noticed in the concluding part of this chapter.

§ VI.

Previously to the latter part of the fourth century, this explanation of our passage appears to have been but little known, or at least to have had but few supporters, Christian writers, generally, to that time, having adhered to the old interpretation of Bne-Elohim. Dr. Kurtz mentions (p. 31) Ephraem Syrus (ob. 378) in the Syrian Church, Philastrius (ob. circa 390) in the Latin, and Chrysostom (ob. 407) in the Greek Church, as the first who set forth, in their writings, the new interpretation, and condemned the other as absurd and heretical. It is, however, certain that the former had been propounded as early, at least, as the beginning of the third century: for Julius Africanus (ob. 232), as we learn from a fragment of his chronography, preserved by Syncellus, finding in the copies of the Septuagint the reading vior row Ocou, as well as that of αγγελοι του Θεου, in Gen. vi. 2, gives it as his opinion, that "the descendants of Seth are called the sons of God, on account of the righteous men and patriarchs who have sprung from him, even down to the Saviour himself: but that the descendants of Cain are named the seed of men, as having nothing divine in them," &c. (Fragments of Africanus and others, translated by the Rev. S. D. F. Salmond, in Clarke's Ante-Nic. Lib., vol. ix.) This writer, however, as will be shown in a following section, seems to waver between this and the angel-explanation and hesitates decidedly to reject or adopt either of them. (See § xix.)

From the close of the fourth century, the new explanation of Gen vi. 1-4, appears to have been preferred to every other, by the Christian writers, partly, no doubt, in consequence of the sanction given to it by several distinguished Fathers: but chiefly owing to

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵² page 73

§. x.] THE SETHITE-INTERPRETATION.

73

the women of the race of Cain; and the required antithesis then appeared—Sons of God, i.e, pious Sethite men: Daughters of Men, i.e., ungodly Cainite women.

This interpretation of Bnoth-ha-Adam, adopted by Christian writers, when the angel-explanation was abandoned, was the all but universally received one in the Church, for centuries, and has supporters still. The inconsistency, however, involved in taking in different senses in verses I and 2, has been already (§. III.) noticed, and must have been apparent to all. "The supposition that the Sons of God were the sons of Seth, and the daughters of men (Heb. Adam) were the daughters of Cain, to whom great numbers of very beautiful women were born (it is supposed), has no foundation in Scripture: nay, it is against Scripture, for Seth was not God, and Cain was not Adam." (Rev. Theoph. Campbell, in Irish Eccl. Gazette, April, 1867.) Were the expression to be translated, as it might be, "Daughters of Adam," or, as I)r. Murphy renders it in his Translation, "Daughters of Man," it would perhaps be more likely to make, on the mind of the English reader, the impression which Moses assuredly meant to convey, namely, that the parties to these unlawful alliances were of earthly origin, on the one side, but not on the other: that the one were human beings, denizens of earth, the other, superhuman, belonging to another sphere.

Accordingly, some theologians, as Hengstenberg, Hävernick, C. F. Keil, perceiving the inconsistency referred to, have exchanged this interpretation for another, not open, as is imagined, to a similar objection. This modification of the Sethite-exposition has been alluded to (§ VI.), and may now be more fully explained. Dr. Keil, in his essay on our passage (Zeit., p. 242), quoting the words of an opponent of the Sethite-interpretation, that "Bnoth-ha-Adam, in verse 2, cannot mean daughters of the family of Cain, inasmuch as, just before, in ver. I, INTITITIES IS USED TO THE TO

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵² page 80

CHAPTER III.

THE ANGEL-INTERPRETATION.

§ XII.—ALLEGED IMPOSSIBILITY.

Or the history of this, the oldest interpretation of our passage, some particulars may be gathered from the preceding pages. What further we may be able to impart on the subject, we reserve to the close of chapter iv. Should the arguments which have been, or may yet be, advanced in support of the angel-explanation, so weigh with the reader, as to incline him to believe in its correctness, the knowledge that this view was maintained by the ancient Jewish synagogue, by Hellenistic Jews at, and before, the time of our Saviour's sojourn on earth, and by the greater number of the early Christian writers—may serve to give confirmation to his belief. Meanwhile, we proceed to consider the grand objection urged against our view,—that which constitutes the real cause of its rejection by the many—namely, that we are not able to explain or comprehend how such an occurrence as that which we suppose could take place.

We have already examined, at some length, the Sethite-interpretation, and shown, as we cannot but think, sufficient reason for concluding it to be inadmissible. We took notice, in the first place, of the causes which led to its substitution for the old explanation of the passage—causes which induced theologians to disregard philological and exegetical considerations, in obedience to preconceived dogmatic views. We pointed out some reasons for doubting whether such distinctions, as those which the expositors assume, ever really existed between the Cainite and Sethite branches of the human family. We sought to prove that Bne-ha-Elohim and Bnoth-ha-Adam cannot have the significations which

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

53 title page

A \subseteq LIBRARY. NICENE AND POST-NICENE FATHERS THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH. Second Series. TRANSLATED INTO ENGLISH WITH PROLEGOMENA AND EXPLANATORY NOTES. VOLUMES I .- VII. UNDER THE EDITORIAL SUPERVISION OF PHILIP SCHAFF, D.D., LL.D., HENRY WACE, D.D., Professor of Church History in the Union Theological Seminary, New York. Principal of King's College, IN CONNECTION WITH A NUMBER OF PATRISTIC SCHOLARS OF EUROPE AND AMERICA. VOLUME XI. SULPITIUS SEVERUS. VINCENT OF LERINS. JOHN CASSIAN. NEW YORK: THE CHRISTIAN LITERATURE COMPANY. OXFORD AND LONDON: PARKER & COMPANY. 1894.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵³ page 394

Cain, as the differery clearly tells us, gat Seth, Seth begat i, but Cainan begat el begat Jared, Jared at Methuselah, Memech begat Noah." 8 n is given separately Enoch, Enoch begat n Augustine (Tract, xxiv. in I this text as implying that the or he is a liar, and so is his as Abbot Serenus does below a liar himself but the parent

ien. v. 4-30.

and not only knew about the fury and poison of all kinds of beasts and serpents, but also distinguished between the virtues of plants and trees and the natures of stones, and the changes of seasons of which he had as yet no experience, so that he could well say: "The Lord

4 Gen. iv. 17-21.

⁸ In Gen. vi. 2 the MSS. of the LXX. fluctuate between ἄγγελοι τοῦ θεοῦ and νίοὶ τοῦ θεοῦ. The interpretation of the passage which Cassian here rejects is adopted by Philo and Josephus, the book of Enoch, and several of the early fathers, including Justin Martyr, Tertullian, Clement of Alexandria, Lactantius and others. The explanation, which Cassian here gives, taking the "sons of God" of the Sethites, and the "daughters of men" of the line of Cain, is apparently first found in Julius Africanus (οι ἀπό τοῦ Σηθ δίκαιοι), and is adopted among others by Augustine, De Civitate Dei, Book XV. xxiii., where the passage is fully discussed.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁴ title page

A

COMMENTARY

ON THE

HOLY SCRIPTURES:

CRITICAL, DOCTRINAL, AND HOMILETICAL,

WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO MINISTERS AND STUDENTS.

JOHN PETER LANGE, D.D.,

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN, AND EDITED, WITH ADDITIONS,

PHILIP SCHAFF, D.D.,

VOL L OF THE OLD TESTAMENT: CONTAINING A GENERAL INTRODUCTION, AND THE BOOK OF GENESIS.

EDINBURGH:
T. & T. CLARK, 88 GEORGE STREET.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁴ page 280

[* Ver. 6.—Data. LXX., iretunity; Vulg., Positivit cum. The Syriac and Arabic make it the repentance of griefthe Samaritan version strangely renders it TERRN, iratus fuit, he was fiercely enraged, making it the repentance of anger. Both the Targums say: $\foralle{1}$, and Ichovah repented, but qualify it by $\foralle{1}$ following—that is, in his word, or by his word. What they meant by this is not very clear, but it is one of the methods they take of avoiding the seeming anthropopathisms of the Old Testament, of which the Jewish translators, paraphrasts, and commentators, seem to have been more afraid than the Christian. Farther, see Exegetical and Notes.—T. L.]

PRELIMINARY QUESTION, EXEGETICAL AND THEOLOGICAL, RESPECTING THE SONS OF GOD.

The question, what kind of beings are we to understand by the Sons of God, has been answered in different ways from the earliest times, and has lately, again, given occasion to lively theological discussions. We give here, in the first place, the statement of Kurtz, who has engaged in the question with peculiar earnestness (History of the Old Covenant, i. p. 30, 3d ed., 1864, and in a long Appendix to vol. i., under the title: Die Ehen der Sohne Gottes mit den Töchtern der Menschen, Berlin, "In respect to the Bne Elohim, we find three principal views: 1. they are filii magnatum puellas plebeias rapientes; 2. they are angels; 8. they are the pious, that is, the Sethites, in contrast with whom the "daughters of men" denote Cainitish women. The first view is found in the Samaritan, Jonathan (Targum), Onkelos (Targum), Symmachus, Aben Ezra, Rashi, Varenius, &c., and may now be regarded as exploded. The second view is most strongly represented in the old synagogue and church. It would seem to have its ground in the Septuagint. At least the manuscripts vary between viol του Seou and άγγελοι του Seou. Very decidedly, however, it is presented (and mythically improved upon) in two old Apocryphal books, namely, the Book of Enoch, and the so-called Minor Genesis, of which Dillman in Ewald's Year Books has given a German translation derived from the Ethiopic. It is, moreover, recognized in the Epistle of Jude (vers. 6 and 7?) and in the Second Epistle of Peter (ch. ii. 4, 5?). It was also presented by Philo, Josephus, and most of the Rabbinical writers (EISENMENGER'S "Judaism Revealed," i. p. 380), as well as by the oldest church fathers: Jus tin, Clemens Alex., Tertullian, Cyprian, Ambrose, and Lactantius. Since then it fell gradually into disfavor; Chrysostom, Augustine, and Theodoret contended zealously against it; Philastrius denounced it as downright heresy, and our old church theologians turned from it almost with abhorrence It found also in the synagogue vehement opposers Doctrine of the Faith,") iii. p. 176 ff, and the controversial writings of Kurtz that have appeared against the treatises of Kell and Hengstenberg ("The Marriages of the Sons of God with the Daughters of Men)," Berlin 1857, and "The Sons of God," in Gen. vi. 1-4, and the "Sinning Angels," in 2 Pet. ii. 4, 5, and Jude, vers. 6, 7. Mitau, 1858. Engelhardt also takes the side of Kurtz ("Lutheran Periodical," 1856, p. 404). Delitzsch appears as the latest defender of the angel hypothesis of any considerable note ("Comment." 3d Ed., 1860, p. 230 ff.). Its latest opponent of note since Keerl ("Questions on the Apocrypha," p. 206), is Keil ("Comment," 1861, p. 80 ff.)

This Discussion has been somewhat abridged by the Frenslator.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁴ page 281

It is shown by Keil (p. 80) that the relation of our passage to the Sethites had its defenders, both among Jews and Christians, before the time of Chrysostom; since Josephus knew of this interpretation, and the critical Julius Africanus maintained it in the first half of the third century. So also did Ephraim the Syrian, to which add, among the Apocryphal writings, the Clementine Recognitions, and the oriental Book of Adam.

We take first into view the section as it lies before us, with its connection and the analogies of the Old Testament, then the relations to our passage of the New Testament, farther on, the exceptical traditions, and finally, the religious-philosophical, dogmatic, and practical significance of the question.

The Place itself in question; its Connection, and the Analogies of the Old Testament. The Sons of God. Bne Klohim. According to the angel hypothesis, angels alone are here to be understood, notin respect to the people of Israel, to the Old Testament kings, to the pious or dependent wards of God, and that, too, in various ways, even in the legal sphere. Delitzsch remarks, that the idea of a filial relation in the Old Testament had already begun to win for itself a universal ethical significance beyond the limitation to Israel (Ex. iv. 22; Deut. xiv. 1)—as though this filial relation of the children of Israel, under the law, were a real step in progress in respect to Abraham and the Sethites. But the case is exactly the other way. In the Epistle to the Galatians, the patriarchal standpoint of belief in promise is a higher one than that of the Mosaic legality (Gal. iii. 16). It is to be specially remarked in regard to Kurtz, that he knew not how to distinguish the different economies of the Old Testament. When, for example, the Apostle Paul tells us, that the law was given through the ministry of angels, he concludes that the angel of the Lord that appeared to Abraham must have been a creaturely angel (History of the Old Testament, p. 152). And yet Paul brings forward this character of the angelic mediation for the express purpose of showing that the revolation of the promise was a more essential, and, also, a higher form than that of the law-giving; it could not, therefore, have been in this sense (of Kurtz) that the lawgiving is referred to the mediation of angels. The explanation consists in this, that the promise was a revelation for Abraham, and, generally, for the elect patriarchs, whilst the law-giving, on the other hand, was for a whole people mingled and coarse, or at all events, greatly needing an educating culture. But as the patriarchal economy, in respect to its relation-

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

55 title page

AN INQUIRY INTO THE HERESIES, OF THE APOSTOLIC AGE,

IN

EIGHT SERMONS

PREACHED BEFORE

THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD,

IN THE YEAR MDCCCXXIX.

AT THE

LECTURE

FOUNDED BY

THE REV. JOHN BAMPTON, M. A. CANON OF SALISBURY.

BY

THE REV. EDWARD BURTON, D. D. REGIUS PROFESSOR OF DIVINITY AND CANON OF CHRIST CHURCH.

OXFORD.

PRINTED BY SAMUEL COLLINGWOOD, PRINTER TO THE UNIVERSITY, FOR THE AUTHOR.

SOLD BY J. PARKER; AND BY C. AND J. RIVINGTON, LONDON.
MDCCCXXIX.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁵ page 117

LECTURE IV.

117

every leader of the Gnostics had some peculiar notion concerning Angels; and it has been thought that St. Paul alluded to some of them, or to Simon Magus in particular, when he said to the Colossians, Let no man beguile you of your reward in a voluntary humility and worshipping of Angels, intruding into those things which he hath not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind, and not holding the head, from which all the body by joints and bands having nourishment ministered, and knit together, increaseth with the increase of God. (ii. 18, 19.) It is said by Tertullian^m, that Simon Magus worshipped Angels, and that he was rebuked for this by St. Peter, as for a species of idolatry. He evidently means, that Simon worked his pretended miracles by invoking the agency of spirits: and we have abundant proof, that great power was attributed to the spiritual world in the time of our Saviour, and for many ages after. Clement of Alexandria informs us, that those who practised magic offered worship to Angels and dæmons; and he appears to have had in his mind this passage of the Epistle to the Colossians. Epiphanius also says, that Simon invented certain names for principalities and powerso: all which may incline us to think that St. Paul may have alluded to the Gnostics, and particularly to the Jewish Gnostics, who intruded into things which they had not seen, when they speculated upon the creation and government of the world by Angels; who were vainly puffed up by their fleshly mind, by the Platonists and the Cabbalists: and from these two quarters the Gnostic notion of Angels was derived.

m Do p. 214.
n Str.
h Ha

De Præscript. Hæret. 33.
 p. 214.
 Strom. III. 6. p. 533.
 Hær. XXI. 4. p. 58.

13

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁵ page 148

148

LECTURE V.

down to their gods. (Numb. xxv. 1, 2.) But we read further, that when the Midianites were spoiled and Balaam slain, Moses said of the women who were taken, Behold, these caused the children of Israel, through the counsel of Balaam, to commit trespass against the Lord in the matter of Peor. (xxxi. 16.) This, then, was the insidious policy and advice of Balaam. When he found that he was prohibited by God from cursing Israel, he advised Balak to seduce the Israelites by the women of Moab, and thus to entice them to the sacrifices of their gods in. This is what St. John calls the doctrine of Balaam, or the wicked artifice which he taught the king of Moab: and so he says, that in the church of Pergamos there were some who held the doctrine of the Nicolaitans. We have therefore the testimony of St. John, as well as of the Fathers, that the lives of the Nicolaitans were profligate and vicious: to which we may add, that they ate things sacrificed to idols. This is expressly said of Basilides and Valentinus, two celebrated leaders of Gnostic sects: and we perhaps are not going too far, if we infer from St. John, that the Nicolaitans were the first who enticed the Christians to this impious practice, and obtained from thence the distinc-historical or traditional in- vol. VI. p. 108.

m This may well explain the formation. That Balak conconduct of the Almighty to- sulted Balaam, is said in Micah wards Balaam, and the expres- vi. 5. See Josephus, Antiq. iv. sion of the Angel, Thy way is per- 6. Philo Judeus, De Mose, vol. verse before me. (xxii. 32.) Com- II. p. 127. De Monarch. I. p. mentators and critics have not 220. De Fortitud. p. 381. The always studied the heart of Ba- whole history is minutely delaam. Though so little is said tailed by these writers. Sec of his policy in the Bible, it Waterland, Sermon XXXII. on was a fact, upon which the the History and Character of Jews appear to have had much Balaam, vol. IX. p. 397; also

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁶ page 260

260

NOTE 6.

hardly have suffered the one to supplant the other. We may remember, that persons from the surrounding countries of Pontus, Cappadocia, and Phrygia, were present at Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost.

NOTE 6.—See Lecture II. p. 29.

It is observed by Mosheimy, that "an opinion has " prevailed, derived from the authority of Clemens the Alex-"andrian, that the first rise of the Gnostic sect is to be " dated after the death of the apostles, and placed under the " reign of the emperor Adrian: and it is also alleged, that " before this time the church enjoyed a perfect tranquillity, " undisturbed by dissensions or sects of any kind. But the " smallest degree of attention to the language of the holy " scriptures, not to mention the authority of other ancient " records, will prevent us from adopting this groundless no-"tion." Nothing can be more just than this observation of Mosheim: but Dodwell, in his Dissertations upon Irenæus', attached so much weight to the words of Clement, that he fixed the rise of heresy in the year 116, which was the last year but one of Trajan's reign. The passage in Clem. Alex. is obscure, and apparently corrupt: but the part, to which Dodwell and Mosheim allude, is as follows: κάτω δὲ, περὶ τοὺς ᾿Αδριανοῦ τοῦ βασιλέως χρόνους, οἱ τὰς αἰρέσεις ἐπινοήσαντις γεγόνασια. The persons here spoken of, as leaders of heresies, were Basilides, Valentinus, and Marcion: all of whom certainly lived in the second century; and this is all that Clement intended to assert. He says expressly that Basilides pretended to have been taught by Glaucias, who was έρμηνεὺς to St. Peter; and that Valentinus claimed the same connexion with Theudas, an acquaintance of St. Paul. It is also plain, though the passage is probably corrupt, that he connects these heretics with Simon Magus; so that whatever he may have said of heresy in the time of Hadrian, his own words supply us with the names of three persons Glaucias, Theudas, and Simon Magus, who were contemporaries of the apostles. The fact seems to be, that Clement spoke of Basilides, Valentinus, and Marcion, because they were much more notorious, and reduced Gnosticism to a much Eccles. Hist. Cent. I. part. 2. c. V. 3.

 Diss. I. 12. p. 20. though his words have been rather unfairly quoted.
 So also Arnoldus, Hist. Eccles. et Hæres. tom. I. lib. I. 4. 1. p. 41. and Tittman, de Vestigiis Gnosticorum in N. T. frustra quæsitis.

Strom. VII. 17. p. 898. For the proposed emendations of this passage, see the note in Potter's edition, and Mosheim, de uno Simone Mago. 22.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁶ page 529

NOTE 86.

590

Clement of Alexandria, as I have already stated, was brought up in the schools of that city: and his writings shew, that he was a great admirer of the philosophy of Plato. But he is frequent in pointing out instances, where Plato took his ideas, and even his expressions, from Moses; and he shews in several places, that he believed the doctrine of the Trinity to be contained in the writings of that philosopher. If we think, as I shall endeavour to shew presently, that neither of these positions can be reasonably maintained, we shall hardly suspect Clement of making Christianity bend to suit the genius of Plato: and it is demonstrable in almost every page of his writings, that he tortured and perverted the words of Plato to represent him as speaking like a Christian.

Tertullian, who, like Irenseus, had not studied in the philosophical schools of Alexandria, agrees also with that Father in looking upon the Platonic doctrines as the source of Gnosticism. He even uses the strong expression, "Platitonem omnium haereticorum condimentarium factum q." It is of the same heretics he is speaking, when he gives a warning to those, "qui Stoicum et Platonicum et Dialecti"cum Christianismum protulerunt!" and when we find him treating the personal character of Plato with so little respect, as to say, "that he sold himself to Dionysius for "sake of his bellys," we can hardly conceive that he allowed his faith in Christ to be corrupted from such a quarter.

his faith in Christ to be corrupted from such a quarter.

What I have said of Clement will apply equally to Origen, who was brought up like himself, and under his tuition, in the schools of Alexandria. He fancied, that he saw in Plato the same agreement with the doctrines of the Old and New Testament: but his judgment was not likely to be greatly blinded by the subtleties of that writer, when he says of him, "If I may speak boldly, the ornamented "and studied language of Plato, and of those who have "expressed themselves in the same style, has benefited but "a few, if indeed it has benefited them at all t:" and I shall have occasion to shew presently, that the charges brought against him by Celsus were for having altered and corrupted the doctrines of Plato.

The only other writer, to whom I shall refer, is Euachius: and I select him, because no one of the Fathers has gone beyond Eusebius in tracing a resemblance between the sentiments of Plato and the main truths of Christianity. It is singular, however, that he wrote his great work, the De Anima, 23. p. 280.

 De Præscript. 8. p. 205.
 Apol. 46. p. 36.
 Cont. Celsum, VI. 2. p. 630.
 See also VII. 41, 42. p. 723.

м m

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁷ title page
CHARACTERISTICS
5
HE GREEK PHILOSOPHERS.
SOCRATES AND PLATO.
BY THE
REV. JOHN PHILIPS POTTER, A.M.,
LATE OF ORIEL COLLEGE, OXFORD.
LONDON: JOHN W. PARKER, WEST STRAND. M.DCCC.XLV.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁷ p.186-187

186 DR. BURTON'S ESTIMATE OF GNOSTICISM.

gress of Gnosticism, with a clear summary of the Gnostic dogmas, in the following passage:—

"The system, as I have said, was stated to have begun with Simon Magus; by which I would understand that the system of uniting Christianity with Gnosticism began with that heretic; for the seeds of Gnosticism, as we shall see presently, had been sown long before. What Simon Magus began was brought to perfection by Valentinus, who came to Rome in the former part of the second century; and what we know of Gnosticism is taken principally from writers who opposed Valentinus. Contemporary with him, there were many other Gnostic leaders, who held different opinions; but in the sketch which I have given, I have endeavoured to explain those principles which, under certain modifications, were common to all the Gnostics. That the Supreme God, or the Good Principle, was not the Creator of the World, but that it was created by an evil, or at least, an inferior being; that God produced from himself a succession of zons or emanations, who dwell with him in the pleroma; that one of these wons was Christ, who came upon earth to reveal the knowledge of the true God; that he was not incarnate, but either assumed an unsubstantial body, or descended upon Jesus at his baptism; that the God of the Old Testament was not the Father of Jesus Christ; that there was no resurrection or final judgment. This is an outline of the Gnostic tenets, as acknowledged by nearly all of them"."

Having given the above admirable outline of the great leading doctrines of the Gnostic Sects, or rather, of the Gnostic Schools, he next proceeds to trace Gnosticism itself to the three principal sources which we indicated at the beginning of this article. We proceed to give Dr. Burton's very clever and striking History of Gnosticism, (or, in other words, of Eclecticism and Syncretism.) in his own words.

* Inquiries, p. 42.

DR. BURTON'S ESTIMATE OF GNOSTICISM. 187

"Some persons have deduced Gnosticism from the Eastern notion of a Good and Evil Principle; some from the Jewish Cabbala; and others from the doctrines of the later Platonists. Each of these systems is able to support itself by alleging very strong resemblances; and those persons have taken the most natural, and probably the truest course, who have concluded that all these opinions contributed to build up the monstrous system which was known by the name of Gnosticism.

"We will begin with considering that which undoubtedly was the oldest of the three, the Eastern Doctrine of a Good and Evil Principle. There is no fact connected with remote antiquity, which seems more certainly established, than that the Persian religion recognized two beings or principles, which, in some way or other, exercised an influence over the world and its inhabitants. To one they gave the name of Ormuzd, and invested him with the attributes of light and beneficence; the other they called Ahreman, and identified him with the notions of darkness and malignity. It has often been disputed, whether these two principles were considered as self-existing, co-eternal gods, or whether they were subject to a third and superior power. Plutarch evidently considered that both of them had a beginning, and that one of them at least would come to an end; for he says that Ormuzd took its rise from light, and Ahreman from darkness; so that light and darkness must have existed before them: and he adds, that the time would come when Ahreman would be destroyed, and an age of pure, unmixed happiness, would commence." "Upon the whole," (adds Professor Burton,) "I cannot but consider that those persons have taken a right view of this intricate subject, who represent the Persians as having been always worshippers of one Supreme God."

"It is true that the simplicity of their worship was soon corrupted; and the heavenly bodies, particularly the great source of light and heat, became the object of adoration. It is undoubted that the sun, under the name of Mithra, received from them the highest honours; and it will solve

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

58 title page

A

RELIGIOUS ENCYCLOPÆDIA:

DICTIONARY

BIBLICAL, HISTORICAL, DOCTRINAL, AND PRACTICAL THEOLOGY.

BASED ON THE REAL-ENCYKLOPÄDIE OF HERZOG, PLITT, AND HAUCK.

EDITED BY

PHILIP SCHAFF, D.D., LL.D.,

PROFESSOR IN THE UNION THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY, NEW YORK.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS:

REV. SAMUEL M. JACKSON, M.A., AND REV. D. S. SCHAFF.

VOLUME III.

EDINBURGH:
T. & T. CLARK, 38 GEORGE STREET.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." - John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." - Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

58 pages 1887-1888

PREDESTINATION.

1887

PREMILLENNIALISM.

PREMILLENNIALISM.

PREMILLENNIALISM.

though not yet refuted by any scientific exposi-tion from the orthodox side. Such an exposition was first given by Augustine, but was by him given at once both in polemical form, against the consequently, implicitly present in the Calvinistic fatalism of the Manichæans (De natura boni, etc.), and in positive form (De prædestinatione sanctorum, and Semi-Pelagians, were, nevertheless, carried victoriously through the controversy by the syn-ods of Arelate (472), Lyons (475), and Orange (529). A new stage in the development is indi-cated by Gottschalk. He made reprobation an dix, p. 72, and in this work under the separate a controversy, in which Prudentius, Ratrannus, preformeren accee, Zurice, 1003-00, 2 vois.; and Servatus Lipus, John Scotus, Remigius, and Luthardt Die Lehre com freien Willen, Leipzig, others, took part, and which was brought to a 1863; [J. Fornes: Predestination and Freecill, conclusion in a rather violent manner by the syncols of Chiersy (833) and Valance (835). During PREMILLENNIALISM (Millenarianism, Christopher Christopher Christopher (Millenarianism, Christopher conclusion in a rather violent manner by the syn-ods of Chiersy (353) and Valance (853). During PREMILLEM (Millenarianism. Chris- the middle age the views of Augustine suffered than Chilliam), in all its forms, makes two affir-— Augustinianism, and generally the whole question of predestination, entered into full light, and parent between the Lutheran doctrine, formed by Melanchthon, represented in the Formula Concorrianism, hypothetical universalism, etc. knowledge of God is untenable; for divine prethe latter point, the difficulty has been solved in various ways, of which the so-called theory of national election and the so-called theory of ecsiastical individualism are the most remarkable. ualism extends predestination to individual man, of Christ will occupy the whole millennial period, but without making it absolute with respect to beginning with the resurrection of the righteous, by Calvin, and set forth in the Confess. Gall. The views of Augustine, though exagger- and Confess. Belg., and, in a somewhat mitigated ated by his pupils, and rejected by the Pelagians form, in the Confess. Helcet. and the Heidelberg Catechism.

Lit. - The enormously rich literature belongelement of predestination, and thereby, as well as heads. See A. Schweizer: Die Protestantischen by his general treatment of the subject, he caused Centraldogmen in three Entwickelung innerhalb der achteriores in which Prudentius. Ratramnus. reformirten Kirche, Zürich, 1854-56, 2 vols.; and considerable restrictions from the Thomists, and mations; viz., (1) That the Scriptures teach us to were altogether abandoned by the Scotists. His expect an age on earth of universal righteous-infralapsarian tenet, that God elects whom he was, called the "millennium," from Rev. xx. 1-5; though retained by Anselm and Peter Lombard, by the personal, visible return of the Lord Jesus, gradually died away, and had to be revived by to establish over the whole world a theocratic Thomas Bradwardine, Wiclif, Hus, and the other precursors of the Reformation. With the Red Interprecursors of the Reformation. With the Red Interpretation of pseudo-thing and Calvin, however,—Luther, Zwingli, and Calvin, among Christians, such as teach that the saints - whether by means of material force, as the Anabaptists and Fifth-Monarchy Men, or by moral received its confessional statement; though from that very period a striking difference becomes aption; — this all premillennialists join the Augsburg Confession in denying; (2) from the Jewish dia, and further developed by Schleiermacher and chiliasin, as opposed to which it is held, (a) That Martensen, and the Reformed doctrine in all its the inheritance of the kingdom is conditioned, different forms, - infralapsarianism, supralapsa- not by race or ritual observance, but by regeneration only; (b) That the delights and occupations The two great stumbling-stones which embar-rassed the theological development of the doc-to the nature of a perfectly sanctified spirit, and of trine of predestination were, on the one side, a a body spiritual and incorruptible; (c) That the singular misconception of the divine prescience, millennial kingdom will not be final, but transiand, on the other, inability to harmonize the idea tional. As to the time of the advent, premilof absolute fore-ordination with the idea of divine lennialists hold that it is unknown. However justice. With respect to the former point, it is evident, that when the Arminians admit the fore-knowledge of God, but deny the fore-ordination, have deprecated such attempts as utterly unscriphave deprecated such attempts as utterly unscriphave. making election and reprobation depend upon tural, and of mischievous tendency. It is agreed, faith and repentance, their conception of the forepose of God, by the preaching of the gospel sufscience is something more than the prophet's ficiently to serve the purpose of a witness among knowledge of the future. With God, to know all nations: "Then shall the end come." As to and to do are identical. The prescience of God is the resurrection, it is believed that the resurreccreative. There is, consequently, between pre- tion of the righteous will precede that of the science and predestination the necessary relation wicked by a period called, in Rev. xx., "a thouof a general to a specific term. With respect to sand years;" during which, as most understand, many not attaining the first resurrection will remain in the flesh upon the earth. As to the udgment, while premillennialists hold, with the Church universal, that Christ will come to reward The theory of national election confines election all men according to their works, they claim that to communities and nations; that is, only communities and nations are by God predestinated to administrations of kingly rule; all which shall have the knowledge of the true religion and the external privileges of the gospel granted or denied to them. The theory of ecclesiation is divid"restoration of all things." This judgment-work brought to true repentance, and own the Crucified on earth, as hinted in Isa. lxv. 20, though in submen who from the beginning had rebelled with him, raised from the dead, will then be judged ism" (Dorner: Doctrine of the Person of Christ, di-with received such an impetus, that since then it vision i. vol. i. p. 408). It was "already received has probably had more advocates of high ability and ending with the resurrection and judgment of the wicked, and the full establishment of the "new heavens and the new earth." In this judgment-period, most agree that the Scriptures teach us to expect the following events: — First of all, immediately upon the advent of the Lord take place "the first resurrection," or exanosizais (Phil. 1811). The Testaments of the Twelve Patriarchs (Jud. 1811). iii. 11), of the righteous dead, and the translation 25, Benj. 10), the Shepherd of Hermas (Vis. 1, 3); of all believers then found living, "caught up together... to meet the Lord in the air," who will History, iii. 39); is set forth by Justin the Martyr then be rewarded according to their works; also, (Dial. 80, 81), still more fully pleneaus (Adc. with the advent, begins upon earth the last great Har., v. 23, 25-36) and Tertullian (Adr. Marc. tribulation, wherein the Lord and his risen people lib. iii. 24). The first recorded opponent of the with him "rule the nations with a rod of iron, and break them in pieces like a potter's vessel" (Rev. ii. 27; Ps. ii. 9). As the final issue, Israel, previously restored, in part or wholly,—in unberging the opposition to the Montanists, who must think,—to their own land, looking faith, the dislike to the gross form in which some upon Him whom they have pierced, shall be individuals presented the doctrines, and still more through the influence of Origen and the Alexanas their Messiah (Zech. xii. 10; Rev. i. 7), the drian allegorizing school of interpretation, chili-hosts of antichrist be destroyed, Satan bound, and the theocratic kingdom of the Son of man estab-part of the fourth century, however, some emilished over the remnant of Israel and the escaped nent men — as. e.g., Nepos, Cyprian, Methodius, of the Gentiles. To the dispensation of Pente- and Lactantius (Inst., vii. et seq.) — held the doccost, in which we now live, shall then succeed the trine; but when, in Constantine, Christianity dispensation of ingathering. The Holy Ghost reached the throne of the Roman Empire, the will be poured out as never before: as now individuals, so then whole nations, shall be saved. confirmed by the weighty authority of Augustine, Yet, during this transitional millennial age, it is that the millennial reign, formerly expected to commonly understood that sin shall still remain begin with the second advent, was really to be reckoned from the first, and was therefore a realordination to everywhere prevailing rightcous-ness. When that age shall end, Satan, released, heathen State. That doctrine, with unessential will make a last attempt to regain his lost domin-ion, but in vain; for he, his angels, and all of men who from the beginning had rebelled with premillennialism can hardly be said to have existed. With the Reformation of the sixteenth according to their works, and cast into the lake century shortly re-appeared the ancient chiliastic of fire. The earth, renewed by fire, delivered now hopes; as, e.g., in Piscator, Tycho Brahe, and a hopes; as, e.g., in Piscator, Tycho Brahe, and a forever from sin and the curse, becomes the eter-nal home of a holy humanity, over whom the Son f man, subject to the Father, shall rule forever as the head of a redeemed people. In this out- ment of the premillennial doctrine. It had much line of belief, while it is believed that most mod-influence; and a little later Lightfoot complains ern premillennialists agree, it is yet true, of that chiliastic views were then held by "very course, that on many minor points they differ many" (Works, vol. vi. p. 168). "The most of among themselves. This is the case, e.g., as to the question how intimate and continuous shall (1643-49) are said by Baillie, the antichiliast hisbe the relation of the Lord and the risen saints torian of the Assembly, to have been "express be the relation of the Lord and the risen saints to the subject nations of the unglorified during is thinks." Almong the English Baptists of the the millennial age; as to whether, beyond that age, the human race will continue to exist in the defesh upon the earth; as to what shall be the precise position of Israel in that age; and, in general, as to many details concerning the exact of the Assembly, to have been expressed that the same period, premilennialism appears in a categories upon the earth; as to what shall be the precise position of Israel in that age; and, in general, as to many details concerning the exact of the same period, premilennialism appears in a categories upon the precise provided the precise provided that the same period, premilennialism appears in a categories upon the precise provided that the same period, premilennialism appears in a categories upon the precise provided that the precise provided that the precise provided the precise provided the precise provided that the precise provided the precise provided that the precise provided that the precise provided precise position of Israel in that age; and, in gregarian and in the eighteenth century, in Engeneral, as to many details concerning the exact Jurieu, and in the eighteenth century, in Engeneral, as to many details concerning the exact Jurieu, and in the eighteenth century, in Engeneral as to many details concerning the exact Jurieu, and in the eighteenth century, in Engeneral Aurieu, and in the eighteenth century, in Engeneral Au essential features. I lady, taught, in one form or another, premillentic is commonly agreed by the best modern historians, that, from the death of the apostles till century, the Berleburg Bible, with its premillentians, that, from the death of the apostles till century, the Berleburg Bible, with its premillentians, that the death of the apostles till century, the Berleburg Bible, with its premillentians, the death of the apostles till century, the Berleburg Bible, with its premillentians. the time of Origen, premillennialism was the gen-nialist annotations, and, still more, the exposireal faith of those who were regarded as strictly tory works of J. A. Bengel, were doing much to orthodox Christians. If it had some elements in the properties of the second of the eighteenth century from being derivable from it, it may in part be came a great awakening of interest in the study of the prophecies; and premillennialism there.

13 - TTT

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." - John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." - Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

58 page 1889

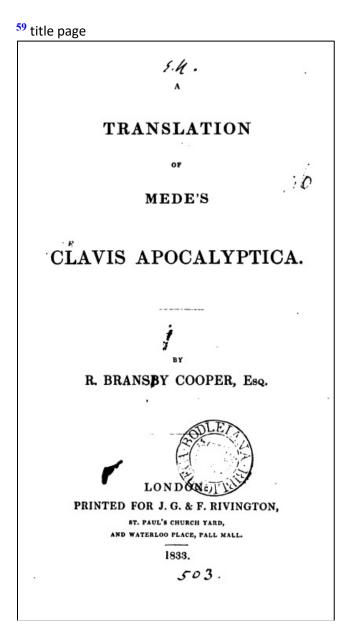

PREMILLENNIALISM.

1889 PREMILLENNIALISM.

and standing in the church than at any time since of universal restoration, as Jukes (Restitution of the second century. The names of Professors all Things, London, 1877). But premillennialists Delitzsch, Van Oosterzee, Von Hofmann, Aubergenerally differ in nothing from other evangelical len, Nitzsch, Ebrard, Rothe, Lange, Christlieb, Christians as to the fundamentals of faith or Luthardt, Gaussen, Godet, with many others, illus- practice. In the work of home and foreign evantrate this fact. In 1870 the Free Christian Church gelism they appear to be specially active. in Italy incorporated the doctrine into its Con- Lit. - The literature of premillennialism is fession of Faith. In the United Kingdom, among dissenters, the Plymouth Brethren, as elsewhere, ties. For primitive chiliasm see the writings of and a few prominent individuals in other bodies, the second, third, and fourth centuries above re--as, e.g., Drs. H. and A. A. Bonar, Drs. George Gilfillan, Jamieson, Fausset, and Cumming, consulted the following exceptical works of a have advocated premillennialism; but the most in the non-episcopal communions reject it. In menti, Tübingen, 1742; JOEL JONES: Notes on the Episcopal Church, however, a large proportion | Scriptures, Phila., 1861; Ellicott: Commentary -according to some, the majority of the clergy - on First and Second Thessalonians (Lond., 1866), are on the premillennialist side. The doctrine and on Second Timothy, 1869; Delitzsch: Com is taught more or less fully in the writings of mentary on isaiah, Edinb., 1869; Riggerbacht: Archbishop Trench, Bishops Ellicott, Ryle, Can-Commentary on First and Second Thessalonians, in ons Birks, Hoare, Fremantle, Drs. E. Bickersteth, American trans. of Lange's Bibelwerk; Alford: Tregelles, the late Dean Alford, and many others. The Greek Testament, etc., 4th ed., Lond., 1874, Tregelles, the late Dean Alford, and many others. In America, until lately, the doctrine has been especially vol. iv., prolegomena, vol. xxxiii., and p. 732. The following deal specifically with the tate Dr. N. Lord, Joel Jones, Ll. D., Drs. R. J. Breckenridge and Lillie. Recently, however, through the influence, no doubt, of the writings of Lange, Van Oosterzee, Alford, and others, and the popular teaching of Mr. Moody dothers, and the popular teaching of Mr. Moody dother premilennialist evangelists, belief in the doctrine has been expression. In October, and the prophetic and the the doctrine has been spreading. In October, tensive research; J. P. Lange: Commentary on 1878, a public conference of premillennialists was Revelation, New York, 1874, especially Excursus of held in New York, similar to one convened in February, 1878, in London, by Canon Fremantle, Canon Hoare, Dr. H. Bonar, Prebendary Auriol, pp. 93, 339, 352. Among many German works of and others. Ten denominations were represented to the call for the convention, of which forty-nine belonged to various Presbyterian bodies, twenty- Daniel u. d. Offenbarung Johannis, 3 Aufl., Basel, three to the Baptists, the remainder to the Epis- 1874. The subject is treated dogmatically by copalians, Lutherans, etc. The large church of GILL: Complete Body of Dicinity, Lond., 1791, with the Holy Trinity (Dr. S. H. Tyng's) was well filled some notable variations from above scheme; R. J. throughout the three-days' sessions; and in the country at large an unusual degree of interest was awakened, as was evident both from the numerous notices and discussions in the periodical religious press, and the remarkably large sate. Tensers: Christian Dogmatics, Eng. trans., Edinb., numerous notices and the remarkably large sate of the New-York Tribune's Extra, containing the large of Christ, Lond., 1872, pp. 577–582, 794–803, and althorized report of the proceedings. In the public state, the full and satisfactory. In German see ROTHE: copalians, Lutherans, etc. The large church of Gill: Complete Body of Divinity, Lond., 1791, with authorized report of the proceedings. In the full and satisfactory. In German see ROTHE: Church of Rome, premillennialism has never Dogmatik, ii. pp. 67-77, LUTHARDT : LAPER of M. maintained itself; though a very few individuals, letzien Dingen, 2 Aufl., Leip., 1870. Of a more popular as, notably, the Jesuit Lacunza and Père Lambert, in the beginning of this century, have written on that side. The same remark may be made Outlines of Unjulfilled Prophecy, London, 1854; of the Greek Church also, though even in Russia Molyneux: The World to Come, London, 1853; are a few individuals and sects who make the H. Bonar: Prophetical Landmarks, Lond., 1859; J. 1843. More recent developments of the same desideratum. Corroot's Geschichte d. Childsmus kind may be instanced in the so-called "Over- (Zurich, 1781-83), the standard authority, full of comers" of America and the Hofmannite Ger-information, only reaches to 1783, and, as has man colony in Palestine. The original body of been observed, is not written with impartiality.

voluminous. We can but indicate a few authoriin the hundred and twenty-two names appended gung u. Erfellung, Nordl., 1841-44; Koch: Das Tausendjährige Reich, Gütersl., 1860; AUBERLEN: ular character are E. BICKERSTETH: A Practice premillennial advent a part of their creed. Occa- H. Brookes: Maranatha, 5th ed., St. Louis, 1878; sionally, some holding this doctrine have gone to familiar asserting the solution of the depth o disciples of Mr. W. Miller in America, led astray of the Prophetic Conference, Chicago, 1879. A by his calculation of the time of the advent in satisfactory history of premillennialism is yet a "Adventists" have departed from the Catholic He denies the genuineness and inspiration of the faith in denying the conscious life of the soul Apocalypse. The student will find most satisfacbetween death and the resurrection, and teaching tion in recent histories of doctrine, as Nitzsch, the total annihilation of the impenitent. A few others have connected with chiliasm the doctrine ond centuries) DORNER: History of the Doctrine

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁵⁹ page 42

2 CLAVIS APOCALYPTICA.

- v. 6, 7. "Alleluia! for our Lord God Omnipotent has begun to reign. Let us be glad, and rejoice, and give glory to Him; for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready." But the "new Jerusalem is the spouse of the Lamb, adorned and prepared for her husband," c. xxi. v. 2. "And I saw," says he, "the Holy City, New Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, as a wife adorned for her husband;" and, v. 9, "Come, and I will show you, the bride, the Lamb's wife." Therefore, it will both begin and be contemporary with the seventh trumpet.
- 2. New Jerusalem is the beloved city; but that beloved city, as soon as the thousand years are finished, is said to be compassed out by the last forces of Satan, then set at liberty. c. xx. v. 9. "And they compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city." Therefore it must have existed before, while Satan was bound. To these two arguments, either for the sake of confirmation, or of illustration and ornament, two others seem proper to be subjoined.
- 3. As soon as the seventh phial has been poured out, "a great voice proceeded from the Throne, saying, $\Gamma i\gamma \sigma \nu \varepsilon$, It is done, c. xvi. 19. In like manner, c. xxi. v. 5, 6. "He who sat on the Throne" said to John, as he saw the New Jerusalem descending from heaven, "Behold,

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

60 pages p.287-288

NOTE 13.

288

NOTE 13.

ciples: and the passage quoted from Theodoret, concerning Marcion's four principles, may be illustrated from an expression of Timotheus Prebyter, who says, that " Marcion "supposed there to be four unoriginated substances of "things: but he also contracted these four into two; one " of whom he called good and unknown; the other he " called the Demiurgus and just and evil." Upon the whole I have no doubt that Marcion believed strictly in the unity of God: but he also held that matter was eternal, and that the world was created by an inferior being to whom he gave the name of God. His celebrity arose, not so much from his introducing any new doctrines, as from his enlarging upon those, which had been taught before him: as Cyprian says of him', "He added to the impiety of Cerdon, and thought " fit to blaspheme God the Father and Creator more shame-" lessly and more openly, and furnished still more wicked " and fatal weapons to those heretics, who were madly and " sacrilegiously rebelling against the church." Whoever wishes to see more concerning the belief of a plurality of Gods or principles, as held by Marcion and others of the ancients, may consult Cudworth and Mosheim's Annotations, vol. I. p. 298, &c.

With respect to the other opinions held by Marcion, he denied the incarnation of Christ in every sense of the term: he believed the body of Jesus to be unsubstantial and illusive. Tertullian observes, that his disciple Apelles allowed that Christ had a body, but denied that he was born: " admissa carne nativitatem negarex;" and we are enabled to explain this statement by what Epiphanius tells us of Apellesy, that he believed "Christ to have come and not "to have appeared illusively, but to have assumed a real "body, not from the Virgin Mary, but to have had a real " fleshy body, neither begotten by a father, nor born of a " virgin; but that he had real flesh in the following manner: " when he came from heaven to earth, he brought a body " with him composed from the four elements." Tertullian goes on to say, that Valentinus, another disciple of Marcion, believed both the incarnation and nativity of Christ; but explained them in a different manner. According to Irenæus, it was the opinion of Valentinus that Jesus took nothing from Mary 2: which, as he truly observes, is the same thing as to have believed his body to be a phantom. Epiphanius enables us to understand these two statements, and explains the true doctrine of Valentinus to have been, άνωθεν κατενηνοχέναι το σωμα, καὶ ώς διά σωλήνος ύδωρ, διά Μαρίας της παρθένου διεληλυθέναι. μηδεν δε άπο της παρθενικής μήτρας είλη-Φέναι, άλλα αναθεν τὸ σῶμα έγεινα. These then were the three different ways in which the nativity of Christ was denied or explained away by Marcion and his followers, though some writers have not been careful to observe the distinction b.

' Epist. LXXIV. p. 138. • Irengus probably meant this, when he said, that Marcion believed Jesus to be "in hominis forms manifestatum." 1. 27. 2. p. 106. Tertullian says it expressly in his work against Marcion: particularly III. 8. p. 401. and also de curne Christi, 1. p. 307. " Marcion, ut carnem Christi negaret, negavit " etiam nativitatem ; aut ut nativitatem negaret, negavit et carnem."

The Marcionites denied the resurrection of the flesh c: and believed in a transmigration of soulsd. I do not find that they are anywhere charged with leading immoral lives, like many of the Gnostics: but, on the contrary, they are stated to have enjoined mortification of the body, to have abstained from animal food and from marriagec. Epiphanius speaks of their rejecting the Law and the Prophets! and Theodoret goes so far as to say, that they rejected the whole of the Old Testaments. But I only understand from these statements, that they did not look upon the Old Testament as inspired by God: a notion which was held by all the Gnostics, and which flowed naturally from their common principle, that the supreme God was not the God of the Jews. There can however be no doubt that Marcion mutilated the New Testament, and particularly the Gospel of St. Luke: he rejected the two Epistles to Timothy, that to Titus and the Hebrews, and the Apocalypsen: he also are Tertull. de Præscript. Hæret. 33. p. 214. Theodoret, Haret. Fab. 1. 24. p. 211. Epiphanius, Har. XLII. 3. p. 304.

^{*} De carne Christi, 1. p. 307: 6. p. 311.

* Hmr. XLIV. p. 381. According to Theodoret, (Epist. 145. vol. III. p. 1024.) this notion had been held before by Basilides.

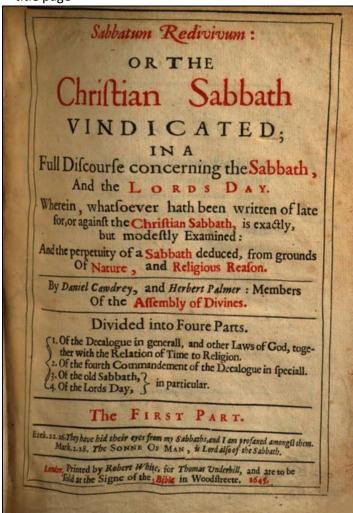

^{*} solls in eng Maging tilaping. V. 1. 2. p. 292. * Hær. XXXI. 7. p. 171. b Thus the Pseudo-Athanasius (cont. omnes Hæreses, 8. vol. II. p. 235.) speaks of Marcion, Valentinus, and Basilides, as all believing in dia and green vone waerdforen vor nuger din var agentreu uni awugerapus Magins, though this, as we have seen, was the opinion of Valentinus only. So Gennadius (de Dogmat Eccles. c. 2.) and Vigilius (adv. Eutych. l. III.) speak of Marcion believing Christ to have brought a body from heaven, which body was conceived by Mary.

p. 211. Epiphanius, 1.er., A.L.1. 3. p. 309.

d Epiphanius, l. c. p. 305.
d Iren, I. 28. 1. p. 107. Tertull. De Præscript. 30. p. 212. edv. Marc. I.
1. p. 366. Clem. Alex. Strom. III. 3. p. 515.
d Hær. XLII. 4. p. 305.
d Hæret. Fab. I. 24. p. 210.
h Ittigius (De Hæresiarchis, p. 141.) only infers, that Marcion rejected the Apocalypae, because Cerdon did so: but Tertullian says expressiy, Apocalypae, because Cerdon did so: but Tertullian says expressiy, Marcelypae, because Cerdon did so: but Tertullian says expressiy, " Apocalypsim ejus (Joannis) Marcion respuit." adv. Marc. IV. 5. p. 415.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

61 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

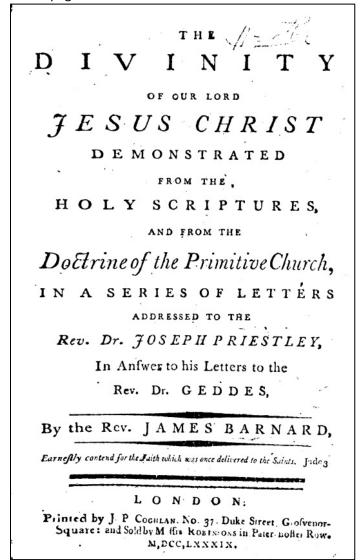

61 page 575

as a Sabbath, with Reft S.C. Chap.2. 575 4. This will be yet more manifest, if we consult the context of those words. They are an inference made from something gone before; Therefore let us no longer keep Sabbath Jewishly, &c. In the former words, p. 56. Ignatius thus writes; Suffer not your selves to be seduced, &c. nor attend to the fewish pride; old things are paffed away, &c. For if yet we shall live after the Fewish Law, and circumcision of the sless, we deny that we have received grace, &c. If therefore they flicking to the ancient writings; have been frustrated of their hope; how can we live without Christ ? And then he concludes, Let us therefore no longer keep the Sabbath, &c. Implying both the abolition of the Jewish day, as of circumcifion, &c. and also much more the Jewith manner of observing it , in idlenesse, &c. There are only two things that are objected against this Interpretation; 1. That Ignatius must be understood, as the conneell of Laodicea must, who command Christians to labour on the Jewish Sabbath; but how farre? Conceive it (fays the Historian) fo 20.76. far forth, as they were no impediment to the the publick meetings then appointed. But this will not fatisfie Ignatins : For if he command to celebrare the Sabbath, but not in a fewish manner; he first makes it a Festivall; which cannot be, for he would have all men keep Festivall the Lords day onely . And then, by the same rule, he may fet up circumcision, which he had formerly cried down; And laftly, we see not how he differs from the Ebionites, who kept both days holy, and were condemned for bereticks. 2. It is or may be faid, that Ignatius himfelf feems elsewhere to effablish the Sabbeth, when with great zeal he affirmes, If Epift. ad Philip. any one do fast, either the Lords day, or the Sabbath, except one. (which was Easter Eve) he was a murderer of Christ: But this may rather argue, this paffage(if not the Epiftle) to be fourious. unleffe it be qualified . They did not in the Eastern Church faft on that day, but nor did they keep it as a Festivall, bot h these were forbidden: yet (its known) the Roman Church did commonly make it a Fasting day; and shall we conclude, that they were all murderers of Christ? Or shall we think, that Ignatius that had so declaimed against the Sabbath, and advanced the Lordi day in the former Epiftle, would in another, fet up the Sabbarb again, and equall it with the Lords day > Most likely there-Thusbur, fore it is, that this Father did cry down the Sabbath (as of those words. They are an inference made from something gone before; Therefore let us no longer keep Sabbath Jewishly, &c. In the former words, p. 56. Ignatius thus writes; Suffer not your selves to be seduced, &c. nor attend to the fewish pride; old things are passed away, &c. For if yet we shall live after the fewish Law, and circumcision of the sless, we deny that we have received grace, &c. If therefore they sticking to the ancient writings, have been frustrated of their hope; how can we live without Christ? And then he concludes, Let us therefore no longer keep the Sabbath, &c. Implying both the abolition of the sewish day, as of circumcision, &c. and also much more the sewish manner of observing it, in idlenesse, &c. There are only two things that are objected against this Interpretation;

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

62 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

62 page 93-94

(93)

The Divinity of Christ proved from the Writings of the Holy Fathers, and others who lived in the First and Second Century.

DT. Ignatius, who testifies that he himself saw Jesus Christ in the flesh after his resurrection: who was afterwards a disciple of the Evangelist St. John, and was by him made Bishop of Antioch in the year 68, which Church he governed from that time till his glorious martyrdom at Rome in the year 107. fays. Epift. ad Smyrnæos, p. 1. " I glorify Jesus Christ the God who " hath given you fo great wildom-who was truly of " the race of David according to the flesh, and the Son " of God-according to the will and power of God .--I faw him in the flesh after his refurrection, and I believe him to be truly alive.—p. 7. Ye have done " well towards Philo and Reus, and Agathopus, who followed me in preaching the word of God, by receiving them as the Ministers of Christ our God: " and they now return thanks to God for you."

Ep. ad Polycarpum, p. 16. "Salute him whom you shall send into Syria. I pray that grace in Jesus Christ our God may be with him in all things."

Ep. ad Ephesios, p. 21. "There are some who with with a wicked deceit bear about, or preach, the name of Christ, but do some things unworthy of God. These it behoves you to avoid as you would wild beasts. For they are mad dogs who bite privily: and it behoves you to guard against them, being difficult of cure. There is one Physician, who is both a corporal and a spiritual Physician; begotten, and unbegotten; made according to the stellar, who was the immortal God and the true life; Icsus Christ our Lord who was born of Mary, and was also born of God. First passible and then im-" passible."-p. 27. " According to the disposition of " God's providence, Jesus Christ our God was conceived by Mary who was of the race of David; but his conception was by the power of the Holy Ghost." "God manifesting himself in a human form, for our renovation to eternal life."-And p. 29. he calls Jefus Christ, " the Son of Man, and the Son of God." Ep. ad Mognessos, p. 33. "I exhort you to do all things in concord and the love of God, the Bishop " prefiding as holding the place of God, the Priests as " holding the place of the Apostles, and the Deacons " who are very dear to me, having committed to them " the Ministry of Jetus Christ, who was with the Fa-" ther before all ages, and at length appeared .- p. 34. " Be not led allray by heterodox spinions .- For if we " now live according to the Jewish Law, we confess that " we have not received the Law of Grace. For the " most godly prophets lived according to Jesus Christ. " For which reason, being inspired by his grace, they " endured perfecution, to tellify to the incredulous " that there is one God, who hath manifelted himfelf " by Telus Christ his Son who is his eternal Word. " who did not proceed from filence, and who in all " things was well-pleafing to him who fent him."-In the former of these passages he expresses the preexistence of the Son of God before the creation of the world: and in the latter condemns the doctrine and practice of the Ebionites who afferted the necesfity of living according to the Jewish Law.

94 Divinity of Christ.

Josephus the Jewish historian who lived in the Apostolick Age, lib. 18. c. 4. says. "About the same time lived a certain person called Jesus, a wise man, if it be lawful to call him a man. He was a great worker of miracles, and was the teacher of those who with joy receive the doctrines of truth; and he had a great

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

63 title page

ANTE-NICENE

CHRISTIAN LIBRARY:

TRANSLATIONS OF
THE WRITINGS OF THE FATHERS

DOWN TO A.D. 325.

EDITED BY THE

REV. ALEXANDER ROBERTS, D.D.,

AND

JAMES DONALDSON, LL.D.

VOL. II.

JUSTIN MARTYR AND ATHENAGORAS.

EDINBURGH: T. AND T. CLARK, 38, GEORGE STREET.

> MDCCCLXVII. HD /67/203

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

63 pages 100-101

100

DIALOGUE WITH TRYPHO.

now1-(for I have read that there shall be a final law, and a covenant, the chiefest of all, which it is now incumbent on all men to observe, as many as are seeking after the inheritance of God. For the law promulgated on Horeb is now old, and belongs to yourselves alone; but this is for all universally. Now, law placed against law has abrogated that which is before it, and a covenant which comes after in like manner has put an end to the previous one; and an eternal and final law-namely, Christ-has been given to us, and the covenant is trustworthy, after which there shall be no law, no commandment, no ordinance. Have you not read this which Isaiah says: 'Hearken unto me, hearken unto me, my people; and, ye kings, give ear unto me: for a law shall go forth from me, and my judgment shall be for a light to the nations. 'My righteousness approaches swiftly, and my salvation shall go forth, and nations shall trust in mine arm?'2 And by Jeremiah, concerning this same new covenant, He thus speaks: 'Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah; not according to the covenant which I made with their fathers, in the day that I took them by the hand, to bring them out of the land of Egypt'3). If, therefore, God proclaimed a new covenant which was to be instituted, and this for a light of the nations, we see and are persuaded that men approach God, leaving their idols and other unrighteousness, through the name of Him who was crucified, Jesus Christ, and abide by their confession even unto death, and maintain piety. Moreover, by the works and by the attendant miracles, it is possible for all to understand that He is the new law, and the new covenant, and the expectation of those who out of every people wait for the good things of God. For the true spiritual Israel, and descendants of Judah, Jacob, Isaac, and Abraham (who in uncircumcision was approved of and blessed by God on account of his faith, and called the father of many nations), are we who have been led to God through this crucified Christ, as shall be demonstrated while we proceed.

DIALOGUE WITH TRYPHO.

101

CHAP. XII.—The Jews violate the eternal law, and interpret ill that of Moses.

I also adduced another passage in which Isaiah exclaims: "'Hear my words, and your soul shall live; and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David. Behold, I have given Him for a witness to the people: nations which know not Thee shall call on Thee; peoples who know not Thee shall escape to Thee, because of thy God, the Holy One of Israel; for He has glorified Thee.'1 This same law you have despised, and His new holy covenant you have slighted; and now you neither receive it, nor repent of your evil deeds. 'For your ears are closed, your eyes are blinded, and the heart is hardened,' Jeremiah? has cried; yet not even then do you listen. The Lawgiver is present, yet you do not see Him; to the poor the gospel is preached, the blind see, yet you do not understand. You have now need of a second circumcision, though you glory greatly in the flesh. The new law requires you to keep perpetual sabbath, and you, because you are idle for one day, suppose you are pious, not discerning why this has been commanded you; and if you eat unleavened bread, you say the will of God has been fulfilled. The Lord our God does not take pleasure in such observances: if there is any perjured person or a thief among you, let him cease to be so; if any adulterer, let him repent; then he has kept the sweet and true sabbaths of God. If any one has impure hands, let him wash and be pure.

CHAP. XIII .- Isaiah teaches that sins are forgiven through Christ's blood.

"For Isaiah did not send you to a bath, there to wash

¹ Editors suppose that Justin inserts a long parenthesis here, from "for" to "Egypt." It is more natural to take this as an anacoluthon. Justin was going to say "But now we trust through Christ," but feels that such a statement requires a preliminary explanation.

² According to the LXX., Isa. li. 4, 5. ³ Jer. xxxi. 31, 32.

¹ Isa. lv. 3 ff. according to LXX.

² Not in Jeremiah; some would insert, in place of Jeremiah, Isaiah or for strifes and debates, and smite the humble with your fists. Why do ye fast for me, as to-day, so that your voice is heard aloud? This is not the fast which I have chosen, the day in which a man shall afflict his soul. And not even if you bend your neck like a ring, or clothe yourself in sackcloth and ashes, shall you call this a fast, and a day acceptable to the Lord. This is not the fast which I have chosen, saith the Lord; but loose every unrighteous bond, dissolve the terms of wrongous covenants, let the oppressed go free, and avoid every iniquitous contract. Deal thy bread to the hungry, and lead the homeless poor under thy dwelling; if thou seest the naked, clothe him; and do not hide thyself from thine own flesh. Then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thy garments1 shall rise up quickly: and thy righteousness shall go before thee, and the glory of God shall envelope thee. Then shalt thou cry, and the Lord shall hear thee: while thou art speaking, He will say, Behold, I am here. And if thou take away from thee the yoke, and the stretching out of the hand, and the word of murmuring; and shalt give heartily thy bread to the hungry, and shalt satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light arise in the darkness, and thy darkness shall be as the noon-day: and thy God shall be with thee continually, and thou shalt be satisfied according as thy soul desireth, and thy bones shall become fat, and shall be as a watered garden, and as a fountain of water, or as a land where water fails not.'2 Circumcise, therefore, the foreskin of your heart, as the words of God in all these passages demand.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

63 pages 106 & 108

06 DIALOGUE WITH TRYPHO.

CHAP. XVI.—Circumcision given as a sign, that the Jews might be driven away for their evil deeds done to Christ and the Christians.

"And God himself proclaimed by Moses, speaking thus: 'And circumcise the hardness of your hearts, and no longer stiffen the neck. For the Lord your God is both Lord of lords, and a great, mighty, and terrible God, who regardeth

¹ ἰμάτια; some read ἰάματα, as in LXX., "thy health," the better reading probably.
² Isa. lviii. 1-12.

DIALOGUE WITH TRYPHO.

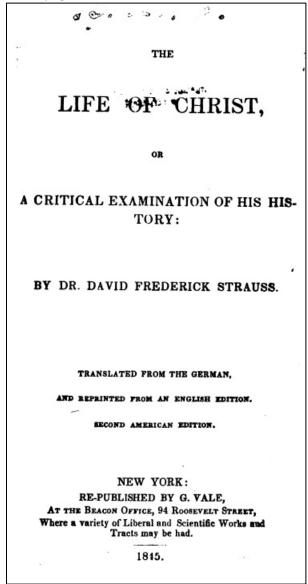

108

CHAP. XVII.—The Jews sent persons through the whole earth to spread calumnies on Christians.

"For other nations have not inflicted on us and on Christ this wrong to such an extent as you have, who in very deed are the authors of the wicked prejudice against the Just One, and us who hold by Him. For after that you had crucified Him, the only blameless and righteous Man,-through whose stripes those who approach the Father by Him are healed,-when you knew that He had risen from the dead and ascended to heaven, as the prophets foretold He would, you not only did not repent of the wickedness which you had committed, but at that time you selected and sent out from Jerusalem chosen men through all the land to tell that the godless heresy of the Christians had sprung up, and to publish those things which all they who knew us not speak against us. So that you are the cause not only of your own unrighteousness, but in fact of that of all other men. And Isaiah cries justly: 'By reason of you, my name is blasphemed among the Gentiles.'1 And: 'Woe unto their soul! because they have devised an evil device against themselves, saying, Let us bind the righteous, for he is distasteful to us. Therefore they shall eat the fruit of their doings. Woe unto the wicked! evil shall be rendered to him according to the works of his hands.' And again, in other words:2 'Woe unto them that draw their iniquity as with a long cord, and their transgressions as with the harness of a heifer's yoke: who say, Let his speed come near; and let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel come, that we may know it. Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put light for darkness, and darkness for light; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter!'3 Accordingly, you displayed great zeal in publishing throughout all the land bitter and dark and unjust things against the only blameless and righteous Light sent by God. For He appeared distasteful to you when He cried among you, 'It is written, My house is the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves!'4 ¹ Isa, lii, 5, ² Isa, iii, 9 ff. ³ Isa, v. 18, 20, 4 Matt. xxi. 13.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

64 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

64 pages 6-7

STRAUSS'

to remain side by side, although he attributed to them different values; but he contended, that in particular cases, either the literal explication gives no sense at all, or one that is grossly absurd; and, in order that the reader may be stimulated to discover the mystical sense. it will be exceedingly useful to point out the simple inferiority of the literal sense when compared with the thore profound but concealed sense. Origines repeats in many parts of his work, that biblical recitals transmit to us, not old fables, but admirable advice, to live with truthfulness and practise justice; he, besides, also sustains, that in many histories, the sense purely fiteral would lead to the destruction of the Christian religion; and he boldly applies to the relation between the literal explication and the allegorical explication of the Scripture, the sentence, that "the letter killeth, but the spirit vivifieth." But he absolutely abandons the literal sense when he asserts that all passages of Scripture have a spiritual sense, but that all passages have not a corporeal sense,-that there is often a spiritual truth under a corporeal falsehood,-that the Scripture has incorporated with history many things which have never happened—and that the mind which does not perceive that the Scripture relates many events as having really happened which could not have taken place in the manner related, must be weak and bounded in its operations. To the number of recitals, which none ought to understand in any other than an allegorical manner, Origines (besides those which appear to give to God a character too purely human) counts particuharly those where certain personages, placed in a kind of close relationship with God, are said to have committed reprehensible acts.

But if Origines found in his Christian researches reasons so far to wander from the ancient Testament, and to declare, that in order to preserve a proper respect for that book, he was constrained to palliate, by the aid of an allegorical explication, the contradiction and misgiving he felt rising in his own bosom; his philosophical mind did not moreover permit him to accord with, or accept many passages of the New Testament-so for that book also he was led to adopt the same course of allegorical explication. The New Testament (thought he) is the work of the same mind which has dictated the old; and that mind could not have acted in the production of the one, otherwise than in the production of the other: that is to say, he would have incorporated with the things which literally happened, things which have not happened, and never had a real existence, and thus recall us to the spiritual sense. Origines goes even so far as to draw a parallel, by no means doubtful, between the evangelical relations and the recitals, in part fabulous, drawn from the history of profane mythology. That parallel is to be found in the remarkable passage, Contra Celsum, 1, 42, where the author thus expresses himself: "In almost all history, however true it may be, it is difficult, and sometimes even impossible, to demonstrate the reality of that truth. Let us suppose some one should take it into his head, that there never had been a war of Troy, and maintain his assertion on the ground that certain things incorporated with that history, could not by any possibility have been true, such as the birth of Achilles from a goddess of the sea, &c., how should we be able to prove to him the reality of that history, loaded and borne down as we should be by the evident inventions which, in a manner unknown, mix themselves with the generally admitted notion of a conflict between the Greeks and the Trojans?" Here, then, we perceive that which alone is practicable, and the man who desires to study history with judgment, and place himself beyond the reach of its illusions, will consider what part of that history he ought to believe, without more ample information,what part, on the other hand, he ought not to conceive, than in a symbolical manner Tive of Tromologyfree remembering the design of the narrators,-and, finally, what part he ought to suspect as the production of human error and deceit. "I have wished (says Origines, in conclusion) to apply these preliminary remarks to the whole history of Jesus given in the Evangelists, not in order

LIFE OF CHRIST.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

65 title page

THE STUDENT'S ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY.

THE HISTORY

OF THE

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

DURING THE FIRST TEN CENTURIES:

FROM ITS FOUNDATION TO THE FULL ESTABLISHMENT OF THE HOLY ROMAN EMPIRE AND THE PAPAL POWER.

By PHILIP SMITH, B.A.,

AUTHOR OF THE 'STUDENT'S OLD TESTAMENT HISTORY, AND THE 'STUDENT'S NEW TESTAMENT HISTORY.'

WITH ILLUSTRATIONS.

LONDON:

JOHN MURRAY, ALBEMARLE STREET

1878.

[The right of translation is reserved.]

110. j. Digitz 560g

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

65 page 147

CENT. III.-IV. SCHOOL OF ANTIOCH.

147

II .- GREEK WRITERS OF THE SCHOOL OF ANTIOCH.

§ 14. The divines of the Eastern Church, who are classed as the School of Antioch, exhibit a marked distinction from the theology and exegetical methods of the Alexandrian school. To this school belongs SEXTUS JULIUS AFRICANUS, an older friend of Origen (probably a presbyter (though late writers say bishop) of Emmaus (Nicopolis) in Palestine (ob. A.D. 232). Africanus travelled to Alexandria, and attended the lectures of Heraclas. He is classed with Clement and Origen, and was esteemed the most learned of the early Christian writers. His knowledge of Hebrew may be inferred from his letter to Origen against the authority of the Book of Susannah, which is still extant, with Origen's answer in defence of the book. We have also some extracts of his letter to Aristides on the genealogies of Christ in Matthew and Luke;3 but the rest of his highly esteemed Scripture criticisms are lost. He is still famous as the compiler of the first of those chronological works by which Christian scholars aimed at exhibiting the annals of the world in a connected series, parallel with the Scripture history. His Five Books of Chronology, from the Creation, which he placed at B.c. 5499, to the fourth year of Elagabalus (A.D. 221), formed the basis of the Chronicon of Eusebius.4 There is also attributed to Africanus a sort of commonplace book of his varied learning on all manner of subjects, to which he gave the fanciful title of Keotoi (Cesti), "Embroidered Girdles." from Homer's famous cestus of Aphrodite, in imitation of the Stromata of Clement and Origen. Extracts from it have been published, relating to mathematics, agriculture, and the art of war; and other parts are said to exist in manuscript. Such an example proves that the time had come when the widest range of knowledge was embraced in the studies of Christian teachers.

The school of Antioch is considered to have received its final distinctive character from the presbyters DOROTHEUS (died about A.D. 290) and LUCIAN (martyred A.D. 311): the latter prepared a critical edition of the Septuagint, and perhaps also of the Greek Testament. The sober and careful biblical criticism of this school reached its

L 2

¹ Jerome names Emmaus as his birthplace (Vir. Illust. 63); but Suidas calls him a Libyan. It was through his intercession, as ambassador to Elagabalus, that Emmaus was restored, after being burnt down, and named Nicopolis.

² Socrates, H. E. ii. 35.

² Euseb. H. E. vi. 23; Phot. Bibl. 34.

⁴ As the work of Africanus was incorporated with that of Eusebius, it was not preserved as a whole; but many fragments of it are quoted in the Chronicles of Syncellus and Cedrenus, and the Chronicon Paschale. They are collected in Gallandi's Bibliotheca and Routh's Reliquia Sacras.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

66 title page

HISTORY

OF THE

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

BY

PHILIP SCHAFF

Christianus sum: Christiani nihil a me alienum puto

VOL. II.

ANTE-NICENE CHRISTIANITY.

A. D. 100-825.

FIFTH EDITION, REVISED.

NEW YORK
CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS
1891

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

66 pages 483-485

§ 127. MARCION AND HIS SCHOOL.

483 484

SECOND PERIOD. A. D. 100-311.

§ 127. MARCION AND HIS SCHOOL.

485

HIPPOL: Philos. VII. 29 (ed. Duncker and Schneidewin, pp. 382-394). EPIPHANIUS: Har. XLII. PHILASTER: Har. XLV. The Armenian account of ESNIG in his "Destruction of Heretics" (5th century), translated by Neumann, in the "Zeitschrift für histor. Theologie," Leipzig, vol. IV. 1834. Esnig gives Marcionism more of a mystic and speculative character than the earlier fathers, but presents nothing which may not be harmonized with them.

- II. NEANDER (whose account is too charitable), BAUR (I. 213-217), MÖLLER (Gesch. der Kosmologie, 374-407), FESSLER (in Wetzer and Welte, VI. 816-821), JACOBI (in Herzog, V. 231-236), SALMON (in Smith and Wace, III. 816-824). AD. HILGENFELD: Cerdon und Marcion, in his "Zeitschrift für wissenschaftl. Theol." Leipz. 1881, pp. 1-37.
- III. On the critical question of Marcion's canon and the relation of his mutilated Gospel of Luke to the genuine Gospel of Luke, see the works on the Canon, the critical Introductions, and especially Volkmar: Das Evangelium Marcions, Text und Kritik (Leipz. 1852), and Sanday: The Gospels in the Second Century (London, 1876). The last two have conclusively proved (against the earlier view of Baur, Ritschl, and the author of "Supernat. Rel.") the priority of the canonical Luke. Comp. vol. I. 668.

MARCION was the most earnest, the most practical, and the most dangerous among the Gnostics, full of energy and zeal for reforming, but restless, rough and eccentric. He has a remote connection with modern questions of biblical criticism and the canon. He anticipated the rationalistic opposition to the Old Testament and to the Pastoral Epistles, but in a very arbitrary and unscrupulous way. He could see only superficial differences in the Bible, not the deeper harmony. He rejected the heathen mythology of the other Gnostics, and adhered to Christianity as the only true religion; he was less speculative, and gave a higher place to faith. But he was utterly destitute of historical sense, and put Christianity into a radical conflict with all previous revelations of God; as if God had neglected the world for thousands of years until he suddenly appeared in Christ. He represents an extreme anti-Jewish and pseudo-Pauline tendency, and a magical supranaturalism, which, in fanatical zeal for a pure primitive Christianity, nullifies all his tory, and turns the gospel into an abrupt, unnatural, phantomlike appearance.

Marcion was the son of a bishop of Sinope in Pontus, and gave in his first fervor his property to the church, but was excommunicated by his own father, probably on account of his heretical opinions and contempt of authority.1 He betook himself, about the middle of the second century, to Rome (140-155), which originated none of the Gnostic systems, but attracted them all. There he joined the Syrian Gnostic, CERDO, who gave him some speculative foundation for his practical dualism. He disseminated his doctrine by travels, and made many disciples from different nations. He is said to have intended to apply at last for restoration to the communion of the Catholic Church, when his death intervened.2 The time and place of his death are unknown. He wrote a recension of the Gospel of Luke and the Pauline Epistles, and a work on the contradictions between the Old and New Testaments. Justin Martyr regarded him as the most formidable heretic of his day. The abhorrence of the Catholics for him is expressed in the report of Irenæus, that Polycarp of Smyrna, meeting with Marcion in Rome, and being asked by him: "Dost thou know me?" answered: "I know the first-born of Satan."3

Marcion supposed two or three primal forces $(\partial \rho \chi a\hat{i})$: the good or gracious God $(\partial \varepsilon \delta \zeta \ \partial \gamma a \partial \delta \zeta)$, whom Christ first made known; the evil matter $(\delta \lambda \eta)$, ruled by the devil, to which heathenism belongs; and the righteous world-maker $(\delta \eta \mu \iota o \iota \rho \gamma \delta \zeta \delta i \kappa \iota a \iota c \zeta)$, who is the finite, imperfect, angry Jehovah of the Jews. Some writers reduce his principles to two; but he did not identify the demiurge with the hyle. He did not go into any further speculative analysis of these principles; he rejected the pagan emanation theory, the secret tradition, and the allegorical interpretation of the Gnostics; in his system he has no Pleroma.

no Æons, no Dynameis, no Syzygies, no suffering Sophia; he excludes gradual development and growth; everything is unprepared, sudden and abrupt.

His system was more critical and rationalistic than mystic and philosophical. He was chiefly zealous for the consistent practical enforcement of the irreconcilable dualism which he established between the gospel and the law, Christianity and Judaism, goodness and righteousness.3 He drew out this contrast at large in a special work, entitled "Antitheses." The God of the Old Testament is harsh, severe and unmerciful as his law; he commands, "Love thy neighbor, but hate thine enemy," and returns "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth;" but the God of the New Testament commands, "Love thine enemy." The one is only just, the other is good. Marcion rejected all the books of the Old Testament, and wrested Christ's word in Matt. 5: 17 into the very opposite declaration: "I am come not to fulfil the law and the prophets, but to destroy them." In his view, Christianity has no connection whatever with the past, whether of the Jewish or the heathen world, but has fallen abruptly and magically, as it were, from heaven.3 Christ, too, was not born at all, but suddenly descended into the city of Capernaum in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius, and appeared as the revealer of the good God, who sent him.

¹ The Armenian bishop, Esnig, however, brings it nearer to the other forms of Gnosticism. According to him Marcion assumed three heavens; in the highest dwelt the good God, far away from the world, in the second the God of the Law, in the lowest his angels; beneath, on the earth, lay Hyle, or Matter, which he calls also the power (δίναμις) or essence (οἰνοία) of the earth. The Hyle is a female principle, and by her aid, as his spouse, the Jewish God of the Law made this world, after which he retired to his heaven, and each ruled in his own domain, he with his angels in heaven, and Hyle with her sons on earth. Möller (p. 378) is disposed to accept this account as trustworthy. Selmon thinks it such a system as Marcion may have learned from Cerdo, but he must have made little account of the mystic element, else it would be mentioned by the earlier writers.

¹ Epiphanius and others mention, as a reason, his seduction of a consecrated virgin; but this does not agree well with his asceticism, and Ireneus and Tertullian bring no charge of youthful incontinence against him.

² So Tertullian; but Ireneus tells a similar story of Cerdo. Tertullian also reports that Marcion was repeatedly (semel et iterum) excommunicated.

^{*} Adv. Har. iii. c. 3, § 4: Ἐπεγενώσκω τὸν πρωτότοκον τοῦ Σατανά.

² Separatio legis et evangelii proprium et principale opus est Marcionis." Tertullian, Adv. Marc I. 19.

^{2 &}quot;Subito Christus, subito Joannes. Sic sunt omnia apud Marcionem, quæ suum et plenum habent ordinem apud creatorem." Tert. IV. 11.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

67 title page

A HISTORY

OF

THE CHRISTIAN COUNCILS,

FROM THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS,

TO THE CLOSE OF THE COUNCIL OF NICÆA,
A.D. 325.

BY THE

RIGHT REV. CHARLES JOSEPH HEFELE, D.D.,

BISHOP OF ROTTENBURG,

FORMERLY PROFESSOR OF THEOLOGY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF TÜBINGEN.

Eranslated from the German, and Edited

By WILLIAM R. CLARK, M.A.,

PREBENDARY OF WELLS AND VICAS OF TAUNTON.

SECOND EDITION, REVISED.

EDINBURGH: T. & T. CLARK, 38, GEORGE STREET. 1894.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

67 pages 322-324

322 HISTORY OF THE COUNCILS.

fact, the first Œcumenical Council of Nicæa was occupied with this business. We are ignorant of the detailed debates on this subject, knowing only the result as we find it in the encyclical letter of the Council, and in the Emperor's circular.

In the former document, the Council thus addresses the Church of Alexandria, and its well-beloved brethren in Egypt, Libya, and Pentapolis: "We give you good news of the unity which has been established respecting the holy passover. In fact, according to your desire, we have happily elucidated this business. All the brethren in the East who formerly celebrated Easter with the Jews, will henceforth keep it at the same time as the Romans, with us, and with all those who from ancient times have celebrated the feast at the same time with us."

The Emperor Constantine made the following announcement in his letter to all who were not present at the Council:

"When the question relative to the sacred festival of Easter arose, it was universally thought that it would be convenient that all should keep the feast on one day; for what could be more beautiful and more desirable, than to see this festival, through which we receive the hope of immortality, celebrated by all with one accord, and in the same manner? It was declared to be particularly unworthy for this, the holiest of all festivals, to follow the custom (the calculation) of the Jews, who had soiled their hands with the most fearful of crimes, and whose minds were blinded. In rejecting their custom, we may transmit to our descendants the legitimate mode of celebrating Easter, which we have observed from the time of the Saviour's Passion to the present day (according to the day of the week). We ought not therefore to have anything in common with the Jews, for the Saviour has shown us another way: our worship follows a more legitimate and more convenient course (the order of the days of the week); and consequently, in unanimously adopting this mode, we NICEA: DECISION OF THE EASTER QUESTION.

323 324

HISTORY OF THE COUNCILS.

desire, dearest brethren, to separate ourselves from the detestable company of the Jews, for it is truly shameful for us to hear them boast that without their direction we could not keep this feast. How can they be in the right,-they who, after the death of the Saviour, have no longer been led by reason, but by wild violence, as their delusion may urge them? They do not possess the truth in this Easter question; for, in their blindness and repugnance to all improvements, they frequently celebrate two passovers in the same year.1 We could not imitate those who are openly in error. How, then, could we follow these Jews, who are most certainly blinded by error? for to celebrate the passover twice in one year is totally inadmissible. But even if this were not so, it would still be your duty not to tarnish your soul by communications with such wicked people (the Jews). Besides, consider well, that in such an important matter, and on a subject of such great solemnity, there ought not to be any division. Our Saviour has left us only one festal day of our redemption, that is to say, of His holy passion, and He desired (to establish) only one Catholic Church. Think, then, how unseemly it is, that on the same day some should be fasting, whilst others are seated at a banquet; 2 and that after Easter, some should be rejoicing at feasts, whilst others are still observing a strict fast. For this reason, Divine Providence

When the "fell before the equinox, the Jews kept the passover also before the equinox; but as the new solar year had not then commenced, the Jews had celebrated two passovers in the course of one solar year (from one spring to another).

Supposing the & fell on a Friday, the Ebionite Quartodeciman celebrated the feast of the passover on that day, but the Catholics regarded the day as a rigorous fast. But even among the orthodox it was possible that some should be fasting while others were feasting. The Johannean Quartodecimans (see above, p. 313) finished their fast on the & at midnight, and thus it might be on Thursday, whilst the Westerns continued their fast till Sunday. Finally, the Westerns, or followers of the ordinary custom, were not at one among themselves. Those, for instance, as the Protopaschites, who paid no regard to the equinox, or who placed it on a wrong day, might have (as we have seen, p. 321) their Easter feast and fast about a month earlier than the others, and consequently were fasting while these were feasting, and their fast was long past when it was beginning with the others.

When, e.g., the Protopaschites had celebrated their Easter, their fast was at an end, while the Equinoctialists still had their fast. Besides, the Johannean and Ebionite Quartodecimans ended their fast and had their Easter on the wills that this custom should be rectified and regulated in a uniform way; and every one, I hope, will agree upon this point. As, on the one hand, it is our duty not to have anything in common with the murderers of our Lord, and as, on the other, the custom now followed by the Churches of the West, of the South, and of the North, and by some of those of the East, is the most acceptable, it has appeared good to all, and I have been guarantee for your consent, that you would accept it with joy, as it is followed at Rome, in Africa, in all Italy, Egypt, Spain, Gaul, Britain, Libya, in all Achaia, and in the dioceses of Asia, of Pontus, and Cilicia. You should consider not only that the number of churches in these provinces make a majority, but also that it is right to demand what our reason approves, and that we should have nothing in common with the Jews. To sum up in few words: by the unanimous judgment of all, it has been decided that the most holy festival of Easter should be everywhere celebrated on one and the same day, and it is not seemly that in so holy a thing there should be any division. As this is the state of the case, accept joyfully the divine favour, and this truly divine command; for all which takes place in assemblies of the bishops ought to be regarded as proceeding from the will of God. Make known to your brethren what has been decreed, keep this most holy day according to the prescribed mode; we can thus celebrate this holy Easter day at the same time, if it is granted me, as I desire, to unite myself with you; we can rejoice together, seeing that the divine power has made use of our instrumentality for destroying the evil designs of the devil, and thus causing faith, peace, and unity to flourish amongst us. May God graciously protect you, my beloved brethren." 1

We find no further details in the acts. But it is easy to understand that the Fathers of the Council took as the basis of their decision the computation which was most generally admitted among orthodox Christians, that is, the one which regulated the $\iota\delta$ according to the equinox, and Easter Sunday and consequently might feast whilst the Westerns continued their fast to the Sunday.

¹ Socrates, Hist. Eccles. i. 9.

^{*} Socrates, L.c.; Theodoret, Hist. Eccl. i. 10; Euseb. Vita Const. iii. 17.

^{*} Socrates, i. 9.

^{*} We must read itous, not itous, as the Mainz impression of the edition of Valerius has it.

¹ Euseb. Vita Const. iii. 18-20.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

67 pages 325

NICÆA: DECISION OF THE EASTER QUESTION.

325

according to the is. We have a letter of Constantine's upon this point, which clearly shows the mind of the Council; for, according to this letter, the Synod requires, 1st, that Easter day should always be a Sunday (and therefore decides against the Quartodecimans); and 2d, that it should never be celebrated at the same time as the feast of the Jews. It results from this second decision, that according to the Synod, if the ιδ' should fall on a Sunday, Easter was not to be celebrated on that Sunday, but a week later. And this for two reasons: (1) Because the & indicates the day of the Saviour's death, and that the festival of the resurrection ought to follow that day, and not to coincide with it; (2) because in those years when the 18 should fall on a Sunday, Christians would be celebrating their Easter at the same time as the Jews, which was what the Synod wished to avoid. The third decision made at Nicæa was (3) to forbid Christians to celebrate Easter twice in one year; that is to say, that the equinox should be considered in all calculations about Easter.

In my opinion, there is no doubt that Constantine, in his letter, which has every appearance of being a synodical letter, mentioned only the decisions really arrived at by the Council. This indubitable fact being once admitted, it must certainly be acknowledged also that the Synod was right in giving rules for determining Easter day. Perhaps it did not explain expressly the principles which formed the basis of the three decisions given above, but undoubtedly all these decisions showed them sufficiently. When Ideler maintains1 "that the rule clearly enunciated in S. Epiphanius² had not been expressly prescribed by the Council of Nicæa," this opinion has no foundation, unless Ideler plays upon the word expressly; for Epiphanius gives, as the basis of his computation, the same three rules already laid down by the Nicene Council and in the letter of Constantine,-the observation of the Equinox, placing the & after the equinox, and placing the Sunday after the io. Ideler appears to me to have too easily accepted the theories in the second book of Christian Walch's Decreti Nicani de Paschale explicatio, which are opposed to our opinions.

Note: To match Sun God, Apollo, worship to appease the pagan Romans - Christ's resurrection day was fixed to Sunday, and they also wanted to distance themselves further from Christian Jewish roots, so they didn't want to rely on using the Jewish calendar to calculate Passover and the resurrection. Note added on: 11/16/2018

¹ Ideler, ii. 207. ² Epiph. Hær. 50. 3 and 70. 11.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

68 title page

THE WORKS

0

AURELIUS AUGUSTINE,

BISHOP OF HIPPO.

A NEW TRANSLATION.

EDiteb bp the

REV. MARCUS DODS, D.D.

VOL. XIV.

THE CONFESSIONS OF SAINT AUGUSTINE

EDINBURGH:
T. & T. CLARK, 38 GEORGE STREET.

MDOCCLEXXVI.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

68 page 115

CHAP. IV. THE LETTER AND THE SPIRIT.

115

the prophets were laid before me, to be perused, not new with that eye to which they seemed most absurd before, when I censured Thy holy ones for so thinking, whereas in truth they thought not so; and with delight I heard Ambrose, in his sermons to the people, oftentimes most diligently recommend this text as a rule,—"The letter killeth, but the Spirit giveth life;" whilst, drawing aside the mystic veil, he spiritually laid

1 2 Cor. iii. 6. The spiritual or allegorical meaning here referred to is one that Augustine constantly sought, as did many of the early Fathers, both Greek and Latin. He only employs this method of interpretation, however, in a qualified way-never going to the lengths of Origen or Clement of Alexandria. He does not depreciate the letter of Scripture, though, as we have shown above (iii. sec. 14, note), he went as far as he well could in interpreting the history spiritually. He does not seem, however, quite consistent in his statements as to the relative prominence to be given to the literal and spiritual meanings, as may be seen by a comparison of the latter portions of secs. 1 and 3 of book xvii. of the City of God. His general idea may be gathered from the following passage in the 21st sec. of book xiii. :- "Some allegorize all that concerns paradise itself, where the first men, the parents of the human race, are, according to the truth of Holy Scripture, recorded to have been; and they understand all its trees and fruit-bearing plants as virtues and habits of life, as if they had no existence in the external world, but were only so spoken of or related for the sake of spiritual meanings. As if there could not be a real terrestrial paradise! As if there never existed these two women, Sarah and Hagar, nor the two sons who were born to Abraham, the one of the bond-woman, the other of the free, because the apostle says that in them the two covenants were prefigured! or as if water never flowed from the rock when Moses struck it, because therein Christ can be seen in a figure, as the same apostle says: 'Now that rock was Christ' (1 Cor. x. 4). . . . These and similar allegorical interpretations may be suitably put upon paradise without giving offence to any one, while yet we believe the strict truth of the history, confirmed by its circumstantial narrative of facts." The allusion in the above passage to Sarah and Hagar invites the remark, that in Galatians iv. 24, the words in our version rendered, "which things are an allegory," should be, "which things are such as may be allegorized." ["Arma isto allayopeuma. See Jelf, 398, sec. 2.] It is important to note this, as the passage has been quoted in support of the more extreme method of allegorizing, though it could clearly go no further than to sanction allegorizing by way of spiritual meditation upon Scripture, and not in the interpretation of it-which first, as Waterland thinks (Works, vol. v. p. 311), was the end contemplated by most of the Fathers. Thoughtful students of Scripture will feel that we have no right to make historical facts typical or allegorical, unless (as in the case of the manna, the brazen serpent, Jacob's ladder, etc.) we have divine authority for so doing; and few such will dissent from the opinion of Bishop Marsh (Lecture vi.) that the type must not only resemble the antitype, but must have been designed to resemble it, and further, that we must have the authority of Scripture for the existence of such design. The text, "The letter killeth, but the Spirit giveth

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

69 page 158

158 CONFESSIONS OF ST. AUGUSTINE.

BOOK VIL

it. O Eternal Truth, and true Love, and loved Eternity!1 Thou art my God; to Thee do I sigh both night and day. When I first knew Thee, Thou liftedst me up, that I might see there was that which I might see, and that yet it was not I that did see. And Thou didst beat back the infirmity of my sight, pouring forth upon me most strongly Thy beams of light, and I trembled with love and fear; and I found myself to be far off from Thee, in the region of dissimilarity, as if I heard this voice of Thine from on high: "I am the food of strong men; grow, and thou shalt feed upon me; nor shalt thou convert me, like the food of thy flesh, into thee, but thou shalt be converted into me." And I learned that Thou for iniquity dost correct man, and Thou dost make my soul to consume away like a spider.2 And I said, "Is Truth, therefore, nothing because it is neither diffused through space, finite, nor infinite?" And Thou criedst to me from afar, "Yea, verily, 'I AM THAT I AM.'" And I heard this, as things are

If we knew not God, he says, we could not love Him (De Trin. viii. 12); but in language very similar to that above, he tells us "we are men, created in the image of our Creator, whose eternity is true, and whose truth is eternal; whose love is eternal and true, and who Himself is the eternal, true, and adorable Trinity, without confusion, without separation" (De Civ. Dei, xi. 28); God, then, as even the Platonists hold, being the principle of all knowledge. "Let Him," he concludes, in his De Civ. Dei (viii. 4), "be sought in whom all things are secured to us, let Him be discovered in whom all truth becomes certain to us, let Him be loved in whom all becomes right to us."

2 Ps. xxxix. 11, Vulg.

³Ex. iii. 14. Augustine, when in his De Civ. Dei (viii, 11, 12) he makes reference to this text, leans to the belief, from certain parallels between Plato's doctrines and those of the word of God, that he may have derived information concerning the Old Testament Scriptures from an interpreter when in Egypt. He says : "The most striking thing in this connection, and that which most of all inclines me almost to assent to the opinion that Plato was not ignorant of those writings, is the answer which was given to the question elicited from the holy Moses when the words of God were conveyed to him by the angel : for when he asked what was the name of that God who was commanding him to go and deliver the Hebrew people out of Egypt, this answer was given : "I am who am; and thou shalt say to the children of Israel, He who is sent me unto you :' as though, compared with Him that truly is, because He is unchangeable, those things which have been created mutable are not, -a truth which Plato wehemently held, and most diligently commended. And I know not whether this sentiment is anywhere to be found in the books of those who were before Plato, unless in that book where it is said, 'I am who am; and thou shalt say

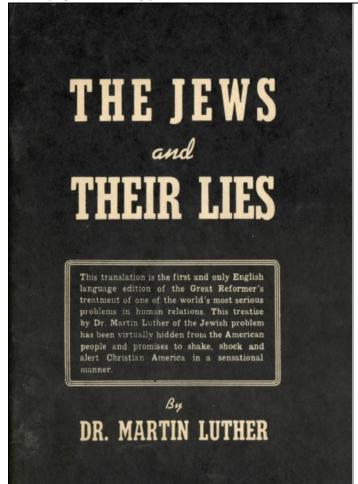

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁰ original title page in German (We strongly condemn all Anti-Semitism)

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁰ title page (We strongly condemn all Anti-Semitism)

Published by

CHRISTIAN NATIONALIST CRUSADE

P. O. Box 27895

Los Angeles 27, California

First English translation to be published in the U. S. A.

Date of Publication: May, 1948

Attention, Reader: This book is not published for sectarian purposes. The publishers, as indicated above, are also publishing the edicts of more than 20 popes who dealt with the Jewish problem. Their edicts are as strong as anything contained in this work by Dr. Martin Luther.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

70 pages 8 & pages 39-40 (We strongly condemn all Anti-Semitism)

I had decided not to write anymore, neither of the Jews, nor against the Jews. Because I have learned, however that those miserable, wicked people do not cease trying to win over to themselves us, that is, the Christians also, I have permitted this booklet to go forth that I might be found among those who have resisted such poisonous undertaking of the Jews, and have warned the Christians to be on their guard against them. I would not have thought that a Christian would permit himself to be fooled by the Jews to share their exile and misery. But the Devil is the God of the world, and where God's word is not, he has easy sailing, not only among the weak, but also among the strong. God help us. Amen.

MARTIN LUTHER.

them to dwell among us without charge, protect their schools, houses, body and goods, by which we make them lazy and secure and help them confidently to squeeze from us our money and goods, and in addition to mock us and spit on us, hoping finally to overcome us and slay all of us for such great sin and take away all of our goods, as they daily pray for.

Now tell me, do they not have great cause to hate us cursed Goyim, to curse us and seek our final, thorough and eternal ruin?

Now what are we going to do with these rejected, condemned, Jewish people?

We should not suffer it after they are among us and we know about such lying, blaspheming and cursing among them, lest we become partakers of their lies, cursing, and blaspheming. We cannot extinguish the unquenchable fire of God's wrath (as the prophets say), nor convert the Jews. We must practice great mercy with prayer and godliness that we might rescue a few from the flame and violent heat.

We are not permitted to take revenge. Revenge is around their neck a thousand times greater than we could wish them. I will give you my true counsel: First, that we avoid their synagogues and schools and warn people against them. And such should be done to the glory of God and Christendom, that God may see that we are Christians and have not knowingly tolerated such lying, cursing and blaspheming of His Son and His Christians. For what we so far have tolerated in ignorance (I myself did not know it), God will forgive us. Now that we know it, however, and in spite should before our very noses tolerate such a building for the Jew in which they blaspheme, curse, spit upon and disgrace Christ and us, that would be simply too much, as if we did it ourselves and much worse, as you well know. Moses writes in Deuteronomy that where a city practiced idolatry, it should be entirely destroyed with fire and leave nothing. If he were living today he would be the first to put fire to the Jew schools and houses. [Followed by proofs from Scripture.1

Secondly, that you also refuse to let them own houses among us. For they practice the same thing in their houses as they do in their schools. Instead, you might place them under a roof, or stable, like the Gypsies, to let them know that they are not lords in our country as they boast, but in exile as captives; like without ceasing they howl bloody murder and complain about us before God.

-8-

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

70 pages 41-42 (We strongly condemn all Anti-Semitism)

Thirdly, that you take away from them all of their prayer books and Talmuds wherein such lying, cursing, and blaspheming is taught.

Fourthly, that you prohibit their Rabbis to teach. For they have forfeited the right to such an office, because they keep the poor Jews captive with the passage of Moses 7:11,12, who there commands them to obey their teachers under threat of losing body and soul. Moses clearly adds, "What they teach you according to the law of the Lord." This the profligates pass over, and use the obedience of the poor people for their own wilfulness against the law of the Lord, and pour out for them such poison and blasphemy.

Fifthly, that protection for Jews on highways be revoked. For they have no right to be in the land, because they are not lords, nor officials. They should stay at home. I am told that at this time a wealthy Jew is riding with twelve horses in our country. He wants to become a Kochab. [Star Bar-Kochba, "Star Son," false Messiah, was leader of the last rebellion of the Jews against the Romans 132/5 after Christ.]

He practices his usury on princes and lords, land and people. High officials close an eye to it. If you princes and masters do not forbid land and highways to such usurers, I would like to assemble a cavalry against you, because you will learn from this book what the Jews are and how they are to be treated and their activities not to be protected. For you should not and cannot protect them unless you want to be partners of their abominations. What good would be the result, you may well consider and perish.

Sixthly, that their usury be prohibited, which was prohibited by Moses, where they are not lords in their own country over strange lands, and take away all the currency and silver and gold and put it away for safe-keeping. For this reason, everything they have they have stolen from us (as said above) and robbed through their usury, since they have no other income. Such money should be used as follows: whenever a Jew is truly converted, he be given one, two, or three hundred flo (measure of money) according to his person, that he may begin to support his poor wife and child and/or support the aged and infirm. For such property which was obtained dishonestly is cursed where it is not turned to good use with God's blessing.

THEY EVEN BETRAYED MOSES

Whenever they boast that Moses had permitted them to practice usury against strangers, (Deuteron-

-41-

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

71 Martin Luther vs. Nazi Legislation and Actions Chart (We strongly condemn all Anti-Semitism)

Martin Luther vs. Nazi Legislation and Actions Chart
Martin Luther advocated the below in his treatise called "The Jews and their Lies".	Nazis were said to have used some of Luther's published works as propaganda, which helped pass the following Nazi legislation and actions.
1) "Put fire to Jew schools and houses." (page 40)	Kristallnacht "Night of Broken Glass" (November 9-10, 1938)
2) "refuse to let them own houses among us." (page 40)	The first Jewish ghetto Piotrków Trybunalski (October 8, 1939)
3) "take away from them all of their prayer books and Talmuds wherein such lying, cursing, and blaspheming is taught." (page 41) "prohibit their Rabbis to teach" (page 41)	Main Office for Press and Propaganda of the German Student Union proclaimed a nationwide "Action against the Un-German Spirit", Jewish book burning begins (April 8, 1933)
4) "take away all the currency and silver and gold" (page 42)	Decree on the Confiscation of Jewish Property (October 3, 1938)
5) "protection for Jews on highways be revoked" (page 41) "forbid land and highways to such usurers" (page 41)	Reich Ministry of Interior decree restricting the freedom of movement of Jews (November 28, 1938)
6) "not lords, nor officials" (page 41) "everything they have they have stolen from us, and have robbed through their usury, since they have no other income." (page 42)	Law for the Reestablishment of the Professional Civil Service removes Jews from government service. (April 7, 1933). Decree on the Exclusion of Jews from German Economic Life closes all Jewish-owned businesses. (November 12, 1938). The Frank Edict, which made it so Jews will no longer receive wages for their labor (March 3, 1941)
7) "no right to be in the land" (page 41) "their activities not to be protected. For you should not and cannot protect them unless you want to be partners of their abominations" (page 42)	First deportation of German Jews into occupied Poland begins (February 12, 1940)
We strongly condemn all Anti-Semitism © 2018 Peter D. Arvo (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0) Last updated: 8/5/2019 TheTorchbearerSeries.com

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷² title page

"HISTORY OF THE JEWS

BY

PROFESSOR H. GRAETZ

VOL. ITT

From the Revolt against the Zendik (511 C. E.) to the Capture of St. Jean d'Acre by the Mahometans (1291 C. E.)

. PHILADELPHIA

THE JEWISH PUBLICATION SOCIETY OF AMERICA

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷² page 511-513

A. XV. THE JEW-BADGE.

511 512

HISTORY OF THE JEWS.

CH. XV.

CH. XV. DEGRA

DEGRADATION OF THE JEWS.

513

bring forward even a show of reason for this canonical decree; neither the New Testament, nor the Fathers of the Church, however much they hated the Jews, had offered a precedent for it. The Lateran Synod was compelled to go back to the Provincial Council of Toledo, under Recared, king of the Catholic Visigoths, in order to find a precedent for this scandalous law. The depth of the degradation of the Jews, however, was reached by the decision of the council that Jews in all Christian countries and at all times should wear a dress differing from that of the Christians. The reason urged was that in many countries where Jews (and Mahometans) wore the ordinary costume, intermarriages took place between the Jews and the Christians. By a sophistical argument it was shown that this law was contained in the Bible, and that Moses had commanded the Jews to wear a peculiar dress. Therefore it was decreed that, from the twelfth year of their age, Jews were to wear a peculiar color as a badge of their race, the men, on their hats, and the women, on their veils. This stigma on the lews was an invention of Pope Innocent and of the Fourth Council assembled at Rome. It cannot, however, be strictly called an invention, because the pope borrowed the idea of forcing the lews to wear a peculiar badge from the fanatical Mahometans. The Almohade Prince of the Faithful of Africa and southern Spain, Abu-Yussuff Almansur, had forced those Jews who had adopted the Mahometan faith through compulsion to wear a hideous dress, heavy clothes with long sleeves, which almost reached the feet, and instead of turbans, large bonnets of the ugliest shape. Said this fanatic: "If I knew that the converted Jews had adopted the Mahometan belief with an upright heart, then I would allow them to intermarry with the Mussulmans. If, on the other hand, I were convinced that they are still sceptics, I would put the men to the sword, enslave their children, and confiscate their goods. But I am doubtful about this point; therefore they shall appear distinguished by a hateful uniform." His successor, Abu-Abdullah Mahomet Alnasir, allowed them to change this mean apparel for yellow garments and turbans. By this color the class of people who were outwardly Moslems, yet in their heart of hearts still Jews, was characterized in the first decade of the thirteenth century in the kingdom of Morocco. This barbarous treatment of the Jews, Pope Innocent III now imitated, and their greatest humiliation during six centuries of European life dates from November 30th, 1215.

Provincial councils, assemblies of estates and royal cabinets thenceforward, in addition to their deliberations on the exclusion of the Jews from all honors and offices, determined on the color, form, length and breadth of the Jew-badge, with pedantic thoroughness. The Jew-badge, square or round in form, of saffron yellow or some other color, on the hat or on the mantle, was an invitation to the gamin to insult the wearers, and to bespatter them with mud; it was a suggestion to stupid mobs to fall on them, to maltreat, and even kill them; and it afforded the higher class an opportunity to ostracize the Jews, to plunder them, or to exile them.

Worse than this outward dishonor was the influence of the badge on the Jews themselves. They became more and more accustomed to their ignominious position, and lost all feeling of self-respect. They neglected their outward appearance, because they were nothing but a despised, dishonored race, which could not have even the least claim to honor. They became more and more careless of their speech, because they were not admitted to cultured circles, and in their own midst they could make themselves understood by means of a jargon. They lost all taste and sense of beauty, and to some extent became as despicable as their enemies desired them to be. They lost their manliness and courage, and a child could place them in terror. The punishment which Isaiah had prophesied for the house of Jacob was fulfilled to the letter: "Thou shalt speak out of the ground, and thy speech shall be low out of the dust." The great misery of the lews during the Middle Ages began with Pope Innocent III. In comparison with their subsequent sufferings, all foregoing persecutions from the beginning of the Christian domination seemed like innocent bantering. But the Jews did not readily comply with the decree which forced them to wear the mark of shame. This was especially the case with the communities in Spain and southern France, which, having held an honorable position, would not suffer themselves to be humiliated without a struggle. Besides, there were influential Jews at the courts of Toledo and Saragossa, either as ambassadors to foreign courts or as treasurers of the royal coffers, who exerted their utmost efforts to prevent the enforcement of the decree. When Pope Innocent III died (1216), and Pope Honorius III, who was of a mild temperament compared with Innocent, ascended the papal throne, the Jews hoped for a repeal of this canonical law. Isaac Benveniste seems to have been particularly active in this direction, as he had been in trying to ward off the disgrace when first contemplated. They were successful in delaying the enforcement of the canonical decree. At least, King Alfonso IX of Leon did not compel the Jews of his land to wear the badge, and Pope Honorius was compelled to exhort the bishop of Valencia and two brother bishops to see that the decree was duly enforced, and that all Jews were excluded from offices of honor. The communities of southern France viewed with joy the victorious progress of the army of the repeatedly excommunicated Raymund VII of Toulouse against the crusading army

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷³ title page (it appears that someone vandalized the book by drawing an X on it.)

ROMANISM AS IT IS:

AN EXPOSITION OF THE

ROMAN CATHOLIC SYSTEM,

POR THE

USE OF THE AME ICAN PEOPLE;

EMBRACING A IN. ACCOUNT OF

ITS ORIGIN AND DEVELOPMENT AT MI AND FROM ROME, ITS DISTINCTIVE FEATURES IN THEORY AND PRACT E, TS CHARACTERISTIC TENDENCIES AND AIMS, ITS STATISTICAL AN MOR L POSITION, AND ITS SPECIAL RELATIONS TO AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS AND LIBERTIES;

THE W. I DRAWN P.

OFFICIAL AND JUTHENTIC SOURCES,

ARCHED WITH

NUMEROUS ILLUSTRATIONS, .

DOCUMENTARY, HISTORICAL, DES LIPTIVE, ANECDOTICAL, AND PICTORIAL; TOGETHER WITH A F .L AND COMPLETE IND X, AND

AN APPENDIX OF MATTERS From 871 to 1876.

By Rev. SAMUEL W. BARNUM.
Editor of the Comprehensive Dictionary of the Pole

HARTFORD, CONN:
CONNECTICUT PUBLISHING COMPANY.

J. H. CHAMBERS, St. LOUIS, MO.
1877.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷³ page 208

208

ECUMENICAL COUNCILS.

titure of temporal rights, not by the ring and staff, according to the former custom, but by a scepter.

The tenth ecumenical council of the Roman Catholics, held at the Lateran in 1139 under pope Innocent II., and attended by about 1000 bishops, condemned the views of the able and learned Arnold of Brescia (=Arnaldo da Brescia), who maintained that the clergy should not have secular property or authority, and wished to restore the old Roman government.

The eleventh ecumenical council, held at the Lateran in 1179 under pope Alexander III., and attended by more than 300 bishops, formally decreed that the Roman pontiff should be elected by a two-thirds vote of the cardinals (see Chapter V.), and sanctioned a crusade against the "heretics," in the South of France and elsewhere, known as Cathari (= pure ones), Patarenians, Albigenses, &c. (see Chapter XII.).

The twelfth ecumenical council, held at the Lateran in 1215 under pope Innocent III., and attended by more than 400 bishops, enacted a decree of excommunication and extermination against all heretics and their abettors, made it the chief business of the episcopal synodal tribunals to search out and punish heretics, inculcated the necessity of a new crusade to recover the Holy Land, determined several points of doctrine and discipline, especially requiring an annual confession of sins to the priest, and sanctioned the establishment of the two great orders of mendicant monks,—the Dominicans, to extirpate heresy,—and the Franciscans, to preach and assist the parochial clergy. The Catholic Almanac specifies the object of this council as "for general legislation."

The thirteenth ecumenical council, held at Lyons in France in 1245, under pope Innocent IV., and composed of about 140 bishops, excommunicated the German emperer Frederic II., who was deposed by the pope in the presence of the council, and decreed a general crusade for the recovery of the Holy Land. The French do not recognize this as one of the ecumenical councils, and Frederic's advocate appealed to a more

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁴ pages 85 & 88

THE CITY OF ROME AND ITS CONNECTIONS.

85

88 THE CITY OF ROME AND ITS CONNECTIONS.

dead were deposited after the bodies were burned. They are numerous, and some of them very capacious.

The Cloaca Maxima or great sewer of Rome, built, according to tradition, by the elder Tarquin, to drain the marshy ground between the Palatine and Capitoline hills, empties into the Tiber below the Ponte Rotto, and is still firm and useful after the lapse of nearly 2500 years. It is most solidly constructed, and bids fair to stand for ages yet to come. The archway where it enters the Tiber is at least 12 feet high, and is composed of three concentric courses of large blocks of the volcanic rock called peperino, put together without cement.

Rome has lived, in great measure, on the past; its chief industry is connected with curiosities of antiquity or of art. It has some trade and a few manufactures, as of strings for musical instruments, mosaics, jewelry, parchment, hats, gloves, silk and woolen fabrics, &c. Its population, which in the time of the emperor Vespasian amounted to several millions (some say 2,000,000; other 3,000,000, or more), afterwards greatly diminished, until, at about the end of the 8th century, it is said to have been only about 13,000; but, after this extreme depression, it again increased. Its population was given at 117,900 in 1813, at 180,200 in 1846, and at 215,573 in 1867. The number of priests and friars in Rome is about 4500; that of nuns about 1900; that of Jews nearly 4200. The Jews were, even under Pius IX., compelled to live mainly in the Ghetto, or Jewish quarter, which is the lowest and filthiest region in Rome, separated by a wall from the rest of the city, and situated on the east bank of the Tiber, opposite the north end of the island.

The city is divided into 14 districts or wards called rioni, 12 of which are on the east side of the river, several of them, besides the Rione Campo Marzo at the N. end of the city, being included principally or wholly within the ancient Campus Martius (= field of Mars). The two rioni on the west side are, the Borgo or Leonine city, which lies on the north and includes the Vatican; and the Trastevere (= over the Tiber).

phlets, and old Neapolitan newspapers, and, tying them up in a bundle, they sent them on before me to the police-office in Rome, where doubtless they were duly burned. It is but just to the papal government, however, that I should state, and it may be useful to other travelers to know, that my Italian New Testament was not detained. Not a line can be published without passing through the censorship. This holds good not of books or newspapers only, but also of the placards in the streets. The people are wretchedly poor. But wonderful, and at the same time deplorable, is it to think of the sums which are wrung out of the people by the minute and searching tyranny of a government which is itself poor to a by-word. One of the main engines of fleecing the people is the government lottery; the church taking advantage of the passion for gambling, so deplorably prevalent among the Romans, to draw a few pitiful scudi [= dollars] into her coffers."

"Rome," said Dr. J. G. Holland in 1869, " is nothing but a show. Its antiquities are a show. The pope and the various pageantries in which he takes a part are a show. The public museums do not assume to be any thing but a show. The churches are a show, and are visited ten times as much in consequence of their character as show-places as they are for the purposes of worship. The private palaces and villas are a show. Almost the entire income of Rome is drawn from the pockets of those who come to Rome to see its shows. The Rome of to-day is indeed nothing but a great museum of curiosities, papal and pagan, living and dead. The lovers of light and liberty are pining in her political prisons; her multitudinous beggars are licensed like porters and go around the streets with brass tickets hung to their necks. The Jews are still confined mainly to their dirty quarters, by him who assumes to represent the love of God in the Jew Jesus. There is no such thing as liberty in Rome-civil or religious. The people groan under a despotism more intensely hated than those who are unacquainted with its spirit and operations can possibly conceive."

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

75 title page

THE

CHURCHMAN'S MAGAZINE

AN

VILLAGE CHURCHMAN,

FOR

THE YEAR OF OUR LORD

1845.

REV. JOSHUA FAWCETT, M.A.,

INCUMBENT OF WISBEY, BRADFORD, YORK,

BD DOMESTIC CHAPLAIN TO THE RIGHT HONOURABLE THE LORD DUNSANY.

LONDON:

WILLIAM EDWARD PAINTER, 342, STRAND.

MDCCCXLV.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁵ page 366

Fifth of November.

dueps not. Oh! let us reasonber this, and let our peayers never sheep, that God may preserve us and our children, and our children's children, from being the victims of similar plots, or, what we may with tenfold fear tremble to think et, from being deluded by the decaitfulness of this great enemy into becoming allies, or even members of that blasphemous Charch. Many of the conspirators of the ganpowder plot were men of respectability, of amiable character, and apparently peaceful and upright lives. Among these we may specify Sir Everard Digby, who, though a Papist and at one time opposed to her government, yet, by his conduct and virtues, gained the esteem of Queen Elizabeth, and enjoyed her marked favour. So far was this man deluded by a false religion, and governed and blinded by the priests of his Church, that, even when preparing for his death (being executed as a traitor) he wrote to his wife, declaring "that if he had thought there had been the least sin in the plot he would not have been of it for all the world," and that "no other cause drew him to hazard his fortune and life but zeal to God's religion."

Oh! does not your heart pity this man, his wife, and all those who depended upon him?—yet he and his were far from being the only dupes of Rome at that period, as has been remarked-"there can be no doubt but the Reman Catholic nobility and gentry who conducted this plot supposed that the enterprize in which they jeoparded their fortunes and their lives was one which entitled those engaged in it to the special favour of heaven. Their whole proceedings were carried on most religiously. When they enlisted a new conspirator, he was pledged to secrecy by receiving the communion. Garnet, the superior of the English Jesuits, and Tesmond, one of the same order, represented the indiscriminate massacre, against which the consciences of even some of these men of bleed began to object, as a thing which the interests of religion de-manded." Let us then be earnest in prayer to the God of all mercies, that those who are now blinded by the great apostacy which now is so boastful in our land may be led to share the full light and blessing of the Gospel of peace-may be led to enquire into what their Church really is, not what her priests declare her to be-may be led to study the holy Scriptures, not the Popish Bible, which is translated from false Latin copies. but the Protestant Bible, translated from the original languages in which its different parts were written. Let us pray that they may cast away, as unholy things, their prayers to the Virgin and the saints, and know and believe that Jesus the Redeemer is the only Mediator through whom we can have access unto the Father. Let us pray that they may come out from a Church which sanctions and commands murder and treason when it can advance her interests and ambition, and rollowing the Prince of peace, the God of love, may become

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁶ title page

ELEMENTS HISTORY, ANCIENT AND MODERN: WITH A CHART AND TABLES OF HISTORY, INCLUDED WITHIN THE VOLUME. BY J. E. WORCESTER, A. A. S., S. H. S. BOSTON: WILLIAM J. REYNOLDS AND COMPANY, 20 CORNHILL. 1847.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁶ page 320

Pub	page 320
320 TABLES OF HISTORY.
TABLE XII.—HISTORY OF ENGLAND.—No. 2. From Henry VII. to William IV.
A. D. Kings. ys.
15tA	85	Henry VII.	24	House of Tudor. Marries Elizabeth, daughter of Edward IV., uniting the Houses of York & Lancaster; commerce encouraged; the Feudal System declines.
1500	9	Henry VIII.	38	A cruel tyrant; the victory of Flodden by Surrey;
16ch	47 53	Edward VI. Mary Elizabeth	6	introduces the Reformation; 2 queens divorced, two beheaded; Wolsey disgraced; Bp. Fisher, Sir T. More, Cromotell, and Surrey beheaded. Promotes the Reformation, aided by Cranmer. Restores Cath. relig.; marries Philip II. of Spain; Jane Grey beheaded; many Protestants burnt. Has an auspicious reign, assisted by Bacon, Burleigh, Walsingham, &c. agriculture, commerce, and literature flourish; the Church of England established; Mary Queen of Scots beheaded; the Spanish Armada destroyed.
1600	-		Н
	3	James I.	22	House of Stuart. Unites the crowns of England and Scotland; the Gunpowder Plot defeated; the Bible trans- lated; the Puritans settle at Plymouth, Mass. Despotic; attempts to raise money without con- sent of Parliament; civil war rages; Strafford and Laud beheaded; Charles defeated and be-
1784	53	Cromwell	5	headed (1649); the Commonwealth begins. Dissolves the Long Parliament, and becomes
	60	Charles II.	25	Protector. Navigation Act. Dutch war. Profligate; his reign injurious to liberty and mo- rality; Plague and Fire in London: Clarendon
	85	James II.	4	bunished; Russell and Alg. Sydney executed. Attempts to establish the Cutholic religion, and is 1700		William III.	13	obliged to abdicate; hence the Revolution. Constitution confirmed: battles of Boyne and La Hogue: Peace of Ryswick: Nat. Debt begins.
1700	2	Anne	12	Marlborough and Eugene's victories of Bienhrim, Ramillies, Malplaquet, &c.: Literature flourishes.
1		George I.	1 1	House of Brunswick or Hanover. Rebellion in favor of the Pretender suppressed: South Sea Scheme. Walpole minister.
18th	27	George II.	33	The Pretender overthrown at Culloden. War with
1		La resear l	6 9	France carried on in Europe, Asia, and America: Battle of Dettingen: Conquest of Canada. A long and eventful reign: Hostilities with, and loss of, the American Colonies: long war with France, terminated by the battle of Waterloo: Possessions in India greatly extended: Con-
1800				merce and the arts flourish; but the National
	20	George 1V.	10	Dibt greatly increased. Regency 1811. A Bill of Pains and Penalties brought into Parliament against the Queen (Caroline), but relin-
19th	30	William IV.		quished: Battle of Navarino: Corporation and Test Acts repealed: Catholic Emancipation. The Duke of Wellington's munistry succeeded by that of Earl Grey: the Reform Bill passes.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁷ title page

THE APOSTOLIC FATHERS

PART II.

S. IGNATIVS. S. POLYCARP.

REVISED TEXTS

WITH INTRODUCTIONS, NOTES, DISSERTATIONS, AND TRANSLATIONS.

BY

J. B. LIGHTFOOT, D.D., D.C.L., LL.D., BISHOP OF DURHAM.

SECOND EDITION.

VOL. I.

London :

MACMILLAN AND CO.
AND NEW YORK.
1889

[All Rights reserved.]

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁷ page 413

THE GENUINENESS.

413

therefore is altogether in favour of its existence in the age of Ignatius1. Where the remains of contemporary literature are so few and fragmentary, intervals far longer than half a century constantly occur between the producible instances of the use of particular words. One example will suffice. The Ignatian letter to the Ephesians on any showing was written before the middle of the third century when it is quoted by Origen. Yet the next example, after this Ignatian letter, of the use of the word avaywyers in the same sense as 'a lifting-engine' (Ephes. 9), which the lexicographers produce, is in Eustathius (see 11. p. 54), a writer of the twelfth century.

Another alleged anachronism is the expression 'Catholic Church' as used in Smyrn. 8. 'Let no one,' writes our author, 'do anything that pertaineth to the Church without the bishop...Wherever the bishop appeareth, there let the people ($\tau \hat{o} \pi \lambda \hat{\eta} \theta o s$) be; just as where Jesus Christ is, there is the Catholic Church' (ωσπερ όπου αν ή Χριστὸς Ἰησοῦς, ἐκεῖ ή καθολική ἐκκλησία). The earliest extant example of the use of the theological term 'Catholic Church', meaning the orthodox and apostolically descended Church, as distinguished from sectarian and heretical communities, is in the Martyrdom of Polycarp (§ 16 ἐπίσκοπος της εν Σμύρνη καθολικής εκκλησίας), and even here the recently discovered Moscow Ms reads ayias with the Latin Version. It occurs also in the Muratorian Fragment and in Clement of Alexandria. 'A period therefore,' writes Cureton (Corp. Ign. p. 337), 'of full fifty years or more must have intervened between the time when Ignatius wrote and the first trace we find of the term Catholic Church.' Nor does Cureton stand alone in advancing this argument.

This objection is founded on the confusion of two wholly different things.

- (1) The word 'catholic' (καθολικός) means neither more nor less than 'universal.' It is found some centuries at least before the Christian Both before and after the age of Ignatius it is commonly used by
- 1 Strangely enough Daillé had found in this same sentence a wholly different τιωτικόν τάγμα). So, he concluded, 'Iganachronism. With characteristic audacity he asserted that in the age of Ignatius a certain company or regiment of soldiers bore in common parlance the name of 'leopards', but that two centuries later, when the Ignatian forger lived, this sense of the word had become obsolete. He therefore felt himself obliged to explain the term by the addition,
- 'which is a military band' (δ έστιν στοαnatii simulator leopardorum quidem nomen ad antiquitatis speciem retinuit; sed ne ob obscuritatem lectores turbaret, etiam interpretandum putavit, ac se ita nimia diligentia ipse prodidit' (p. 313). This band of leopards is a mere figment of Daille's brain, for which there is not a tittle of evidence.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁸ title page

LIFE AND LETTERS

OF 475.00.

ERASMUS

LECTURES DELIVERED AT OXFORD 1893-4

BY

JAMES ANTHONY FROUDE

LATE REGIUS PROFESSOR OF MODERN HISTORY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD

Aew Edition

LONGMANS, GREEN, AND CO.
1894

[All rights reserved]

te reginee received

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁸ page 386

386

LIFE AND LETTERS OF ERASMUS [LECT. 18.

To the Bishop of Hildesheim.1

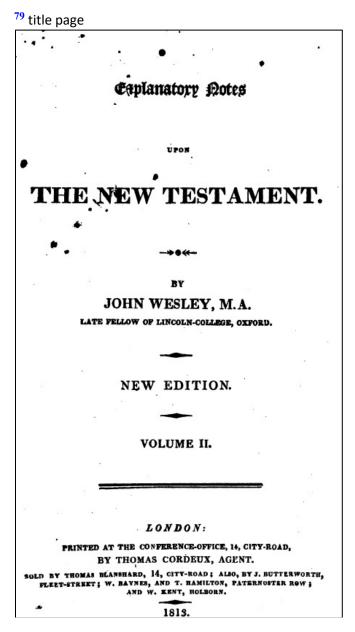

Freyburg, March 15, 1530.

Innumerable questions are asked-how the elements are transubstantiated; how accidents can subsist without a subject; how the colour, smell, taste, quality, which are in the bread and wine before it is consecrated can remain when the substance is changed; at what moment the miracle takes place, and what has happened when the bread and wine corrupts; how the same body can be in many places at once, &c. ? Such problems may be discussed among the learned. For the vulgar it is enough to believe that the real body and blood of our Lord are actually present. It is a mystery to be approached reverentially. Men should not be allowed to march up and down the aisles or chatter at the doors during the ceremony. You stay out a play till the Valete et plaudite; can you not wait for the completion of a miracle? In earlier times there was but one celebration in a day. Now, partly from superstition, partly from avarice, the saying of masses has become a trade, like shoemaking or bricklaying-a mere means of making a livelihood. And again, some attention should be paid to the priest's character; dress and office are not enough, the life must answer to the function. Nowadays, when the celebration is over, the man who has offered the sacrifice adjourns to drinking parties and loose talk, or to cards or dice, or goes hunting, or lounges in idleness. While he is at the altar angels wait upon him; when he leaves it he seeks the refuse of mankind. It is not decent. Priests should not by their loose living teach heretics to despise the ineffable mystery.

Two young Franciscans in Spain had been denouncing Erasmus again. An enthusiastic friend named Mexia had been fighting his battles for him. Erasmus often complained of his loneliness, of his unhappy condition between the points of the two angry factions, of the inattention which was paid by both to his advice

1 Ep. mxcv.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁷⁹ page 417

CHAPTER XIII.

417

speaking great things and blasphemy, and authority was 6 given him forty and two months. And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name 7 and his tabernacle, even them that dwell in heaven. And it was given him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them, and authority was given him over every 8 tribe, and people, and tongue, and nation. And all that dwell upon the earth will worship him, whose name is not written in the book of life of the Lamb who was 9 slain from the foundation of the world. If any man have an ear, let him hear. If any leadeth into captivity, he goeth into captivity: if any man kill with the sword, he little horn on the fourth beast in Daniel. Nothing greater, nothing more blasphemous, can be conceived, than what the popes have said of themselves, especially before the Reformation. And authority was given him forty and two months—The beginning of these is not to be dated immediately from his ascent out of the sea, but at some distance from it.

10 must be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and the faithfulness of the saints.

V. 6. To blaspheme his name—Which many of the popes have done explicitly, and in the most dreadful manner, and his tabernacle, even them that dwell in heaven—(For God himself dwelleth in the inhabitants of heaven:) digging up the bones of many of them, and cursing them with the deepest execrations.

V. 7. And it was given him.—That is, God permitted him, to make war mith his suints.—With the Waldenses and Albigenses. It is a vulgar mistake, that the Waldenses were so called from Peter Waldo of Lyons. They were much more ancient than he; and their true name was Vallenses, or Vaudois, from their inhabiting the valleys of Laucerne and Agrogne. This name, Vallensis, after Waldo appeared, about the year 1160, was changed by the papists into Waldenses, on purpose to represent them as of modern original. The Albigenses were originally people of Albigeois, part of Upper Languedoc, where they considerably prevailed, and possessed several towns in the year 1200. Against these many of the popes made open war. Till now the blood of Christians had been shed only by the heathens or Arians, from this time by scarce any but the papacy. In the year 1208, Innocent III, proclaimed a crusade against them. In June, 1209, the army assembled at Thoulouse; from which time abundance of blood was ahed, and the second army of martyrs began to be added to the first, who had cried from besenth the altar. And even the results, and the second army of martyrs began to be added to the first, who had cried from besenth the altar. And ever since, the beast has been warring against the saints, and shedding their blood like water. And authority was given him over every tribe and people—Particularly in Europe. And when a way was found by sea into the East Insiders, and the West, these also were brought under his authority.

V. 8. And all that dwell upon the earth will morship him—All will be carried away by the torrent, but the little flock of true believers. The name of these only is written in the Lamb's book of life. And if any, even of these, make shipwreck of the faith, he will blot them out of his book: although they were written therein from (that is, before) the foundation of the world, ch. xvii. 8.

V. 9. If any man have an var, let him hear—It was said before, He that hath an ear, let him hear. This expression, if any, seems to imply, that scarce will any that hath an ear be found. Let him hear—With all attention, the following warning, and the whole description of the beast.

V. 10. If any man leadeth into captivity—God will, in due time, repay the followers of the beast in their own kind. Mean while, here is the patience and VOL. II.

D B

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

80 title page

THE WORKS

JONATHAN EDWARDS, A.M.

WITH AN ESSAY ON HIS GENIUS AND WRITINGS,

BY HENRY ROGERS:

AND A MEMOIR BY SERENO EDWIGHT,

REVISED AND CORRECTED BY

EDWARD HICKMAN,

PASTOR OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, DENTON, NORPOLK,

IN TWO VOLUMES.

VOL. I.

LONDON: WILLIAM BALL, 34, PATERNOSTER-ROW.

PRINTED BY JOHN CHILDS AND SON, BUNGAY.

MDCCCXXXIX.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

80 period III, pages 596-597

HISTORY OF REDEMPTION.

PERIOD III. PART V.

TO THE PRESENT TIME.

him; and obliged not to own him any more, on pain of excommunication; and not only so, but any man might kill him wheever be found him. Further, the pope was believed to have power to damn men at pleasure; for whoever died under his excommunication, was looked upon as certainly damned. Several emperors were actually deposed, and ejected, and died miserably by his upin as tendamy uninter. Secretal superior were actually deposed, and ejected, and died miserably by his means; and if the people of any state or kingdom did non miser an interdict, which was a sentence pronounced by the pope against that state or kingdom, whereby all sacred administrations among them could have no validity. There could be no valid baptisms, or sacraments, or prayers, or preaching, or pardons, till that interdict was taken off; so that that people remained, in their apprehension, in a miserable, damnable state, and therefore dreaded it as they would a storm of fire and brimstone from heaven. And in order to execute his wanth on a prince or people with whom he was displeased, other princes must also be put to a great deal of trouble and expense.

And as the pope and his clerry robbed the people of their ecclesiastical and civil liberties and privileges, so they also robbed them of their estates, drained all christenfoor fit their money. They engrossed most of their riches they also rodoed them of their estates, drained all christen-dom of their money. They engrossed most of their riches into their own coffers, by vast revenues, besides pay for pardons and indulgences, baptisms and extreme unctions, deliverance out of purgatory, and a hundred other things. —See how well this agrees with the prophecies, 2 Thess. ii. 3, 4. Dan. vii. 20, 21. Rev. xiii. 6, 7. and chap. xvii.

During this time also superstition and ignorance more and more prevailed. The Holy Scriptures by degrees were taken out of the hands of the laity, the better to promote the usscriptural and wicked designs of the pope and the clergy; and instead of promoting knowledge among the people, they industriously promoted ignorance. It was a received maxim among them, That ignorance is the mother of devotion: and so great was the darkness of those times, that learning was almost extinct in the world. The very priests themselves, most of them, were barbarously ignorant as to any commendable learning, or any other knowledge, than their hellish craft in oppressing and tyrannizing ledge, than their hellish craft in oppressing and tyrannizing rant as to any commendable learning, or any other know-ledge, than their hellish craft in oppressing and tyrannizing over the souls of the people.—The superstition and wicked-ness of the church of Rome, kept growing worse and worse till the very time of the Reformation, and the whole christian world were led away into this great defection, except-ing the remains of the christian church in the Eastern empire that had not been utterly overthrown by the Turks The Greek church, and some others, were also sunk into The Greek church, and some others, were also sunk into great darkness and gross supersition, excepting also those few that were the people of God, who are represented by the woman in the wildenness, and God's two witnesses, of which more hereafter.—This is one of those two great kingdoms which the devil in this period erected in opposition to the kingdom of Christ, and was the greatest and coner.

2. The Mahometan kingdom is another of mighty power and vast extent, set up by Satan against the kingdom of Christ. He set this up in the Eastern empire, as he did that of Antichrist in the Western.

Mahomet was born in the year of Christ five hundred and seventy, in Arabia. When he was about forty years of age, he began to boast that he was the great prophet of God; and proceeded to teach his new-invented religion, of which he was to be worshipped as the head next under God. He published his Alcoran, which he pretended he received from the angel Gabriel; and being a subtle crafty man, possessed of considerable wealth, and living among a people who were very ignorant, and greatly divided in their opinions on religious matters, he by subtlety and fair their opinions on religious matters, he by sublitely and fair promises of a sensual paradise, gained a number to be his followers. He set up for their prince, and propagated his religion by the sword, and made it meritorious of paradise to fight for him. By such means his party grew, and ment on fighting till they conquered and brought over the neighbouring countries; and so his party gradually instructed in the control of the property of the world. First, the Saracens were some of his followers, who were a people of Arabis, where Mahomet lived, and who about the year seven hundred, dreadfully wasted the Roman empire.—They overran a great many countries belonging to the empire, and continued their conquests for a long time. These are supposed to be meant by the locusts me in the 9th chapter of Revelation.

These are supposed to be meant by the locusts mentioned in the 0th chapter of Revelation.

And then the Turks, who were originally different from the Samcens, became followers of Mahomet, and conquered all the Eastern empire. They began their empire about the year of Christ twelve hundred and ninety-six; began to invade Europe in the year thirteen hundred; took Constantinople, and so became masters of all the Eastern empire, in the year fourteen hundred and fifty-three. And thus all the cities and countries where stood those famous churches of which we read in the New Testament, as Jerusalem, Antioch, Ephesus, Corinth, &c. now became subject to the Turks. These are supposed to be prophesied of by the horsemen in the 9th chapter of Revelation, beginning with the 15th verse. And the remains of the Christians in those parts of the world, who are mostly of the Greek church, are in miserable slavery under these Turks; are treated with a great deal of barbarity and cruelty, and are become mostly very ignorant and superstitious.

Thus I have shown what great works of Satan were wrought during this space of time in opposition to the kingdom of Christ.

II. I come now to show how the church of Christ was upheld through this dark time.

1. It is to be observed, that towards the former part of

In it is to be observed, that towards the former part of this space of time, some of the nations of christendom held out a long time before they complied to the corruptions of the corruptions. The corruptions were considered to the corruptions of the corruption of the church of Rome were brought in with a great deal of struggle and opposition; and particularly, when the pope gave out, that he was universal bishop, many churches greatly opposed him in it; and it was a long time before they would yield to his exorbitant claims. And so, when the worship of images was first brought into the churches, there were many who greatly opposed it, and long beld out against it. And so with respect to other corruptions of the church of Rome. Those who dwelt nearer to the city of Rome complied sooner; but some that were more remote, were a long time before they could be induced to put their necks under the yoke; and particularly duced to put their necks under the yoke; and particularly waster to put their necks under the voke: and particularly a great part of the churches in England, Scotland, and France, retained the ancient purity of doctrine and worship much longer than many others who were nearer the chief seat of Antichrist. duced to put their necks under the voke : and particularly

2. In every age of this dark time, there appeared particular persons in all parts of christendom, who bore a testimony against the corruptions and tyranny of the church of Rome.—There is no one age of Antichrist, even in the darkest times, but ecclesiastical historians mention many by name who manifested an abhorence of the pope, and his idolatrous worship, and pleaded for the ancient purity of doctrine and worship. God was pleased to maintain an uninterrupted succession of many witnesses through the whole time, in Germany, France, Britain, and other countries; private persons and ministers, some magistrates and persons of great distinction.—And there were numbers in every age who were persecuted and put to death for this testimony.

3. Besides these particular persons dispersed, there was a certain people called the Waldenses, who lived separate from all the rest of the world, and constantly bore a testimony against the church of Rome through all this dark time. The place where they dwelt was the Vaudois, or the five valleys of Piedmont, a very mountainous country between Italy and France; it was compassed about with between Italy and France; it was compassed about with those exceeding high mountains, the Alps, which were almost impassable, and therefore the valleys were almost impassable, and therefore the valleys were almost inaccessible. There this people lived for many ages, in a state of a separation from all the world, having very little to do with any other people. And there they served God in the ancient purity of his worship, and never submitted to the church of Rome. This probably was the place especially meant in the 12th chapter of Revelation, 6th vertee, as prepared of God for the woman, that they should feed her there during the reign of Antichrist.

Some of the popish writers themselves own, that this seople never submitted to the church of Rome. One of he popish writers, speaking of the Waldenses, says, The series of the Waldenses is the oldest heresy in the world. It is supposed that they first betook themselves to this aloce among the mountains, to hide themselves from the Some of the popish writers themselves own, that this people never submitted to the church of Rome. One of the popish writers, speaking of the Waldenses, says, The heresy of the Waldenses is the oldest heresy in the world. It is supposed that they first betook themselves to this place among the mountains, to hide themselves from the severity of the heathen persecutions which existed before Constantine the Great. And thus the woman fled into the wilderness from the face of the serpent, Rev. xii. 6, 14. "And to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness, into her place: where she is nourshed for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent." The people being settled there, their posterity continued from age to age: and being, as it were, by natural walls, as well as by God's grace, separated from the rest of the world, they never partook of the overflowing corruption.

These especially were those virgins who were not defiled, when other churches prostituted themselves; but they kept themselves pure for Christ alone. They followed the when other churches prostituted themselves; but they kept themselves pure for Christ alone. They followed the Lamb, their spiritual husband, whithersoever he went: they followed him into this hideous wilderness, Rev. xiv. 4,5.— Their doctrine and worship appear to be the same with the protestant doctrine and worship appear to be the seconfession of popish writers, they were a people remarkable for the strictness of their lives, for chartly and other christian virtues. They lived in external poverty in this hideous country; but they chose this rather than comply with the great corruptions of the rest of the world.

Living in so secret a place, it was a long time before

Living in so secret a place, it was a long time before they were noticed. But at last, falling under observation, the Romanists went out in mighty armies against them, fell upon them with insatiable cruelty, barbarously massafell upon them with insatiable cruelty, barbarously massa-cring and putting to death men, women, and children, with all imaginable tortures. Their enemies continued persecuting them with but little intermission for several laudred years; by which means many were driven out of the valleys of Piedmont. These fied into all parts of Europe, carrying with them their doctrine, to which many were brought over. Their persecutors could not by all their cruelties extirpate the church of God; so fulfilling his word, "that the gates of hell should not prevail against it."

his word, "that the gates of hell should not prevail against it."

—4. Towards the latter part of this dark time, several noted divines openly appeared to defend the truth, and bear testimony against the corruptions of the church of Rome.—The first and principal of these was a certain English divine, John Wickliff, who appeared about one hundred and forty years before the Reformation; he strenuously opposed the popish religion, taught the same doctrine that the Reformers afterwards did, and had many followers in England. He was hotly persecuted in his lifetime, yet died in peace; but after he was buried, his bones were dug up by his persecutors, and burnt. His followers remained in considerable numbers in England dill the Reformation; they were cruelly persecuted, and followers remained in considerable numbers in Linguage till the Reformation; they were cruelly persecuted, and multitudes were put to death for their religion. Wickliff had many disciples, not only in England, but in other parts of Europe, whither his books were carried; and particularly in Bohemia, among whom were two eminent divines, John Husz, and Jeron, a divine of Prazue, the shife divise of Bohemia. These strenguards promout the the chief city of Bohemia. These strenuously opposed the church of Rome, and had many who adhered to them. They were both burnt by the papists for their doctrine; and their followers in Bohemia were cruelly persecuted, but never extirpated till the Reformation.

PART V.

THE SUCCESS OF REDEMPTION FROM THE REFORMATION

THUS having gone through the dark time of the church from now to consider that part which begins with the Reformation, and reaches to the present time. And here I would, 1. Speak of the Reformation itself; 2. The op-

The first thing to be taken notice of is the Reformation itself. This was begun in Germany, about the year fifteen hundred and fifteen, by the preaching of Martin Luther, who being stirred in his spirit to see the horrid practices of the popish clergy—and having set himself diligently to inquire after truth by the study of the Holy Scriptures, and the writings of the ancient fathers of the church—very openly and boldly decried the corruptions and usurpations of the Romish church in his preaching and writings. He had soon a great number who fell in with him; among whom was the Elector of Saxony, the sovereign prince of the country to which he belonged. This manufactured the church of Rome; it railled all its reign prince of the country to which he belonged. This greatly alarmed the church of Rome; it rallied all its force to oppose him and his doctrine, and fierce wars and force to oppose him and his doctrine, and fierce wars and persecutions were raised against it. But yet it went on by the labours of Luther and Melancthon in Germany, Zunglius in Switzerland, and other eminent divines, who were contemporary with Luther; particularly Calvin, who appeared after the beginning of the Reformation, but was one of the most eminent reformers.

Many of the princes of Germany soon fell in with the Reformed religion, and many other states and kingdoms in the content of the c in Europe, as England, Scotland, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, great part of France, Poland, Lithuania, Switzhaland, and the Low Countries. So that it is thought, that heretofore about half christendom were of the protestant religion: though since, the papits have gained ground: so that the protestants now have not so great a proportion so that the protestants now have not so great a proportion.

Thus God began gloriously to revive his church again, and advance the kingdom of his Son; after such a dismal night of darkness from the rise of Antichrist to that time.

There had been many endeavours used by the witnesses for the truth for a reformation before. But now, when God's appointed time was come, his work went on with a swift and wonderful progress; and Antichrist, who had been rising higher and higher from his beginning till that time, was swiftly and suddenly brought down; he fell half-way towards utter ruin, and never has been able to rise again to his former height. A certain late expositor, (Mr.
Lowman,) who explains the five first vials in the 16th chapter of Revelation with greater probability perhaps than any who went before him, explains the fifth vial, which was poured out on the seat of the beast, of what came to pass in the Reformation; having explained the four preceding vials of certain great judgments which God brought on the popish dominions before the Reformation.

It is said, Rev. xv. 10. that the fifth angel profit of the thorus of the seat of the beat is in a form of fall of the there, of the expression of the property of the control of the property throne of the sease; " and this tinguous was that of threess, and they gnawed their tongues for pain, and blashemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and repented not of their deeds." He poured out his vial upon the throne of the beast, i.e. on the authoout my wait upon the inforce or one beast, i.e. on the authority and dominion of the open: so the word throne is often used in Scripture; so 1 Kings i. 37. "As the Lord hath been with my lord the king, even so be he with Solomon, and make his throne greater than the throne of my lord King David;" i.e. make his dominion and authority inot, not make the increase greater than the union of inford king David;" i.e. make his dominion and authority greater, and his kingdom more grious.

But now, in the Reformation, the value of God's wrather the property of the property of

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

81 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

82 title page

THE HISTORY

THE PRINCES, THE LORDS MARCHER,

ANCIENT NOBILITY

AND THE

POWYS FADOG

THE ANCIENT LORDS OF ARWYSTLI, CEDEWEN, AND MEIRIONYDD.

J. Y. W. LLOYD of Clochfaen, Esq.,

VOL. I.

LONDON:
T. RICHARDS, 37, GREAT QUEEN STREET, W.C.

82 pages 44-45

44 HISTORY OF POWYS FADOG.

tised by the Israelites, for when numbers of that chosen people had been slain by pestilence in the wilderness, Moses, by the command of the Most High, set up the image of a pendant Brazen Serpent upon an Upright Pole or Stauros, in order that by worshipping the serpent they might be healed, and their numbers replenished. A Serpent twines round the staff upon which Asklêpios (Æsculapius) rests himself.

The night of the 1st of November was sacred to the God Sanin, Zanan, or Samhan. It was a night for special intercession by the living for the souls of those who had died in the preceding year. For the office of Samhan was to judge these souls, and either award them their place of reward or punishment. He was also called Bal Sab, or Lord of Death. At this harvest festival he only needed offerings of the fruits of the earth; and his name, Samhein or Samtheine, or Samtein, denotes peace-fire.

On the 25th of December, when the shortest day was past, the great winter festival called Yule was celebrated, to mark the turn of the year—the new birth of the Sun. It was a day of solemn worship and a night of feasting. Fires blazed on every hill, which were re-kindled on the twelfth night subsequent to Yule. All manner of sacred plants were cut, more especially the ivy, the mistletoe, and the fir-tree.

In Persia and Babylon this day was held in high honour; and in the latter country it was sacred to Rhea and Nin, the latter being the Child of the Sun by a human mother. That mother was Semiramis the Great Queen, who was called the Spouse of the Sun and Queen of Heaven, and taught the people to reverence her son accordingly, just as the Christians represent the Virgin Mary, the human mother of Jesus Christ.

The custom of having a fir-tree as a Christmas-tree, is traceable to the remotest antiquity. The Chaldeans on this day worshipped their new-born god, under this symbol, as Baal-berith, or berith, i.e., the Lord of the Firtree or the Covenant.

The fir is one of the trees particularly sacred to the Sun as Helios Dionysos, who "flames with the beaming fir-torch", which he bears on his thyrsos. (Oid. Tyr., 214.)

BIRTHDAY OF THE SUN.

The name of Yule is said to be derived from the Arabic "Yul", the day of revolution of the Sun. The Norse Yol and Icelandic Hoil bear much the same meaning, and here we have the very name, Haul in Welsh, Heul in Cornish, and Heol in Briton, under which the ancient Britons worshipped the Sun-God, Helios.1

Captain Burnaby, during his last "ride", passed through a Persian village, where every evening, the people all turn out to watch the sun sink slowly to rest below the horizon. They assured the traveller that there was no idea of worship in this custom; they only do it because their forefathers did it from time immemorial.

Bryant says (vol. i, p, 284):-

"The worship of Ham, or the sun, as it was the most ancient, so it was the most universal of any in the world. It was the first prevailing religion of Greece, and was promulgated over all the sea-coast of Europe, from whence it extended itself into the inland provinces. It was established in Gaul and Britain, and was the original religion of this island, which the Druids in after times adopted.

"Throughout the ancient world, the birth of the god Sol, personified as Bacchus, Osiris, Heracles, Dionysos, Adonis, etc., was celebrated on December 25th, and on this day the Christian Church says that Jesus Christ was born. The Egyptian Christians say that the right season was in January. Wagenseil thought February or August, but inclined to the latter. Bochart was for March. Some good Christians mentioned by Clement Alexandrinus placed his birthday in April, and others in May. Epiphanius states that some other Christians say that Jesus was born in June or July; Lightfoot says September 15th; Scaliger, Casaubon, and Calvisius are for October; several others put it in November. The Latin Church decided on December 25th. This was decreed by Pope Julius I, in 337, and he fixed it on the same day that the ancient Romans celebrated the feast of their goddess Pomona, a festival much observed by the heathen world in the winter solstice. It would appear, however, as if December could lay even less claim to this honour than most of the other months

45

¹ From the Hebrides to the Himalayas, by Miss Gordon Cumming.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

83 title page

SAINT CHRYSOSTOM

HIS LIFE AND TIMES

A SKETCH OF THE CHURCH AND THE EMPIRE IN THE FOURTH CENTURY

By Rev. W. R. W. STEPHENS, M.A.

BALLIOL COLL, OXON.; VICAR OF MID-LAVANT, SUSSEX

Mith a Portrait

LONDON

JOHN MURRAY, ALBEMARLE STREET

1872

The right of translation is reserved

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

83 pages 140-141

140 LIFE AND TIMES OF ST. CHRYSOSTOM. [Cn. IX.

the immoderation of party feeling in others with wholesome censure. He laments 1 the distracted state of the Church in Antioch, which was now divided into the three sections of Meletians, Eustathians, and Arians; but he denounces the practice of anathematising. It was uncharitable and presumptuous. St. Paul anathematised once only; the casting off of a heretic ought to be as painful as plucking out an eye or cutting off a limb. A holy man before their times, one of the successors of the Apostles, and judged worthy of the honour of martyrdom, used to say, that to assume the right to anathematise was as great a usurpation of Christ's authority as for a subject to put on the Imperial purple. In dealing with erring brethren, the Christian should 'in meekness instruct those that oppose themselves, if God, peradventure, will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth.' 'If a man accepts your counsel and confesses his error, you have saved him, and delivered your own soul also; but if he will not, do you nevertheless continue to testify with longsuffering and kindness, that the Judge may not require his soul at thy hand. Hate him not; turn not from him; persecute him not, but catch him in the net of sincere and genuine charity. The person whom you anathematise is either living or dead; if living, you do wrong to cut off one who may still be converted; if dead, much more you do wrong; "to his own Master he standeth or falleth;" and "who hath known the mind of the Lord, or who hath been his counsellor?" You may anathematise heretical dogmas, but towards the persons who hold them show the greatest possible forbearance, and pray for their salvation.'

In the winter of 386, Chrysostom preached a sermon on Christmas Day, which, though not distinguished by any unusual merit, possesses an interest of its own. We learn from it, that this festival was not originally celebrated in the Eastern Church; it had been adopted from the West, and, in Antioch at least, less than ten years before the year of Chrysostom's discourse. It had gradually increased in popularity, and this year Chrysostom rejoiced to observe that the church was crowded to overflowing. Rome had fixed the observance of the 25th of December, and this was the day kept throughout Christendom from Thrace to Gades; but the propriety of the date was much debated in the Eastern Churches, and the observance of the festival at all was considered by some as a questionable innovation. Chrysostom energetically vindicates the dignity of the festival and the correctness of the date.1 It was the metropolis, so to say, of all other festivals, and as such it was the most solemn and awful. For the incarnation of Christ was the necessary condition of all the succeeding events of his career on earth, and in the profundity of its mystery it exceeded them all. That Christ should die was a natural consequence of human nature once assumed; but that He, being God, should have stooped so low as to assume that nature, was a mystery unfathomable to the mind of man! 'Wherefore I specially welcome and belove this day, and desire to make you partakers in my affection. I pray and implore you all to come with zeal and alacrity, every man first purging his own house, to behold our Lord wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger; for if we come with faith we shall, indeed, behold Him lying in the manger; for this Table supplies the place of the manger, and here also the body of the Lord will lie, not wrapped in swaddling clothes, but invested on all sides by the Holy Spirit. The initiated (or the baptized) understand

CH. IX.] SERMON ON CHRISTMAS DAY

141

' The former chiefly in the Hom. the Hom. in Nat. Diem Christi, vol. ii. de Philog. vol. i. 752; the latter in p. 552.

¹ Hom. de Anathemate, delivered soon after the discourses against the Anomæans. See Monitum. vol. i. 944.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

84 title page

THE

NEW TESTAMENT,

OI

OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST;

CONTAINING

THE TEXT,

TAKEN FROM THE MOST CORRECT COPIES OF THE PRESENT

Authorised Translation.

INCLUDING THE

MARGINAL READINGS AND PARALLEL TEXTS,

WITH A

COMMENTARY AND CRITICAL NOTES.

DESIGNED AS A HELP TO A BETTER UNDERSTANDING

THE SACRED WRITINGS.

By ADAM CLARKE, LL.D. F. A. S.

IN THREE VOLUMES.

VOL. I.

LONDON:

PRINTED FOR J. BUTTERWORTH & SON, FLEET-STREET.

SOLD BY T. BLANSHARD, No. 14, CITY ROAD, AND AT THE BOOK-ROOM,

No. 15, WHITE-FRIARS STREET, DUBLIN.

1817

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." - John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." - Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

84 page 384

Angels announce his birth

CHAP. II.

to certain shepherds.

A.M. 4001. shepherds abiding in the field, keeping * watch over their flock by night. 9 And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

10 And the angel said unto them, Fear not:

*Or, the night-reatches. — *ch. 1. 12. — *Gen. 12. 3. Matt. 28. 19. Mark 1. 15. ver. 31. 32. ch. 21. 47. Col. 1. 23.

the watches of the night, i. e. each one keeping a watch (which ordinarily consisted of three hours) in his turn. The reason why they watched them in the fields, appears to have been either to preserve the sheep from beasts of prey, such as wolves, foxes, &c. or from freebooting banditti with which all the land of Judea was at that time much infested. It was a custom among the Jews to send out their sheep to the deserts, about the passever, and bring them home at the commencement of the first rain: during the time they were out, the shepherds watched them night and day. As the pass-over occurred in the spring, and the first rain began early in the month of Marchesvan, which answers to part of our October and November, we find that the sheep were kept out in the open country during the whole of the summer. And as these shepherds had not vet brought home their flocks, it is a presumptive argument that October had not yet commenced, and that consequently, our Lord was not born on the 25th of December, when no flocks were out in the fields, nor could be have been born later than September, as the flocks were still in the fields by night. On this very ground the nativity in December should be given up. The feeding of the flocks by night in the fields is a chronological fact, which casts considerable light upon this disputed point. See the quotations from the Talmudists in Lightfoot.

The time in which Christ was born, has been considered as a subject of great importance among Christians. However, the matter has been considered of no moment by Him who inspired the Evangelists; as not one hint is dropped on the subject, by which it might be possible even to guess nearly to the time, except the chronological fact mentioned above. A late writer makes the following remarks: " The first Christians placed the baptism of Christ about the beginning of the fifteenth year of Tiberius; and thence reckoning back thirty years, they placed his birth in the forty-third year of the Julias period, the forty-second of Augustus, and the twentyeighth after the victory at Actium. This opinion obtained till A. D. 527, when Dionysius Eriguus invented the vulgar account. Learned and pious men have trifled egregiously on this subject, making that of importance which the Holy Spirit by his silence, has plainly informed them is of none. Fabriciss gives a catalogue of no less than 136 different opinions concerning the YEAR of Christ's birth; and as to his birth- and to the inhabitants of the whole earth. DAY, that has been placed by Christian sects and learned men, Verse 11. A Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.] A Saviour, for, behold, I bring you good tidings, A.M. 4001. of great joy, 'which shall be to all An. Olymp. people.

11 d For unto you is born this day in the city of David 'a Saviour, 'which is Christ the Lord.

* Matt. 1. 21.—— Matt. 1. 16. & 16. 16. ch. 1. 43. Acts 2... 56. & 10. 56. Phil, 2. 11.

in every month in the year. The Egyptians placed it in January-Wagenseil, in February-Bochart, in March-some, mentioned by Clemens Alexandrinus, in April-others, in May-Epiphanius speaks of some who placed it in June-and of others who supposed it to have been in July-Wagenseil, who was not sure of February, fixed it probably in August-Lightfoot, on the 15th of September-Scaliger, Casaubon, and Calvisius in October-others, in November-but the Latin. church, supreme in power, and infallible in judgment, placed it on the 25th of December, the very day on which the ancient Romans celebrated the feast of their goddess Bruma." See more in Robinson's Notes on Claude's Essay, vol. i. p. 275, &c. Pope Julius I. was the person who made this alteration, and it appears to have been done for this reason: the sun now began his return towards the northern tropic, ending the winter, lengthening the short days, and introducing the spring. All this was probably deemed emblematical of the rising of the Sun of Righteousness on the darkness of this world, and causing the day-spring from on high to visit mankind.

Verse 9. The angel of the Lord came upon them] Or, stood over them, stroyn. It is likely that the angel appeared in the air at some little distance above them, and that from him the rays of the glory of the Lord shone round about them, as the rays of light are projected from the sun.

They were sore afraid | Terrified with the appearance of soglorious a being, and probably fearing that he was a messenger of justice coming to denounce divine judgments, or punish them immediately, for sins with which their consciences would not fail on such an occasion, to reproach them.

Verse 10. Behold, I bring you good tidings] I am not come to declare the judgments of the Lord, but his merciful lovingkindness, the subject being a matter of great joy. He then declares his message. Unto you-to the Jews first, and then to the human race. Some modern MSS, with the utmost impropriety read nur us, as if angels were included in this glorious work of redemption; but St. Paul says, he took not upon: him the nature of angels, but the seed of Abruham, i. e. the nature of Abraham and his posterity, the human nature; therefore the good news is to you,-and not to yourselves exclusively, for it is to all people, to all the inhabitants of this land, 85 title page Crux Anchora FOOTSTEPS OF THE HOLY CHILD: Lessons on the Incarnation. PART II. EDITED BY THE REV. T. T. CARTER, M.A. "O may we keep and ponder in our mind God's Wondrous Love in saving lost mankind, Trace we the Babe who hath retrieved our loss From His poor Manger to His bitter Cross, Tread in His Steps assisted by His Grace, Till changed like Him we see Him face to face." "Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the House of the God of Jacob: and He will teach us of His Ways, and we will walk in "There shall be a Tabernacle for a shadow in the daytime from the heat, and for a place of refuge, and for a covert from storm and from rain."—Isaiah iv. 6. comp. xxx. 4. iv. 6, comp. xxv. 4. "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us."—S. Luke ii. 15. LONDON: JOSEPH MASTERS, ALDERSGATE STREET, AND NEW BOND STREET.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

MDCCCLXVIII.

Digitized by Google

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

85 page 28

28

FOOTSTEPS OF THE HOLY CHILD.

THE FEAST OF THE HOLY NATIVITY,

OR, THE BIRTHDAY OF CHRIST;

COMMONLY CALLED

Christmas Day.

"Let all the angels of God worship Him."-Heb. i.

The Fulness of Time is come. The King arrives.

"This is My Beloved Son, in Whom I am well pleased."

The Journey to Bethlehem. Christ is Born. The Angels appeared to the Shepherds.

This holy, blessed, and much-loved Festival is a very ancient one. S. Chrysostom mentions it as, in his time, "of great antiquity," and that as early as A.D. 337—352 Pope Julius I. had made strict inquiries as to the keeping of this feast, on December 25. It is mentioned by Clemens Alexandrinus, a little more than a hundred years after S. John. In primitive times this day was more immediately connected with the Epiphany than in later ages. The actual Nativity of Christ "was looked upon as the first manifestation of the Lord, and the name, 'Theophania,' (or, 'the shining forth of God,') was sometimes given to this day as well as to the 12th of January, when the end of the Christmas feast is still celebrated, with other memorials of the appearances" of "Immanuel," God with us.

The canons of the Early Church as well as decrees of the Emperors show that this day was strictly observed as a "rest from labour, for Divine worship, and

Digitized by Google

¹ Julius I. was Bishop of Rome from A.D. 336 to 352.

² Dec. 25, Christmas Day was always kept on this day by the Western Church, and it was thence received by the Eastern in the middle of the fourth century.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁸⁶ title page

A SCHOOL DICTIONARY

GREEK AND ROMAN ANTIQUITIES.

ABRIDGED FROM THE LARGER DICTIONARY.

BY WILLIAM SMITH, LL.D.,

EDITOR OF THE DICTIONARIES OF "GREEK AND ROMAN ANTIQUITIES," AND "BIOGRAPHY AND MYTHOLOGY."

WITH CORRECTIONS AND IMPROVEMENTS,

BY CHARLES ANTHON, LL.D.,
PROFESSOR OF THE GREEK AND LATIN LANGUAGES IN COLUMBIA COLLEGE, NEW-YORK, AND RECTOR OF THE GRAMMAR-SCHOOL.

NEW-YORK:

HARPER & BROTHERS, PUBLISHERS, 82 CLIFF STREET.

1846.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

86 page 281

SATURNALIA.

SCEPTRUM.

ζυγόν. SANDAPILA. [Funus, p. 162.] SARCO PHAGUS. [Funus, p. 162.] SARISSA. [HASTA.] SARRA'CUM, a kind of common cart or waggon, which was used by the country-people of Italy for conveying the produce of their fields, trees, and the like, from one place to Carnival; and lastly, one of the amusements another.

SATURA, the root of which is sat, literally means a mixture of all sorts of things. The name was accordingly applied by the consisting of various parts or ingredients, e. g. lanx satura, an offering consisting of various fruits, such as were offered at harvest festivals and to Ceres; lex per saturam lata, a law which contained several distinct regulations at once; and to a species of poetry, afterwards called Satira.

SATURNA'LIA, the festival of Saturnus, to whom the inhabitants of Latium attributed the introduction of agriculture and the arts of Augustus enacted that three whole days, the civilized life. Falling towards the end of 17th, 18th, and 19th of December, should in December, at the season when the agricultural all time coming be hallowed, thus embracing labours of the year were fully completed, it both the old and new style. was celebrated in ancient times by the rustic population as a sort of joyous harvest-home, and in every age was viewed by all classes of were celebrated during this period. First the community as a period of absolute relaxa-tion and unrestrained merriment. During xvi. Kal. Jan., followed by the Opalia, anits continuance no public business could be ciently coincident with the Saturnalia, on transacted, the law courts were closed, the schools kept holiday, to commence a war five days, and the sixth and seventh were ocwas impious, to punish a malefactor involved cupied with the Sigillaria, so called from pollution. Special indulgences were granted little earthenware figures (sigilla, oscilla) exto the slaves of each domestic establishment; posed for sale at this season, and given as they were relieved from all ordinary toils, were permitted to wear the pileus, the badge of freedom, were granted full freedom of speech, and partook of a banquet attired in the clothes of their masters, and were waited upon by them at table.

All ranks devoted themselves to feasting and mirth, presents were interchanged among friends, cerei or wax tapers being the common offering of the more humble to their superiors, and crowds thronged the streets, shouting, Io Saturnalia (this was termed clamare Saturnalia), while sacrifices were offered with uncovered head, from a conviction that no illomened sight would interrupt the rites of such a happy day. Many of the peculiar customs of this festival exhibit a remarkable resemblance to the sports of our own Christmas and of the Italian Carnival. Thus on Anchises, who holds the sceptre in his right the Saturnalia public gambling was allowed hand, shows its form as worn by kings. The the hypodema to real shoes. The piece of | cestors the most rigid were wont to counteleather over the toes was called ζυγός or nance card-playing on Christmas-eve; the whole population threw off the toga, wore a loose gown, called synthesis, and walked about with the pileus on their heads, which reminds us of the dominos, the peaked caps, and other disguises worn by masques and mummers; the cerei were probably employed as the moccoli now are on the last night of the in private society was the election of a mock king, which at once calls to recollection the characteristic ceremony of Twelfth-night.

During the republic, although the whole Romans in many ways, but always to things month of December was considered as dedicated to Saturn, only one day, the xiv. Kal. Jan. was set apart for the sacred rites of the divinity. When the month was lengthened by the addition of two days upon the adoption of the Julian Calendar, the Saturnalia fell on the xvi. Kal. Jan., which gave rise to confusion and mistakes among the more ignorant portion of the people. To obviate this inconvenience, and allay all religious scruples,

> Under the empire the merry-making lasted for seven days, and three different festivals toys to children.

SCALES. [LIBRA.]
SCENA. [ΤΗΕΛΤΕUΜ.]
SCEPTRUM (ακήπτρον). which originally denoted a simple staff or walking stick, was emblematic of station and authority. In ancient authors the sceptre is represented as belonging more especially to kings, princes, and leaders of tribes: but it is also borne by judges, by heralds, and by priests and seers. The sceptre descended from father to son, and might be committed to any one in order to express the transfer of authority. Those who bore the sceptre swore by it, solemnly taking it in the right hand and raising it towards heaven.

The following cut, representing Aeneas followed by Ascanius and carrying off his father by the aediles, just as in the days of our an- ivory scoptre of the kings of Rome, which

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁸⁷ Constantine Coin 318 A.D.

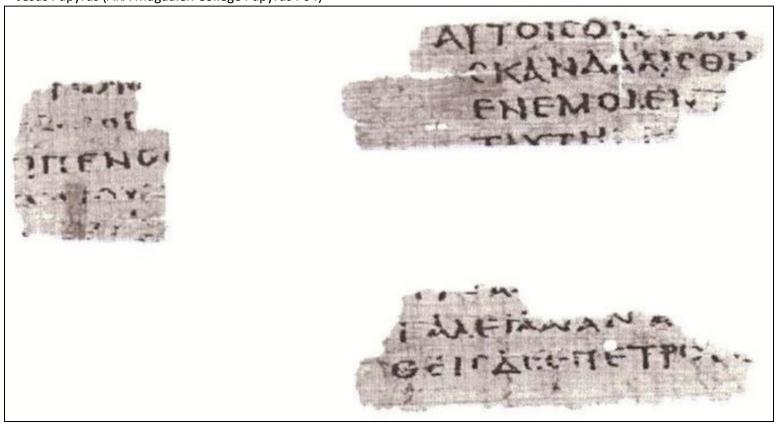

88 Constantine Coin 332 A.D.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

89 Jesus Papyrus (AKA Magdalen College Papyrus P64)

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹⁰ title page

PAGANISM SURVIVING IN CHRISTIANITY

BY

ABRAM HERBERT LEWIS, D.D.

AUTHOR OF "BIBLICAL TEACHINGS CONCERNING THE SABBATH AND THE SUNDAY,"
"A CRITICAL HISTORY OF THE SABBATH AND THE SUNDAY IN THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH,"" A CRITICAL HISTORY OF SUNDAY LEGISLATION FROM 381 TO 1888, A.D.," ETC.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS

NEW YORK LONDON

97 WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET 24 BEDFORD STREET, STRAND

The Inickerbocker Bress

1802

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

90 pages 278-280

278 PAGANISM IN CHRISTIANITY.

alone is the guardianship of the vast universe, and the prerogative of turning the hinge is entirely my own. When it has been my pleasure to send forth Peace, from her tranquil habitation, then at liberty she treads her paths unobstructed by the restraints of war. The whole world would be thrown into confusion in deadly bloodshed, did not my rigid bolts confine imprisoned warfare. Together with the gentle seasons, I preside over the portals of Heaven; through my agency Jupiter himself doth pass and repass."

Representative Festivals.

Those who have given even a cursory examination of the subject, know that the swarm of festivals which came into Christianity, after the second century, were nearly, if not all, pagan days, with new or modified names, but with little or no change of character. A few of the representative ones will be noticed here.

Christmas.

The Scriptures are wholly silent as to the date of Christ's birth. The 25th of December, the winter solstice, was not fixed as Christmas until a long time after the New Testament period. But in spite of serious objections, historical and otherwise, that date triumphed. The winter solstice was the date of the birth of Osiris, son of Isis the 1 Ovid, Fasti, bk. i.

SAME SUBJECT CONTINUED.

Egyptian Queen of Heaven. The term "Yule," another name for Christmas, comes from the Chaldee, and signifies "child's day." This name for the festival was familiar to our Anglo-Saxon ancestors, long before they knew anything of Christianity. In Rome, this winter-solstice festival was Saturn's festival; the wild, drunken, licentious "Saturnalia." It was observed in Babylonia in a similar manner. When it came into Christianity its leading features were like those of the Saturnalia. These have been far too prevalent from that time. Lighted candles and ornamented trees were a part of the observance of the festival among the pagans. The "Christmas goose" and "Yule cakes" came, with the day, from paganism.

Easter.

The earliest Christians continued to observe the Jewish Passover on the 14th of the month Nisan. As the pagan element increased in the Church, and the anti-Jewish feeling accordingly, after a sharp struggle, the time was changed from the fourteenth of the month to the Sunday nearest the vernal equinox. This brought it in conjunction with the festival of the Goddess of Spring, an ancient pagan feast, which probably dates back to the time of Astarte-worship, in Babylonia. The name "Easter" is comparatively modern. It comes from Oestra, the Goddess of Spring, in the Northern European mythology. The forms of observance were almost wholly heathen. Easter eggs, dyed, and "hot cross-buns," figured in the Chaldean Easter, as they have done in the Christian. The Hindus, and Chinese, and Egyptians had a sacred egg, the history of which can be traced to the Euphrates and the worship of Astarte.

280 PAGANISM IN CHRISTIANITY.

Lent.

Lent has been given some appearance of having a Christian origin by the assumption, for which there is not a shadow of scriptural, or even apostolic authority, that it is the counterpart of Christ's fast of forty days. But the history of Lent shows unmistakably its pagan origin. Its source is found in the fasting which the Babylonians associated with the Goddess of Reproduction, whose worship formed the starting-point of Easter. During that period of fasting, social joy and all expressions of sexual regard were forbidden, because the goddess then mourned the loss of her consort. From this came the germ of Lent, and especially the practice of abstaining from marriage at that season.

The pagan tribes of Koordistan still keep such a fast. Humboldt found the same in Mexico, and Landseer in Egypt. It came into Christianity

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹¹ title page
3185.69
"Mystery: Babylon the Great," PAGAN, PAPAL, SEMI-PAPAL;
ву .
C. COWAN, M.D.
,
SECOND EDITION, REVISED, WITH ADDITIONS.
READING: PRINTED AND PUBLISHED BY T. BARCHAM, BROAD STREET, LONDON :-HAMILTON, ADAMS & Co.
1866.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

91 pages 13-14

13

Christmas Day, for example, was originally held in honour of the birth of the Babylonian Messiah.

Lady-Day, or the annunciation of the Virgin, was observed in Pagan Rome, in honour of Cybele, or Semiramis, the mother of the Babylonian Messiah.

Easter is not a Christian term. It is nothing else than Astarte, one of the titles of Beltis, the Queen of Heaven, whose name, as pronounced by the people of Nineveh, was evidently identical with that now in common use in this country.

As found by Layard on the Assyrian monuments, the name is Ishtar.

Among our Pagan ancestors it was called, Easter Monath.

The Festival, of which we read in Church History, in the third or fourth centuries, was quite different from that now observed in the Romish Church; and, at that time, was not known by any such name as Easter. It was called Pasch, or the Passover, and, though not of apostolic institution, was early observed by many professing christians. It was not idolatrous, nor was it preceded by Lent, but corresponded with the time of the Jewish Passover.

The difference, in point of time, betwixt the Christian Pasch, as observed in Britain by the native Christians, and the Pagan Easter enforced by Rome, was, at the time of its enforcement, a whole month; and it was only by violence and bloodshed, at last, that the festival of the Anglo-Saxon, or Chaldean Goddess, came to supersede that which had been held in honour of Christ.

The Forty Days' Abstinence of Lent, was directly borrowed from the worshippers of the Babylonian Goddess.

"It ought to be known," said Carsianus, the Monk of Marseilles, writing in the Fifth Century, and contrasting the Primitive Church with the Church in his day, "that the observance of the forty days had no existence, so long as the perfection of that Primitive Church remained inviolate."

Originally, even in Rome, Lent, with the preceding revelries of the Carnival, was entirely unknown; and even, when fasting before 14 the Christian Pasch, was held to be necessary, it was by slow steps that, in this respect, it came to conform with the Ritual of Paganism.

The popular observances that still attend the period of the celebration of Easter and Lent, amply confirm the testimony of history as to its Babylonian character.

The "Hot Cross Buns" of Good Friday, and the "Dyed Eggs" of Pasch or Easter Sunday, figured in the Chaldean rites, just as they do now, in Roman. The "Buns," known too by that identical name, were used in the worship of the Queen of Heaven, the Goddess Easter, as early as the days of Cecrops, that is, 1,500 years before the Christian Era.

"Those," forcibly remarks Mr. Hislop, "who have been brought up in the observance of Christmas and Easter, and who yet abhor from their hearts all Papal and Pagan idolatry alike, may perhaps feel as if there were something 'untoward' in the revelations given above in regard to the origin of these festivals. But a moment's reflection will suffice entirely to banish such a feeling. They will see, that if the account here given be true, it is of no use to ignore it. Some of the facts are already known to Infidel and Socinian writers of no mean mark, both in this country and on the continent; and are being used in such a way as to undermine the faith of the young and uninformed in regard to the very vitals of the Christian faith. Surely then," he continues, "it must be of the last consequence that the truth should be set forth in its own native light, even though it may somewhat run counter to preconceived opinions; especially when that truth, justly considered, tends so much at once to strengthen the rising youth against the seductions of Popery, and to confirm them in the faith once delivered to the saints. If a heathen could say, 'Socrates I love, and Plato I love, but I love truth more,' surely a truly Christian mind, will not display less magnanimity. Is there not much, even in the aspect of the times, that ought to prompt the earnest inquiry, if the occasion has not arisen when strenuous

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

92 title page

AN AUTHENTIC ACCOUNT

OF THE

MASSACRE OF JOSEPH SMITH,

THE MORMON PROPHET,

AND

HYRUM SMITH, HIS BROTHER,

TOGETHER

WITH A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE RISE AND PROGRESS

OF

MORMONISM,

AND ALL THE CIRCUMSTANCES WHICH LED TO THEIR DEATH,

GEO. T. M. DAVIS,

Of Alton, Ills.

ST. LOUIS,

PRINTED BY CHAMBERS & KNAPP.

1844.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

92 pages 36-38

[36]

county, with the Mormons; to enumerate the trials they have suffered from them, and to place fairly before the public, the reasons assigned by themselves, for their resort to violence, which has brought upon them the anathemas of the united press, and the denunciations of the entire public. The death of the two Smiths, has been alleged, to be a deliberate, cold blood murder, without cause or provocation, and rendered doubly odious from the fact that they were under the protection of the law. Many have gone still further, and stigmatized it as the foulest of all mobs we have ever had in the Union. Far, very far is it from my design to approve in the remotest degree of a resort, under any circumstances, to mob violence, for the redress of public or private grievances. I am of the number, who maintain that there is no such thing as a justification for a resort to popular violence. My convictions are, that a man, or a community, had better, far better smart under the most oppressive grievances, if the law furnishes to him no redress. than resort to popular outbreak to correct the evil complained of. And I frankly admit that the greatest danger of a civil war, and the destruction of our Republican institutions, is to be apprehended from the mob spirit that, for the last twelve or fifteen years, has swept over this entire Union; and the indirect approbation it has met with from many in the communities where it has raged. Yet, with these convictions firmly established in my own mind, I shall not be deterred from doing justice to the citizens of Hancock, though, by so doing, I may subject myself to the unjust imputation of favoring what has been done. I insist, then, from the facts within my knowledge, that the killing of the Smiths at Carthage, was not fraught with half the odium, of the late riot in Philadelphia; the killing of Lovejoy at Alton, or the burning of the negro at St. Louis. My time will not admit of it, or I could demonstrate this proposition beyond successful controversy. The statement of the situation of the people of Hancock, will bring nearly every unprejudiced mind to the same conclusion.

Since the foundation of the Mormon sect in Western New York, in the year 1830, down to the present time, all experience has shown that the members of this sect could not, in peace, reside with other citizens. Why this is so, is a matter easily explained. The founders of the sect, comprising the Prophet, his brothers, and parents, were unprincipled, depraved and shiftless. Instead of resorting to habits of industry, for their maintenance, they relied upon imposition as the means of acquiring their daily bread. They consequently professed to be "money finders," or "money diggers;" and Joe was the Magician who, by the aid of a charmed stone, he professed to be in possession of, that the hidden treasures of the earth were to be found. The following certificates of character, made by many of the most reputable citizens in Palmyra, and Manchester. New York, sustain most fully, my assertions concerning Joe Smith, as well as his parents:

PALMYRA, December 4, 1893.

"We, the undersigned, have been acquainted with the Smith family for a number of years, while they resided near this place, and we have no hesitation in saying, that we consider them DISTI-

[37]

TOTE OF THAT MORAL CHARACTER, which ought to entitle them to the confidence of any community. They were particularly famous for visionary projects, spent much of their time in digging for hidden treasures. Joseph Smith, Sr., and his son Joseph, were in particular, considered entirely destitute of moral character, and additional to vicious habits. And in reference to all, with whom we were acquainted, that have embraced Mormonism, from this neighborhood, we are compelled to say, were very visionary, and most of them destitute of moral character, and without influence in this community; and this may account why they were permitted to go on with their impositions undisturbed. * * Geo. N. Williams, Clark Robinson, Lemuel Durfee,

G. E. Thayer, Geo. W. Crosby, E. S. Townsend, Henry P. Alger, G. W. Anderson, L. Williams, H. P. Thayer, R. S. Williams, Levi Thayer, S. P. Seymour, P. Sexton, M. Butterfield, D. S. Jackways, John Hurburt, H. Linnell, Jas. Quener, S. Ackley, Richard D. Clark, Josiah Rice, Th. P. Baldwin, Jesse Townsend, John Sothington, Durfey Chase, Wells Anderson, Philo Durfee, Giles S. Ely, R. W. Smith. Pelatiah West, Henry Jessup Linus North, Thos. Rogers, Jr., Wm. Parke, Josiah Francis, Amos Hollister, G. A. Hathaway, David G. Ely, H. K. Jerome. Lewis Foster, G. Beckwith. Hiram Payne. P. Grandin, L. Hurd. Asabel Millard. Joel Thayer, C. D. Robinson, Israel F. Chilson, A. Ensworth, MANCHESTER, N. Y., November 3, 1833.

We, the undersigned, being personally acquainted with the family of Joseph Smith, Sr., with whom the celebrated Gold Bible, so called, originated, state: That they were not only A LAY, INDO-LENT SET OF MEN, BUT ALSO INTEMPERATE; AND THEIR WORD WAS NOT TO BE DEPENDED UPON.

Pardon Butts, James Gee, Joseph Fish, Alfred Stafford, Warden A. Reed, Abel Chase, Horace N. Barnes, Moses C. Smith, Hiram Smith, A. H. Wentworth, Silvester Worden.

The above certificates were procured after the Mormons removed to the State of Ohio, from New York, and with a view of placing the people on their guard, against men who were known to be of abandoned and dangerous characters. The reputation of the two Smiths did not improve any in Ohio; and after swindling the public out of a large amount of money, (as Joe's bankrupt schedule, filed in this State, shows,) they left by the force of public opinion, and sought a home in the western portion of Missouri. Their conduct here, was even werse than it had been in New York or Ohio. And as Joe increased in strength, his vicious and deprayed habits became more manifest. I have streety spoken of his conduct in Missouri, and of his standing indicted, inthat State, for the crimes of theft, aron, burglary, murder and treason. These facts must satisfy any reflecting mind, why he has, for the last twenty years, been unable to reside long in any one place, at peace with the residue of the community. Since their residence in Illinois, and the disgraceful, humiliating conduct of politicians towards them, they have grown still more overbearing in their conduct towards those not of their sect, and far more unblushing in their depredations upon society. It is a fact as notorious as that Joe Smith once lived, that many of the most hardened felons, desperate horse thieves, and dangerous men, known in this State, have fled to Nauvoo, become members of the sect of Mormons, and been received in full fellowship, with a church professing to be christian. It is also known that fugitives from justice from other portions of the Union, have fled to Nauvoo, been received by Joz into the church, and screened from arrest, when the officers of the law sought them. Witness the case of Jeremiah Smith, indicted in the District of Columbia, for swindling the Government out of three thousand dollars, who, after diligent search, was traced to Nauvoo, and when arrested by the Deputy Marshal of this District, was taken from him by Joz, and discharged. Innumerable other instances might be named, were it deemed necessary. All that is designed by me, is, to show the public the character of the leaders, as well as many of the members of the church of "Latter Day Saints," that they may form their own opinion what security an honest community has, when surrounded by a sect of the description of Joe Smith. This of itself, ought to satisfy an unprejudiced mind, that the situation of the old citizens of Hancock is every thing else but desirable, or even to be tolerated. It is no part of my design to charge the whole community of Mormons, with possessing hearts as vicious and depraved, as those the two Smiths are shown to have had. From personal observation, I am convinced that there are many poor, unfortunate, deluded beings there, who are naturally honest, and who, under the influence of good example and upright leaders, would "act well their part" in society. That class, however, are, generally speaking, of weak intellect, to a great extent uneducated, and easily made the dupes of the vicious. Their implicit obedience to Joz, in all the requisitions he makes of them, whether legal or illegal, honest or dishonest, exemplifies, in a striking manner, the truth of the axiom, that "evil communication corrupts good manners." On the other hand, there are a large number of the most hardened and abandoned men in the community, who have gone there, assumed the garb of religion, become the confidential friends of the Prophet, and all for the purpose of acquiring an easy livelihood by dishonest means. Is it not a self-evident proposition, that any sect, or body of men, confiding in such leaders, and following implicitly their directions, cannot be otherwise than a scourge to any community, whose daily walk in life is honest and upright?

[38]

I have shown, in a previous portion of this work, the character of the ordinances passed by the City Council of Nauvoo, in which they assumed to themselves legislative, as well as judicial powers.

Canala

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

93 page 1

THE SUN.

THE MORMONS.—Important letter from Mrs.

Smith, widow of the Marmon Prophet.—The following interesting letter from Mrs. Smith, widow of the late General Joseph Smith, the Mormon prophet, has been received by the New York Sun, from Nauvoo. It will be read with great interest, as giving probably the most correct though brief view of affairs as at present existing among that unhappy people:—

Nauvoo, Ill., Nov. 20th, 1845.

To the Editor of the New York Sun:—Sir:
—I hope to be excused for addressing, for the first time in my life, a letter to the Editor of a Newspaper, and this I have been induced to do, from seeing the letters of Gen. Arlington Bennett, published in the newspapers, urging the Mormon people to remove to the Pacific Ocean, and advocating the cause of the Tyrants, who have seized on the gevernment of the Mormon Church. This church, such as it is, was formed by my lamented husband who was martyred for its sake, and whether true or falce, has laid down his life for its belief!

I am left here, sir, with a family of children to attend to, without any means of giving them an education, for there is not a school in the city, nor is it intended there shall be any here, or at any other place, where the men who now govern this infatuated, simple-minded people, have sway. I have not the least objection that these petty tyrants remove to California, or any other remote place, out of the world if they wish; for they will never be of any service to the Mormons, or the human family, no matter where they go. Their object is to keep the people over whom they rule in the greatest ignorance, and most abject religious bondage, and if these poor, confidence they are the statement of the service of the servi ject religious bondage, and if these poor, confiding creatures remove with them, they will die in the wilderness! The laws of the United States are quite good enough for me and my children, and my settled intention is to remain where I am, take care of my property, and if I cannot educate my children here, send them to New York or New England for that purpose. Many of the Mormons will, no doubt, remove in the Spring, and many more will remain here; and nothing would give me greater pleasure than to have a mixed society, in Nauvoo; as in other cities, and all exclusive religious distinctions abolished.

I must now say, that I never for a moment believed in what my husband called his apparitions and revelations, as I thought him laboring under a diseased mind; yet, they may all be true, as a Prophet is seldom without credence or honor, excepting in his own family or country; but as my conviction is to the contrary, I shall educate my children in a different faith, and teach them to obey and reverence the laws and institutions of their country. Shall I not, sir, be protected in these resolutions against the annoyance of the men I now oppose, for they will no doubt sack my life?

What object Gen. Arlington Bennett has in advocating the cause of these petty tyrants, I am not able to understand, for he assured me, when at my house, that he had not the smallest intention of connecting himself in any manner with them, much less removing with them to the Pacific Ocean. But this is a strange world; and I would not be surprised if they had offered to anoint and crown him King or Emperor in the West! As I have something more to say, I will take the liberty to write you another letter.

With great respect,
I am, sir, your humble servant,
EMMA SMITH.

Gen. Bennett, to whom she alludes, is now in

With great respect,
I am, sir, your humble servant,
EMMA SMITH.

Gen. Bennett, to whom she alludes, is now in New York, and on examining the above letter pronounced it to be genuine.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

94 title page

*THE CATHOLIC CENCYCLOPEDIA

AN INTERNATIONAL WORK OF REFERENCE ON THE CONSTITUTION, DOCTRINE, DISCIPLINE, AND HISTORY OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

EDITED BY

CHARLES G. HERBERMANN, Ph.D., LL.D.
EDWARD A. PACE, Ph.D., D.D. CONDÉ B. PALLEN, Ph.D., LL.D.
THOMAS J. SHAHAN, D.D. JOHN J. WYNNE, S.J.
ASSISTED BY NUMEROUS COLLABORATORS

FIFTEEN VOLUMES AND INDEX VOLUME XII

Hew york
THE ENCYCLOPEDIA PRESS, INC.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹⁴ page 768

RENAISSANCE

RENAISSANCE

gave lectures in Greck, Latin, and Hebrew. He was made rector of the university. Aleandro became a strenuous opponent of Luther; and the Sorbonne is charged by Mark Pattison with persecuting the great printer, Robert Estenne (1503-59), though he always obtained licence to sell his bibles and testaments. The Sorbonne objected, however, to any publication of Scripture without approved Catholic notes; and on scripture without approved Cathour notes; and this in a day which might be justly termed one of rebuke and blasphemy. France had its own type of Humanist in that extraordinary man, Rabelais (1490?–1553), a physician, priest, and obscene jester whose book is the glory and the shame of his native whose book is the giory and the shame of his halvier tongue. Rabelais, treating the Christian religion as a creed outworn, falls back upon a kind of liberal Platonism; he would leave men to their instincts and the joy of life. Much the same philosophy, though in graver tones, is insinuated by Montaigne (1533-92) in essays tinged with scepticism and disenchantment. These two writers, who lie beyond the spring-tide of the revival, open in France the anti-Christian war which has lasted, with growing violence, down to our time. But the seventeenth violence, down to our time. But the seventeenth century witnessed an adaptation of the classical forms to literature and preaching by Catholics of genius, by Pascal, Bossuet, Racine, and Fénelon, which yielded a highly original blending of religion with eloquent prose and refined verse. In general, nevertheless, we shall probably allow Taine's contention that the influence of the Classics (Latin. rather than Greek always) on French education has not been favourable to Christianity.

At Rome an "incredible liberty" of discussion pre-At Rome an "incredible liberty" of discussion prevailed under the spell of the Renaissance. Lord Acton quotes well-known instances. Poggio, the mocking adversary of the clergy, was for half a century in the service of the popes—Filelfo, a pagan unabashed and foul, was handsomely rewarded by Nicholas V for his abominable satires. Pius II had the faults of a smart society journalist, and took neither himself nor his age seriously. Platina, with whom Paul II quarrelled on political grounds, wrote a vindictive slanderous book, "The Lives of the Roman Pontiffs" which, however, was in some dea Vinuative standardus book, The lives of the Roman Pontiffs", which, however, was in some de-gree justified by the project of reformation in "head and members" constantly put forth and never ful-filled until Christendom had been rent in twain. Yet Sixtus IV made Platina librarian of the Vatican. It is equally significant that "The Prince", by Machiavelli, was published with papal licence, though afterwards severely prohibited. This toleration of evil bore one good consequence: it allowed his-torical criticism to begin fair. There was need of a contract criticals, to began lat. Indee was nice or all that had been handed down from the Middle Ages under the style and title of the Fathers, the Councils, the Roman and other official archives. In all these departments forgery and interpolation as well as departments forgery and interpolation as well as ignorance had wrought mischief on a great scale.

In 1440 Lorenzo Valla counselled Eugenius IV not to rely upon the Donation of Constantine, which he proved to be spurious. Valla's tract was printed by Ulrich von Hutten; it became popular among Germans, and influenced Luther. But it opened to this enemy of the temporal power a place in the household of Nicholas V. For another commencement of criticism we are indebted to the same unpleasant but sharp-sighted man of letters. It was Valla who but sharp-sighted man of letters. It was Valla who out snarp-signed man of letters. It was vains who first denied the authenticity of those writings which for centuries had been going about as the treatises composed by Dionysius the Aropagite. Three centuries later the Benedictines of St. Maur and the Bollandists were still engaged in sifting out the true from the false in patristic literature, in hagiology, in the story of the foundation of local churches. Mabillon, Ruinari, Papebroch, and their successors have cleared the ground for research into the Christian origins; they have enabled divines to consider a theory of development, the materials of which were hopelessly confused when Valla tilted against the noperessivy contused when vain the against the Donation itself, accepted and deplored as a fact by Dante. How great that confusion was, the Benéditine editions of the Fathers, which largely put an end to it, abundantly show: the "authentic and necessary evidences of historical religion" could not necessary evidences of historical religion" could not be given their full value until this work was done. It called for a disposition at once literary and critical, which the old method of training did not create and scarcely would tolerate. But this chapter falls outside the limits of our subject.

It is remarkable that the healthy Christian use of anoient literature was destined to be taught by a Spanish reforming saint, himself not learned and certainly no diletlante. This was Ignatius Loyols, whose antecedents did not promise him the inheritance which Bembo and the other Ciceronian pedants had turned to such ill account. St. Ignatius, who began his order in Paris, who walked the same streets began his order in Paris, who walked the same streets began his order in Paris, who walked the same streets with Erasmus, Calvin, and Rabelais, did the most astonishing feat recorded in modern history. He reformed the Church by means of the papecy when sunk to its lowest ebb; and he took the heathen Classies from neo-pagans to make them instruments of Catholic education. Spain had been but little affected by the Renaissance. In temper crusading affected by the Renaissance. In temper crusading and still medieval, its poetry, drams, theology, were distinguished by qualities peculiarly its own. The Italian manner had not yet found initators at its court when Ignatius wrote chivalrous sonnets to an unknown lady. His intensely practical turn of mind led him to employ every talent in the Divine service; and he saw that learning, if it could be cleansed from its present stains, would not only adorn but defend the Holy Place. He had looked into the lighter productions of Erasmus; they gave him a shock; but he recognized the power, if not the charm, which Humanism wielded over young imaginations. His militant company took up again, without distinctly perceiving it, the task that Erasmus intended and Petrarch had set before Italians two hundred years previously.

In May, 1527, Rome was laid waste, its churches In May, 1521, frome was laid waste, its churches profaned, its libraries pillaged, by a rabble of miscreants. "But", said Cardinal Cajetan, "it was a just judgment on the Romans." The pagan Renaissance fell, stricken to death; it was high time for the Counter-Reformation (q. v.) to begin. The Councel of Trent and the Society of Jesus took in hand to district the counter of the c of I refit and the society of Jesus took in hand to distinguish between what was permissible and what was forbidden in dealing with literature. The Roman Index was established by Paul IV. A rigorous censorship watched over the Italian printing press. By 1600 German importation of books across the Alps had ceased. If we would reckon the greatness of the change now wrought, we may compare the "Orlando Furioso" of Ariosto, dedicated in 1516 to Cavdinal Ippolito d'Este, with Tasso's "Gerusalemme", especially as revised by the poet himself, and at the dictation of the Roman censor, Antoniano. It was a change so marked that Scaliger termed the Italians generally hypocrites; but we know from the calendar of saints at this time and other sources how much had been done to check the wild lience of the ught and speech in the Peninsula. Giordano Bruno, renegade and pantheist, was burnt in 1600_Camrenegace and pantnest, was burnt in 1600; Campanella speut long years in prison. The different measures meted out to Copernicus by Clement VI and to Galileo by Paul V need no comment. The papagey simed henceforth at becoming an "idea" government under spiritual and converted men."

[Tran VIII was the left who sculd be decared. Urban VIII was the last who could be deemed a Renaissance pontiff (1623-44).
St. Ignatius, alive to the causes which had provoked many nations into revolt from the clergy, made learn-

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹⁵ title page

The Voice of the Bible the Verdict of Reason.

A

S E R M O N

UPON THE

REASONABLENESS OF THE DOCTRINE OF THE FUTURE ETERNAL PUNISHMENT OF THOSE WHO DIE IMPENITENT;

PREACHED IN THE

PINE STREET CHURCH, IN BOSTON,

ON SABBATHS, JUNE 20 AND 27, 1858.

 $\mathbf{B}\mathbf{Y}$

REV. H. M. DEXTER.

PUBLISHED BY REQUEST.

BOSTON:

JOHN P. JEWETT AND COMPANY.

CLEVELAND, OHIO:

H. P. B. JEWETT AND COMPANY.

1858.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

95 pages 201-202

1867.] Annual sermon. 201 202 Christian World. [July, teresting inquiry—at what period were these assumptions made? and what were the successive steps by which the Popes rose to the height of temporal dominion to which they attained in the dark ages when Popery was in its glory, when they swayed the scepter of dominion over monarchs and emperors, and reigned despots of the world?

The spiritual religion of Jesus was never designed for alliance with the governments and dignities of earth. It was only when the "mystery of iniquity," as it is called by St. Paul, which finally ripened into the politco-ecclesiastical system of Popery was actually working in the time of Constantine, at the commencement of the fourth century, that this unholy alliance was commenced; and it is only because, in some of the nations of modern Christendom, the reformation from Popery is incomplete, that in those countries this unholy alliance continues. Political union with the state is foreign to the genius of Protestantism, and it will yet ere long be shaken off as an incubus and a curse in every Protestant land; as it has long since been shaken off in the land of Washington, and more recently by thousands of self-sacrificing champions of spiritual Christianity in the lands of Wallace and of Tell.

For many centuries it was almost universally believed, upon the authority of forged documents, promulgated and sanctioned by the Popes themselves, that the emperor Constantine, when he removed the seat of empire from Rome to Constantinople in 328, had bequeathed to the bishops of Rome the perpetual sovereignty of Rome and Italy. The base and clumsy forgery by which this belief was established, is known in history as "the Donation of Constantine," and appeared first in the eighth century, about the same time as the forgeries styled "the decretals of Isidore," with which it is sometimes confounded, though entirely distinct. The object of "the decretals" was to establish the ecclesiastical supremacy; that of "the donation," the temporal sovereignty of the Popes of Rome.

The genuineness of these famous documents is now, no longer contended for even by Papists, and few will be found willing in the present day to stake their reputation by denying that they are notorious forgeries. Yet it is a noteworthy fact that the fabric erected upon these now universally acknowledged impostures, remains standing after the foundation upon which it rested has crumbled away. In the words of the eloquent historian of the Roman Empire—"The Popes, themselves, have indulged a smile at the credulity of the vulgar, but a false and absolute title still sanctifies their reign; and by the same fortune which has attended the Sybilline oracles, the edifice has subsisted after the foundations have been undermined."

The author of the forgery called "the Donation of Constantine" is unknown. It was first introduced to the world towards the close of the eighth century by an epistle of Pope Hadrian I., who endeavors to excite the liberality of the emperor Charlemagne towards the see of St. Peter by alluding to this pretended donation of a temporal principality to the Popes of Rome, by the great emperor Constantine, more than four centuries before.

The following is an extract from this spurious "Donation of Constantine," in which it is pretended that Constantine made Sylvester, bishop of Rome, a temporal sovereign in the year 328, when he transferred the seat of empire from Rome to the city of Byzantium, or Constantinople: "We give to Sylvester and to his successors, our palace of Lateran, our crown, our mitre, our diadem, and all our imperial vestments. We resign to him the imperial dignity. * * * We give as a free gift to the holy Pontiff, the city of Rome and all the western cities of Italy, etc. To make room for him, we abdicate our sovereignty over all these provinces; and we withdraw from Rome, transferring the seat of our empire to Byzantium, since it is not just that a territorial emperor shall retain any power where God hath placed the head of religion." Such was the flagrant imposture by which the usurped power of the sovereigns of the papal kingdom was confirmed at the time of its establishment, somewhat over a thousand years ago.

Notwithstanding this absurd legend, it is capable of historical proof, that the bishops of Rome for four centuries after the death of Constantine, so far from claiming the temporal sovereignty of Rome, quietly submitted to the jurisdiction of the emperors and the civil authorities. About the year 727, one of the most famous of these bishops of Rome, uses the following language, utterly repudiating all claim to temporal power or earthly sovereignty. "A pontiff," says Gregory II, "has not the right to decree crowns; his eyes should not penetrate the palaces of kings; it does not belong to him to meddle with political affairs any more than it does to a prince to teach religious doctrine." Such were the views of Pope Gregory in 727; we shall soon see how different this doctrine from that maintained by his namesake, Gregory VII, three centuries later.

The true date of the origin of the Papal sovereignty was about the middle of the eighth century. Its immediate occurrence was as follows—Pepin the celebrated mayor of the king of France, wishing to dethrone the feeble king Childeric, and to obtain in name, as he already possessed in fact, the soverign power of the kingdom, proposed to Pope Zachary in 751 a celebrated case of conscience, in order to sanction by the authority of the Pope, his contemplated usurpation. The question was "who best deserved the name of king, he who possessed the title without the power, or he who had the power without the title." The cunning priest Zachary, who could not afford to lose so favorable an opportunity of securing the favor of the powerful Pepin, gave just such an answer as the usurper expected. Childeric was dethroned, Pepin became king, and was solemnly crowned and anointed in the name of Zachary, by Boniface, the legate to the Pope.

Such services were too valuable to be accepted without a befitting reward. Aistulphus, the king of the Lombards, had long been the scourge of Rome and the Popes. He had seized upon the exarchate of Ravenna, and laughed to scorn the admonitions of the Pope to restore it to its lawful sovereign, the emperor.

A promise was exacted from king Pepin that he would visit Italy, and wrest the exarchate from the hands of the Lombard conqueror, not for the purpose of restoring it to its rightful sovereign, the emperor; but to bestow it, as a temporal sovereignty, upon the successors of St. Peter. Pepin kept his promise. Aistulphus was subdued. The province he had rubbed from the emperor was retaken and bestowed upon the see of Rome, in the words

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹⁶ pages 99, 219, 333

Blessing.—To complete this article, it will be well to give the following blessings taken from the Sarum Missai (London, 1868, 595–6). These should be compared with Mohammedan formularies (Champagnac, 11, 1077–89, etc.):—

Ressing of Scrip and Staff.

The Lord be with you.

The Lord be with you.

It had with thy spiritum the spiritum that staff) that whoseover for the love of Thy name shall desire to wear the same at his side or hang it at his neck or to bear it in his hands and so on his pilgrimage to seek the aid of the Saints with the accompaniment of humble prayer, being protected by the guardian-ship of Thy Right Hand may be found meet to attain unto the joys of the everlasting vision through Thee, O Saviour of the World, Who livest and reignest in the unity of the Holy Spirit, God for ever and ever.

Amen.

Here let the scrip be sprinkled with Holy Water and There let the scrip be sprinkled with Holy Water and let the Priest put it round each pilgrinis neck, asying: In the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ receive this scrip, the habit of they pilgrimage, that after due chastisement thou mayest be found worthy to reach in safety the Shrine of the Saints to which thou desirest to go; and after the accomplishment of thy journey thou mayest return to us in health. Through, etc. Here let him give the Staff to the Pilgrim, saying: Receive this staff for thy support in the travail and toil othy pilgrimages, of the enemy and reach in safety the Shrine of the Sainte whither thou desirest to go; and having obediently fulfilled thy course mayest return again to us with joy. Through, etc. The Blessing of the Cross for one on a pilgrimage to Jequalem.

Jerusalem.

V. The Lord be with you.

Ŷ. The Lord be with you.
Ŗ. And with thy spirit.
Let us pray. O God, whose power is invincible and pity cannot be measured, the aid and sole comfort of pilgrims; who givest unto 'Thy servants armour which cannot be overcome; we beseech Thee to be pleased to bless this dress which is humbly devoted to Thee, that the banner of the venerated Cross, the figure whereof is upon it, may be a most mighty strength to The company of the way as protection in Thy house, and a security to us on every side. Through, etc.

etc.

Here let the garment marked with the Cross be sprinkled with Holy Water and given to the pilgrim, the sprinkled with Holy ir airs and given to one pupulme, we printed spring.' Receive this dress whereupon the sign of the Cross of the Lord Our Saviour is traced, that through it safety, benediction and strength to journey in pro-perity, may accompany these to the Sepulcine of Him, who with Sed the Bube and Ord, world without end. Amen. and reigneth one God, world without end. Amen.

and reigneth one Cod, World Wilderen Krich (Trien, 1842); MARE, Das Welldwein der Scholieten Kröch (Trien, 1842);
1850; Rocz, The Church of Our Fathers (London, 1803); Lis
1850; Rocz, The Church of Our Fathers (London, 1803); Lis
1850; Rocz, The Church of Our Fathers (London, 1803); Lis
1850; Rocz, The Church of Our Fathers (London, 1804); Lis
1850; Honey (London, 1804); Honey (London, 1804); Lin
1850; Honey (London, 1804); Honey (London, 1804); Honey 1850; Patentine Physical Rock (1850); Patentine Rock (1850); Patentine Physical Rock (

Piligrim, Bishop of Passau, date of birth unknown; d. 20 May, 991. He was educated at the Benedictins monastery of Niederalacide, and was made bishop in 971. To him are attributed some, if not all, of the "Forgeries of Lorch", a series of documents, especially Bulls of Popes Symmachus, Eugene II, Leo VII, and Agapetus II, fabricated to prove that Passau was a continuation of a former archdiocese named Lorch. By these he attempted to obtain from Benedict VI the elevation of Passau to an archdiocese, the re-rection of those dioceses in Pannonia and Mossia which had been suffragans of Lorch, and the pallium had at heart the welfare of the captive Christians in Hungary and the Christianization of that country. There is extant an alleged Bull of Benedict VI granting Piligrim's demands; but this is also the work of Piligrim, possibly a document drawn up for the pagal Piligrim's demands; but this is also the work of Pili-grim, possibly a document drawn up for the papal signature, which it never received. Apart from these forgeries, common enough at the time, Piligrim was a good and sealous bishop, and converted numerous heathens in Hungary, built many schools and churches, restored the Rule of St. Benedict in Niederaltaich, transferred the relics of St. Maximilian from Oetting to Passau, and held synods (983-91) at Ennsburg (Lorch), Mautern, and Mistelbach. In the "Niebel-ungenlied" he is lauded as a contemporary of the heroes of that epic.

Deructes, Pilgrim von Perseu und des Erbisthum Lorch Debuttes, Pilgrim von Perseu und des Erbisthum Lorch Cheipsig, 1854); Insui in Beitiner Stimungsberichte (1898), 726-73; Insui in Beitiner Stimungsberichte (1898), 726-73; Insui in Mühzilingen der Instituta if yet setererichtet Genichtstoffschung, III (Vienna, 1887), 117-228; Insui, 1664, supplementary vol., II (1889), 489 e.; Elterwates, 30d die Butche en Passau vol., II (Sienna, 1897), 117-228; Insui 1864, august vol., II (Vienna, 1897), 117-228; Insui 1864, august vol., III (Vienna, 1897), 117-228; Insui 1864, august vol., III (Vienna, 1897), 117-228; Insui 1864, august vol., Insui 1

ermaele of the covenant, after it was built, and before that time probably over the centre of the camp. It there is not being the covenant and a torch carried on a pole, such as is used even now by vols. fol., Venice, 1559). Chief editions.—There are more than fifty-six of these in various languages. French text, ed. Fauthier (Paris, 1865); Italian version, ed. Baldelli (Florence, 1827); English tr. with commentary by Sir Henry Yule, revised by Henri Cordier (London, 1903).

POLONUS

LOUIS BRÉBIER.

LOUIS BRÉBIER.

LOUIS GRÉBIER.

LOUI

Course. A fraisers de l'Asis (Paris, 1890); Currie, Te Mongai (Baston, 1809).

Louis Brátines.

Polonus, Martinus. See Marin or Thorpa.

Polyandry. See Marnian, Historar or.

Polybotus, itiular see in Phrygis Salutaris, suffragan of Synanda. This town is mentioned only in the sixth century by Hierocles, "Synechemia", 877, 10.

It is now Boulvadin, capital of the caus of the vilayet of Brousse, with 5000 inhabitants, all Mussilmans; there et ann. It all mentions two hishops: Strategius, present at the Council of Chaleedon (451); St. John, whose feast is celebrated 5 Dec. and who lived under Loo the Issurian; at the Council of Nice (1877), the see Creek (1987). The see of the Council of Chaleedon (451); St. John, whose feast is celebrated 5 Dec. and who lived under Loo the Issurian; at the Council of Nice (1877), the see of the Issurian; at the Council of Nice (1877), the see of the Issurian; at the Council of Nice (1877), the see of the Issurian; and the said latached to this metropolis as a titular see by the Curia Romans. But from the ninth censury places the see among the suffragans of Synnada, and it is still attached to this metropolis as a titular see by the Curia Romans. But from the ninth censury places the see among the suffragans of Synnada, and it is still attached to this metropolis as a titular see by the Curia Romans. But from the ninth censury of the sufface of the Syntam of the sufface of the Council of Nice (1877), the see of the Syntam of the St. Ispatius with the sufface of the Syntam of the sufface of the Syntam of the St. Ispatian structure of the Church of Antioch, and to send them any council of the Church of Antioch, and to send them any council of the Church of Antioch, and the Syntam of the Syntam

Prepositus. See Provost

Prestextatus, Catacomb of. See Cemetery, subtitle, Early Roman Christian Cemeteries.

PRÆPOSITUS

Presentatus, CATACOMS OF. See CREATER, Subtitle, EARLY ROMAN CHRISTIAN CEMETRIES.

Pragmatic Sanction (progmatica sanctio, i.e., jussio, also pragmatica or pragmaticum) meant in the latter period of the Roman Empire an edict formally since the proper of the Roman Empire an edict formally into the state of the Company of the Company into the State of the Company of the Company into the State of the Company
into the State of the Company
into the State of the Company into the only in case of necessity, and with the permission of the king and the French Church. The liberties and privileges granted to churches, monasteries, and priests by the kings were guaranteed. The investigations of Thomassy (1844), Gérin (1869), Viollet (1870), and Scheffer-Boichorst (1887), have proved that it is a forgery which appeared between 1438 and 1452.

In The Promotici Sonation of Bourges.—The Councillary of the Council

an occumenical council over the pope, of the regular standard concumental council over the pope, of the regular standard commands of irbute. The support of papal reservations and demands of irbute. The support of papal reservations and demands of irbute. The support of papal reservations and demands of irbute. The support of papal reservations and demands of irbute. The support of the papal see.

By this edicit the French king issued a law of the secular legislative authority in purely ecclesiastical staffairs. The recognition of the authority of the Council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of its description of the support of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of its description of the support of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of its description of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of its description of the validity of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of its description of the validity of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of its description, as a tendency in philosophy, signifies the inastence on usefulness or practical consequences what it styles the formalism or rationalism of Intellect of the validity of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of the council of Basic was only formal, for the validity of the council of Basic was only formal for the validity of the council of Basic was only formal formal formal formal for the validity of the council of Basic was only formal fo

PRAGMATISM forcement of the sanction. Leo X effected its an-nulment by means of a Concordat made with Francis

I in 1516.

III. The German Pragmatic Sanction of 1439.—At the Diet of Frankfort held in March, 1438, the Ger-

Ill. The German Pragmatic Sanction of 1439.—At the Diet of Frankfort held in March, 1438, the German ruling princes also declared their neutrality in the struggle between Eugenius IV and the Council of the struggle between Eugenius IV and the Council of the Sancier of the Sale of the Sale of the Sale decrees of reform with modifications in individual cases. The diet reserved to itself the right to make other changes, and at a convenient time the council was to pass decisions on such points. This is the substance of the 'Instrumentum seceptationse' of 20 March, 1489. The summitum seceptationse' of 20 March, 1489. The summitum seceptationse' of 20 March, 1489. The summitum seceptationse of 20 March, 1489. The summitum seceptationse of 120 March, 1489. The summitum seceptations of 120 March, 1489. The summitum seceptation seceptation secondaries died out should the right of succession revert to the daughters of his brother, the Euperor Joseph I (1706–11), summitum secondaries of the March, 1489. The proposed secondaries died out should be right of succession revert to the daughters of his brother, the Euperor Seeph I (1706–11), summitum secondaries and the succession to the summitum secondaries and the summitum secondaries and summitum secondaries an was CEPITESSI INTUICION IN THE COURT.

HERDENBORTHER, Handbuck der allgemeinen Kirchengesch, ed.
Kinscn, II (4th ed., Freiburg, 1904), 600-01, 631; HEFRIER, Konzisiengescheist, VII (Freiburg, 1904), 762-70; Konzisiengescheist, VII (Freiburg, 1906), 762-70; Konzisiengescheist, VII (Freiburg, 1906), 762-70; Konzisiengescheist, VII (Auch (1908), 1906), 1906, 1906, 1907, 1908), 1908, 1

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

96 pages 400, 476, 768

PRESENTATION

France, by the Venerable Mother Marie Rivier. The mother-house is now at Saint-Andéol, Ardèche. The superior general is the Mother Marie Ste-Honorine. The provincial house in Canada was founded on 18 The provincial house in Canada was founded on 18 October, 1833, by Mgr Jean-Charles Prince, first Bishop of St. Hyacinthe. It is also the mother-house and the religious make their vows there. The first six religious, with Mother Marie St-Maurice as superior, settled at Ste-Marie de Monnoir, where Rev. E. Cravier, pastor of this parish, had prepared a convent for them. They opened a boarding-school and a class for day pupils; both of these are very prosperous at the total control of the set of the control of St. Hugues (in the county of Bagot), and in 1838 it was definitively located at St. Hyacinthe in a convent which was occupied up to this time by the Sisters of was definitively located at St. Hyacinthe in a convent which was occupied up to this time by the Sisters of the Congregation of Notre Dame of Montreal. This house was of insufficient accommodation and the community was obliged to erect, not far from the seminary, a large building of which they took possession in 1876. The house occupied since 1858 then became an academy. Later it was necessary to add a large annex to the first building. The students were installed there in 1907. The provincial house is at the same time the mother-house of the institution in Canada. The Congregation of the Presentation of Mary comprises 30 houses in Canada and 16 in the United States, educating 13.670 children.

cating 13,670 children.

SISTER MARY ST. DAVID.

Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Frast of The Tribe.—The Protoevangel of James, the Gospel of Pseudo-Matthew, the Gospel of the Nativity of Mary, Gosp. "Left have been been dependent of the Nativity of Mary, Gosp." Left have been dependent of the Nativity of Mary, Gosp. "Left history, 1873" believe that Mary, at the age of three, was brought by her parents to the Temple, in fulfilment of a vow, there to be educated. The corresponding feast originated in the Orient, probably in Syria, the home of the apocrypha. Card, "Itra (Anal. Spici. Solesmensi, p. 275) has published a great canon (fluturical poem) in Greek for this feast, composed by some "Georgios" about the seventh or eighth century. The feast is missing in the earlier Menology of Constitution of Georgios and the seventh or the constitution of the control of the control of the Cardon of the Card Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, FEAST III, 137).

Kellner, Heortologie (Freiburg, 1901); Nullen, Kal. Man.
(Innebruck, 1897); Holweck, Fasti Marians (Freiburg, 1892).

F. G. Holweck.

Prester John, name of a legendary Eastern

Prestor John, name of a legendary Eastern priest and king.
First Stage.—The mythical journey to Rome of a certain Patriarch John of India in 1122, and his Fixer Sraus.—The mythical journey to Rome of a certain Patriarch John of India in 1122, and his visit to Callistus II, cannot have been the origin of the legend. Not until much later, in a MS. dating from the latter part of the fifteenth-eentury "Tractatus pulcherimus" (Zancko), do we find the patriarch and priest united in one person. The first combination of the two legends appears at the end of the called the "Narrative of Edenti". The first substantial mention of Prester John is to be found in the "Clronicle" of Otto, Bishop of Freising, in 1145. Otto gives as his authority Hugo, Bishop of Gabala. The latter, by order of the Christian prince, Raymond of Anticch, went in 1144 (after the fall of Edessa) to Fope Eugene II, to report the grievous positions of the property of the Christian prince, Raymond of Anticch, went in 1144 (after the fall of Edessa) to Fope Eugene II, to report the grievous positions to the crussed. Otto met the Syrian prelate at Viterbo, where in the pope's presence he learned that a certain John, who governed as priest and king in the Far East, had with his people become converted to Nestorianism. A few years earlier he had conquered the brother monarch of Media and Persia, Samarati. Frester John had emerged victorious conducted with the conquest of Ecbatana; after which the victor started for Jerusalem to rescue the Holy Land, but the swollen waters of the Tigris compelled him to return to his own country. He belonged to the race of the three Magi, their former kingdoms being subject to him. His enormous wealth was departed and the started of Jerusalem to rescue the Holy Land, but the fact that he carried a scoptre of the fact that he carried a scoptre of the country of the polonged to the race of the three Magi, their former kingdoms being subject to him. His enormous wealth was departed and the subject to him the recommendation of the fact that he carried a scoptre of the country of the polonged to the race of the three Magi, their former kingdoms departed to the fact that he carried demonstrated by the fact that he carried a seeptre of pure emeralds. Weet gave unreserved credence to his tabe, Judging from the long silence of its on his tabe, Judging from the long silence of its on his tabe, Judging from the long silence of its oblight in unaccountable ways setters from this mysterious personage to the Byzantine emperor Manuel, Barbarossa, and other princes, which roused extravagant hopes. About a hundred manuscripts of the letter to Manuel of Constantinople are still extant (with many variants), and afford an interesting insight into this exceedingly complicated fiction. This wild medieval tale contains the principal incidents of the long Alexander legend. This letter is probably a Nestorian forger of the first of the long that the principal incidents of the long Alexander legend. The legend furnished a wealth of material for the poets, writers, and explorers of the Middle Ages. In England Sir John Mandeville exploited it to excess. In Germany Wolfram von Eschenbach, in "Parsifal", was the first to unite the legend of the Holy Grail with this history of Prester John. He found many and more extravagant imitators (e.g. Albrecht von Scharfenstein in "Jungere Trurel").

PRESTER

"Parsifal", was the first to unite the legend of the Holy Grail with this history of Prester John. He found many and more extravagant imitators (e.g. Albrecht von Scharfenstein in "Jungere Trurel").

"Alexander personal of the Holy of the Holy of popel, server user even under "Alexander episcopus for Jopel, server user even under "Alexander episcopus for Jopel, server servorum Dei, carrissimo in Christi filio Joanni, illustro et magnifico Indorum regi", has anything to do with Prester John. The pope had beard many rumours of a powerful Christian ruler in formation. The pope sent his conditions and the server information. The pope sent his conditions are the server of the server of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem). The result of this mission is not known; but judging from the confessoris", from MS. Selden 55 in Bodleian Library, Oxford.)

PROPERCY

The interpretation given to this prophecy is remarkable when applied to the events which have happened. The spirits mentioned in it were the Protestant inno-

At the end of seven centuries she would be delivered from her oppressors (or oppressors) and in their turn would be subjected to dreadful chastissments, and Catholic Trealand would be instrumental in brings. The content of the cont point, or similation in their spincation to the marria-ual popes, either as to their country, their name, their coat of arms or insignis, their birth-place, their talent or learning, the title of their cardinalate, the dignities which they held etc. For example, the prophecy con-cerning Urban VIII is Liftum et rose (the lily and the rose); he was a native of Florence and on the arms of Florence figured a flew-dc-tis; he had three bees emblasoned on his escutcheon, and the bees gather honey from the lilies and roses. Again, the name accords often with some remarkable and rare able when applied to the events which have happened. The spirits mentioned in it were the Protestant innovators who pretended, in the sixteenth century, to reform the Catholic Church in England. The severance of the green tree from its trunk signifies the esparation of the England Church from the root of the Catholic Church from the Hoty Roman Sec. This protection of the England Church from the Hoty Roman Sec. This protection is a seven to be verified by his journey when pope into cot the distance of "three furlongs". These three furlongs are understood to signify three centuries, at the end of which England would again be reunited to the Catholic Church, and bring forth flowers of virtue end fruits of sanctity. The prophecy was quoted by Ambrose Lisle Philipps on the occasion of the restablishment of the Catholic hierarchy in England by Pope Pius IX in 1850.

PROPHECY

Malecky—Concerning Irend—This prophecy which is distinct from the prophecies attributed to St. Malachy concerning the popes, is to the effect that his beloved native isle would undergo at the hands of England oppression, who is the end of seven centuries; but that the would preserve her fidelity to God and to His Church amidst all her trials. At the end of seven centuries the would be delivered from her oppressors for oppressions, who in their turn persecution, and calamities of every kind, during a week of centuries; but that the would preserve her fidelity to God and to His Church amidst all her trials. At the end of seven centuries the would be delivered from her oppressors for oppressions, who in their turn seven the propher was consequent to the House of Saxoy whose emblem was a cross. Leo Catholic Ireland would be instrumental in brings the world and is as follows: "To the find persecution of all things in Christ."

present pope is truly a burning me of seal for the restoration of all things in Christ.

Christoners the end of the best of the best of the prophecies of the Holy Roman Church there will reign Peter the Roman, who will feed his flock amid many tribulations, after which the seven-hilled city will be destroyed and the dreadful Judge will judge the people. The End." It has been noticed concerning Petrus Romanus, who according to St. Malachy's list is to be the last pope, that the prophery does not say that no popes shall intervene between him and his preferences or designated Giorio discs. It merely as many popes as we please before "Peter the Roman". Cornelius a Lapide refers to this prophecy in his commentary "On the Goepel of St. John" (C. xvi) and "On the Apocalypse" (ec. xvii-xx), and he endeavours to calculate according to it the remaining, years of time.

xvii-xx), and he endeavours to calculate according to it the remaining years of time.

(3) Prophecy of St. Paul of the Cross.—During more than fifty years this saint was accustomed to pray for the return of England to the Catholic Faith, and on several occasions had visions and revela-tions about it are-conversion. In appirit heasw the Pas-sionists established in England and labouring there for the conversion and sanctification of souls. It is well known that several of the leaders of the Oxford is well known that several of the leaders of the Oxford Movement, including Cardinal Newman, and thousands of converts have been received into the Church in England by the Passionist missionaries.

There are many other private prophecies concerning the remote and proximate aigns which will procede the General Judgment and concerning Antichrist, such as those attributed to St. Hildegarde, St. Bridget of Sweden, Venerable Anna Maria Taigi, the Curé d'Ars, and many others. These do not enlighten us any more than do the Scriptural prophecies as to the day and the hour of that judgment, which still remains a Divine secret.

BENTEICE XII. PERMINE LA D'IVIER SECULIA SERIE (L'ORDON, 1861); DENTIER, N'AMERICA (T. 1861); DE gave lectures in Gre.k, Latin, and Hebrew. He was made rector of the university. Aleandro became a strenuous opponent of Luther; and the Sorbonne is charged by Mark Pattison with persecuting the great printer, Robert Estienne (1503-59), though he always obtained licence to sell his bibles and testaments. The Sorbonne objected, however, to any publication of Scripture without approved Catholic notes; and this in a day which might be justly termed one of rebute and biasphemy. France had its own type of the control of the contro whose book is the glory and the shame of his native tongue. Rabelais, treating the Christian religion as a creed outworn, falls back upon a kind of liberal Platonism; he would leave men to their instincts and the joy of life. Much the same philosophy, though in graver tones, is instinuated by Montaigne though in graver tones, is instinuated by Montaigne disease, the property of the providence of the control of the classical forms to literature and presching by carbon the seventeenth century witnessed an adaptation of the classical forms to literature and preaching by Catholics of gening, by Passell, Bossuer, Ratine, and graver the control of the classical forms to literature and preaching by Catholics of gening, by Passell, Bossuer, Ratine, and graver the control of the classical forms to literature and preaching by Catholics of gening, by Passell, Bossuer, Ratine, and graver with eloquent prose and refined verse. In general, nevertheless, we shall probably allow Taine's contention that the influence of the Classics (Latin rather than Greek always) on Prench education has not been favourable to Christianity.

RENAISSANCE

At Rome an "incredible liberty" of classics (Latin rather than Greek always) on Prench education has not been favourable to Christianity.

At Rome an "incredible liberty" of classics (Latin rather than Greek always) on Prench education has not been favourable to Christianity.

At Rome an "incredible liberty" of the mocking adversary of the elergy, was for half a century in the service of the popes—Fileid, o a pagan unabashed and foul, was handsomely rewarded by Nicholas V for his abominable satires. Pius II had the faults of a smart society journalist, and took involved the control of the Roman Pontifies' which, however, was in some degree justified by the project of reformation in "head and members" constantly put forth and never fulfilled until Christendom had been rent in twain. Yet Sixus IV made Platina librarian of the Vatity of the Roman Pontifies, and the Vatity of the Roman Pontifies," which, howev

Germans, and influenced Luther. But it opened to this enemy of the temporal power a place in the house-hold of Nicholas V. For another commencement of criticism we are indebted to the same unpleasant but sharp-sighted man of letters. It was Valla who first denied the authenticity of those writings which for centuries had been going about as the treatises composed by Dionysius the Arcopagite. Three centuries later the Benedictines of St. Maur and the centuries later the Deneuronnes of St. Mant And the Bollandists were still engaged in sifting out the true from the false in patristic literature, in hagiology, in the story of the foundation of local churches. Mabillon, Ruinart, Papebroch, and their successors have cleared the ground for research into the Christave Christians.

tian origins; they have enabled divines to consider a theory of development, the materials of which were hopelessly confused when Valla tiltad against the

RENAISSANCE

tian origins; they have enabled divines to consider a theory of development, the materials of which were hopelessly confused when Valla tilt: d against the Development of the property of the perceiving it, the task that Erasmus intended and Petrarch had set before Italians two hundred years previously.

In May, 1527, Rome was laid waste, its churches provided in the libraries gillaged, by a rabble of unispected in the libraries gillaged, by a rabble of unispected in the libraries gillaged, by a rabble of unispected in the libraries gillaged, by a rabble of unispected in the libraries gillaged, by a rabble of unispected in the libraries gillaged, by a rabble of unispected in the libraries and the Society of Jesus took in hand to distinguish between what was permissible and what was fortwiden in design with literature. The Roman Index was established by Paul IV. A rigorous censorial production over the Italian printing press. By had ossaed. If we would reckon the greatness of the change now wrought, we may compare the "Orlando Purioso" of Ariosto, declicated in 1516 to Cardinal Ippolito d'Este, with Tasso's "Gerusalemme", especially as revised by the poet himself, and at the dictation of the Roman censor, Antoniano. If was a change so marked that Scaliger termet the Italian generally hypocrites; but we know from the calendar a change so marked that Scaliger termet the Italian generally hypocrites; but we know from the calendar panella spent long years in prison. The different measures meted out to Copernicus by Clement VI and to Gallibo by Paul V need no comment. The papacy simeth henceforth at becoming an "ide" government under spiritual and converted me". Remaissance pontiff (1623-44).

St. Ignatius, alive to the causes which had percoked many nations into revolt from the elergy, made learn-

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹⁶ page 772

RENNES

772 -RENNER

Roman post of Aleth. Two legendary biographies of him which date from the ninth century make him the first Bishop of Aleth. The biography of King Saint Judicael, written in the eleventh century, mentions as a contemporary of the king, a Saint Maelmon, Bishop of Aleth. Local breviaries of the fiteenth century, mention three bishops prior to Maelmon: Enogat, Gurval, and Coalinit. In Mgr Duchesne's opinion one thing only is certain that the Diocese of Aleth existed in Charlemagne's time. The town of Aleth was destroyed by the Normans, and soon after 1141, the seat of the diocese was removed to the Isle of St. Aaron (so-called after a hermit who lived there early in the sixth century), on which stood the town afterwards known as St. Malo. This change was endorsed by Eugene III in spite of the protests of the monks of Marmoutiers who had a foundation on the island. Among the bishops of St. Malo are: Blessed John de la Grille Discope of St. Anko are: Buessed John of an Grine (1144-63) under whom these ewas transferred; William de Montfort (1423-32); cardinal in 1426; William Brigonnet (1493-1513); Harlay de Sancy (1632-46).

HI. Diocess or Dot.—The Life of St. Samson, which cannot be of carlier date than the seventh centered to the server of the control of tury, mentions the foundation of the monastery of Dol by St. Samson. He was doubtless already a bishop when he came from Great Britain to Armorica, and it is the perhaps who assisted at the Council of Paris be-tween 561 and 567. But in the biography there is nothing to prove that he founded the See of Dol or that he was its first bishop. In the twelfth century, to support its claim against the Metropolitan of Tours, the Church of Dol produced the names of a long list of archbishops: St. Samson, St. Magioire, St. Budoe, St. Genevée, St. Restoald, St. Armel, St. Junael, St. Turian. Mgr Duchesne discounts and doubts this list. He is of the opinion that the abbey of Dol may have had at its head from time to time abbots with episcopal jurisdiction, but that Dol was not the seat of a diocese. Under Charlemagne and Louis the Pious, the Vicariate of Dol and the monastery of St. Méen were still included in the Diocese of Aleth; so that the first Bishop of Dol was Festianus (Festgen) mentioned for the first time be-tween 851 and 857, and installed by King Nomenos. Among the bishops of Dol are: Baudri_(1107-30), Among the bishops of Doi are: Baudin (1107-30), author of a poem on the conquest of England by William the Conqueror; Alain, Cardinal de Coetivy (1456-74), as legate of Callistus III, brought Charles VII to assist the Greeks against the Turks who were besieging Constantinople; Urban René de Hercé (1767-95), emigrated to England during the Revolution and Cardinal R tion, but accompanied to Brittany the royalist troops who attempted to land at Quiberon. He was arrested with his brother, and shot at Vannes, 3 July, 1795.

There was a struggle from the ninth to the eleventh entury to free the Church of Brittany from the Metropolitan of Tours. It is important to consider the point closely.

From a comparison made by Mgn Duchesne between the Life of St. Conwoion, the "Indiculus de episcoporum Britonum depositione", and an almost completely restored letter of Leo IV, it would appear that shortly before 850, Nomenoë wishing to be anointed king, and finding opposition among the prelattes of Britany, sought to get rid of them by charg-the deaths of Salomon and of Susannus, and a con-ing them with simony. Their only fault was perhaps that they demanded eulogia from their priests when act on the part of the Holy Se recognizing Dol as a the latter came to synods. After listening to a deputa-tion of Breton bishops and to St. Conwoion, founder of the Abbey of St-Sauveur at Redon, who had been sent to Rome by Nomenoë, Leo IV declared that the charge of simony must be adjudiented by a competent tribunal of twelve bishops, and must be attested by seventyane will be adjudiented by a competent with the charge of things, and subordinated and twelve bishops, and must be attested by seventyanew all Brittany to Tours but did not interfere with two witnesses, thereby disputing Nomenoe's claim the diocesan boundaries set up by the daring Noto a right to denose bishops. But Nomenoe did demenoe, and they remained in force until the Revolupee, and in a brutal manner. the four bishops of too. The Bishop of Dol retained until 1789 the Vannes: Aleth, Quimper, and St. Pol de Léon, and made seven dioceses out of their four; one of the new dioceses had its seat in the abbey of Dol and became straightway an archdiocese. The remaining two dioceses had its seat in the abbey of Dol and became straightway an archdiocese. The remaining two were in the monasteries of St. Brieuc and Paburtutual (Tréguier). At the end of $50 or beginning of $51 the bishops of the four provinces of Toura, Sens, Reims, and Rouen, wrote a letter of reprimand to Nomenoë and threatened him with excommunication. He paid no heed to them and died 7 March, 851. Salomon, Nomenoës second successor, re-quested Benedict IV in vain to regularize the situa-tion of the Breton hierarchy. In the name of the Council of Savonnières (859) the seven metropolitans of the three kingdoms of Charles the Bald, of Lothaire II, and of Charles of Provence, wrote to the

THE CATHEDRAL, RENNES

Bishop of Rennes and to the bishops occupying the Bishop of Rennes and to the bishops occupying the new Sees of Dol, St. Brieuc, and Tréguier, reproaching them with lack of obedience to the Metropolitan of Tours. This letter was not sent to the Bishops of Vannes, Quimper, Aleth, and St. Pol de Léon who wrongly occupied the sees of the legitimate bishops illegally deposed by Nomenoë. It achieved nothing. In 862 Salomon dealt directly with Nicholas I, and at first tried to mislead the pope by means of false allegations and forgeries; then he restored Felix of Quimper and Liberalis of Léon to their sees, but still kept Susannus of Vannes and Salocon of Aleth in exile. Nicholas I, died in 867. Adrian II (867in exile. Nicholas I died in 867. Adrian II (867– 72) and John VIII (872–82) continued to uphold the rights of the Metropolitan of Tours. Then came act on the part of the Holy See recognizing Dol as a new metropolitan church; it never had control over Rennes or Nantes, and it was mainly over the new Sees of St. Brieuc and Tréguier that it exercise

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹⁷ title page

THE CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA

AN INTERNATIONAL WORK OF REFERENCE ON THE CONSTITUTION, DOCTRINE, DISCIPLINE, AND HISTORY OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

EDITED BY

CHARLES G. HERBERMANN, Ph.D., LL.D.
EDWARD A. PACE, Ph.D., D.D. CONDÉ B. PALLEN, Ph.D., LL.D.
THOMAS J. SHAHAN, D.D. JOHN J. WYNNE, S.J.
ASSISTED BY NUMEROUS COLLABORATORS

IN FIFTEEN VOLUMES VOLUME XIV

Hew york
ROBERT APPLETON COMPANY

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹⁷ page 378

SYMMACHUS

378 SYMMACHUS

sequently the opposition called its candidate Laurentius again to Rome. He resided in the Lateran palace, which was in the hands of his adherents, while Symmachus retained the house of the bishop (episcopium) near St. Peter's. The division continued for four years, during which both parties carried on a furious guarrel at Rome. Laurentius had his portrait added to the series of popes in the Church of Saint Paul Without the Walls. However, certain prominent persons exerted their influence in favour of Symmachus, as Bishop Avitus of Vienne, who, at the request of the Gallican bishops, addressed an urgent letter to the Senate on behalf of the rightful pope and for the restoration of unity. Symmachus gradually won over a number of the adherent of the opposition. The greatest factor in the healing of the schism was the interposition of Deacon Dioscurus of Alexandria, who had come to Rome. He was commissioned by who had come to Rome. He was commissioned by Symmachus to go to Theodoric, and won the king over to the side of the rightful pope. Apparently political motives were involved, as the king wished to take action against the Laurentian party, which in-clined to Constantinople. He commanded Senator Festus, the head of the hostile party, to return all Festus, the head of the hostile party, to return all Roman churches to Symmachus. Laurentius having lost many adherents among the senators the king's command was executed without difficulty. The antipope, obliged to leave Rome, retired to a farm helonging to his protector Festus. Only a small party still held to Laurentius and refused to recognize Symmachus as Bishop of Rome; but it was insignificant and was reconciled later to Hormisdas, the successor of Symmachus. During the schism a number of polemical writings appeared, as from the party of Laurentius the treatise "Contra Synodum absolutionis incongruse", to which Deacon Ennodius replied in "Libellus adversus eos qui contra Synodum seribere pressumpthe treatise "Contra Synodum absolutionis incongrus", to which Deacon Eanodius replied in "Libellus adversus cos qui contra Synodum scribere præsumpserunt" ("Mon. Germ. Hist.: Auct. ant.", VII, 48 sq.). While the author of the life of Symmachus in the completely preserved text of the "Liber pontificalis" is very favourable to this pope, the writer of another continuation of the papa blographice supports the cause of Laurentius ("Fragment Laurentien", ed. Duchesne in "Liber pontificalis", 14, 44-6). During the dispute the adherents of Symmachus drew up four apocryphal writings called the "Symmachus Aregries"; these were: "Gesta synodi Sinuessans de Marcellino"; "Constitutum Silvestri", "Gesta Liberij", "Gesta de purgatione Xysti et Polychronii accusatione". These four works are to be found in Coustant, "Epist. rom. pontif." (Paris, 1721), appendix, 29 sq.; cf. Duchesne, "Liber pontificalis", 1, introduction, CXXXIII sq.; "Histoire littéraire des apocryphes symmachiens". The object of these forgeries was to produce alleged instances from earlier times to support the whole procedure of the adherents of Symmachus, and, in particular, the position that the Roman bishop could not be judged by any court composed of other bishops. Still these forgeries are not the first documents to maintain this latter tenet.

Symmachus sealously defended the supporters of orthodoxy during the disorders of the Acacian schism. He defends, athough without success, the opponents of the "Henotikon" in a letter to Emperor Anastasius (491–518). At a later date many of the persecuted Oriental bishops addressed themselves to the pope to whom they sent a confession of faith. Shortly after 506 the emperor sent him a letter full of invectives, to which the pope sent a firm answer, maintaining forcibly the rights and liberty of the Church (Thief, Epist. rom. pont.", 1, 700 sq.). In a letter of 8 October, 512, addressed to the bishops of Illyris, the pope warned the clergy of that province not to hold communion with heretics. Soon after the beginning of his pontificate Symmachus interposed in the quarrel between the Archbishops of Arles and Vienne as to the boundaries of their respective territories. He annulled the edict issued by Anastasius II in favour of the Archbishop of Vienne and later (6 November, 513) confirmed the metropolitan rights of Archbishop Cæsarius of Arles, as these had been fixed by Leo I. Moreover, he granted Cæsarius the privilege of wearing the pallium, the first-known instance of such a grant by the Holy See to a bishop outside of Italy. In a letter of 11 June, 514, he appointed Cæsarius to represent the interests of the Church both in Gaul and Spain, to hold synods of the bishops in certain cases, to give letters of recommendation to clergy who journeyed to Rome. More important matters were to be laid before the Holy See. In the city of Rome, according to the "Liber pontificalis", the pope took severe measures against the Manichæans, ordered the burning of their books, and expelled them from the city. He erected or restored and adorned various churches. Thus he built a Church of St. Andrew near St. Peter's, a Basilica of St. Peter's, completely rebuilt the Basilica of Sts. Sylvester and Martinus, and made improvements over the Catacomb of the Jordani on the Via Salaria. He built episcopal houses (episcopia) to the right and left of the parvis of St. Peter's. These buildings were evidently connected with the residence of the pope for several years near St. Peter's during the disorders of the Laurentian schism. He also built asylums for the poor near the three churches of St. Peter, St. Paul, and St. Laurence that were outside the city walls. The pope contributed large sums for the support of the Catholic bishops of Africa who were persecuted by the ruleurs of the Arian Vandals. He also aided the inhabitants of the provinces of upper Italy who suffered so sorely from the invasion of the barbarians. After his death he was buried at St. Peter's. Symmachus is venerated in the Roman Church as a saint.

barbarians. After his death he was buried at St. Peter's. Symmachus is venerated in the Roman Church as a saint.

Liber postification. DUCHERNE, I. 200-208; Jarris Regesta 100 cm., 17 min. Frist. Frist. com. pontst. 539 cm.; 18 cm. pontst. 639 cm.; 18 cm. pontst. for single fire first. Aust. Aust. Aust. Aust. Aust. Aust. 200 cm. for charles first first Symmachus the Ebionite, author of one of the Greek versions of the Old Testament included by Origen in his Hexapla and Tetrapla. Some fragments of this version survive in what remains of the Hexapla. Symmachus also wrote "Commentaries", not extant, apparently to support the heresy of the Ebionites by attacking the Gospel of St. Matthew. "Origen states that he obtained these and other commentaries of Symmachus on the Serriptures from a certain Juliana, who, he says, inherited them from Symmachus himself" (Eusebeius, "Hist. Eccl.", VI, xvii). "Palladius (Hist. Laus., Isiv) found in a manuscript "very ancient and arranged in sticho!" the following entry made by Origen: "This book I found in the house of Juliana, the virgin in Cæssarca, when I was hiding there; who said she had received it from Symmachus himself the interpreter of the Jews". The date of Origen's stay with Juliana was probably 238-41, i. e. during the persecution of Maximin, but this tells us nothing about the date of Symmachus's version of the Seriptures which was known to Origen when he wrote (about 228) his earliest commentaries (see Swete, "Introd. to O. T. in Greek", p. 50). It used commonly to be accepted, on the supposed authority of St. Epiphanius (De mens. et pond., xvi), that Symmachus flourished in the age of Severus (193-211), but the text of Epiphanius foul of the Widest blunders. The Syriac translator who (as was first pointed out by Lagardel, had aless corrupt text before

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

⁹⁸ title page (see full chart freely downloaded from http://www.thetorchbearerseries.com, containing the references and scanned images of the references)

"The largest impediment to discovering truth; is the belief you already have it." – Anonymous Westcott and Hort: Occultists or Christians? You Decide Why does it even matter? Westcott and Hort abandoned the traditional text^{80,32} and created a new Greek text₃3 which relied heavily upon newly discovered Codex Sinaiticus, ⁴ along with previously discovered Vaticanus and Alexandrinus. Their new Greek text became the Greek Nestle-Aland and UBS textbooks used by most Catholic and Protestant translators today. This new text caused translators to doubt God's preserved words and doctrine, resulting in Bibles translated after 1881 to contain thousands of changes from the traditional text, including the removal of Mark 169-20 & John 7:33-8:11. The general public has been led to believe that Westcott and Hort were Christians, but were they really? Biblical understanding, careers, billions in book sales, and reputations are at stake! Dr. Fenton John Anthony Hort Dr. Eberhard Nestle (Born 1828 – Died 1892) Very close friends with Westcott (Born 1825 - Died 1901) (Born 1851 – Died 1913) chendorf and Westcott & Hort Text Very close friends with Ho What he did: Assembled a new Greek text to be used for translating Bibles since 1881. oe used for translating Bibles since 1881. Aland: The 1st edition was published by Conducted séances at the secret Eberhard Nestle in 1898 and combined the readings of editions from Tischendorf, Westcott and Hort, and Weymouth. ³⁸ Cambridge Apostles club. Wrote rare up creatures, and uses New Age occult terminology in a letter he wrote to his wife according to his son, "We tried to turn occult books, with one called Collectones Hermetico¹⁸ based upon the Alexandrian, Gnostic or occult memberships: Unknown Egyptian / Greek wisdom texts of Hermes tables, but the creatures wouldn't stir." What he believed: Dr. Nestle appears to Trismegistus9, 10 and another called A Conducted séances at the secret Cambridge Apostles club⁵ and elsewhere God can preserve His Word to ever the 1s generation copy or print run, let alone to future generations. "Nay, even (perhaps under pen name). He founded Snostic or occult memberships: Ghostly Guild which became SPR, 5, 17 which worked with infamous aristocratic Ψ Combridge Apostles a secret club. 5, 6, 7, 25 when the two agree [original manuscript and copy], there is still the possibility that what the author wrote and allowed to be Ψ Eranus Society (Senior Apostles). 5, 27, 29 Russian-German occultist Madame Helen Blavatsky in 1885.¹⁹ He is charged with Ψ Founded Ghostly Guild. 6, 11, 12, 14, 15, 16, 20 printed was not what he thought or eresy at least three times in 1861, 1865, ended to be read. "39 He believes that, Ψ Ghostly Guild becomes SPR.8,17 "Their disappearance | original 1867, and his namphlet suppressed after Ψ Cack and Bull Club (Ghostlie Guild), 11, 14 the episcopal referee detected heresy in it manuscripts] is readily understood when per his son, Arthur Westcott.^{23, 28} we consider that the greater portion of the New Testament, viz. the Epistles, are Ψ Hermes Club (Philological Society), 9, 23, 24 Gnostic or occult memberships: What he believed: He held to many Gnostic accasional writings never intended for φ Combridge Apostles a secret club. 5.6.7.2 beliefs, "I have been persuaded for many years that Mary-worship and 'lesus'publication, while others were meant to have only a limited circulation. "³⁹ Was this φ Eranus Society (Senior Apostles).8, 27, 29 worship have very much in common in Ψ Founded Ghostly Guild, 6, 11, 12, 14, 15, 16, 20 perhaps a statement out of ignorance. their causes and their results. 48 He macks ince God said that he would "preserve those who stringently adhere to the Bible, φ Ghastly Guild becomes SPR. 5. 17 his words?40 Is it possible that the "... fanaticism of the bibliolaters" * In a ^φ Cock and Bull Club (Ghostlie Guild),11,14 disappearance of original manuscripts over a long time period could be the result of Satan (the god of this world until Jesus single page Hort says, "having read so little Greek [New] Testament, and dragged on ^Ψ Hermes Club (Philological Society).^{9, 23, 26} What he believed: He followed the Electic with the villainous Textus Receptus returns)⁴³ and evil people burning all the [Traditional Greek Text used for centuries]." He continues, "Think of that ophy (Greek Philosophy) evidence they can locate?4 as did many of the early Gnostics. Beyond Why it matters: If a Bible-doubter translates naming a club after Hermes, he also vile Textus Receptus legning entirely on Scripture, God's guidance is ignored, and thus their translation is not inspired and late MSS.; it is a blessing there are such early ones." Referring to Codex Sinaiticus Trismegistus, 10 the bases for many occult no longer Scripture, (see 2 Timothy 3:16)4 that Tischendorf 'found' and he mentions secret societies, such as Freemannous 21, Tischendorf by name, and then speaks of starting a society to investigate ghosts, the Rosicrucianism, 24 Theosophy, and Thelema, which are against Christianity, A 63 years old (1888), after the new Greek Text was completed in 1881, he is still very Ghostly Guild,14 Dr. Hort believed the followers of John Hus (hero to Martin Luther and the reformers) worshipped much involved with the occult stating, "If had the command of ghosts just at present, I think that Bismarck's sleep Soton, vet Hussites were instrumental in trying to reform paganism out of the Roman Catholic Church.²⁴ would be a good deal disturbed. Perhaps i Why it matters: God warns, "Record not them that have fomiliar spirits, neither seek after wizards, to be defiled by them: Why it matters: Beliefs affect how people think, teach, and translate the Bible, as expressed in this quote: "The autside world was wont to regard him [Westcott] am the Lord your God." - Leviticus 19:31 (KJV). It certainly appears that Hort and as a mystic; and the mystical, or Westcott were seeking communication sacramentol, view of life enters, it is true, with phosts13 (demonic spirits) even callin Keep in mind, the oldest known manuscript very largely into his teaching." Would you them creatures.² How did this evil séance available, The Jesus Papyrus, AKA Magdalen College Papyrus P64, at c.60 A.D. agrees with want someone who swore a membership communication affect their understanding oath to secret evil socialistic clubs, which opposes God's leadership role, translating God's divinely inspired book?^{21, 23, 24, 25} and translation of the Bible?... and what the King James Bible and Textus Recentus about their oaths of allegionce to secret gainst the Nestle-Aland & UBS textbooks. 33 34, 35, 36, 37

All credit, praise, honor, and glory belongs to our beloved God!

© 2018 Peter D. Arvo | (CCBY-NC-ND 4.0) | Lost updated: 8/7/2019 | TheTorchbearerSeries.com

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

99 title page HIRD PAR OF A TREATISE. Intituled: of three Conversions of England: conteyninge. An examen of the Calendar or Catalogue of Protestant Saints. Martyrs and Confessors, divised by John Fox, and prefixed before his volume of Acts and Monuments. VVith a Pararell or Comparison thereof to the Catholike Roman Calendar: and Samtstherin conterned. THE FIRST SIX MONETHES. Whervito in the end is annexed a defence of a certaine Triall, made before the King of France vpon the yeare 1600. betweene Monsieur Peren Bishop of Eureux, and Monfieur Plefin Mornay Gouernour of Saumar, about fundry points of Religion. S. Aug. lib, 3. contra Parmen. cab. 6. acrilegious Schismatikes and impious beretikes, date presume when they are punished, to accoumpt the punishment of their fury, for true martyrdomes. MATH. 25. VER'S. 32. tal fhall feparate shem a funder (at the day of indement) at the Shepheard doth separate the Sheep from goates. mprinted with licence, Anno Dii. 1604.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." - John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." - Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

99 page 94 (PDF page #245)

The

Pope &

Sea of Rome.

gatory:

Choise

ates,&c.

Images & the

3. Sacraments.

fall for 1200.

yeares.

3. holly

Orders.

6.

like.

94. The examen of I. Fox his Kalendar-Saints. and Benedictions of the B. of Rome. And in this article do their posterity of Protestants agree with them, as every one will confesse.

They denied all Sacramentall Confes-Confess fion: the vse of Chrisme in Baptisme, Purfion, Pur= gatory, Inuocation of Saints, and prayer for the dead: holy dayes, ordinary fastings appointed by the Church: the Aue Maria, or dead. &c. Angelicall falutation, and the like.

They derided publike prayer and finging in the Church: all choise of meates ypon different dayes: all oblation for the dead: all yse of images in the Churches: & other fuch like.

They called in question three Sacraments, to wytt, auricular Confession, Confirmation, and extreme Vnction.

They affirmed, that from the tyme of Churchs Pope Syluester downeward; the Romane Church had erred, and that no man could be faued that held her faith.

They affirmed three Ecclesiasticall order's only to be in the Church, Deconshipp, Priesthood and the order of Bishops, &c. In all which Articles & divers others, some Protestants of our tyme(though not all)doe symbolize and participate with them more or lesse, and therby shew themselves their children and offpring, as yow will eafely fee and confider.

Some

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

100 table of contents (PDF page #33)

ATABLEOFTHE

Chapters of the whole treatile of the Conversions of England.

The Preface to the first Tome, wherein diners principall points are handled, about indomine in matters of faith; and with how great care and follicitude the same ought to be considered of.

THE FIRST PART,

Of this Treatife concerninge plantinge and continuance of Catholike Religion in England.

WHETHER England, and Englishmen have particular obligation to the Sea of Rome aboue other nations, and of the first conversion of Britans to Christian Religion in tyme of the Apostles.

CHAP. I.

- An answere to certaine cauillations, lyes, and falfifications of Sr. Francis Hastings, & his Maisters Fox and the Magdeburgians, about the first preachings of Christian faith in Britany; wher in is handled also the controversie of Celebratinge Easter. Char. II.
- The former controuersie is handled more particutarly, hove the Grecian custome of celebrating Easter day after the fashion of the Iewes, came sirst into the British and Scottish Church, and how vntruly & vvickedly Iohn Fox and Iohn Bale do behaue themselues about this matter. CHAP. III.

Google

All credit, praise, honor, and glory belongs to our beloved God!
© 2018 Peter D. Arvo | (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0) | Last updated: 8/9/2019 | TheTorchbearerSeries.com

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰¹ title page

ANTIQUITATES APOSTOLICÆ:

OR, THE

LIVES, ACTS, AND MARTYRDOMS

OF THE

HOLY APOSTLES

OF OUR SAVIOUR.

TO WHICH ARE ADDED,

LIVES OF THE TWO EVANGELISTS,

ST. MARK AND ST. LUKE.

AS ALSO, A BRIEF ENUMERATION AND ACCOUNT OF THE APOSTLES AND THEIR SUCCESSORS FOR THE FIRST THREE HUNDRED YEARS, IN THE FIVE GREAT APOSTOLICAL CHURCHES.

BY WILLIAM CAVE, D.D.

CHAPLAIN IN ORDINARY TO KING CHARLES THE SECOND.

VOL. I.

WITH

AN INTRODUCTORY ESSAY,

BY THE

REV. HENRY STEBBING, M.A.

LONDON:

John Gatchard and Son, Piccavilly;

WHITTAKER & CO. AVE-MARIA LANE; SIMPRIN & MARSHALL, STATIONERS' COURT; TALBOYS, OXFORD; DEIGHTON, CAMBRIGGE; OLIVER & BOYD, EDINBURGH AND CUMMING, DUBLIN.

MDCCCXXXIV.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰¹ pages 13 & 15

INTRODUCTION.

13

INTRODUCTION.

15

its way before it; and we know how ready, even without force, in all changes and revolutions of the world, the conquered have been to follow the religion of the conquerors. Whereas the apostles had no visible advantages, nay, had all the enraged powers of the world to contend against them. And yet, in despite of all, went on in triumph, and quickly made their way into those places where for so many ages no other conquest ever came: "Those parts of Britain," as Tertullian observes,1 " which were unconquerable and unapproachable by the power of the Roman armies, submitting their necks to the yoke of Christ." A mighty evidence (as he there argues) of Christ's Divinity, and that he was the true Messiah. And, indeed, no reasonable account can be given of the strange and successful progress of the Christian religion in those first ages of it, but that it was the birth of heaven, and had a divine and invisible power going along with it to succeed and prosper it. St. Chrysostom? discourses this argument at large, some of whose elegant reasonings I shall here transcribe. He tells the Gentile (with whom he was disputing) that he would not prove Christ's Deity by a demonstration from heaven, by his creation of the world, his great and stupendous miracles, his raising the dead, curing the blind, expelling devils, nor from the mighty promises of a future state, and the resurrection of the dead, (which an infidel might easily not only question but deny,) but from what was sufficiently evident and obvious to the meanest idiot, -his planting and propagating Christianity in the world. For it is not, says he, in the power of a empire of lust and pleasure, and the laws of vice, like dust; to abolish and abominate their temples and their altars, their idols and their sacrifices. their profane and impious festivals, as dirt and dung; and instead hereof to set up Christian altars in all places, among the Romans, Persians, Scythians, Moors, and Indians; and not there only, but in the countries beyond this world of ours. For even the British islands that lie beyond the ocean, and those that are in it, have felt the power of the Christian faith; churches and altars being erected there to the service of Christ. A matter truly great and admirable, and which would clearly have demonstrated a divine and supereminent power, although there had been no opposition in the case, but that all things had run on calmly and smoothly; to think that in so few years the Christian faith should be able to reclaim the whole world . from its vicious customs, and to win them over to other manners, more laborious and difficult, repugnant both to their native inclinations and to the laws and principles of their education, and such as obliged them to a more strict and accurate course of life; and these persons not one or two, not twenty or an hundred, but in a manner all mankind; and this brought about by no other instruments than a few rude and unlearned, private and unknown tradesmen, who had neither estate nor reputation, learning nor eloquence, kindred nor country, to recommend them to the world; a few fishermen and tent-makers, and whom, distinguished by their language, as well as their religion, the rest of the world scorned as barbarous. And yet these were the men by whom our Lord built up his church, and extended it from one end of the world unto the

¹ Adv. Jud. c. 7, p. 189. ² Lib. quod Chr. sit Deus, c. 1, tom. v. 726.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰¹ pages 139 & 290

ST. PETER.

290

139

LIVES OF THE APOSTLES.

pretend to be his successors,') he sent abroad disciples into several provinces; that so 'their sound might go into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world.'

3. It happened that after St. Peter had been several years at Rome, Claudius the emperor, taking the advantage of some seditions and tumults raised by the Jews, by a public edict banished them out of Rome; 2 in the number of whom, St. Peter (they say) departed thence, and returned back to Jerusalem, where he was present at that great apostolical synod, of which before. After this we are left under great uncertainties how he disposed of himself for many years. Confident we may be that he was not idle, but spent his time sometimes in preaching in the eastern parts, and sometimes in other parts of the world; as in Africa, Sicily, Italy, and other places.3 And here it may not be amiss to insert a claim in behalf of our own country: Eusebius telling us (as Metaphrastes reports it 1) that Peter was not only in these western parts, but particularly that he was a long time in Britain, where he converted many nations to the faith. But we had better be without the honour of St. Peter's company, than build the story upon so sandy a foundation; Metaphrastes's authority being of so little value in this case, that it is slighted by the more learned and moderate writers of the church of Rome. But wherever it was that St. Peter employed his time, towards the latter part of Nero's reign he returned to Rome, where he found the minds of the

- 1 Innoc. Ep. i. ad Dec. Eug. Concil. tom. i. p. 751.
- ² Vid. Oros. lib. vii. c. 6, fol. 297.
- 3 Vid. Innoc. Epist. ubi supra.
- 4 De Petr. et Paul. ad diem 29 Jun. num. 23. Vid. etiam num. 10, ibid.

and again resolved on.¹ Certain it is, that the ancients do generally assert it, without seeming in the least to doubt of it.⁴ Theodoret and others tell us, that he preached not only in Spain, but that he went to other nations, and brought the gospel into the isles of the sea, by which he undoubtedly means Britain; and therefore elsewhere reckons the Gauls and Britons among the nations which the apostles, and particularly the tent-maker, persuaded to embrace the law of Christ. Nor is he the only man that has said it,³ others having given in their testimony and suffrage in this case.⁴

8. To what other parts of the world St. Paul preached the gospel, we find no certain footsteps in antiquity, nor any further mention of him till his return to Rome, which probably was about the eighth or ninth year of Nero's reign. Here he met with Peter, and was, together with him, thrown into prison; no doubt in the general persecution raised against the Christians, under the pretence that they had fired the city. Besides the general, we may reasonably suppose there were particular causes of his imprisonment. Some of the ancients

- 1 Rom. xv. 24-28.
- ² Epiphan. Hæres. 27, p. 51; Chrysost. de Laud. Paul. p. 536, tom. v. Cyril. Catech. 17, p. 457; Theod. in 2 Tim. iv. 16, et in Psalm cxvi. id. de cur. Græc. Affect. Serm. 9, p. 125; Athan. Epist. ad Dracont. p. 737.

Sophron. Serm. de Natali App.

- "Transit et Oceanum, vel quà facit insula portum, Quasque Britannus habet terras, atque ultima Thule." Venant. Fortun. de vit. Martin. lib. iii. non procul à fine
- 'It is on an expression in the epistle of Clemens Romanus to the Corinthians, that the opinion respecting Paul's journey into Spain chiefly rests. Clemens says, that "he came to the borders of the west;" but it is argued on the other side, that Rome or Italy only was intended by this expression.—ED.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

102 title page

6

A TRANSLATION

OF TH

EPISTLES

CLEMENT OF ROME, POLYCARP, AND IGNATIUS:

AND OF THE

APOLOGIES

or

JUSTIN MARTYR AND TERTULLIAN:

WITH

AN INTRODUCTION

AND BRIEF NOTES

ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY OF THE PIRST TWO CENTURIES.

BY THE REV. TEMPLE CHEVALLIER, B.D.

CAMBRIDGE:

FOR J. & J. DEIGHTON, TRINITY STREET;
AND J. G. & F. RIVINGTON, LONDON.

M.DCCC.XXXIII.

356.

Digitized by Google

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

102 pages 487-489

487 488

expressly mention the journey of St. Paul from Rome into Spain." Hippolytus, in the same century, says, that "St. Paul went as far as Illyricum, and Italy, and Spain, preaching the Gospel." Athanasius, in the fourth century, that St. Paul "did not hesitate to go to Rome and to Spain." Jerome, in the same century, says, that "St. Paul, after his release from his trial before Nero, preached the Gospel in the Western parts." And Theodoret, in the fifth century, that "when, in consequence of his appeal to Cæsar, he (St. Paul) was sent to Rome by Festus, and was acquitted on his defence, he went to Spain, and carried the light of the Gospel to other nations."

The expressions of Clement, however—iπὶ τὸ τέρμα τῆς δύσεως ἔλθων—have been supposed to imply that the Apostle's preaching did not terminate in Spain, but extended to the British Islands. Those who entertain this opinion observe, that in the language of that period, Britain is often called the extremity of the West. Thus Plutarch, in his life of Cæsar, denominates the sea between Gaul and Britain, "the Western Ocean:" Eusebius and Nicephorus give the same name to the Sicut et semota passionem Petri evidenter declarant, sed et profectionem Pauli ab urbe ad Spaniam proficiscentis. Caii Presbyteri fragmentum: Reliquiæ Sacræ, Vol. Iv. pp. 4, 37.

Η Παϊλος δὲ μετ' ἐνιαντὸν ἔνα τῆς τοῦ Χριστοῦ ἀναλήψεως εἰσῆλθεν εἰς τῆν ἀποστολην, καὶ ἀρξάμενος ἀπὸ Ἰερουσαλήμ, προῆλθεν ἔως τοῦ Ἰλλυρικού καὶ Ἰτπλίας καὶ Σπαλίας καὶ ἐνταλίας ἐν Ἐπὶ δὲ Νέρωνος, ἐν Ῥώμη τῆν κεφαλήν ἀποτμηθὲις, θάπτεται ἐκεῖ.

Hippolytus de xii Apostolis, Appendix, p. 31. Edit. Fabricii.

There is some doubt whether this tract was written by Hippolytus the Martyr. At all events, it contains little more information than could be collected or conjectured from the Acts of the Apostles, and the Epistle to the Romans. The same remark applies to the subsequent passage of Athanasius.

- Διὰ τοῦτο καὶ σπουδή τῶν ἀγίων μέχρι τοῦ Ἰλλυρικοῦ κηρυττει, καὶ μὴ ὀκυεῖ, μηθὲ εἰς τὴν Ῥώμην ἀπελθεῖν, μηθὲ εἰς τὰς Σπανίας ἀναβῆναι. Αthanas. Epist. ad Dracontium, Tom. 1. p. 956. A. Edit. Paris, 1627.
- ⁴ Sciendum autem in primà satisfactione, necdum Neronis imperio roborato, nec in tanta erumpente scelera, quanta de eo narrant historiæ, Paulum à Nerone dimissum, ut Evangelium Christi in Occidentis quoque partibus prædicaretur, sicut ipse scribit in secundà Epistolà ad Timotheum, eo tempore quo et passus est, de vinculis dictans Epistolam. (2 Tim. iv. 16.)

Hieron. Catalogus Scriptor. Eccles. Num. v. Tom. Iv. Par. II. p. 105
Edit. Benedict.

"Ήνικα τῆ ἰφέσει χρησάμενος εἰς τὴν Ῥώμην ὑπὸ τοῦ Φήστου παρεπέμφθη, ἀπολογισάμενος ὡς ἀθώσς ἀφείθη, καὶ τὰς Σπανίας κατέλαβε, καὶ εἰς ἔτερα ἔθνη δράμων, τὴν τῆς διδασκαλίας λαμπάδα προσήνεγκε.

Theodoret in Epist. 11. ad Timoth. iv. 7.

British Ocean: (Euseb. Vita Constant. 1. cc. 25, 41. II. c. 28. Niceph. Hist. Lib. i. c. 1.) and Eusebius elsewhere (De Martyr. Palæstin. c. 13.) describes Britain, under the appellation of the Western parts, beyond Gaul. Theodoret also, speaking of the visitors attracted by the fame of Simeon Stylites, enumerates the inhabitants of Spain, Britain, and Gaul, which he says lies between the other two, and describes them all as dwelling in the extreme bounds of the west. In the language of Catullus, Britain is "Ultima Britannia," and "Ultima Occidentis Insula." (Carm. xxix.) He speaks of the inhabitants as "horribilesque ultimosque Britannos; (Carm. xi.) as Horace afterwards calls them "Ultimos orbis Britannos." (Carm. i. 35.)

The language of Clement might very well therefore imply that St. Paul went not only to Spain, but to the most remote of the three Western provinces, Spain, Gaul, and Britain.

There is distinct evidence that the Gospel was preached in the British Islands by some of the Apostles. Thus Tertullian, in the second century, speaks of "all the extremities of Spain, and the different nations of Gaul, and parts of Britain inaccessible to the Romans, but subject to Christ." See Tertullian's Apology, c. 37. p. 430. note. The testimony of Eusebius to the same fact is peculiarly valuable. As the favourite of Constantine, the first Christian Emperor, who was born in Britain and there proclaimed Emperor, he may be supposed to have been well acquainted with the manner in which Christianity was introduced into Britain. And the remarkable passage in his Demonstratio Evangelica, in which he not only asserts the fact, that some of the Apostles preached in Britain, but argues upon the fact, may be regarded as a deliberate assertion, founded upon actual enquiry. His object is to prove that the first preachers of Christianity were not deceivers nor impostors. "Observe," he says, "this also. If they were impostors and deceivers, and also uninstructed and entirely ignorant men. nay, rather barbarians, acquainted with no other than the Syrian language, how could they ever go through the whole world? How could so bold an undertaking enter their thoughts? and by what power could they effect their purpose? For, supposing it possible for rustic men, wandering f ἀφίκοντο δὲ πολλοὶ, τὰς τῆς ἐσπέρας οΙκοῦντες ἐσχατὰς, Σπάνοι τε καὶ Βρεττανοί, καὶ Γαλάται, οἱ τὸ μέσον τούτων κατέχοντες.

Theodoret. Religiosa Hist. c. 26. Tom. 111. p. 881. D. Edit. Paris, 1642.

about in their own country, to deceive and be deceived, and not to waste their labour in vain; yet, that they should preach the name of Jesus to all mankind, and teach his miraculous works in country and city,—that some of them should visit the Roman Empire, and the imperial city itself, and others severally the nations of the Persians, and Armenians, and Parthians, and Scythians—nay, further, that some should proceed to the very extremities of the inhabited world, and reach the country of the Indians, and others again pass over the Ocean to those which are called the British Islands—all this I conceive to be beyond the power of any human being, not to say of ordinary and uninstructed men, and, still less, of deceivers and impostors."

489

Theodoret goes further than this, asserting that St. Paul preached in islands beyond the Ocean, with respect to Spain; which can scarcely refer to any other than the British Islands. "The blessed Apostle St. Paul teaches us, in a few words, to how many nations he carried the sacred doctrines of the Gospel; so that from Jerusalem, and round about unto Illyricum, he fully preached the Gospel of Christ. He went afterwards also to Italy and Spain, and carried salvation to islands which lie in the Ocean."

ε "Ετι δε και τούτω πρόσχες. Ει δή και αυτοί πλανοί και άπατεώνες έτύγχανον, προσθές δ' ότι και απαίδευτοι και παντελώς ιδιώται, μάλλον δέ ότι και βάρβαροι, και της Σύρων ου πλέον έπαίοντες φωνής, και πώς έπι πάσαν προήλθον την ολκουμένην; ή ποία τουτο διανοία έφαντήσθησαν τολμήσαι; ποία δὲ δυνάμει τὸ ἐπιχειρηθὲν κατωρθώσαν; "Βστω γάρ ἐπὶ τῆς οίκείας γης καλινδουμένους άγροίκους άνδρας πλανάν και πλανάσθαι, και μή έφ' ήσυχίας βάλλεσθαι το πράγμα. Κηρύττειν δ' els πάντας το τοῦ Ίησοῦ όνομα, και τὰς παραδόξους πράξεις αὐτοῦ κατά τε τοὺς άγροὺς και κατά πόλιν διδάσκειν, και τούς μέν αυτών την 'Ρωμαίων αρχήν, και αυτήν τε την βασιλικωτάτην πόλιν νείμασθαι, τούν δὲ την Περσών, τοῦς δὲ την 'Αρμενίων, ετέρους δε το Πάρθων έθνος, και αν πάλιν το Σκυθών, τινάς δε ήδη καί έπ' αυτά της οίκουμένης έλθειν τα άκρα, έπί το την Ίνδων φθάσαι χώραν, και επέρους ύπερ του 'Ωκεανόν παρελθείν έπι τας καλουμένας Βρεττανικάς νήσους, ταύτα ούκ έτ' έγω γε ήγουμαι κατά άνθρωπον είναι, μήτιγε κατά εὐτελεῖς καὶ ἰδιώτας, πολλοῦ δεῖ κατά πλάνους καὶ γόητας. Euseb. Demonst. Evang. Lib. iii. p. 112. D. Colonia, 1688.

h 'Ο δὶ μακάριος Παῦλος διδάσκει συντόμως, ὅσοις ἔθνεσι προσενήνοχε τὰ θεῖα κηρύγματα' ἄστε ἀπό 'Ιερουσαλήμ κύκλφ μέχρι τοῦ 'Ιλλυρικοῦ πεπληρωκέναι τὸ εὐαγγελίου τοῦ Χριστοῦ. "ϋστερου μέντοι καὶ τῆς 'Ιταλιάς ἐπέβη, καὶ εἰς τὰς Σπανίας ἀρίκετο, καὶ ταῖς ἐν τῷ πελαγει διακεμέναις νήσοις τὴν ώφελείαν προσήνεγκε. He then refers to St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, xv.

Theodoret in Psalm cxvi. Tom. 1. pp. 870. D. 871. A.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰³ title page

THE

NEW TESTAMENT,

ARRANGED IN

HISTORICAL AND CHRONOLOGICAL ORDER;

WITH

COPIOUS NOTES

ON THE

PRINCIPAL SUBJECTS IN THEOLOGY;

THE GOSPELS

ON THE BASIS OF THE HARMONIES OF LIGHTFOOT, DODDRIDGE, PILKINGTON, NEWCOME, MICHAELIS;

THE ACCOUNT OF THE RESURRECTION ON THE AUTHORITIES OF WEST, TOWNSON, AND CRANFIELD;

THE EPISTLES

ARE INSERTED IN THEIR PLACES, AND DIVIDED ACCORDING TO THE APOSTLES' ARGUMENTS.

BY THE

REV. GEORGE TOWNSEND, M. A.

PREBENDARY OF DURHAM, AND VICAR OF NORTHALLERTON.

THE WHOLE REVISED, DIVIDED INTO PARAGRAPHS, PUNCTUATED ACCORDING TO THE BEST CRITICAL TEXTS, THE ITALIC WORDS REEXAMINED, PASSAGES AND WORDS OF DOUTTFUL AUTHORITY MARKED, A CHOICE AND COPIOUS SELECTION OF PARALLEL PASSAGES GIVEN, &c.

BY THE REV. T. W. COIT, D.D. PRESIDENT OF TRANSPLVANIA UNIVERSITY.

BOSTON:

PUBLISHED BY PERKINS AND MARVIN.

PHILADELPHIA: HENRY PERKINS.

1837.

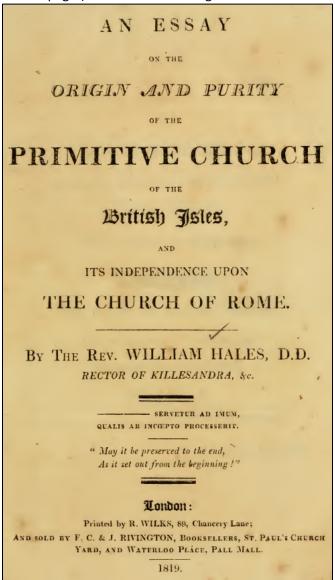

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰³ pages 381-383

ı	ha000 00 = 000
	SECT. II.] ST. PAUL VISITS ITALY, SPAIN, &c.	381	382	ST. PAUL'S FIFTH APOSTOLICAL JOURNEY. [PART XV.	SECT. II.]	ST. PAUL VISITS ITALY, SPAIN, &c.	383
	for they watch for your souls, as they that must give account: that 32.1	ek, 3. 17. &		25 CM (12 CM) 4	10000 00 10000	1000 pt 50 000 pt 10 000 pt 100 pt 10	800
	they may do it with joy, and not with grief; for that is unprofitable	2, 7. Acta 20.	d Cluverii Jeter	and $\ell r K \ell \lambda \tau o \epsilon s$ in Spain, and the Celtic nations. By the $K \ell \lambda \tau o \epsilon$ were meant the		lix is perfectly consistent with the other dates, and leaves sufficient for you. 18 Pray for us; for we trust we have a good conscience, in Eph		Georg. l. zi. c.	people of Germany, Gaul, and Britain*. 3. At the end of the second and the beginning of the third century (A. D. 193-		Apostle's travels, before his second return to Rome, I consider the all things willing to live honestly: 19 but I beseech you the rather to 2.5	. 1 Thess. 5.		220), Tertullian mentions, among the Christian converts, Hispaniarum omnes		sephus preferable to that of the subsequent writers. The decision
		2 Thess. 3. 1. ts 23. 1. &		termini, et Galliarum diversæ nationes et Britannorum inaccessa Romanis loca,		depends on the date of the recall of Felix, and this cannot be
	20 Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our 12.	16. 2 Cor. L.	o Adversus Jude	Christo vero subdita'. Though Irenœus and Tertullian, in their testimonies, do not	certainly ascer	ess has discussed the question of the dates of St. Paul's voyage to
	Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our 12.	ilemen 99.	es, c. 7.	expressly mention St. Paul, yet the conversion of Britain to Christianity is recorded		ll of Felix, and the Apostle's subsequent tour to Spain and Britain.
	Lord Jesus, ("that great Shepherd of the sheep through the blood of Real	m. 15. 33.		as the work of the apostles and their disciples. It is most interesting to find such		skill and learning. Among other reasons, for assigning the year 56
	the everlasting toovenant,) 21 make you perfect in every good work to 177	hess. 5. 23.		writers speaking of their proximity to the origin of the Christian Church, and con-		byage to Rome, and consequently his release from imprisonment to do his will; tworking in you that which is well pleasing in his sight, Ros	n. 4. 24. & 8. J Cor. 6. 14.		sequently of the perfect competency of their testimony. "Hesterni sumus," says		e mentions the following, which appear however to be capable of anough resus christ. to whom be given for ever and ever . Amen.	5. 15. 2 Cor.		Tertullian, "et vestra omnia adimplevimus, urbes, insulas, castella, municipia,	easy solution.
	Col	4. Gal. 1. 1. 2. 12.	f Apologet. c. 37	conciliabula, castra ipsa, tribus, Palatium, Senatum, forum/.	1. Gildas say	s that Christianity was introduced into Britain before the defeat of
	The Apostle, in conclusion, beseeches the Hebrews not to be so prejudiced against him	hess. 1. 10. et. 1. 21.	# Demonet.	4. In the fourth century (A. D. 270-340), Eusebius says that some of the apostles		es under Boadicea.
	A 10.	40. 11.	Evang. l. iii. c.	passed over the ocean to the British isles, έπι τὰς καλουμένας Βρετανίκας νήσους.:		save been done by others than the apostles.
	his desire of visiting them with Timothy—His salutation and benediction.	k. 34. 23. & 24. John 10. 14. 1 Pet. 9.	7.	and Jerome, in the same century (A. D. 329-420), ascribes this province expressly		nt British record informs us, that Caractacus returned from Rome
	22 And I beseech you, brethren, suffer the word of exhortation: for 25.	14. 1 Pet. 9. & 5. 4.	A De Script,	to St. Paul, and says that, after his imprisonment, having been in Spain, he went from ocean to ocean, and that he preached the Gospel in the western parts. In		e year 58, A. D. and that the royal family introduced Christianity.
	*I have written a letter unto you in few words.	ch. 9. 11. ch.	Eccles, and in Amos, c. 5.	the western parts he included Britain, as is evident from a passage in his Epita-		seen his friends, and perhaps his Epistle, at Rome; but it does not
	23 Know ve that 'our brother Timothy 'is set at liberty; with whom, tor	, testament.		phium Marcelles.		must necessarily have accepted that invitation as early as 58, nor
	197	bess. 9. 17.	den's Britt. p. 1xx. ed 1695.	5. In the fifth century (423-460), Theodoret mentions the Britons among the		ous other duties permitted. His deliverance from his first imprison-
	24 Salute all them 'that have the rule over you, and all the saints. ‡ 05,			nations converted by the apostles; and says that St. Paul, after his release from		o have been the most favorable opportunity that presented itself.
	Then of Italy solute you 95 Comes the with you all 1 Amon k Phi	il. 2. 13.		imprisonment, went to Spain, and from thence carried the light of the Gospel to		oval of Pallas, the brother of Felix, in the second year of Nero,
	Written to the Hebrews from Italy by Timothy. Il	l. 1. 5. im. 4. 18.	4. 17.	other nations. The says also that Dt. I am brought surveion to the islands that		Felix would be removed about the same time. It appears from [END OF THE EPISTLE TO THE HEBREWS.]	. 1. 6.	1 Tom. i. in Pe.	lie in the ocean, ταις έν τῷ πελάγει διακειμέναις νέσοις την ὑφίλειαν προσήνεγκε.		. l. 12.), that he was dependent upon his brother's power.
	[END OF THE EPISTLE TO THE HEBREWS.]			If there could be any doubt whether the British islands were meant by the island		my means certain that Nero would necessarily have recalled Felix
		§ 41.		that lies in the ocean, we have, besides the passage of Nicephorus, before quoted, the following of Chrysostom, who thus describes them: xal yaq al Bostárixas		Felix had rendered great public service to the province in clear-
		Pet. 5. 19.		and an all and a second a second and a second a second and a second an		s. On the contrary, Josephus tells us, that Pallas, even in the sixth obtained the pardon of his brother. The truth seems to be, that Section II.—After his Liberation, St. I am visus lady, ispain,	Thess. 3. 9.	m Orat. Tom. iv	του έγματος ησθοντο".		was no longer a favorite, his influence with Nero had not entirely
		im. 6. 12.	p. 575.	6. In the sixth century (560-600), Venantius Fortunatus says thus of St. Paul:		e Roman court—Agrippina, at least, retained her authority over
	[WE cannot be certain what were the travels of St. Paul between his first and d ver second imprisonment at Rome. The probable accounts must be collected from the	. 3. 15.		Transit et Oceanum, vel qua facit insula portum, Quasque Britannus habet terras,		as his influence with Agrippina, and by her means Felix may have remaining testimony of the Second Epistle to Timothy, and the desire he had			quasque ultima Thule. This passage has been sometimes hesitatingly admitted, as	been continued expressed in his Epistles written before his liberation.			if verse were necessarily the vehicle of fiction. But that the testimony of Venan-		tells us that Nero pardoned Felix when Pallas was high in favor
		ECT. II.		tius Fortunatus is not to be ascribed to the licence of poetical exaggeration, and		is necessarily implies that it was early in the reign of Nero.
	oninion, that when he left Italy he first proceeded to Spain, and the West. Bishop	_	a Lingard's An-	that the language of Clemens, Jerome, and Theodoret, is neither ambiguous nor		when Pallas, though out of office, was more in favor than before-Stillingfleet, and, since his time, the learned Bishop Burgess in our own day, have V.	Æ. 63-64.	glo-Sar. Church	hyperbolical", we may judge from an authority, which will not be suspected of making any undue concessions in favor of the evidences of Christianity, but who		venge of Nero was satisfied with the death of Agrippina, and he strenuously defended this opinion.	4770-7.	3.	was well acquainted with the political facilities which the Roman empire at that		with more favor upon Pallas. Detween 63 and 68, the probable date of St. Paul's martyrdom, is
	In his Epistle to the Romans (chap. xv. 24.) he had long before expressed his	dy, Spain, Britain.		time afforded for the universal propagation of the Gospel: "The public highways,"		t for the remaining journeyings of St. Paul between his return from determination to go into Spain-" Whensoever I take my journey into Spain, I			says Mr. Gibbon, "which had been constructed for the use of the legions, opened		martyrdom at Rome.
	will come to you:—for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled with your company."			an easy passage for the Christian missionaries from Damascus to Corinth, and		ppear, from a careful examination of the dates of events that took
	There appears to be sufficient traditional evidence to satisfy us that the Apostle		e Gibbon's De-	from Italy to the extremity of Spain or Britain"."		the year which Bishop Burgess would assign to the Epistle to the eventually fulfilled his determination.		xv. vol. ii. p. 358 8vo. edit.	To the ancient authorities here cited, we have to add the concurrence of		the beginning of 58, the latest and most usual date, that there is
	The testimonies of the first six centuries either expressly record St. Paul's			the very learned and judicious modern writers referred to before. We may		to allow the journey to Britain.
	journey to the West and to Britain, or offer such evidence of the propagation of		clerie Britt. Inst	add further, the testimony of Archbishop Parker :- "Paulum ipsum Gentium		nious anonymous writer, in the 19th Number of the Classical Journal,
	Christianity in Spain and Britain, as coincides with these testimonies.			doctorem, cum aliis gentibus, tum nominatim Britannis, nunciasse post priorem suam Romæ incarcerationem, et Theodoretus et Sophronius Patriarcha Hieroso-		to reconcile the times of St. Paul's journeys, and the dates of the the supposition that Felix was recalled in 56. As I have adopted
	1. The first and most important is the testimony of Clemens Romanus, "the			lymitanus affirmant. Hoc quod Pontificii incredibile atque adeo impossibile sta-		Bishop Pearson, and prefer the authority of Josephus to that of intimate friend and fellow-laborer of St. Paul." He says, that St. Paul, in preaching			tuunt, cum vero maxime coheret:" and of Camden-"Certum est Britannos in		sebius, that the date was 62, I shall only observe that it appears to the Gospel, went to the utmost bounds of the West, έπὶ τὸ τέρια τῆς δύσεως.		q Britannia, p.	ipsa Ecclesiæ infantia Christianam religionem imbibisse [†] ," who cites Theodoret		o reconcile the periods of the conversion of St. Paul-his return to
	This is not a rhetorical expression, as Dr. Hales supposes, but the usual designation of Britain. Catullus calls Britain "Ultima Britannia," and "Ultima Occidentis		40, ed. 1550.	and Sophronius, and Venantius Fortunatus, in testimony of St. Paul's journey to		e council at Jerusalem-and the time unavoidably occupied by the Insula." The West included Spain, Gaul, and Britain. Theodoret speaks of			Britain. Cave also, in his Life of St. Paul, quotes the same writers, and says, that		several Churches with this early date of his first imprisonment.
	the inhabitants of Spain, Gaul, and Britain, as dwelling in the utmost bounds of			by the island that lies in the ocean, Theodoret undoubtedly meant Britain. Such		le and learned Dr. Hales, in his valuable Essay on the Origin and the West, τὸς τῆς ἐσπέρας ἐσχατίας. The connexion between Britain and the			strength of ancient and modern authorities ought, if I may judge by my own		primitive Church of the British Isles, and its independence of the West will be seen in other passages quoted by Bishop Stillingfleet"; and in the "On			convictions, to put the subject of St. Paul's preaching the Gospel in Britain beyond		te, considers Lles, or Lucius, to be the first person who established following of Nicephorus -πρὸς ἐσπέριον ἀκεανὸν εἰσδαλών καὶ τὰς Βρετανίκας ὁ Ηίσ	st. 1. ii. c. 40.		all controversy or doubt. The general evidence thus adduced by Bishops Stillingfleet and Burgess,		Britain. It does not seem necessary to enter further into his argu- observe, that he has succeeded in demonstrating the absurdity of νήσους εψαγγελισάμενος. The utmost bounds of the West, then, is not rhetorical apin	d Unher,		appears to be quite sufficient to prove the fact, that St. Paul came to Britain; but		ome to any positive conclusions in the affirmative, especially as St.
	language in itself, for it is a common appellation of Britain; nor as applied to St. Britain;	ан. р. 740.		I cannot assent to the early date which is assigned to this event by Gildas, Jerome,		ted all notice of his journey to Britain in his Second Epistle to
	Paul, for it was said of others of the apostles.			and Eusebius. On this point it seems the authorities on which they depended led		ere still, however, appears to be sufficient evidence to justify my
	 In the second century (A. D. 176), Irenseus speaks of Christianity as propagated to the utmost bounds of the earth, δως περάτων τῆς γῆς, by the apostles and 			them into error.		hop Burgess's opinion, that St. Paul preached in Britain, which is their disciples; and particularly specifies the churches planted (δr ταῖς 'Ιδερίαις,			The testimony of Josephus is opposed to those of Jerome, Eusebius, and Gildas;		by the authority of Parker, Camden, Usher, Stillingfleet, Gibson, Nel-and as he lived nearer to the times in question, and as the date assigned by him to	son, Rowland,	Collyer, and Bishop Pearson.]
		1

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

104 title page (this entire book has good information on this subject)

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

104 pages vi-vii

vi PREFACE.

Church, renowned for the purity and simplicity of its Faith and Discipline. Acts. ii. 42.

Rejecting unfounded traditions, in the first Section, the knowledge of Christianity is shewn, in the second, to have been introduced into Britain about A.D. 57, by Bran, the father of Caractacus, and his associates, who had been converted to the Christian faith, during a seven years' residence at Rome, as a hostage for his son's fidelity, when liberated, and restored to his kingdom in Britain, by the emperor Claudius, A.D. 50. Bran was probably converted by Aquila and Priscilla, St. Paul's fellow-labourers in the Gospel, who were then resident at Rome, and formed a Church there. (Rom. xvi. 3-5.) The British Church appears to have been established in the reign of Lles, or Lucius, the great grandson of Caractacus, about A.D. 177.

The knowledge of Christianity is shewn, in the third Section, to have been introduced into Ireland also, by means of a noble Irishman, surnamed Mansuetus; who is said to have been converted by St. Peter; and afterwards sent by him to preach the Gospel in Gaul, where he was appointed the first bishop of Toul in Lorraine; and is celebrated also for having planted Christianity in his native country, by his historians, Adso, &c. If St. Peter preached in Spain, as is probable, in St. Paul's stead, about A.D. 64; he might there easily have met Mansuetus, either as a traveller, or a trader, from Ireland. The Irish nation, however, were not fully converted from paganism to Christianity until the days of their illustrious apostle St. Patrick, about A.D. 432. He was a north Briton, born near Dunbarton. And the Irish saints of his school, Aidan, Finan, Colum-kille, those venerable missionaries, amply repaid the inestimable benefit, by planting the Gospel, in turn, among the Caledonians, Picts, and Saxons.

PREFACE.

vii

The intimate union and connexion of the British and Irish Churches, and the purity and simplicity of their doctrines and discipline, and their joint and strenuous opposition from the earliest times, to the innovations and encroachments of the modern

b 2

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

105 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰⁵ page 25

BAPTISTS IN ITALY.

25 red to a succession of them, under various names, has continued to exist, transmitting their principles and their protest against corruptions in practice and discipline, from generation to generation, through channels alike unconnected either with catholic or protestant hierarchies.

WALDENSES OF PIEDMONT-ORIGIN AND ANTIQUITY.

There is a range of mountains, the highest in Europe, extending from the Adriatic sea to the Mediterranean, and separating Italy from France, Switzerland, and Germany. The principality of Piedmont is situated at the foot of these mountains; it is an extensive tract of fruitful valleys embosomed in hills. These valleys at an early period in the christian era became an asylum to the worshippers of the Redeemer, who at the remotest time were known by the term Ciedenti, that is, believers. Balthazar records that in the second century they practised believers' baptism by immersion. When those severe measures emanated from the emperor Honorius against rebaptizers, the baptists sought retreat in the country and the valleys of Piedmont, which latter place especially became their retreat from imperial oppression. In the sixth and seventh centuries many withdrew from the scenes of the persecution of the Romish priesthood and sought refuge in the valleys of Piedmont, where they were called Vaudois, or Vallenses, afterwards Waldenses. The antiquity of these Vaudois is asserted by their friends, and corroborated by their enemies. Claudius Seyssel, a popish archbishop, traces the rise of the Waldenses to a pastor named Leon leaving Rome in the reign of Constantine for the valleys. "Romanism, at this period, ceased to be christianity, and the inhabitants of the valleys left the unholy communion."* Theodore Belvedere, a popish monk, says, that the heresy had always been in the valleys. In the preface to the first French bible, the translators observe that they (the Vallenses) have always had the full enjoyment of the heavenly truth contained in the holy scriptures ever since they were enriched with the same by the apostles; having in fair manuscripts preserved the entire bible in their native tongue from generation to generation. Paul Perrin asserts that the Waldenses were time out of mind in Italy and Dalmatia, and were the offspring of the Novatians who were persecuted and driven from Rome in 413, and who, for purity of

* Edgar.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

106 title page

could have been maintained in any otherwise described by a whole in our train and approximately and the middle of the most race upon the globe, offers a lesson mitted of the Church Congress has emphatically provided that it thinks on this that the extent of the reform first in think that the extent of the reform form the control of the Church Congress and Mr. Man-might sum them up by saying that they consist in a combination of the principles of equity with the practice of the law, or at most that they consist in so combination of the principles of equity with the practice of the law, or at most that they consist in so combination is writh equity that equitable principles shall have precedency, really come from a source external to the law of England, and that source is the law of Seas Christ.

It has been beastfully said that the Common Law and England is the common Law and the perfect on the prefection of traditional stupidity. Why does Dr. Denald find it does assuredly approximate to that high emiscence. In its original form it was the perfection of traditional stupidity. Unlike the Civil Law, which always began by aking, What is right? the Common Law asked only, What is contomary; it assured that whatever was, provided it had been for a sufficiently long time, was right. If it was the custom of a neighborhood that the eldest son should inherit, that was equally right, and so on. The Common Law, eron after that was right; if that the youngest should inherit, that was equally right, and so on. The Common Law, eron after that was right; if that the youngest should inherit, that was equally right, and so on. The Common Law, eron after that was right; if that the prompts of the common law asked only, What is right? the Common Law asked only, What is right? the Common Law asked only, who are the profession of a neighborhood that the eldest son should inherit, that was equally right; and so on. The Common Law, eron after that we continue that the prompts of the son that the eldest son should inherit, that was equally right; and so on. The Common Law, eron after that was the custom of a neighborhood that the eldest son should inherit, that was equally right; and so on. The Common Law, eron after that was the custom of a neighborhood that the eldest son should inherit, that was expected the work of the common law asked only, who are the common law asked only, who are the cow civilian as well as a theologian. As an in order.

In order.

It all authority for a doing, publicly are that an unacoused, untried and unwhat is right and as an ecclesissic he

What is right and as an ecclesissic he

The Church Congress has in many ways condemned clergyman of the Church in a was bound to find his nawer in the law of faithfully and nobly as presented by guilty man. That is Dr. Desadd's way Christ. Thus, in spite of counteless imper- Church; but it has done so by appointing of representing what the bishop has said,

SATURDAY, JULY 5, 1890.

Influence of Christianity on Common Law, and the Court of Chancery gradually changed in a thousand matters of personal opinion, the operation of the Common Law, and the court of Chancery gradually changed in a thousand matters of personal opinion, the operation of the Common Law, and are loyal ministers and mambers of the Bar. Lord Coleridge record of the Bar. Lord Coleridge record to the state of the law of England in 1847 as compared with its condition in 1889; and it courts of quity from courts of law; and report of the control opinion of the spratifying to Americans in special, and to lot it for reason that he particular, that the vast and beneficial control opinion in the compared with the condition in 1889; and it courted expectable to the spratifying to Americans in special, and to do it for reason that he particular, that the vast and beneficial complete and unequivocal. To the lawyer of the Church —mension who are none the less great, and to the Common the less great, and to the courted between those years were mainly caused by the adoption takes. To the Christian negative was both approximately the court of the courted between those years were mainly caused by the adoption takes. To the Christian historian, as we made to the Church in the ranks in England of the Colery of the Church. And this force is Regland when the present Chief of an instructive ensuries for Christian prince Church we are hereoforth to number not cloud have been maintained in any introduced by one of the new Statemer the Western Continent is a partial payment—largely, we hope, to be increased the debt which these States over to the mother country for the heritage of justices and liberty received through her and from her.

To the Christian historian these changes will probably suggest hereafter a fruitful appointment of several y and, as we think, both unjustly and unreasonably, on the recent letter of here. The Christian historian these changes will probably suggest hereafter a fruitful appointment of the several y and, as we think, both unjustly and unreasonably, on the recent letter of here. The Christian historian these changes will probably suggest hereafter a fruitful appointment of several y and, as a writer or spakes before the next Church the here of livestigation and a exposition; it has a factor of the principles of the principle and the unity of the spirit will at least succeed in reducing the discord of Babel to intelligible harmony; and we hope this harmony may come even out of the contradiction and confusion of the present Chinese versions. A clever man once scoffed at the idea of translating Pearson on the Creed into Japanese; even if he only knew of Pearson by reputation he may have known enough of Japanese to realize the difficulties of stating in an eastern tongue the dogma of a faith that combined something more even than the Hebraistic religion analyzed and formulated according to the method of Aristotle. But to change an eastern mystic into a practical Christian is a still more difficult task: it has nevertheless to be done, and perhaps help may be derived in the doing of it from imparting to native teachers not only an acquaintance with the text of Scripture, but also a taste of the lucidity, copiousness and textual aptness of the Great Bishop of Chester.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰⁶ page 188

One of the new forms of religious activity in the English Church is that inaugurated by schools and colleges in fostering mission work principally in the affecting a change. The other sort are commonly young people, who have fallen under unhappy instruction, and been poisoned with ill principles. As to the first sort, I should be sorry their persons should suffer for their mistakes; but for the rest of the laity, who either out of affectation, passion, or perverseness, have altered their persuasion, who have revolted from our communion only to embroil the commonwealth and play their sedition to more advantage, these people must be better looked after, and their obstinacy corrected."

The Gunpowder Plot defeated any favorable intentions on the part of the sovereign; James himself declared that he 'did not impute the guilt of the plot to any but the actual perpetrators.' The parliament, however, and it need hardly be wondered at, passed acts which greatly added to the burden of the penal laws affecting the whole body of Romish recusants. The nation was convinced that it was vain to talk of peace and loyalty while such crimes could be committed in the name of religion.

anxiety to communicate bishop of Canterbury; not noted, the Anglican Will the Puritan George Abbot.

The mystery as to who why they were in the Cl by Abbot's letter to the A written after he bad received for the priests. He say Attorney: I thank you me what was done yesterd but I am of opinion that it ously enquired upon the

What we are immediately concerned with is the new oath of allegiance which was now issued. It contained not only a denial and rejection of the pope's deposing power, but it added a declaration that "to maintain it was impious, heret-popish and superstitious matters' that might be found there. Under the warrant a search was instituted, and a number of priests were discovered in the prison, some of whom had been discharged some years previously, but voluntarily continued in confinement. Whoever they were, they obviously considered themselves tenants for life; for they occupied well furnished apartments, had a large library furnished with every thing requisite for their religious offices, with servants in attendance. In one room were portraits of Elizabeth, James and Charles. They expressed great anxiety to communicate with the Archbishop of Canterbury; not, be it specially noted, the Anglican William Laud, but

The mystery as to who they were, and why they were in the Clink, was solved by Abbot's letter to the Attorney-General. written after he bad received the message of the priests. He says: "Good Mr. Attorney: I thank you for acquainting me what was done yesterday at the Clink: but I am of opinion that if you had curiously enquired upon the gentleman who gave you the information, you would have found him a disciple of the Jesuits; for they do nothing but put tricks upon those poor men. . . By taking the cath of allegiance and writing in defense of it, and opening some points of high conse-

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰⁷ page 34

34

THE WORLD'S CHRISTIAN MARTYRS.

to Jerusalem, where he saw the apostles Peter, James and John. He then went forth with Barnabas to preach. At Iconium, the two were near being stoned to death by the enraged Jews; upon which they fled to Lycaonia. At Lystra, St. Paul was stoned, dragged out of the city, and left for dead. He, however, recovered and 'escaped to Derbe. At Philippi, Paul and Silas were imprisoned and whipped; and both were again abused at Thessalonica. Being afterwards taken at Jerusalem, St. Paul was sent to Cæsarea, but appealed to Cæsar at Rome. Here he continued a prisoner at large for two years; and at length being released, he visited the churches of Greece and Rome, and preached in Gaul and Spain. Returning to Rome, he was taken, imprisoned nine months, with St. Peter, and then martyred by the order of Nero, by being beheaded with the sword.

II. St. Jude (Judas the Brother of James).

This apostle and martyr, the brother of James, was commonly called Thaddæus. Being sent to Persia, he wrought many miracles and made many converts, which stirring up the resentment of people in power, he was crucified in the year 72 after Christ.

12. St. Bartholomew.

This apostle and martyr preached in several countries, performed many miracles, and healed various diseases. He translated St. Matthew's gospel into the language of heathen nations. The idolaters finally slew him, some say with the sword, others that he was beaten to death with clubs.

13. St. Thomas.

He was called by this name in Syriac, but Didymus in Greek; he was an apostle and martyr, and preached in Parthia and India. After converting many to Christ he aroused the anger of the pagan priests, and was martyred by being thrust through with a spear.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰⁸ page 35

LIVES OF THE APOSTLES.

35

14. St. Luke the Evangelist.

St. Luke was the author of the gospel which bears his name. He travelled with St. Paul to Rome, and preached to many barbarous nations. It is not known, certainly, whether St. Luke died a natural death, or was martyred by the enemies of Christianity.

15. St. Simon.

The zeal of this apostle and martyr caused him to be distinguished by the name of Zelotes. He preached with great success in Mauritania and other parts of Africa, and even in Britain, where, though he made many converts, he was crucified by the pagans in the year 74.

16. St. John.

He was distinguished for being a prophet, apostle, and evangelist. He was brother to James, and not only one of the twelve apostles, but one whom Jesus chiefly loved. St. John founded many churches in Greece.

Being at Ephesus, he was ordered by the emperor Domitian to be sent bound to Rome, where he was condemned to be cast into a caldron of boiling oil. Either this sentence was not carried out, or a miracle saved him from injury, for he was afterward banished by the emperor to the island of Patmos, and there wrote that beautiful book which is called the Revelation of St. John the Divine, and which tells of the joys of the celestial city.

At last Domitian died, and the next emperor, Nerva, was kind to the Christians, and sent St. John back to Ephesus, when he wrote his gospel. He lived to be a very old man, and died a natural death at Ephesus—some writers say in the one-hundredth year of his age.

17. St. Barnabas.

He was a native of Cyprus, but of Jewish parents: the manner of his death is unknown, but it is supposed to have taken place A. D. 73.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

SHORT HISTORY

OF

THE MEDIÆVAL CHURCH

BY

JOHN F. HURST, D.D.

WITH ILLUSTRATIONS

CHARLES THE GREAT

NEW YORK

HARPER & BROTHERS, FRANKLIN SQUARE

1889

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹⁰⁹ page 13

THE FICTITIOUS ISIDORE.

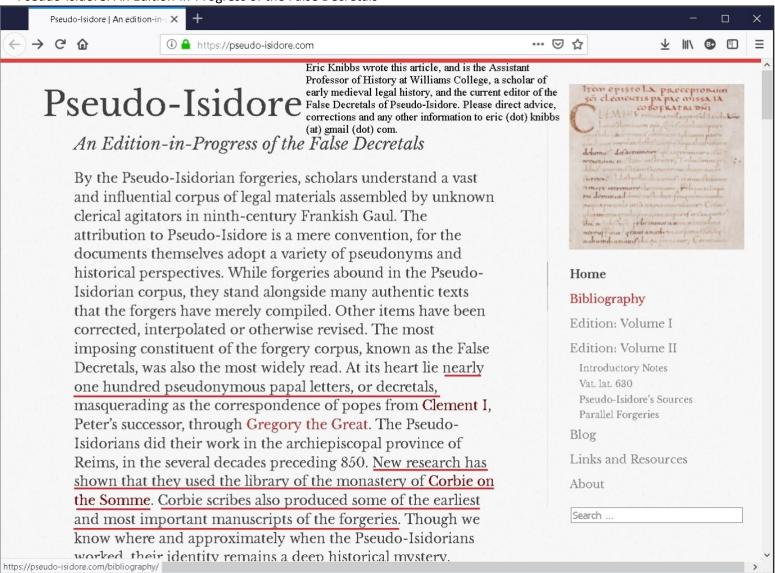

13

behind a name of great repute for mental and moral endowments. His name and fame were used as authority for a forgery, in favor of Roman authority as against the political ruler. The entire Church was deceived. But it was a most welcome deception. The secret lay concealed long enough to fortify every branch of ecclesiastical authority, to make political rulers tremble, and to make Rome ready, when the Carolingians ran out, to extend her spiritual sceptre over all rulers.

8. The Prevalence of Decretals. The pseudo-Isidorean Decretals combined all the qualities of a perfect deception. They represented a class, and yet were the best of their order. A collection of canons and epistles of Dionysius Exiguus, for example, had been generally used in the West. Isidore of Hispalis had written a collection of important canons not found in that of Dionysius Exiguus, and by his work had contributed greatly to the centralization of ecclesiastical authority in Rome. How could this same work be carried further, now that the Carolingian empire had gained such great prestige and threatened to eclipse the Roman bishop, and had been implored to come and help him fight his battles against the Lombards? Isidore, now in his grave, was, therefore, used to build up this endangered cause. It was pretended that he had left behind a set of decretals-the doings of former councils-which had never seen the light. Now, thanks to good-fortune, they had been discovered. They were soon scattered as widely as rapid copyists could multiply them. No compiler had dared to go back further than the authority of Siricius, whose pontificate extended from A.D. 384 to 398. But this forger was no timid character. He boldly rushed back to alleged decrees of unknown councils, and to letters claiming to be

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

111 title page

RELIGIOUS SYSTEMS

OF

THE WORLD

A Contribution to the Study of Comparative Religion

A COLLECTION OF ADDRESSES

Delivered at South Place Institute

NOW REVISED AND IN SOME CASES REWRITTEN BY THE AUTHORS, TOGETHER WITH SOME OTHERS SPECIALLY WRITTEN FOR THIS YOLUME

NEW YORK E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY 31 WEST 23RD STREET 1906

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." - John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." - Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

pages 399-400

THE ARMENIAN CHURCH.

RELIGIOUS SYSTEMS OF THE WORLD.

remaineth the same veil untaken away in the reading of the Old Testament; which veil is done away in Christ. But even unto this day, when Moses is read, the veil is upon their heart. Nevertheless when it shall turn to the Lord, the veil shall be taken away."

The seventh century was an epoch of revolt against what is merely external and materialistic in religion, and was marked by the two great movements, both directed to this end, of Muhammadanism and Iconoclasm. Three centuries earlier, in 337 A.D., the Bishop Eusebius had forbidden images and pictures of Christ, on the ground that no man knoweth the Son but the Father. Christianity was at that time still engaged in an uphill struggle against the worship of idols; and all the apologetic writers in attacking Paganism laid great stress upon the incomprehensibility or things Divine. Their doctrine was like that of Muhammad, that there may not be images made in corruptible matter of that which eye hath not seen nor ear heard. It was in keeping with such a tendency of thought that the Monophysites held that Christ's human nature has been swallowed up and lost in the Divine and transformed into an image of glory. But in the interval between the fourth and the seventh century Christianity in conquering Paganism had also imbibed much of its spirit. The old gods of Olympus and the demigods and heroes were only abolished in name; the idols, and the religious craving for visible gods which can only console itself with idols, remained, and accordingly the images were re-christened with names of saints and confessors, and retained. The best and most clear-sighted doctors of the Church, when they had to apologize for the adoration of images and relics, could but plead that they were requisite as a way of instructing the illiterate common people in the Christian religion. John of Odzun, Armenian Catholicos in 716 A.D., a fanatical persecutor of the image-breakers and of the Paulicians, could make no better defence of the worship of crosses and images, than that they represented beneficent powers, while the idols of the heathen had embodied devils. But even he, though he tolerated and encouraged imageworship, was infected with the spirit of the age, as when he writes thus: "Being in the flesh we cannot free ourselves from its bondage and join ourselves freely with the intelligible, and bring before ourselves, face to face, the grandeur of the Creator, which is invisible even to the cherubim. And for ever our rational nature longs to reach the Supreme First Cause. but by reason of the body loses its way and is hampered among the sensibles, and fails to distinguish from them that of which it is in search." He writes as above in explanation of the Pagan worship of idols; but exactly the same criticism applied to the worship of relics and images, and it was on this very ground that Leo III., the Isaurian (716-741), assailed the prevalent worship of images. Soldiers were sent in that and the succeeding reigns to destroy images and pictures in churches and shrines, and in 726 the great statue of Christ in Jerusalem was torn down and broken to pieces. The western Popes defended the cause of imageworship, and in 731 Pope Gregory III. anathematized the iconoclasts. Nevertheless, in 754, Constantius Copronysmus ucceeded in getting as many as 338 bishops to meet in council and declare that images of Christ were unlawful, because since His Ascension the human nature of Christ has been deified and is incomprehensible and unpicturable. In spite of the anathemas of the Popes of Rome and of the enmity of the monks, the iconoclasts held the field until the close of the reign of Leo the Armenian, 842, when a compromise was arrived at in all the Eastern Churches, Greek, Armenian, and Coptic alike forbidding actual statues, but allowing pictures.

Of this iconoclastic movement the Paulicians were the left and extreme wing. Their tenets it is difficult to ascertain to-day with desirable fulness, for their orthodox oppressors took care that none of their books should survive. The earliest writer who mentions them is John of Odzun, at the beginning of the eighth century; and he does not throw much light on them by his denunciations. We only gather that theirs was an extreme religious radicalism, approaching to that of our own Quakers, which abhorred every ceremony and rite which has not a direct and obvious spiritual and awakening power over the hearts of the congregation. I have said that in the Armenian Church the water in the rite of Baptism, the chrism in Confirmation, and the bread and wine in the Communion are believed to have a mystical efficacy, apart from the state of mind and consciousness of those who administer or receive them. Such a belief was held to be purely superstitious by the Paulicians; and they accordingly, like our Quakers or the Salvation Army, repudiated the sacraments of the Church for good and ever.

We learn more about them from the Greek orthodox writers, Photius, Primate of Constantinople in the ninth century, and Petrus Siculus, who in the same century lived among them for nearly a year in Tephrike, in Pontus, where they had founded a government of their own. The mission of Petrus was to treat for the restoration to the Greek Emperor of prisoners whom the Paulicians had taken in the course of the religious wars waged against them. These writers inform us about their tenets, which may be summarized as follows :-

- 1. They were, like the Persians and Manicheans and Marcionites, dualists, and held that underlying the universe are two opposed principles, one good, one evil. The evil god was the creator of the visible world of sense; the good God, our Heavenly Father, is creator of the world to come. They reproached the orthodox in such words as these: "You believe in the Creator of the Cosmos visible to the eye, but we believe only in Him about whom in the gospels the Lord says, "Ye have neither heard His voice nor beheld His form."
- 2. Like the Marcionites, they believed that the Old Testament was written and inspired by the evil spirit, and accordingly they did not read it. The prophets, they said, were robbers and liars. But to the Gospels and Epistles of St. Paul they attached great value, and laid much stress upon their versions of the New Testament being true and accurate to the

District by GOOG

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

112 pages 234-235 (Shortly after the time of King James I, the Torchbearers in England passed a law banning the pagan-Christian day of Christ-mas)

24th-25th December. A. 1652. A. 1652. 23d-24th December. 234 And the said Article so amended, being put to the Ordered, That the To-morrow Morning Ordered, That the Act for Sale of Parks be reported Sale of A Letter from the Queen of Sweden, dated at Stock-Question, was agreed unto.
The Fifteenth Article was read; and, upon the Quesof the 13th of November 1652, was this Day read.

Ordered. That this Letter be referred to the Council of Friday, the 24th of December, 1652. tion, agreed unto.
The Sixteenth Article was read; and, upon the Ques-Resolved, That the Markets be kept To-morrow, being Christman State, to take the same into Consideration, with all Speed, what is fit to be done therein; and to take such Order the 25th Day of December: And that the Lord Mayor, Daynet to be and Sheriffs of London and Middleser, and the Justices of solemaned. ORDERED, That the Act touching the Adventurers Adventurers for Ireland, be reported on Tuesday Murning next, for Ireland. tion, agreed unto. therein as they shall think fit, for preventing of all In-conveniencies or Misunderstanding, which may grow The Seventeenth Article was read. Peace for the City of Westminster, and Liberties thereof, And the Question being put, To agree to this Article; It passed with the Negative. do take care, that all such Persons as shall open their Shops between the Two States. Ordered, That there be a fit Person forthwith sent to on that Day, be protected from Wrong or Violence, and the Offenders punished. Resolved, That no Observation shall be had on the 25th The House this Day resumed the Debate upon the Articles of The Eighteenth Article was read. And the Question being put, to agree to the said Succeen, under a publick Character: And that it be re-ferred to the Council of State to consider of a fit Person for that Employment; and also of Instructions to be Articles of War, and Ordinances of the Sca.

The Second Article being read, was, upon the Ques-Day of December, commonly called Christmas Day, nor any Solemnity used or exercised in Churches, upon that on, agreed unto.
The Third Article was read; and, upon the Question, It passed with the Negative. given him; and present the same, with the Name of such Person, to the Parliament, on Tuesday next. Ordered, That it be referred to the Council of State, to The Nineteenth Article was read; and, upon the Day, in respect thereof.

Ordered, That the Lord Mayor in the City of London, Question, agreed unto. The Fourth Article was read; and, upon the Question, examine how long this Letter from the Queen of Swede hath been detained, before the same was delivered, and The Twentieth Article was read; and, upon the Quesand Sheriffs of London and Middlesex and the Justices of Peace of Middlesex, respectively, be authorized and The Fifth Article was read; and, upon the Question, The One-and-twentieth Article was read; and, upon the Miscarriage therein; and likewise in publishing, or shewing the same, upon the Exchange, or elsewhere; and required to see this Order duly observed within the late Lines of Communication, and weekly Bills of Mortality. the Question, agreed unto. The Sixth Article was read; and, upon the Question, report the same to the Parliament: And that Mr. Bur-rell do give Information to the Council of State, of his The Two-and-twentieth Article was read; and, upon Ordered, That the Committee of Whitchall do see, that the Shops in Westminster-Hall be kept open To-morrow: The Seventh Article was read. the Question, agreed unto The Three-and twentieth Article was read; and, upon And that Mr. Garland do take care hereof. The Question being put, To agree to this Part of this Article; viz. "None shall presume to injure or wrong, Ordered, That it be referred to the Council of State, the Question, agreed unto to consider of this Letter; and such other Letters as have at Sea, the known Friends or Allies of this State, either Members of this Commonwealth or Strangers, not in Emnity, upon Pain of Death, or lesser l'unishment, as the Nature of the Offence shall require, nor ;"
The House was divided. Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee for the Invalid The Four-and-twentieth Article was read. been sent by the Queen of Sweden to the Parliament; And the Question being put, To agree to this Article; The House was divided. mained Soldiers, to prepare, and bring in, An Act for Soldiers.

Continuance of the Act for Relief of mained Soldiers. and to prepare an Answer to be given to such of them as is requisite: And to report the same to the Parliament The Yeas went forth.
Sir Henry Vane, junior, Tellers for the Yeas: The Yeas went forth. With the Yeas, Tellers for the Noes: Lord Commissioner Whitelock reports from the Council of State, Laws of War and Ordinances of the Sea, Colonel Sidney, Colonel Lister, Tellers for the Yeas :] Lord Com. Whitelock, Saturday, the 25th of December, 1652. cii of State, Laws of War and Ordinances of the Sea, ordained and established by the Parisiment of the Com-monwealth of England, for the regulating and better Go-vernment of the Navies, Pleets, and Ships of War, and Armites by Sea, of the Commons of England, and all and singular Persons, Ships, and Vessels, thereunto belonging, to be put in Execution, according to an Act of this pre-sent Parliament, intituded, An Act for constituting Com-With the Yeas, Tellers for the Noes: Mr. Marten, With So it passed with the Affirmative. With the Noes, Mr. Strickland, Mr. Bond, HE House this Day resumed the Debate upon the Articles of With the Noes. The Five-and-twentieth Article was read, and, upon So it passed with the Negative.'
Resolved, That this Article; viz. "None shall presume the Question, agreed unto. Articles and Ordinances of War.
The Three-and-thirtieth Article was read; and, upon The Six-and-twentieth Article was read; and aftersome wilfully or wittingly to injure or wrong, at Sea, the known Friends or Allies of this State, either Members of this Amendments at the Table, upon the Question, agreed unto. the Question, agreed unto.

The Four-and-thirtieth Article was read; and, upon The Seven-and-twentieth Article was read; and, upon Friends of Allies of this State, either Members of this Commonwealth, or Strangers, not in Enmity, upon Pain of such Panishment as the Nature and Circumstances of the Officace shall require, be inserted instead thereof. The latter Part of the Article being read; It was Realeved, That these Words; viz. "or other Panishment, according to the Nature and Circumstances of the Officace," be added to the Close of this Article. missioners for the Ordering and Managing the Affairs of the Admiralty and Navy; and to be observed, and duly obeyed, by the Vice-Admirals, Rear-Admirals, Commanthe Question, agreed unto. the Question, agreed unto.

The Five-and-thirtieth Article was read; and, upon The Eight-and-twentieth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed into. the Question, agreed unto.

The Six-and-thirtieth Article was read. ders, Captains, Lieutenants, Masters, Masters Mates, and all other Officers, Mariners, Seamen, and Soldiers, and all others whomsoever these Laws and Ordinances The Nine-ann-twestieth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed untc.
The Thirtieth Article was read. And the Question being put, That these Words; viz. wilful Killing," do stand in this Article; It passed with the Affirmative. may concern, under the Pains and Penalties therein con-tained and expressed: Which were this Day read. And the Question being put, To agree to this Article; The said Article, so amended, being put to the Ques-It passed with the Negative, And the said Article, being put to the Question, was And after each Article was read in Parts The One-and-thirtieth Article was read.

Resolved, That the Word "Death" be inserted into this The Eighth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto. The first Article was read. The Seven-and-thirtieth Article was read; and, upon Resolved, That these Words, "and other Religious Duties," be added in this Article, next after the Word Article, before the Word "Fine."

And the said Article, so amended, being put to the the Question, agreed unto.

The Eight-and-thirtieth Article was read.

Resolved, That these Words, "without Delay," be added in this Article, next the Word "Charge." The Ninth Article was read.

Resolved, That these Words be inserted in this Article, next after the Word. "Merchandizes," other the Arms, Question, was assented unto.
The Two-and-thirtieth Article was read. The Question being propounded, That these Words, nunition, Tackle, Furniture, or Stores of such "and the Lord's Day religiously observed, do stand;
And the Question being put, That that Question be Resolved, That the Word "neither" be omitted. Resolved, That these Words, viz. "conducting and," Resolved, That these Words, "as the Court of Admiralty shall judge," be inserted in this Article.

Resolved, That these Words be added to the Close of And the said Article, being so amended, was, upon the be inserted next before the Word "steering."

And the said Article, so amended, being put to the Question, agreed unto. The Tenth Article was read. It passed with the Affirmative this Article And the main Question being put: It was Resolved, That these Words, "and the Lord's Day Resolved, That these Words; viz. "or otherwise," next after the Word "War," be omitted. Question, was agreed unto. Resolved, That these Words be added to the Close of this Article; viz. "and that no Captain, Master, or other Officer of any Ship belonging to the State, or in their religiously observed." do stand. Resolved, That the Room in Whitehall, lately used by And the said Article so amended, being put to the The Question being put, That these Words "and kept, the Committee for Examinations, be appointed for the Question, was agreed unto.

The Eleventh Article being read, was, upon the Ques-Service, shall demand, receive, or take from any Mer-chant, or other, whose Ship or Goods he is appointed to Service of the Commissioners for inspecting the Trea-suries; and that the Council of State do take care, that upon Pain to be punished at Discretion, according to the Circumstances of the Cause," do stand in this Article; tion, agreed unto. convoy, any Fee, Gratuity, or Reward, in respect thereof, upon Pain that such Captain, Master, or Officer, shall, the same be forthwith fitted for them, accordingly.

Ordered, That the Commissioners for inspecting the It passed with the Negative. The Twelfth Article was read; and, upon the Ques-Ordered, That the Debate on these Articles of War tion, agreed unto. for such Offence, be cashiered." be adjourned till To-morrow, the first Business. Treasuries be impowered and authorized to make Choice of such Officers and Clerks, and to allow them such Sala-The Thirteenth Article was read; and, upon the And the said Article, so amended, was, upon the Ordered, That the Committee for the Bill for Sale of the Parks and Houses do meet this Afternoon; and eport the Amendments To-morrow.

Ordered, That the Petition of the Irish Officers be faithfully and validately discharge their Duties, and fight, and the Fourteenth Article was read. The Question being put, That these Words; viz. shall, in their and every of their respective Places, faithfully and validately discharge their Duties, and fight, and the Fourteenth Article was read. Question, agreed unto.
The Nine-and-thirtieth Article was read; and, upon ries for their Service therein, as they shall think fit; and that the Council of State do take care, and give Order, the Parks and Houses do meet this Afternoon; and report the Amendments To-morrow. the Question, agreed unto.

The Fortieth Article was read; and, upon the Questhat such Salaries, and other Moneys for derraying inci-dent. Charges of that Service, as shall, from time to time, tion, agreed unto. brought in To-morrow, after the Ordinances of War, and the Business of Prizes, are perfected. be certified by the said Commissioners, or any two or more of them, be paid accordingly. and engage the Enemy courageously: And whosoever, The One-and-fortieth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto. It passed with the Negative.

Resolved, That these Words, viz. "or other Punish-Resolved, That the House do sit To-morrow, notwith-The Two-and-fortieth Article was read; and, upon the Ordered, That the Business of the Publick Faith be Question, agreed unto.

Orneved, That these Articles be printed, and that it be referred to the Commissioners of the Admiralty, to direct how the same shall be published; and that it be done at such Time as they shall think fit, and direct.

Mr. Publick Faith. standing the former Order; and that the former O do, not vithstanding, for the Future, stand in Force. ment, as the Circumstances of the Offence shall deserve, and the Council of War shall judge fit," be added in this Instruction, next after the Word "Death." taken into Consideration on Friday Sevennight, the first Business: And Mr. Speaker is to put the House in mind Resideed, That this Debate upon the Articles and Ornances of Wer be resumed To-morrow Morning. Vo t. VII.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

112 page 235 (See the upper-right section of this page for law banning Christmas observance, even in the churches.)

A. 1652.

24th-25th December.

235

And the said Article so amended, being put to the Question, was agreed unto.

The Fifteenth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto.

The Sixteenth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto.

The Seventeenth Article was read.

And the Question being put, To agree to this Article; It passed with the Negative.

The Eighteenth Article was read.

And the Question being put, to agree to the said Article;

It passed with the Negative.

The Nineteenth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto.

The Twentieth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto.

The One-and-twentieth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto.

The Two-and-twentieth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto.

The Three-and twentieth Article was read; and, upon the Question, agreed unto.

Ordered, That the Act for Sale of Parks be reported Sale of To-morrow Morning.

Resolved, That the Markets be kept To-morrow, being Christmas the 25th Day of December: And that the Lord Mayor, Daynot to be and Sheriffs of London and Middlesev, and the Justices of Solemnized. Peace for the City of Westminster, and Liberties thereof, do take care, that all such Persons as shall open their Shops on that Day, be protected from Wrong or Violence, and the Offenders punished.

Resolved, That no Observation shall be had on the 25th Day of December, commonly called Christmas Day, nor any Solemnity used or exercised in Churches, upon that Day, in respect thereof.

Ordered, That the Lord Mayor in the City of London, and Sheriffs of London and Middlesex and the Justices of Peace of Middlesex, respectively, be authorized and required to see this Order duly observed within the late Lines of Communication, and weekly Bills of Mortality.

Ordered, That the Committee of Whitehall do see, that the Shops in Westminster-Hall be kept open To-morrow: And that Mr. Garland do take care hereof.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

¹¹³ page (scanned from the Massachusetts law which banned the pagan-Christian day of Christ-mas in 1659)

Penalty for Keeping Christmas, 1659:

Ponalty for

For pventing disorders arising in severall places wthin this jurisdiction, keeping Christ- by reason of some still observing such ffestiualls as were superstitiously kept in other countrys, to the great dishonnor of God & offence of others, it is therefore ordered by this Court and the authority thereof, that whosoeuer shall be found observing any such day as Christmas or the like, either by forbearing of labour, feasting, or any other way, vpon any such accounts as aforesajd, euery such person so offending shall pay for euery such offence fiue shillings, as a fine to the county.

From: Records of the Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England. Printed by order of the Legislature, edited by Nathaniel B. Shurtleff, M.D., Vol. IV, Part I, 1650-1660

Text Reads (with modern spelling):

For preventing disorders arising in several places within this jurisdiction, by reason of some still observing such festivals as were superstitiously kept in other countries, to the great dishonor of God and offence of others, it is therefore ordered by this Court and the authority thereof, that whosoever shall be found observing any such day as Christmas or the like, either by forbearing of labor, feasting, or any other way, upon such accounts as aforesaid, every such person so offending shall pay for every such offence five shillings, as a fine to the country.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

page 29 "Empires have crumbled—dynasties have fallen—but this chain of scriptural testimony has not been broken, because its strength is not from men, but from God."

CHAP. I.] EARLY VAUDOIS CHURCH.

Frankfort; and in the following year he repaired to Rome, in order to be crowned emperor by Pope Innocent III., who had always favoured him in opposition to Philip. On this journey he passed through Piedmont; but Thomas, the then reigning Count of Savoy, had taken part against him in his disputes with Philip, who, in recompense for his support, had given him the towns of Quiers, Testona, and Modon. Otho IV., irritated against the old partizan of his rival, thought good to avenge himself of him by weakening his power within his own states, and for this purpose he gave to the Archbishop of Turin, who was a prince of the empire,1 authority to destroy the Vaudois by force of arms. So that the long course of successive persecutions through which they were to pass, was not commenced by the Duke of Savoy, but by his enemies; and when, at a later period, the house of Savoy itself adopted the same methods of cruelty and depopulation, it was never of its own spontaneous movement, but from foreign influences, of which the most pressing were those of the court of Rome.

The branch of the Counts of Piedmont reigned for 176 years, and the last four of them bore the title of Princes of Achaia. Their residence was at Pignerol, and you will not find, says the Marquis of Beauregard, in his Historical Memoirs, ² that these princes, who dwelt so close to the Vaudois, or the first Marquises of Saluces, ever persecuted them. It has even been supposed that some of the Counts of Lucerna, ³ immediate vassals of the empire, and principal lords of these valleys, at a very ancient period, were partakers of their religious opinions.

Thus was the primitive church preserved in the Alps to the very period of the Reformation. The Vaudois are the chain which unites the reformed churches with the first disciples of our Saviour. It is in vain that Popery, renegade from evangelical verities, has a thousand times sought to break this chain; it resists all her efforts. Empires have crumbled—dynasties have fallen—but this chain of scriptural testimony has not been broken, because its strength is not from men, but from God.

¹ The title of Prince of the Empire had been given in 1160 to the bishops of Turin, Maurienne, and Tarantaise, by Frederic 1., with the object also of weakening the house of Savoy, which had abandoned his party to espouse the cause of the pope, Adrian IV., in the politics of the time. The papacy has brought ruin even on its supporters.

² II. 5.

³ Some writers have alleged that the arms of the Counts of Lucerna bore, like the seal of the Vaudois churches, a torch (lucerna), surrounded by seven stars. But this is an error; the escutcheon of that family bears argent, three bands gules. This coat of arms is, moreover, exhibited above the title of the Memoire istoriche of Roreugo, in virtue of his title of Conta di Lucerna.

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

KJV1 title page

TRANSLATING FOR KING JAMES

Being a true copy of the only notes made by a translator of King James's Bible,

the Authorized Version, as the Final Committee of Review revised the translation of Romans through Revelation at Stationers' Hall in London in 1610–1611:

taken by

THE REVEREND JOHN BOIS,

rector of Boxworth, Prebendary of Ely, sometime Scholar and Fellow of St. John's College in Cambridge, and there Chief Lecturer in Greek for some ten years, these notes were for three centuries lost, and only now are come to light, through a copy made by the hand

William Fulman,

Clergyman, Antiquarian, and Collector, who, upon his death, in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, bequeathed to Corpus Christi College, Oxford, his papers, containing this copy of Fr. Bois's notes

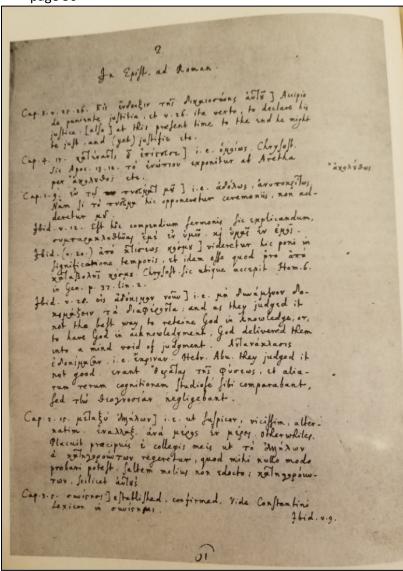

Here translated and edited by WARD ALLEN

Vanderbilt University Press

1969

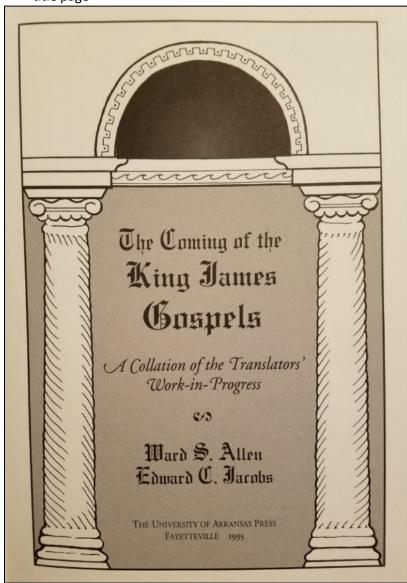

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

KJV1 page 36

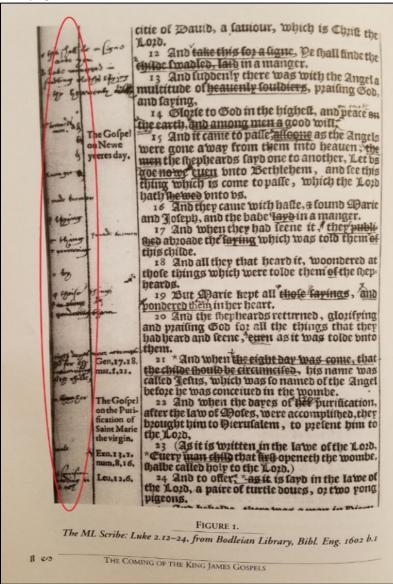

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

KJV2 title page

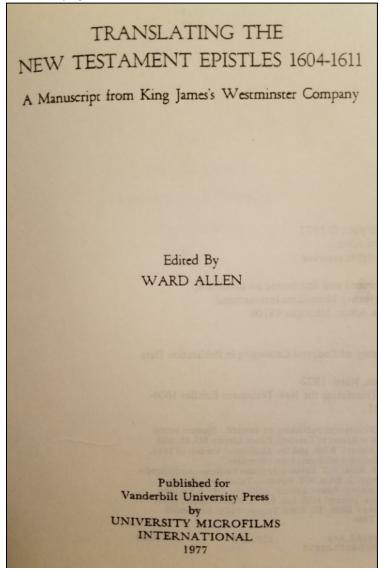

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

KJV2 page 8

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

KJV3 title page

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." – John 8:32 (KJV) | "It's better to be divided in truth, than united in heresy." – Anonymous Note: Assume all dates as close approximations.

KJV3 page xc & page 188

188 9 *Likwyse In like manner The Format of this Edition The text of MS. 98 follows lines marked by an asterisk. Where a apparrell, with shamfastnes, and sobriety (r modest (o) translation in MS. 98 differs from the Bishops' Bible, the Bishops *"braided heare, eyther gold, or pearles, or costly aray version appears above the text of MS. 98. A letter in parentheses, which "broided is placed after each translation of MS. 98 that differs from the Bishops' "Margin MS. 98: Or, playted text, identifies the source of that translation. "Margin A.V.: Or, plaited t = Tyndale that. 10 *But (which ((#r) becometh weemen professing godlines) c = The Great Bible, Coverdale w - The Geneva New Testament, 1557, Whittingham 15 *Notwithstanding through bearing of children she shalbe saved, if they continue g = The Geneva Bible, 1560 she shall be saved (r) in childbearing (o) r = The Rheims New Testament *in fayth, and charitye, and holines with sobriety (r) b - The Bishops' Bible B - The margin of the Bishops' Bible The third chapter o = An invention of the translators, or a reading which has 2 *A bishop therfore must be blamles, the husband of one wyfe, watching, some source other than the Bibles listed above. Where a reading of MS. 98 is approximate to its source, the symbol, #, is comely apparelled "of good behaviour (o), a lover of placed before the letter which identifies that source. hospitality, apt to teach, "of good behaviour given to (o) Where the A.V. differs from MS. 98, that version appears beneath the text of MS. 98 and after it a letter which identifies the source of the "Margin A.V.: Or, modest translation. The first verse of the eighth chapter of Romans furnishes an example 4 *One that ruleth well his owne house, having children in subjection of these principles. with all "gravity damnation *There is therfore (r) nowe (w) no condemnation (w) to them (Though the text of MS. 98 points to an alternate reading in the margin, the margin has no reading. See, also, vv. 8 and 11.) which are in Christ Jesu, which walke not after the flesh, who (o) but after the spirite. Where the Bishops' version has then, MS. 98 has therfore nowe. Therefore the church of God? first appears in this verse in the Rheims New Testament, now therfore. of (r)